PORT ST. LUCIE--A special story hour on Tuesday, April 1, at the Port St. Lucie Branch Library, will feature a puppet show by Librarian Susan Erhardt.

The Easter program will begin promptly at 3:30, and will last approximately one hour. The library will be closed for regular business during that time.

Although the program is primarily designed for younger children in the 4-8 group, older children to age 10 are welcome, Mrs. Erhardt said, adding that she hopes to incorporate some audience participation into the hour of Easter stories and puppet fun.

Easter egg hunt

PORT ST. LUCIE--Plans for the annual Easter Egg Hunt for Port St. Lucie children have been finalized, it was announced Tuesday.

Sponsored by the St. Lucie Junior Women's Club, the Port St. Lucie Homeowners Assn. and General Development, the event is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. at the North Port Marina on Sunday.

Children will be divided into four age groups, 4 and under, 5 and 6, 7 and 8, 9 and 10. Approximately 11 dozen eggs will be hidden along with candy supplied by the sponsors. Each Junior Club member is providing a half dozen colored eggs.

The Easter Bunny will be there in person to help everybody have fun, costume donated by Sears, assisted by a group of Junior Women and their husbands.

Sunrise service and breakfast at Dutton

PORT ST. LUCIE--Dutton Memorial United Presbyterian Church will have an Easter Sunrise Service, followed by a pancake and sausage breakfast, starting at 7 a.m. Sponsored by the J.C. Sayers Class of Dutton, it will be a public affair on the east lawn between the sanctuary and Campbell Hall.

The 11 a.m. service will feature a concert of Easter music by the chancel choir and a short, sparkly and sincere sermon, according to Reverend Frank Wingerter.

Dutton Memorial will celebrate the anniversary of the Lord's Supper on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. Officers of the church who will serve the Elements of the Sacrament are Samuel Abernathy, Lynn Calhoun, Aleta Keller and John Schneider of Port St. Lucie and George F. Hill of White City.

Jamie Lynn Hahn, daughter of John E. and Lynn Hahn received the Sacrament of Infant Baptism during last Sunday's Palm Sunday celebration.

Palms graced the chancel of the sanctuary and a special committee arranged palm fronds for individual participation and created a cross for each universal worshipper.

Gladith Davis, Leola Dutton, Bonnie Fennell, Lillian Fennell, Karen Gelberson, Dorothy and Joseph Keegan, Mildred and Harold Meyer, Esther Richards, Marion and Kimberly Snop, Alberta Wilburn and Dorothy Wingerter served on the palms committee.

The theme of the message centered in the Lord's grief over Jerusalem on the first occasion of Palm Sunday in the first century.

Special music highlighted the service. The Children's Choir under the direction of Bonnie Fennell sang "Lorenz" Sing Hosanna.

Mrs. George Hill and Mrs. Robert Barrett conducted the Senior Choir as they sang "Hosanna" by Christian Gregor and "The Palms" by Jean Paige.

County action on bike path drawing mass protest by PSL

PORT ST. LUCIE--Action taken by the St. Lucie County Commission Tuesday approving an 8-foot wide blacktop bike path to be constructed along the south side of Prima Vista Boulevard, brought immediate protests from residents of this south county community.

The commission acting on the bids which had been received for the two types of path, passed the motion by a four to one vote. John Park cast the dissenting vote.

Don White, a local resident who had attended both the Monday afternoon workshop session and the Tuesday meeting, explained bids had been submitted for two types of bike path: one blacktop surface, the other concrete, for varying widths of 5, 6 and 8 feet.

White, acting as spokesman for the residents of the area, expressed the desire for the paths to be of concrete construction and six feet in width.

"I really can't understand their actions," White said. "There were no material objections voiced at the workshop session Monday, but when it came up for final approval Tuesday, it was apparent some of the commissioners had doubts about the path regarding its priority, width and surface.

Before the motion was passed, White called attention to the effect such a path would have on the value of the nice homes along Prima Vista and asked that they give serious consideration to the matter.

"These people have aided in the development of the area and are entitled to that small consideration," White maintained.

"We appreciate the fact the commission has granted the path for the safety of our children. However we also feel that the valuation of the homes along Prima Vista should have been taken into consideration," he said.

According to White, he also called their observation, which has been made by many others in the area, to the fact the south county greatly contributes to the tax money in the county and receives very little in return.

The planned mass protest will apply only to the type of path to be constructed and not to the bike path itself.

White added the people of the area will take such steps as necessary to attain a reconsideration by the county commissioners.

Word of the commission action spread rapidly through the area, and within a few short hours, it was reported a mass protest is being planned.

The proposed path will be constructed from U.S. 1 along the south side of Prima Vista Boulevard to Floresta Drive, excluding only the area which has a sidewalk.

The path will be constructed just inside the 50 foot rightaway extending from the center of the road.

The Bernhardts and Maidas gave a farewell party for the couple Saturday night, and saw them off at Miami International Airport on Sunday.

Boating meet

JENSEN BEACH--The boat owners of the Anchor Line Yacht Club held their monthly meeting last week at their Rio club.

The first order of the night was a discussion on the result of this year's first boat-a-cade. Fifteen boats and a number of cars met at the Indiantown Marina where 48 members and guests enjoyed a picnic. The boat trip to the Marine was under the direction of Fleet Captain Art Penick.

The second part of the meeting was devoted to deciding on the coming events for the next six months of boating. Rear Commodore Lee Weh read a report on places available from which the following were selected:

Blessing of the Fleet, April 5; May 31 and June 1, Vero Beach Yacht Club. June 21, Simonsen's in Fort Pierce. July 4-8, Islamorada; August 30, 31 and Sept. 1, River Ranch. October, the annual Vero Beach Pilgrimage.

Procedures and schedules for all events will be posted at the club. All reservations are needed well in advance to hold the accommodations already made.

COG agrees on landfill site

PORT ST. LUCIE– "A 225-acre sanitary landfill, if operated on a professional basis from day one, will serve the waste-disposal needs of Martin and St. Lucie Counties for the next fifteen years," Jerry Walker, an official of Waste Management, Inc., told members of the Council of Governments (COG) last Thursday.

City and county officials throughout the two-county area have been concerned as to whether or not state and federal agencies will continue to accept sanitary landfills as a means of disposing of waste materials after 1977.

St. Lucie County Commission Chairman Willie McCain told the group waste disposal is a particular concern to St. Lucie County since their landfill will be used up within the next sixty days.

Walker, who at the request of Port St. Lucie's Planning and Zoning committee chairman Bob Jensen, recommended the 225-acre site after inspecting several possible locations.

General Development Corporation, owners of the tract, has agreed to negotiate with St. Lucie County for the use of the land.

Walker pointed out the site, which will eventually be separated from Port St. Lucie to the north-west by I-95, provides an ideal central location for use by both counties.

The proposed site is situated 12 miles northwest of Stuart and approximately six miles southwest of Fort Pierce.

Although council members were concerned regarding state and federal EPA regulations banning the use of landfills as a means for disposing of waste, Walker said he did not forsee this materializing for twenty years or more.

"By then technology will have caught up with waste disposal needs and perhaps more exotic methods will at that time be feasible. There are no experts in EPA at the present time, they are politicians, politicians looking for us to come up with the alternatives," Walker said.

Stating that the use of a sanitary landfill was the most efficient and economical waste disposal method, Walker indicated the additional charge imposed on the individuals in the two-county operation would amount to approximately $5 per person per year.

Waste-Management Inc., which operates two landfills in Jacksonville and one in Pompano Beach, maintains the land used will be contoured to order as the operation continues.

"At the end of the fifteen years, this land is suitable for sale as commercial, recreational or even residential property," Walker told the group.

The tract is presently zoned for industrial use.

In describing the firm's landfill operations, Walker explained that water is pumped out of the trenches, the garbage is then dumped in, and the trenches are covered over daily. There is no air pollution because there is no burning at the site, he told his listeners.

According to statements made by the firm's representative, Waste Management Inc. is self supporting, a capitalistic operation which does make money.

Pinpointing the matter even further, Walker said the firm was not subsidized.

Estimating the population of the two-county, three-city area as 125,000, Walker said the facility would generate a maximum of $625,000 per year.

Council members agreed the combined use of a single landfill would be the most feasible, but admitted they each wanted some additional information.

"This sounds like a real good deal to me, but I think we should invite state and federal officials to set in on another presentation of this nature before we accept or deny the proposal made by this gentleman," McCain said. "It would be too bad if we contracted for the landfill site and then government agencies may stop the operation, telling us at that time we have just wasted our money."

All members agreed to invite government experts from Washington and Tallahassee to attend a joint meeting with Walker and the heads of the governing bodies of both counties whether members of COG or not.

Although no date was set for the joint meeting, it was suggested it be held within the next four weeks.

Nergard in capitol

JENSEN BEACH–State Rep. Chuck Nergard will not be at his Jensen Beach office in The Mirror for the next two months.

The representative for the Jensen Beach area and St. Lucie County will be in Tallahassee for the Legislative session, which opens Tuesday, April 8. He began committee meetings in Tallahassee Tuesday, April 2.

Area residents may call Rep. Nergard collect in Tallahassee, 904-488-1798, or write Room 120, House Office Building, State Capital, Tallahassee.

Growth plan is urged

JENSEN BEACH–A member of Martin County Planning Commission urged the County Commission at Tuesday's workshop session to "plan for the growth that is to come to the county."

"While we are in a slow building period, now is the time to prepare to meet the growth problem that will come," Bob Krause said.

The planning commisaion member raised some questions about package sewer plants of developments and water plants and about parks in developments.

"Does the county want to accept these package plants?" Krause asked. "And who is going to maintain them?"

He suggested that the package water and sewer plants be built to county specifications so that some time in the future they could tie in.

It was pointed out during the discussion that some areas of the county would like to have a water and sewer system, but there is objection to a county-wide system.

Also, planned park areas were discussed with Dr. Walter Stokes, who pointed out that the young people of the county need recreational space.

Krause noted that some developments have been studied because of ordination over land areas for parks.

"Some time the developer doesn't want the property and the county doesn't want it. We need some guidelines," Krause said.

Taxpayers reminded of penalty

JENSEN BEACH–Martin County taxpayers will receive a 4 per cent discount if they pay their bills by April 9, but after that date a 3 per cent penalty will be added, Tax Collector Alvin Andrews said Tuesday.

"That's a 7 per cent spread...the tax collector said in reminding taxpayers of the need to pay the bills.

Andrews and his staff have been busy the past few days collecting money over the counter and opening the mail.

"We dispersed $1.6 million Tuesday to each agency that receives tax money," Andrews said. "Last week he sent $1.5 million to agencies.

According to a recent news release by the Stuart Chamber of Commerce, January and February auto sales topped 1974 sales figures.

"We will meet or beat any new car deal available anywhere in the state," said Gerry O'Brien, president of the New Car Dealer's Association. The buyer doesn't have to travel outside the county to get a new car bargain or get good service.

Every dealership has factory trained mechanics and our service departments have been improved and expanded. There are more than 1,000 cars in stock and that is an excellent selection for any prospective auto buyer.

The dealers hope that the entire business community joins in the campaign to sell Martin County as a place to do business, and they have offered their "Give yourself a lift, Martin County" slogan to all business.

Frank Wolfe, head of Southeastern Marketing Communications, is handling the promotion, and has enlisted the cooperation of the Chambers of Commerce, banks and supply houses to kick off the campaign.

His effort to expand the drive throughout the business community is based on a sound principle–doing business at home helps everyone, sales taxes build roads, help schools and provide many governmental services that would be increased if Martin Countians shop right at home.

Wolfe pointed to the well-stocked shelves of Martin County businesses, and said, "The selection has never been better, and our merchants are friendly, and back up their sales with the service they must have to keep people coming back."

Participating in the campaign are Amity Buick-Pontiac, Bill Redditt Ford, Chason Motors, Classic Motor Center, John Jochem Chevrolet, Stuart Chrysler-Plymouth, and Stuart Lincoln Mercury.

BEACH SNIP–With a snip of a ribbon by Scott Fletcher, left, a 100-foot beach strip was dedicated to him and his wife Billie. Presiding at the ceremony last week was Martin County Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick who dubbed Fletcher "Mr. Stripper." TEACH YOUR CHILD TO TALK–Mrs. Robert Post has attended the Teach Your Child to Talk Workshops offered by the Adult Education Department of Martin County. She has learned the appropriate things to do to help her baby develop normal speech and language patterns and what to expect in speech development from birth to age five.

Speech workshops

STUART–The Adult Education Department of Martin County each month offers a series of three meetings designed to inform parents about normal speech and language development in their young children. The workshop meetings are conducted by the county's two speech clinicians, Eugene Moore and Mrs. Ellen Fox.

The total workshop consists of three meetings, one meeting a week for three consecutive weeks, about two hours each night.

The next series begins Tuesday, April 8 at 7:30 p.m. at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Stuart. The final series for this school year will begin on Wednesday, May 14.

"Teaching your child to talk is one of the most complex tasks a parent is faced with in a child's early years. Children do not automatically learn to talk; they must be taught. They learn from their speech models; their parents. All parents are speech models but they may not know whether they are good models," Mrs. Fox said in discussing the workshops.

The public is invited to the free sessions.

For further information contact Mrs. Fox in the evenings at 878-3724, or the Adult Education Department at 287-6400.

M.I.A.

WASHINGTON—Every night, hundreds of American women go to bed, wondering whether they are wives or widows. Every night, hundreds of children wonder whether their fathers are alive or dead and whether they'll ever see them again.

Hundreds of parents spend each day wondering about the fate of their sons.

And, unfortunately, these parents, wives and children have been kept in the state of bewilderment for more than two years, even though the Paris Accord of January, 1973, called for an accounting of the fate of the 1,200 men still carried on the rolls as "missing in action."

A year ago, I and scores of other Congressmen wrote North Vietnam's prime minister, Pham Van Dong, calling for a "full accounting, repatriation, search, reporting and complete cooperation in making available the status of release of all prisoners of war and missing in action."

Nothing happened, despite the fact that we bluntly warned that refusal to account for the MIA's would mean no aid, trade, diplomatic recognition or other relations with the North Vietnamese.

I was not surprised by the North Vietnamese stand. That regime and their allies in inhumanity, the Viet Cong, have persistently refused to live up to any part of the January, 1973 agreement which was to bring about the end of hostilities in Indochina.

And that agreement specifically spells out the requirement that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong assist in obtaining information about the MIA's and in determining the location of the graves of those Americans who died behind enemy lines during that long, bitter war.

Regardless of the inhuman stand of the North Vietnamese, the families of the 1,200 known MIA's have a right to know their government has not just written off these soldiers, Marines and airmen a right to know we still care about them and share their families' plight.

For that reason, I am co-sponsoring a resolution to establish a select committee on MIA's.

The Committee, of course, won't be able to do as much as we'd like to do in this heart-rendering situation because there is no way the select committee can force the Vietnamese communists to live up to the canons of international law.

But it can serve as a forum to again bring into the spotlight the plight of these missing servicemen and the anguish of their families. It can point out in stark terms the inhumanity of the Vietnamese communists.

And it can point out the need for additional international inspection teams to determine whether there are still American GI's in Vietnamese POW camps.

If the select committee, to be composed of 10 Members of the House, can do that, it will have served a worthwhile purpose.

More important, it will serve notice on the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese that we see through their phony propaganda and recognize them for what they are, barbarians trying to barter lives for our abandonment of South Vietnam.

Nergard seeks opinions on issues

JENSEN BEACH–State Rep. Chuck Nergard Tuesday afternoon mailed out his annual questionnaires, seeking the opinion of St. Lucie County and Jensen Beach area voters on some issues that will considered by the 1975 session of the Legislature.

"I'm placing about 1,000 copies in the mail this afternoon," Tuesday," Rep. Nergard said from his office in Tallahassee.

Some issues that Nergard wants opinions of voters include:

1. Appointment of members of Public Service Commission by the governor.

2. Ratification of Equal Rights (for women) Amendment.

3. Prohibiting the sale of cheap handguns (Saturday night specials).

4. Authorizing local governments to level impact fee to be applied to new developments.

5. Consolidation of all state agencies dealing with pollution, natural resources and environment into one agency.

6. Extensions of state's power of eminent domain which now exists for roads and bridges to the acquisition of environmentally endangered land.

7a. State budget within the means of anticipated state revenue for fiscal year of 1975-76.

8. Revamping Florida's electric rates to provide a lower rate for those households which consume less than 700 kilowatts per month.

9. What do you feel is the most pressing issue to come before the 1975 legislature?

Rep. Nergard asks that the voters give yes, no or undecided answers to the questions, and give their comments on any issue not listed.

Voters should mail their replies to Rep. Chuck Nergard, District 76, Room 320, House Office Building, Tallahassee.

Different views on savannas

JENSEN BEACH–Council of Governments (COG) members last week were pessimistic about the chances for state purchase of the savannas.

"We haven't had any correspondence from the state," Martin County Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick said.

"The issue hasn't gone before the State Cabinet. A month ago I was really optimistic about this, but I think the chances of the purchase going through are diminishing with time," Philbrick added.

But the man who spearheaded the "save the savannas" campaign said Tuesday that he didn't understand the gloomy attitude at the COG meeting.

"Sure, the project is going slowly," Dr. Walter Stokes said. "But one of the largest land owners has received a call from the state, and this indicates that the ball is rolling."

Dr. Stokes, chairman of the "save the savannas" committee, said that Wayne Simes has been contacted by the state.

Simes owns about three miles of the savannas near Midway Road on the north end of the 12 miles of wetlands that stretches from Jensen Beach Cutoff Road north to Midway Road.

"I understand that representatives of the state have been in the courthouses of Martin and St. Lucie counties checking the ownership of the savannas," Dr. Stokes said.

"We have got to keep pressure on Tallahassee," Dr. Stokes said.

"The time to buy is now," Dr. Stokes said, "and our first step is negotiate with the large land owners on the west side. The east side can wait."

The savannas is high on the priority list for the state to purchase environmentally endangered land with the $200 million bond issue voters approved.

California couple travel waterways of 1776

BY DENNIS DOYLE

JENSEN BEACH–A California couple hope to capture the feeling of pride in our great American historical heritage, in a 16 mm color documentary they will film along the eastern coast, the home of 1776 history.

When the film is complete, it will be returned to the west coast where it will be seen by grade school children throughout the Los Angeles School System, in celebration of the Nation's 200th birthday.

While boating north on the journey, Cecil Gates and his wife Pat stopped at the Outrigger Marina recently. Their journey began off the waters of Miami and will eventually finish at Ft. Ticonderoga, after covering some 1600 miles.

Accompaning the couple is an 18' miniature battleship named the USS Bicentennial, which will be used as a prop in the film.

"The battleship is really a gimmick to attract the students attention before explaining the historical background in the areas we traveled," Gates explained.

The battleship is one of six Gates built, and three are used by the Navy for demonstrations.

Many west coast children have never been to the east, and we hope to bring its history back to them on film, he said.

The Gates are on sabbatical leave from the Los Angeles City School System where their journey is endorsed by both the Bicentennial Committee's for the State of California and the Los Angeles School System. The venture is also sponsored through Johnson Outboard Motors.

The two expect to make between 30 to 40 miles per day, in the battleship's Land and Sea Escort Boat.

Gates grew up on the Hawaiian Islands and never got to travel the high seas during World War II, because after the attack on Pearl Harbor, he was drafted into the Army.

"It was during an NBC interview recently", Gates said, "I realized that I am just a frustrated seamen."

Both Gates and his wife hope to spread plenty of Bicentennial goodwill from California to the eastern shores. And they will probably attract more local and national news coverage in the areas they travel.

Especially with Gates' humor! When he first came in to the Outrigger Marina and saw the Chanticleer sitting there, he jumped into his 18' battleship, pulled next to the 118' giant, and demanded the captain surrender his ship!

News of Nettles Island

BY MAY TIFFT

It would fill the newspaper if we attempted to write of all the children, grandchildren and friends who are visiting here over Easter and Spring holidays, plus the influx of vacationers. The place is really busy and there are so many young folks, too.

+++

Just as an example, take Bill and Agnes Petzold. Their grandchildren Kenneth and Robert Petzold of Portland, Conn. have been here. Their daughter Elaine and son-in-law Richard Cate with children Karen and Ricky from Rocky Hill, Conn. have been guests as has Lydia Pistel of Middletown, Conn. That's seven guests right there. Bet Bill and Agnes have been busy—and loved every minute of it.

+++

Martin and Harriett Marquardt are kept busy with guests also for last week Vern and Mary Moen were with them. Vern, Martin and Sam Walters were buddies back in the 30's at the YMCA in Minneapolis and rehashed a lot of old times.

They held a "wing-ding" on their lot to introduce guests Ruth and Fred Martin and say farewell to their neighbors Fran and Carl Walter who are returning to work at their golf course in Highland, Mich.—that's work.

The Martins are bird watchers and enjoyed the field trip with Ida Cantwell's bird class. The prize bird seen was a remarkably colored painted bunting at the Vick Ranch.

The Marquardt's collected numam berries and made some very exotic jam courtesy of the Vick Ranch also.

+++

This also seems the time of year for many to start north with the birds. About every other person we talk to has a week to weeks left to enjoy the beautiful weather in this area. Up where we come from, spring arrives late so we will be around to enjoy the lazy, quiet aftermath at Nettles Island until May 15th or so.

+++

A first time "happening" took place last Thursday evening when a Seder feast commemorating the exodus of the Jews from Egypt was celebrated on the second night of Passover at the Recreation Hall. A group of 38 participated in what hopefully will become an annual event.

+++

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Baker Jr. are vacationing here visiting their parents, the Ray Bakers. They are from San Diego, Calif.

Sunday the men went deep sea fishing with Captain Jack of the Sea Fever and caught some nice kingfish which they barbecued for their neighbors.

While the barbecue was in progress Kevin Baker, the four and a half year old grandson, tried fishing in the canal with live shrimp. Guess what— he caught and reeled in a 12" five pound snook. Needless to say father and grandfather were amazed.

+++

A Nettles Island lot owners group has been formed. This will be an informal organization to help our hard working board members keep the lines of communication open. Those elected to head the group are Jim Davis, chairman; Dave Henry, co-chairman; Bill Kendall, secretary; and Augie Garbrital, treasurer.

+++

The board of directors of Nettles Island Condominium has officially okayed the installation of a therapeutic pool, adjacent to the club house pool, to be financed by personal contributions. Look around you, maybe you know someone who would benefit by use of the contemplated facility.

+++

Those with March birthdays at Nettles Island followed their Pisces and Aries horoscopes which read "get out-of-doors exercise. Use discretion in food and drink."

A jolly group of friends honored the birthdays of Paul Sivits, Sam Ed Neely, Guy Hougen, Hazel Ludwig, Ethel Johnson, Millie Garret, Marlin Marquardt, Frank Cox and Pat Dee, at the beach cabanas. All but Hazel willingly disclosed their age. Her age read "39 and holding" or 59 and holding or 99 and still holding."

+++

Bill and Etta Creighton are enjoying a visit from their son's family, Mark and George and three grandchildren Faith, Brian and baby Heather. Mark and the two older children had a thrilling sailboat ride.

+++

This is the time of year when many are getting ready to return home. Farewell parties are many. The Rathbuns spearheaded a nice group who enjoyed a last few hours at the rec hall lounge to send Arthur and Annette Meindel off for home in N.J.

+++

I know there are many other such gatherings, but if you don't tell your reporter it just doesn't make the paper.

+++

The members of the Womens' Clubs are treating themselves to a luncheon April 9 followed by the last meeting of the year and a very interesting slide travelogue by Mrs. Clifford Outwater from Plymouth Lakes. You will be seeing the slides through the eyes of "Missy" a cute bright chocolate brown poodle.

+++

The Arts and Crafts and Ceramics Show held Saturday at the rec hall was a big success. Everyone was enthusiastic about all the interesting variety of items on display. Betsy Jordan, arts and crafts instructor from Indian River College had on display her very clever "Shell Orchestra" while Sue Freeman, ceramics instructor, also from IRCC, had some handsome pieces. Both are proud of the work done this season and well they should be.

Winners in Arts and Crafts: blue ribbon, Norman Anderson, his own photos painted in transparent oils; red ribbon, decoupage purse, yellow ribbon Mildred Johnson, dainty rose necklace. Honorable mention, Mildred Coyle, shell craft; Easter girl in garden, also Eleanor E. Hauger, bicentennial dolls.

Winners in ceramics: blue ribbon, Ruth Bellavance, mushroom tureen; red ribbon, George Glock, Jr., mallard duck; white ribbon, Marion Conway, two lovely plates and honorable mention, Debbie Kopac, Aztec palm-dar.

+++

Between 500 and 600 people attended the Easter Sunrise Service held at the cabana pool Sunday at 7 a.m.

Rev. L.C. Campbell, Jr. officiated, with Bernard Murphy playing a trumpet solo calling the congregation to worship.

Dr. Archert gave the welcome and then "The Joint Hens" sang hymns. Mrs. Irma Vandergraaf sang a solo and, after Rev. Campbell's sermon, Bobby Lord sang the Lords Prayer.

A big thanks to all the people who prepared the service and also to Bob Anderson and the maintenance crew who prepared and logged the beach area for all to enjoy the service.

Three hundred and sixty-six people attended the 11 a.m. service at the clubhouse after which coffee and doughnuts and hot cross buns were served.

Bernard Murphy played the trumpet again and Irma Vandergraaf sang for the congregation once more.

A big thanks to all the ladies who helped prepare and serve refreshments.

Having read this, if you have guessed it does not have May Tifft's inimitable style—you're right, the Har-Mar Duo did this week's news.

Lake Manor News Notes

BY SYLVIA SIMAN
334-4792

This week's highlight was a trip by 30 of Lake Manor folks and two guests that took the Jungle Queen Cruise on March 27th. All have been telling me how very much they enjoyed that trip and it was indeed a fun trip. Our two guests were Warren Ward, son of Warren Ward, and his son, Jeffrey, 13 years old. They loved it here.

+ + +

Lake Manor has had many northern visitors recently, all fleeing the bad weather up there.

+ + +

Tansy and Karl Roman's granddaughter Karen Roman, surprised them a day earlier when she came in on the 21st, accompanied by her friend Scott Crowe, both from Chicago. They spent three days here.

+ + +

Peggy Sommers had the pleasure of the company of her son Dana Nye from Belgrade, Maine for nearly two weeks. They took a trip to the Everglades and Dana admired nature as it is, here in Florida.

+ + +

Fern and Ed Hill are pleased to have Fern's niece and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Don Lott and daughter Cindy from Columbus, Ohio. They truly like our weather in preference to what they left back in Ohio.

+ + +

Saw two young girls doing some fishing on the bridge, so went over. One was Cindy Hill's visitor and the other, Melissa Edge from Tampa, who was visiting her grandparents, the Bonsells. Melissa was here with her parents, her mother is the Bonseth's daughter. It was very refreshing talking to these two lovely girls.

+ + +

Karl and Elizabeth Duffield were delighted to have their daughter Betty and her husband Stephen Campanella and their son John visit them for a week. While here they celebrated their 21st anniversary at the Outrigger. Stephen having to leave on business the following day. Before coming here they had been pleasantly entertained by friends at Nassau, with the fellows taking a turn at scuba diving with great pleasure. All missed young Stephen who couldn't participate in any of this since he had to return to Duke University. The Campanellas' home is Pittsburgh, Pa.

+ + +

The Dobbs, Leone and Sherry, have had their son Sherry and his wife Carol and one son, young Sherry-4 years, and daughter Elizabeth-8 years from Peau, N. Y. visit them for several weeks. These very happy children have had great fun in the park, at the ocean, fishing and swimming. It was delightful to meet them.

+ + +

Bea Brodias recently had friends, Judge Benson and his wife Beulah from near Columbus visit her for a few days. Then more recently, her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hackett from Jackson, Ohio were here for 11 days. Mrs. Hackett is Bea's sister-in-law.

All good wishes go out from here to Glenn Oakes who is in Martin Memorial Hospital.

+ + +

Walt Atwood was the three game winner at shuffleboard on March 26th.

+ + +

A most impressive holy service was presented on Good Friday at Community Church, which some Lake Manor folks attended.

+ + +

Happy Birthday to the April people: 3rd Marion Burke, 4th Ed Hill, 7th Vernon Stoddard, 12th Mary Rutucci, 24th Florence Thrasher, 30th Mary Scriven.

+ + +

Happy Anniversary to the following: 3rd Ann & Al Pieroni, 21st Ethel & Tom Rooney, 26th Clara & Herb Burmeister, 28th Gerry & Ed Stuart, 4th Jen & John Bollenbacher.

+ + +

Ray Marks showed some fine colored slides which he and Florence had taken around their former home in California and of trips taken through the mountains and desert. He gave an excellent narration with a few little humorous quips. He will show the remainder of the slides on Wednesday evening, April 2 at 7:30 p.m. We are looking forward to seeing them as he had some exceptionally lovely colors, especially the fields of California poppies and the cactus blossoms.

PORT ST. LUCIE--The annual organizational meeting of the Port St. Lucie City Council will be held Monday, April 7, 9 a.m. at the City Hall on Morningside Boulevard.

The appointment of a city clerk and city attorney will also be made during the session.

COG GUEST--Jerry Walker, a representative of Waste Management Inc., recommended a landfill site for the Council's consideration. The 223-acre tract, owned by General Development Corporation, is centrally located to service both Martin and St. Lucie Counties. Another meeting is in the planning at which time COG members hope to meet with Walker and state and federal officials and obtain some much needed information relative to landfills in the area.

Commission grants re-hearing

Community support urged for bike path

PORT ST. LUCIE--The time is right for the residents of Port St. Lucie and River Park to join forces and make their wishes known to the St. Lucie County Commission in regards to the long awaited bike path proposed for the southside of Prima Vista Boulevard.

Monday a representative group comprised of Don White, Walter Wingberg, and Al Bornan appeared at the county workshop session to appeal the commission action of last week approving the asphalt surfacing of an 8 ft. wide path.

Residents had requested the path be 6 feet wide and constructed of concrete rather than the asphalt, pointing out such a surface was considered to be more in keeping with the value and attractiveness of the homes and property involved.

Another point brought out by the group was the existing sidewalks which the bike path would connect are also of concrete construction, built by General Development Corporation.

Based on this appeal, the commission has scheduled a re-hearing on April 8 at 3:30 p.m. in the St. Lucie County Courthouse.

"At this point, I feel the representative group has gone about as far as it can alone," White said. "It is time we have the full support of the community in our appeal for the commission's re-consideration in this matter."

Urging residents to make every possible effort to attend the Tuesday session, White said, "I don't know whether it will do us any good, but we are pleased to have the opportunity to present more evidence. I do hope our residents will support our efforts by attending the hearing."

County Attorney Ralph Wilson according to White, advised the commission at the last official session that since they had approved the bid submitted for the asphalt, even though the contract had not been signed, they would be bound to that act unless a release could be obtained from the successful bidder.

"It was not clear whether the new bid would be confined to the successful bidder but I would assume at the request of the commission, the bidder could submit a price on the concrete path," White said, adding, "I can see no reason why the bidder would object, especially in view of the fact the amount of money involved would be greater."

The proposed path will be constructed from U.S. 1 along the south side of Prima Vista Boulevard to Floresta Drive, excluding only the area which has a sidewalk.

The path will be constructed just inside the 50 foot right-of-way extending from the center of the road.

Will close May 1

Emergency '911' is Wimodausis topic

PORT ST. LUCIE--Guest speaker at next week's Wimodausis Club meeting will be Phillip Thibedlau. His talk will be concerned with the important use of "Emergency 911."

The meeting will start at 1 p.m. on Wednesday, April 16. All members as well as wives, mothers, daughters and sisters of Master Masons are urged and cordially invited to attend.

St. Andrew Church plans organ recital

PORT ST. LUCIE--David E. Matthews of Daytona Beach will present an Organ Recital at St. Andrew Lutheran Church Sunday evening, April 6 at 7 p.m.

The occasion of the Matthews Recital is the dedication of the new Rodgers Searborough 110 organ at the church.

The public is invited to attend. A brief coffee hour will be held following the recital.

Coming to Florida in 1970, Matthews has appeared at a number of recitals including the Spring Arts Festival of Fine Arts at Florida State College. He has also appeared as organ soloist in Winter Park and Daytona Beach.

COG agrees on landfill

PORT ST. LUCIE-- "A 223-acre sanitary landfill, if operated on a professional basis from day one, will serve the waste-disposal needs of Martin and St. Lucie Counties for the next fifteen years," Jerry Walker, an official of Waste Management, Inc., told members of the Council of Governments (COG) last Thursday.

City and county officials throughout the two-county area have been concerned as to whether or not state and federal agencies will continue to accept sanitary landfills as a means of disposing of waste materials after 1977.

St. Lucie County Commission Chairman Willie McCain told the group waste disposal is a particular concern to St. Lucie County since their landfill will be used up within the next sixty days.

Walker, who at the request of Port St. Lucie's Planning and Zoning committee chairman Rob Jensen, recommended the 223-acre site after inspecting several possible locations.

General Development Corporation, owners of the tract, has agreed to negotiate with St. Lucie County for the use of the land.

Walker pointed out the site, which will eventually be separated from Port St. Lucie to the north west by I-95, provides an ideal central location for use by both counties.

The proposed site is situated 12 miles northwest of Stuart and approximately six miles southwest of Fort Pierce.

Although council members were concerned regarding state and federal (EPA) regulations banning the use of landfills as a means for disposing of waste. Walker said he did not forsee this materializing for twenty years or more.

"By then technology will have caught up with waste disposal needs and perhaps more exotic methods will at that time be feasible. There are no experts in EPA at the present time, they are politicians, politicians looking for us to come up with the alternatives," Walker said.

Stating that the use of a sanitary landfill was the most efficient and economical waste disposal method, Walker indicated the additional charge imposed on the individuals in the two-county operation would amount to approximately $5 per person per year.

Waste Management Inc., which operates two landfills in Jacksonville and one in Pompano Beach, maintains the land used will be contoured to order as the operation continues.

At the end of the fifteen years, this land is suitable for sale as commercial, recreational or even residential property," Walker told the group.

The tract is presently zoned for industrial use.

In describing the firm's landfill operations, Walker explained that water is pumped out of the trenches, the garbage is then dumped in, and the trenches are covered over daily. There is no air pollution because there is no burning at the site, he told his listeners.

According to statements made by the firm's representative, Waste Management Inc. is self supporting, a capitalistic operation which does make money.

Pinpointing the matter even further, Walker said the firm was not subsidized.

Estimating the population of the two-county, three-city area as 125,000, Walker said the Martin county would generate a maximum of $625,000 per year.

Council members agreed the combined use of a single landfill would be the most feasible, but admitted they each wanted some additional information.

"This sounds like a real good deal to me, but I think we should invite state and federal officials to set in on another presentation of this nature before we accept or deny the proposal made by this gentleman," McCain said. "It would be too bad if we contracted for the landfill site and then government agencies may stop the operation, telling us at that time we have just wasted our money."

All members agreed to invite government experts from Washington and Tallahassee to attend a joint meeting with Walker and the heads of the governing bodies of both counties, whether members of COG or not.

Although no date was set for the joint meeting, it was suggested it be held within the next four weeks.

COG gets name

PORT ST. LUCIE--The two county, three city Council of Governments has been officially named the St. Lucie River Council of Governments.

With four of the five representatives present, the group voted unanimously at the April 7 meeting held at the Port St. Lucie City Hall to suspend the annual dues which were due this month.

Members agreed since there had been little money expended, approximately $50, there was no reason for each agency to pay additional dues at this time. Originally the five entities paid $200 each in the treasury.

St. Lucie Village Mayor Pat Beacon, who attended the meeting as a guest, has requested his village be represented in the group, agreeing to pay the necessary dues to become a member.

Ross Philbrick, Martin County Commissioner, agreed to check into the subject of admitting new members.

Wagon will meet Monday

PORT ST. LUCIE--The next scheduled meeting of the Welcome Wagon of Port St. Lucie will be held at the Marina, Prima Vista Blvd., on Monday morning, April 7 at 10 a.m.

President Mrs. Paul Sheehan advises members to bring their lunch, as the meeting will be followed by "crazy bridge" or cards of their choice.

St. Patrick's Day river cruise was attended by 76 Welcome Wagon members and friends.

Mrs. Walter Dill was in charge of the day's activities.

HARD TO BELIEVE--Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Harris of Port St. Lucie watch as a Winn Dixie cashier rings up $311.53 worth of meat, poultry and grocery items Harris managed to collect in a three-minute shopping spree. Harris, who still finds it hard to believe he did it, was the winner of the first prize awarded by First Federal Savings of Fort Pierce during the grand opening of their Port St. Lucie Branch office located in the St. Lucie Shopping Plaza.

REV. A.V. SOCKER The Reverend A.V. Socker, Division Missioner of the Lutheran Church in America, has been called to develop a new parish for Stuart and the surrounding area. Presently residing in Port St. Lucie with his wife Tommy and their three children, Pastor Socker said that, as soon as survey work is completed, worship services will be instituted at a site set to be selected. He invites anyone interested in the new parish to call him at 334-2279.

Republicans will meet Thursday

PORT ST. LUCIE--The local Republican Club will meet April 3 7:30 p.m. at the CESA Building on Prima Vista Boulevard.

Richard E. Dick Campbell, editor and publisher of the Mirror News papers Inc. will be the guest speaker.

Shopping spree nets over $300

PORT ST. LUCIE--At precisely 9 a.m. last Wednesday morning, Sidney N. Harris, 74, of 329 Holly Avenue embarked on a three minute shopping spree at the Winn Dixie Supermarket located in the St. Lucie Shopping Plaza.

Harris was the winnter of the "Run for Your Money" three-minute shopping spree awarded by First Federal Savings of Fort Pierce's grand opening ceremonies promoting the new Port St. Lucie Branch Office also located in the shopping plaza.

Harris, who was granted time to browse through the store prior to the start was successful in gathering meats, poultry and grocery items to the tune of $311.53 during the spree.

The only condition set forth for the three minute take-all was that each item be limited to two.

Watching as the cashier checked the order out, Harris commented, "I don't believe I picked up all those things in just three minutes."

All winners of the $25 gift certificates happened to be residents of Port St. Lucie also.

GDC terminates Country Store

By Alice Hickey

PORT ST. LUCIE--Even though informed sources of General Development Corporation would lead you to believe that changes they propose are made with the best interest of the community in mind, some Country Club residents might challenge the authenticity of such statement.

Ronal Moniz owns and operates the Country Store located in the Country Club Shopping area on Morningside Boulevard.

Two years ago he leased the building space from General Development Corporation for five years with the option of renewal for five additional years.

He wasn't be taking advantage of the option nor will he have the opportunity of seeing his original five-year lease through.

It got a letter one month ago from GDC's manager in charge of commercial property, Richard Swerling, saying that I had sixty days to vacate the premises," Moniz said.

For the past month Moniz tried to contact Swerling by phone and on several occasions talked with him, but to no avail.

"Time and time again I was told they were not quite ready but an official announcement would be made within ten days," Moniz said.

Although there has yet to be any announcement or news release from the Miami headquarters, GDC Attorney Don Horner admitted last week the building had been committeed as of June 1 for occupancy by two doctors, Moniz told The Mirror Monday.

In a later conversation with Swerling Moniz was informed there were no plans on the part of the developer to provide for a new facility or even temporary quarters.

"I am apparently out of business as of May 1," he said, adding that he is in the process of liquidating the stock at the store.

What about the people here? Kirst it was the closing of the post office located in the rear of the store, then the laundromat and now the store," he said. "I am curious as to what fate awaits the other occupants of the building."

He pointed out that the whole thing just doesn't seem to make sense, at least for the reasons furnished.

"Why with a medical building that will house twenty doctors going up just three miles down the road, would GDC decide to eliminate the only convenience store the country club residents have to bring in two doctors?" he questioned.

Councilman William McChesney commenting on the store closing said, "This will represent a real inconvenience to the people of this area who have been accustomed to using it ever since the community was started."

Since the store is closed it will mean a fifteen mile round trip for a loaf of bread or a quart of milk," he said.

McChesney received information some time ago that the store was to be closed.

At that time I contacted Bob Seeley, GDC's general manager of Port St. Lucie and after several calls to Miami he verified the information pertaining to the commitment to the two doctors," McChesney said.

They (GDC) tell us we will be inconvenienced for a while but just what is meant by a while I don't know," the councilman concluded.

Clement A. Bramley Jr., president of the Port St. Lucie Bank and Country Club resident said, "I think the residents here need, want, and should have a general store made immediately available.

"GDC is the landlord I do not know what the conditions of the lease are or how they can terminate it. In my opinion if GDC wants to change the location or the proprietorship of the store, and is entitled to do so, that is their decision. But, I do think there should be a store here in the area," Bramley said.

Changes in precincts proposed

JENSEN BEACH—Revision in Martin County's voting precincts will be proposed soon, Supervisor of Elections Mrs. Sandra Randolph said.

"We are thinking about reducing the size of at least two precincts," Mrs. Randolph said, "and increasing the number from 18 to 21 precincts."

"Two precincts have nearly 3,000 voters each and these need to be divided to make the numbers more manageable on election day," she said.

Precinct 1, Jensen Beach, and Precinct 8, Hobe Sound, have about 2,800 registered voters.

Mrs. Randolph pointed out that at the Langford Park Fieldhouse voting place for Jensen Beach area residents that only six voting machines can be used because of the limited space.

While Mrs. Randolph and her staff have no firm plans for revision of precincts, she pointed out that Precinct 1 could be split with residents north of Commercial Street having a new voting place.

"The average size of precincts in the county is about 1,300 registered voters, and the smallest precincts have just over 300 registered voters."

Mrs. Randolph noted that re-drawing precinct boundaries could require that County Commission district boundaries be revised. However, it was pointed out that state law prohibits a precinct from being in more than one County Commission district, although commissioners are elected countywide.

County Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick last week reiterated his opposition to redistricting.

"All the commissioners are elected countywide," Philbrick said. "And an Indiantown resident's vote is just as important as a Jensen Beach resident."

"The state's one-man-one-vote rule doesn't apply since we are elected countywide and represent all the people," Philbrick continued.

Philbrick said that redistricting would be too expensive, about $35,000 for the University of Florida team to do a countywide census.

At his last commission meeting in November of 1974, Commission Chairman Dr. Ed Geary asked that the commission "look into the possibility of redistricting."

However, when newly elected Commissioner Tom Higgins suggested that the new commission consider Dr. Geary's proposal, Commissioner Timer Powers asked that the commission not consider the redistricting plan until 1977 or 1981, after the 1980 census.

Mrs. Randolph said that if precinct lines were redrawn to conform to Stuart city limits, changes would have to be made in the boundaries of County Commission districts 2 and 4.

She pointed out that Precinct 12, Tropical Farms area, could stand some revision because of its present boundaries.

"I get complaints from some residents who say they have to pass some polling places to get to the Tropical Farms Fire Department, the voting location," she said.

There has been some discussion of making Hutchinson Island a special taxing district, which now is split.

The island area south of Elliott Museum is in District 3 with the rest north in District 1.

Philbrick said that if the island sewer plan goes through, a special taxing district for the island could be established.

"A special taxing district can be established for a specific purpose," Philbrick said.

While there are no definite precinct revision plans, Mrs. Randolph said she would like to have the new precincts established as soon as possible.

"Voters would not have to re-register if their voting place is changed," Mrs. Randolph said. "They would be notified by letter of their new voting location."

Mrs. Randolph noted the tremendous increase in registered voters in the past few months.

The total registration in September of 1974 was 23,739. "We have added about 1,000 registrations since then and now have over 25,000 registered voters."

There is a wide discrepancy in the number of registered voters in some commission districts.

District 4, represented by Commissioner Maggy Hurchalla, has 4,113 registered voters, while District 5 Commissioner Timer Powers, has 2,178 registered voters.

District 1, Jensen Beach area, represented by Philbrick has 5,345 with Higgins' district 2 a total of 5,629. Commissioner John Kiernan's District 3 has 4,575 registered voters.

Celebration plans move ahead

JENSEN BEACH—Plans for celebrating the nation's 200th birthday moved ahead at another meeting of the Bicentennial Celebration Committee in Jensen Beach.

More than 30 persons, representing Jensen Beach area organizations attending the Friday night meeting at Hobe Hall, and various organizations were designated to plan specific activities.

The committee voted to have a plaque placed "at an appropriate place" commemorating the Bicentennial Celebration in Jensen Beach.

Also, the County Commission will be asked for a resolution officially recognizing the celebration in the community.

It also was voted by the committee to seek donations from each organization to finance the activities.

A theme for the celebration will be designated, and a kick-off dinner will be held with the Jensen Beach Women's Club in charge.

Flags for the celebration will be sold, and about 100 flags are expected to be available to the public by June 1.

"We have got to get the enthusiasm going," Barbara Torow said.

Mrs. Torow, chairman of the executive board of the Bicentennial Committee, said the next session will be Friday, May 2.

Island condo gets okay

JENSEN BEACH—With county engineer Ken Ferrari's assurance that 69 more condominium units on Hutchinson Island "won't effect the overall water flow," Martin County Commission Tuesday approved a resolution for Hutchinson House West's request for a planned unit development (PUD).

Commissioners Tuesday reiterated some of their concern that they have expressed recently about the lack of water pressure on the island.

Ferrari pointed out that all the information on the island water situation isn't available.

"A study is under way," Ferrari said, "and in about three weeks we should have the information.

"I don't think 69 more units will make any difference," Ferrari added.

The county engineer pointed out that his department doesn't have any information about how much water is going to St. Lucie County developments and that developments in Martin County on the island should have booster pumps to increase their water pressure.

The booster pump suggestion prompted Commissioner John Kiernan to quip, "If all the developments had booster pumps, St. Lucie County developments would be out of luck."

Ferrari said that the water pressure on the island water main had been under 30 pounds of pressure per inch "a couple of times in the past few days."

The Planning Department recommended that the Lloyd Dutcher project be approved.

Plans for the multi-family development calls for 8.6 units per acre.

Miami Dolphins meet faculty of MCHS Friday after cool-off

STUART—Miami Dolphins don basketball uniforms instead of helmets and pads as they meet the Martin County High School faculty Friday in the renewal of a competition that was called off for a year "cooling off period."

The benefit game will begin at 8 p.m. at the MCHS gym, and is a major fund raiser for school activities.

Two years ago, tempers flared and the game ended in a shoving match between the two teams. Each has won a game in the two year history of the matches.

The Miami Dolphin team will consist of Bob Kuechenberg, Tim Foley, Jim Mandich, Mauty Moore, Lloyd Mumford, Don Nottingham and Pete Athas.

Mandich just broke the all-time pro basketball record, scoring 50 points in one game. He averages 38 points a game.

The advantage in height goes to the Dolphins with an average of about 6'4" on the team. The MCHS team averages about 5'10".

A photograph-autograph session will precede the game at 7:45 p.m. on the gym floor.

Southern Gulf offers

JENSEN BEACH—Southern Gulf Utilities Inc. (SGU) has offered to sell its water lines and other equipment for $850,000 plus accrued indebtedness.

SGU, which serves Sewall's Point and Hutchinson Island, has decided to divest itself of all its utilities system, an official said last week.

County officials have rejected the initial offer, but the negotiations will continue, county engineer Ken Ferrari said Friday.

Peter Martin, SGU president, said the parent company, Amicor Inc., has instructed him to seel the utility. He said the company would sell to the City of Stuart, which also is interested, or to a private firm if the county does not buy it.

In his offer to sell, Martin asked $850,000 plus the firm's $17,105 indebtedness to the City of Stuart for back bills.

The firm has about 12 miles of water distribution lines and meters, a storage tank. Martin said he feels that revenue from the system would be enough to support a bond issue to buy the facilities.

SGU purchases water at wholesale rates of 40 cents per thousand gallons and resells it to residents. He said that last year the system took in $160,000 and purchased about $60,000 from Stuart.

Ferrari said the county plans to establish a special taxing district for a water and sewer district on the island so residents there would pay the cost of buying SGU.

Schenk is county planner

JENSEN BEACH—Acting Planner Jim Schenk, Tuesday was appointed head of the Martin County planning department by the County Commission.

Schenk, 31, became acting planning director Jan. 28 after the commission moved to fire County Planner Tom Higgins.

The Personnel Committee, composed of Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick, Tom Higgins and Timer Powers, recommended the appointment of Schenk.

Philbrick said he had received many favorable comments from the Planning and Zoning Commission about Schenk's performance since he took over the job.

He has been on the planning staff since 1973, and has had experience in urban planning.

The Dartmouth College graduate will receive $17,128, the same as Leonard's salary, according to Philbrick.

SEWALL'S POINT—Dr. John Williams, president of the Indialucie Property Owners Association, is expected to be named to fill a vacancy on the Town Commission created by the resignation of former Mayor Roger Morgan.

Commissioner John Rossiter said at last week's workshop meeting that he intends to nominate Williams at this week's regular meeting.

Morgan vacated his commission post because of his new duties as local agent for Schenkmans Development, Ltd., a Canadian corporation that is developing Rio Vista subdivision in Sewall's Point.

Commissioners indicated at the workshop session that they may call a special meeting to reorganize the commission by electing a new mayor and vice mayor.

Vice Mayor Bill Sowdan has been serving as the town's chief governmental officer since Morgan's resignation.

CD drill is held

JENSEN BEACH—Last week's mock nuclear disaster was carried off with few problems other than in communications, it was indicated at a debriefing by officials.

The mock disaster was based on a fuel-failure at Florida Power and Light Co.'s (FPL) nuclear plant on Hutchinson Island.

The exercise, required by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) brought together federal, state and local agencies under a simulated program.

The officials will meet in May for a final review of the emergency plan.

At about 9:15 a.m. April 2, Civil Defense units in Martin and St. Lucie Counties received state confirmation of the dummy disaster and responded by dispatching emergency units including ambulances, fire trucks, and patrol cars.

Phil Thibedeau, St. Lucie County Civil Defense Director, said that several errors were made during the exercise, including communications problems between Civil Defense headquarters and local radio stations.

Thibedeau noted that the state Marine Patrol was not immediately included among the several emergency units notified of the disaster.

He said, however, he generally was satisfied with the results of the drill.

State Civil Defense observers present in the local Civil Defense office at the debriefing cited the need for improvement in communications between the counties.

Kelso plan

"He's an amateur crank." It was Paul Samuelson talking, professor of economics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and winner of the Nobel Prize. He was talking to Mike Wallace on "60 minutes" about a self-taught San Francisco economist who wants to make every American worker a capitalist: Louis Kelso.

Kelso had been swimming upstream in the rarefied world of economics for nearly 20 years, until the last two years or so when some journalists and politicians began to listen and found he had something to say.

According to Kelso, America's official policy is to have a "full employment' economy.

This is irrational when technology and automation are destroying jobs faster than new ones can be created. What we need to do is develop a way for the workers to own "a share of the action"—a share of the machines that actually produce the wealth.

He points out that only about 6 per cent of the U.S. population derives a significant portion of its income from capital. The rest of the people must rely entirely on wages, salaries and commissions. No job, no money.

What if most of the workers also owned some of the capital and began to derive a healthy portion of their income from this source, he asks. In time he says the boom-and-bust cycle, wild stock speculation and the wage-and-price spiral of inflation would be a thing of the past.

Kelso points out that American industry has a steady need for fresh capital to update and expand itself. Instead of turning to traditional sources for this capital, a company created instead an Employee Stock Ownership Plan for its workers, that "ESOP" would go to a bank, borrow the money to buy the new stock of the company, and pay it back out of dividends from the stock. After all, he says, industry now pays off its capital borrowings out of profits.

As soon as the loan was paid (typically in three to five years), the workers could begin to get their own dividends. And, it wouldn't cost them a cent out of pocket to become shareholders. Nor would it require present shareholders to give up any ownership. No "redistribution" scheme. All the while, industry would have its fresh capital at a cost less than it now pays.

That's Kelso's plan in brief. There's more to it, of course. Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, is seriously interested in Kelso's visionary solutions to some of our economic problems, and the energetic Kelso, who has put a version of his plan to work in several score private firms, is beginning to get a full hearing for his ideas in Washington. These ideas may not be perfect, but they offer some real hope that the fraternity of ruling economists—captives of Keynesian orthodoxy, who have held sway for four decades—may be near the end of the road.

Kelso's challenge to debate Samuelson on television (which orthodox economist has gone unchallenged).

But to soothe Mr. Samuelson, was so tight-lipped when he dismissed Kelso out of hand on the television program, Kelso offered to have them announced by "the gentleman." Neither was Louis Pasteur.

Deficit

WASHINGTON—Sometimes I think I'm living in a bad dream." That was Treasury Secretary William Simon's reaction to projections of a $100 billion deficit in fiscal 1978.

Well, it's more than a bad dream; it's a nightmare. But there is no sign yet that the nation is ready to wake up.

One reason for the continued slumber on the part of too many Americans and too many Members of Congress is the lack of comprehension of a $100 billion deficit in just one year.

Talking about anything in terms of billions can make for confusion. But talking about dollars in the billions can be mind-boggling.

So let's look at it in terms easier for all of us to comprehend.

A $100 billion deficit means that every day the Federal government will pay out $273,972,600 more than it takes in. And that breaks down to spending $3,170 you haven't got every second of every hour of every day for a full year.

A deficit that goes up $190,258 a minute, or $11,415,525 an hour is ridiculous, but that will be the case with a $100 billion deficit.

The entire idea becomes even more ludicrous when you consider that just 13 years ago, the entire Federal budget—not the deficit, but the entire budget—was just $100 billion.

In fact, it wasn't until fiscal 1971 that Federal spending jumped above the $200 billion mark.

Yet, in the fiscal year beginning July 1, if the giveaway artists in the Congress have their way, the Federal budget will climb almost to the $400 billion mark, with one quarter of it money we don't have.

And that would push the total national debt well over the $600 billion level, a staggering level when you consider that as recently as 1971 our national debt was a trifling $438 billion.

It is even more staggering when you break down the national debt to see what basis it is running on. Some $400 billion is owed by your share, the share of every man, woman and child in the country—is $2,000 or $10,000 for the average family of five.

All this spending of money we don't have is being done in the name of helping the American people under the guise of stimulating the economy.

Yet it was this same tinkering which brought us to the economic chaos we are now experiencing.

When the Federal government operates at a deficit it has to go out and borrow money. And what the Federal government borrows is unavailable for banks' savings and loan associations' credit unions and other organizations to loan out for the purchase of new cars, new homes and the like.

In addition, the Federal government pays a higher interest than banks and other institutions. It has to, it is going to get people to buy government bonds and keep the bureaucracy going. This stimulates lending institutions to up interest rate on savings—an increase which can only be financed by upping the interest rate on loans.

The end result is there is less money to be borrowed and what little there is will cost more. This discourages people from buying. In turn, sales drop and the construction industry lays off workers. So does the auto industry and the appliance industry.

And the vicious inflation-recession spiral starts all over again.

No wonder Treasury Secretary Simon thinks he's having a bad dream.

200 boats participate in fleet blessing

JENSEN BEACH—More than 200 boats took part in the annual "blessing of the fleet" ceremonies last Saturday sponsored by the Coast Guard Auxiliary and area yacht clubs.

Boats, which ranged in size from a 12-footer to a 98-foot yacht, passed in review for blessings by Protestant Catholic and Jewish clergy.

Most of the boats were decorated with bunting, pennants or streamers and a committee of judges selected "best decorations for awards.

The Miss Jensen Seafood powerboat was the "best decorated" boat disguised as a whale from the Anchorage Yacht Club won the most original award.

The Mickey Lee, featuring a crew of huge cocktail shaker and glasses, won the most comical award.

The 12 foot Sir Prequid was the smallest boat in the parade, and the Regina, the 98-footer, was the host to the fleet, owned by Ernest Stern.

Inlet shoal to be removed

JENSEN BEACH—A shoal from the entrance to the St. Lucie Inlet will be removed in mid-June by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, according to corps officials.

Gaddy Green, district operations chief of the corps in Jacksonville, said a sidecasting dredge will be sent to the inlet to pump sand from the shoal into the water south of the channel.

Green said about 30,000 cubic yards of sand will be pumped from the shoal.

The shoal blocks deep water draft boats from using the inlet. Depths as shallow as three feet have been recorded by craft that took soundings of the shoal.

Shoaling in the inlet results from sand which drifts across it, around the tip of the jetty north of the inlet.

These and many, many more will fill the air on Friday evening.

The Senior Activities Club meets every Wednesday at 1 p.m.

Greek freedom event is set

FORT PIERCE–Members of the Ft. Pierce, Vero Beach, Jensen Beach, and Stuart Greek Community will join Greek people throughout the world Sunday in the observance of the 154th Anniversary of Greek Independence Day. It was on March 25, 1821, that Greece gained its Independence from Turkey after a long struggle.

In commenting on the meaning of the day for his people, the Rev. Fr. L. Vakalakis said yesterday that "every inch of our little Country of Greece is stained with the blood of heroes fighting for liberty." This day is especially significant because the Independence of Greece is still at stake, bordered as she is by countries with opposing political ideologies.

The contribution of America in moral and material support to maintain the freedom of Greece has been large. It was important in the struggle for Independence from Turkey, and it continues today in the constant struggle to maintain the freedom of Greece.

The Greek Independence Day will be celebrated with a special ceremony this Sunday at St. Nicholas Greek Orthodox church in Ft. Pierce. Immediately after the Divine Liturgy there will be a special ceremony at 11:30 a.m. in memory of the departed heroes and heroines of the Greek Nation.

Rev. Fr. Lambros Vakalakis will officiate at the Sunday services. The main speaker will be the Honorable Mayor Ben Bryan, Jr. The Mayor also will place a wreath of Green Branches on a coffin draped with the American and Greek flags. Representatives of Organizations will lay ribbons with gold letters on the wreath during the special ceremony. Many other official dignitaries will be present.

Rasch will speak

STUART–Lee W. Rasch, president of the Animal Rescue League of Martin County, will be guest speaker at Thursday's meeting of the Animal Birth Control. He will discuss aspects of the League's work and new projects underway.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday, April 10, in the Community Room of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart. The public is invited.

Student-teacher aide program offered

STUART—On Friday, April 11, at 8:45 a.m., the new Martin County High School Media Center (library) will be the scene of an informational meeting for all 10th and 11th graders who are interested in learning more about the Student-Teacher Aide Program, sponsored by the high school Guidance Department.

This gathering is for the purpose of helping to identify next year's juniors and seniors who would like to work as student-teacher aides in Martin County's public elementary schools.

Under the supervision of qualified elementary teachers, usually on the kindergarten level, students learn how to work with young children. They assist the teacher in everything from routine clerical duties, and supervising the children at play, to helping teach specific subjects.

The students are paid for their work in addition to earning elective class credit. The program is designed to help the elementary school teachers in carrying out their duties in addition to giving practical experience to high school students who feel they may be interested in becoming teachers or teacher aides in their adult years.

Written descriptive material, applications and permission slips will be distributed at the meeting and general information will be given regarding policies, procedures and student obligations.

Teachers will be attending from the following elementary schools: Hobe Sound, Port Salerno, Warfield, Parker, Jensen Beach and Palm City.

Students will have designated periods of time to discuss their plans with their counselors and parents.

Radiation ruling hearing

FORT PIERCE: The federal government not the state, has jurisdiction over radiological matters in Florida Power and Light Co.'s nuclear power plant site application, a hearing examiner ruled last week.

Examiner Chris Bentley, in a prehearing conference at St. Lucie County courthouse, said Congress has given control over radiological matters to the Atomic Energy Commission and that jurisdiction was upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The ruling would affect not only the current application of FPL for a second nuclear plant site on Hutchinson Island, but applications for future nuclear plant sites in Florida.

Although Bentley expressed concern over the fact that radiation matters could not be introduced in the state hearing, he repeatedly ruled them out during the remainder of the hearing as matters of discussion for the final June 16 hearing.

News of Nettles Island

BY MAY TIFFT

This column may not have as much news as usual as we have just returned from a week on the west coast of Florida and have not had much time to ferret out the news here. My thanks to the Har-Mar Duo" for taking care of the column last week.

+ + +

We were at Cape Coral visiting old friends and it is a lovely development but I also made us aware of what a beautiful one we have here. They have to drive 10-12 miles to get to the beach- we have it right here. They have to pay to use the one pool- we have two at no charge. They have to pay to play tennis- we do not. The weather is much more humid over there than here with our constant breeze between the river and the ocean. And their investment is in most cases five to six times as much to start it. It is good to get a different perspective on things once in awhile. We have country club living. As Bob says, "I don't want to be a millionaire. I just want to live like one", and so we think we are pretty lucky here.

+ + +

About 24 of the exercise class entertained Lillian and Dave Rothburn at Frances Langford's "Outrigger" for lunch. Lillian has been conducting exercise classes at eight in the morning every day for months now with no pay. She and Dave are both such an asset to Nettles Island.

+ + +

John and Ann Bohanna of Columbus, Ohio came to visit for a week and liked it here so much that they keep staying on. Someone told me they thought they had the biggest basset hound in the world. His name is "Charlie".

+ + +

Have you noticed the lovely rose colored hydrangeas at the entrance to the rec hall? They were bought by the Garden Club and selected by Dorothy Rupel for the Easter Sunday church service. Later Russ and Hazel Seeley did the planting on behalf of the Garden Club.

+ + +

Agnes and Bill Petsold were called home unexpectedly by the death of Agnes' mother. These are sad occasions and we all offer our sympathy to her.

+ + +

The Frarys say they have two new grandchildren. One in February and one in March. The March baby arrived one and one half hours before Jim's birthday so he says they only get three stars for this one but would have gotten five if they had waited the extra time. So who cares about stars at a time like that, Jim?! You sounded pretty doggoned proud to me.

+ + +

Rose and Elmer Carl have been living in a hibiscus bower the last month. Today topped the former number of blooms. There are over two hundred in blossom. We are indeed fortunate to live where we can enjoy them and the Campman's blooms. They have a marathon going counting their blossoms every day and as of now Carls' are the winners but yours are beautiful too. Bob and Carolyn.

+ + +

The Women's Club arranged a cavalcade for about forty-four people who went to see the Ice Follies last week. It is always more fun to go to something like this in a group, isn't it?

+ + +

Matt Coyle has been in the hospital but is expected back home next week. Just can't keep you in there can they Matt?

+ + +

The Garden Club held a meeting last Thursday. Captain E.B. Ing, U.S.C.G. Retd., who has Wildwood Orchids at Stuart, brought some of his variety of orchids and told us about them and others. He says there are over 30,000 species of orchids. Florida has 115 of which some are natives and some have been brought here. He told also about a Madagascan orchid with a 12" tail that Darwin said he saw. Someone remarked that they must have to have an insect with a 12" nose to pollinate it and he said such an insect had been found. The nose rolls out like an ant-eaters tongue evidently. It was an enjoyable and informative meeting.

+ + +

The Avard's daughter Lorraine and her husband Dick have been visiting them. With them are their three children, John, Jamie and Stephen. Walter has reinforced his screen door- says the children sure keep it hot running out and in. And Jamie wanted me to be sure to write that John's skin was non-sticky and would not hold bandaids on. Big news item.

+ + +

Shirley Burdick from Michigan fell and broke her knee cap. She is going to have to have surgery for it. Was on her bicycle they said.

+ + +

Carlene and Ted Keifer of Boulder, Colorado have been visiting their parents, the Suttles. The first day here Ted caught a 12 pound trout. You can't do much better than that for a beginning.

+ + +

Nina Leonard gave me a little poem that she thought the ladies would appreciate. It follows: "Please, stay away from my kitchen, from my dishwashing, cooking and such. You are kind to have offered to help me, and I do want to thank you so much. I hope you won't think me ungracious when I ask that you leave me alone. My kitchen is not very spacious and my system is strictly my own. So, please, stay out of my kitchen. It may well prevent a few wars. And when I'm invited to your trailer, I promise to stay out of yours."

+ + +

Just had a note left at our door that said: "Had you noticed Lot 260? Although not an oak tree, the palm had the honor of wearing yellow ribbons." I went over to look and sure enough it did.

+ + +

Jim Samuel and his fiancee, Sherry Smith, have been visiting his folks for a couple of weeks. Between swimming, sightseeing, tennis, fishing and sunburn, they have had a busy time. Also visiting Bill and Helen were Phil and Jane McNeil from New Hartford, N.Y. And friends from Pa. have been renting a nearby trailer. They are Bob and Minnie Larmouth. Last night a nephew and his family pulled in with their trailer. Busy, busy, busy.

+ + +

Bob just came back from the post office and said, "I don't mind driving ten miles an hour in here, but it really bugs me to have so many bicycles keep passing me."

Our deepest sympathy goes out to Harry and Dot Beamer, who had the sad news of the sudden death of Harry's sister Eleanor in New Jersey. Eleanor and her husband Joe Love were here visiting several years ago and we liked them very much.

+ + +

Recently the Bullocks picked up their grandson at Ft. Pierce. Chris Crowell from Kalamazoo, Michigan. They were delighted to show him around these parts for a few days and he liked it here.

+ + +

+ + +

A very lovely luncheon was given on April 1 in honor of our hobby ladies who have been very helpful all year. Also for Margaret Elken who gave serving aid. The others are Doris Tucker, Jerry Stuart, Olive Allwandt and Mary Emminger.

The committee consisting of Edna Eastman, Alice Stoddard and Marie Bradley, did a beautiful job of decorating the tables with flowers.

Edna, our social chairman this past year has done splendidly.

City clerk resigns

First session is a hot one

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE—Just prior to the closing of Tuesday's City Council meeting, a verbal battle of battles erupted involving nearly everyone present in the packed room when the City Clerk Bernard Rubin submitted his letter of resignation to the council effective date of the resignation is April 18.

Mrs Alice Jensen, a member of the Charter Revision Committee, immediately took the floor to make a brief statement.

"If this Council accepts Mr Rubin's resignation, this will indeed be the greatest loss this city has ever had His assistance as an ex-officio member serving on the Charter Committee has been indispensable to all of us."

Rubin's reasons for writing and submitting the resignation were not unfounded.

"I was happy working with the previous council, but I can foresee nothing but mistrust, nit-picking, and pettiness in the days and months ahead under the new council," Rubin said.

"The dissension is only too obvious and I don't need it. I will be a hell of a lot happier away from here," he said.

Bob Seeley, Port St. Lucie General Manager, also took the floor on Rubin's behalf.

"I have been working with Mr. Rubin for the past year and have always found him to be most accomodating and knowledgeable on city affairs. It will be said day indeed if his resignation is accepted."

Russ Woll, president of the St. Lucie Country Club Homeowners, said, "Too much pettiness has already been shown by this council! I would suggest the members recognize this, straighten up, and work for the good of the city. I would also hope for the good of all concerned, Mr. Rubin will reconsider his action."

Vere Farror, president of the PSL Homeowner's Association, suggested Mayor Sharp take immediate action to correct the newly elected council members who have made the statements that brought about such action.

"I think the resolution by Mrs Kernohan should be withdrawn and an apology extended to Mr. Rubin Farror said.

After many more such comments from the audience Mrs Kernohan withdrew the resolution completely.

It was apparent the crowning blow of the two sessions was dealt out by the newly elected city treasurer Lolita Kernohan when she introduced a resolution Tuesday prohibiting city employees or council members from spending more than $25 from city funds without her approval as city treasurer.

At this point Councilman Bill McChesney asked Mrs. Kernohan if she intended to close the post office since such a resolution would prevent the purchase of stamps by those in charge.

She then turned to the available here at the City Hall to handle these matters as they come up." McChesney asked.

"If necessary, I will be, she replied.

After agreeing to exclude the post office operation and reasonable expenditures for the Charter Committee the resolution was tabled until the end of the meeting when it was completely withdrawn by Kernohan.

Although both Kernohan and Rose apologized and asked Rubin to reconsider following the meeting, it was not certain whether or not he would.

"I will be here for two more weeks Rubin told The Mirror later. "I will see how things smooth out and I'll make my decision known at the next meeting.

During the Monday organizational meeting newly elected vice-mayor Frank Rose suggested Bernard Rubin be retained as city clerk on an interim basis only. Following a hassel between Council members, the appointment was re-worded, the words 'interim basis' was eliminated and the appointment approved.

Vice-mayor Rose later voiced his objection to the name of Ralph LaChance, Director of the City Building Department, being included in two resolutions which Rubin had prepared in compliance with the flood insurance applications the city is pursuing.

Rose maintained the words 'Building Department Director' be sufficient and made the motion to strike the individuals name.

Rubin explained the name was simply a means of identification for use by the public as well as state and federal officials.

When former mayor Larry Kimmel asked the vice mayor if he was trying to run off all city employees, Rose said, "We have already made several changes and there just might be more to come."

RESIGNS—City Clerk Bernard Rubin submitted his resignation effective April 18 to the City Council as a last minute action during Tuesday's meeting Citing divisiveness within the city as his reason for resigning the post, Rubin said he could no longer be happy working under the conditions which he had hoped would disappear following the election.

Residents pack city hall

Sharpe, Rose, Kernohan elected to fill top posts

PORT ST. LUCIE—Newly elected city officials wasted no time in sweeping up key positions on the board following the swearing-in ceremonies at the Port St Lucie City Hall Monday morning.

Schuyler Sharp, Frank Rose and Lolita Kernohan in consecutive three-two votes became mayor, vice-mayor and city treasurer, respectively.

Several members of the Port St Lucie Civic League were on hand to see their endorsed candidates take over the helms of government.

In the opening minutes of the session, City Attorney Rupert Smith told those in attendance he did not wish to be considered for the position of city attorney, suggesting the council seek the advice of the St Lucie Bar Association in filling the appointment.

"I will be glad to serve in the interim period if I can be of assistance," Smith said.

In concluding his brief statement, Smith asked the residents of Port St Lucie as well as the council to concentrate their efforts in eliminating the spirit of disunity which is engulfing the entire community.

The trio gained immediate control of city government, passing over a plea by Larry Kimmel for the nomination of Bill McChesney as mayor.

McChesney was the only member of the council to retain his seat following the March city elections.

In making the nomination, Kimmel stated the desirability for a certain amount of knowledge experience and the need for restraint in the position.

Citing McChesney as adequately meeting these attributes Kimmel said, "It is with all due respect to our newly elected officials that I ask Mr McChesney's nomination for mayor be considered."

Although Kimmel's plea and reasoning drew a loud round of applause from the jam packed City Hall the nomination went down in a three-two vote which set the precedent for the morning session.

The only exceptions, each following a brief hassel, were the eventual unanimous vote to retain Bernard Rubin as city clerk and the temporary adoption authorizing only two officers to sign checks.

The vice-mayor's nomination to retain Bernard Rubin as city clerk on "an interim basis" brought immediate response from Kimmel.

"I do not wish to even be considered for the position under those conditions Rubin said. "Without the complete confidence of this council there would be little purpose in my continuing on as city clerk."

It was Councilman McChesney who, after explaining the city attorney and city clerk serve at the discretion of the council, made the motion to retain Rubin. The motion was then passed unanimously.

A resolution authorizing check signing privileges to the mayor city treasurer and city clerk brought objections from the audience when one member cited a possible conflict of interest on the part of the new mayor Schuyler Sharpe and the Port St Lucie Bank where the city keeps a healthy portion of its funds.

Sharpe a stockholder and a director of the Port St Lucie Bank volunteered to disqualify himself when matters were being discussed involving the bank.

City Attorney Rupert Smith and Stuart Attorney James Littman attending the session obviously on the part of the Interested Homeowners Association, agreed a ruling from the Attorney General's office would be in order.

Meanwhile Kimmel suggested the mayor's name be removed from the resolution until such time as a ruling is received.

The motion passed.

Bernard Rubin administered the oath of office to the newly elected officials.

Although the appointment as mayor seemed to hold little in the way of surprise for Sharpe, he did admit there is one thing that really bothers him.

"It's my wife," he said.

"She is going to kill me when she finds out I am now the mayor."

CONGRATULATIONS—Congratulations were in order Tuesday following the swearing in of the newly elected Port St. Lucie Mayor Schuyler Sharpe and Vice Mayor Frank Rose (left).

Limits on surf and bridge fishing asked by anglers

PORT ST. LUCIE—Members of the Port St. Lucie Anglers Club voted unanimously last week to authorize conservation Chairman Phil Rodi, to pursue efforts for legislation to limit surf and bridge fishing in St. Lucie County.

Rodi reported on the Martin County regulations which permit no more than two fishes per person in the surf and one on a bridge. These limitations appeared fair to the anglers and they told Rodi to work with the county attorney to draw up the needed legislation and bring it to the next meeting for approval.

Rodi told the group it is not unusual to see surf fishermen with as many as five and six lines out thus preempting what was left to be left in this section of the beach. The proposed legislation will be studied at next week's meeting on Tuesday, April 15.

About 100 members and guests were on hand and President Bob Brunton said it was the largest crowd ever to attend a regular club meeting.

Carl Herring conducted a memorial noting the death of Dean Gable, longtime club member.

TENSION—Those attending Tuesday's City Council meeting seemed to have some second thoughts about their elected officials when tension increased following the spur of the moment resignation by City Clerk Bernard Rubin. One resident after another commended Rubin on the fine job he has done for the city and pleaded for a reconsideration.

PORT ST. LUCIE—Newly elected Mayor Schuyler Sharpe Tuesday appointed Councilman Larry Kimmel to represent the city in their continuing struggle for bike paths.

City, GDC agree to year test

PORT ST. LUCIE—The City Council Tuesday entered into an agreement with General Development Corporation to start the one year trial period prior to the official takeover of certain areas by the city.

Those areas covered by the agreement include specific areas situated within Section 24 and Section 6 in the northern part of the City.

The agreement was entered into on a four one vote, with Vice Mayor Frank Rose casting the dissenting vote.

Submitting the agreement to the Council for their approval, City Clerk Bernard Rubin said the areas involved had been inspected by the city's engineering firm, Greenleaf & Montgomery.

They (city engineers) have reported the areas meet with the city requirements and recommend the one year test period begin immediately," Rubin said.

The official final acceptance of these areas will not be made until the end of the test period, or one year.

As additional areas are completed within these two sections, they will also be accepted on the trial basis.

According to the agreement entered into by the Developer and the City, GDC will maintain a log on the cost of maintenance throughout the trial period, and the city will have the areas inspected during the rainy season.

In other action Tuesday, the City Council also approved on the second reading the request for rezoning Pruitt Road from A-1 to R-2.

R-2 zoning applies to single family houses 10,000 sq. feet or larger.

The proposed plat includes 18 lots, 80' X 150' situated on the west side of Pruitt Road just north of Kitching Cove.

When Hugh Engler, a Southport resident requested the council consider upping the minimum size for homes built in the city from 900 sq. ft. to 1100 sq. ft. and reducing the density to 3 units per acre he was advised these problems should be presented to the Planning and Zoning Committee.

...ER LOGS—Sewall's Point Patrolman Francis Matuszewski aims a speed gun at ... Sewall's Point Road. The town has collected about $1,000 in traffic fines ... the speed gun was purchased last month.

Jensen Beach numbering this fall

JENSEN BEACH—The county-wide street and house numbering program now underway in Martin County will start in the Jensen Beach area about Sept. 1, County Attorney Steve Calvert told Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce directors Monday night.

"We will make a special effort to get the new numbers for the Chamber Fishing Guide advertisers," Calvert said.

Calvert and Stiles Peet, who is working on the program, reported to directors on what progress has been made and what to expect in this area.

This is a five-year program, Calvert said, "and we hope to complete it in about a year to a year and a half from now."

This program will be a benefit to everybody, especially the emergency services," Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick told the directors.

Peet pointed out that before address changes, the post office will send out notices and newspapers will help in notifying the people.

It will be a lot of help if people will give us the lot and block numbers of their property," Peet said.

Calvert also noted that some mailboxes in the county have the old and new addresses, and he said, "a lot of areas in the county don't have addresses."

"We are working with the post office and telephone company on the program," Calvert said.

Calvert reviewed the ordinance which established the street and house numbering and naming system.

Calvert reviewed the ordinance which established the street and house numbering and naming system.

The county attorney noted that street and house numbering and naming has been done haphazardly in the unincorporated areas.

The county has been divided into quadrants: northeast, southeast and southwest.

It was noted by Calvert that there are a tremendous number of streets in the county that have duplicate names. We have tried to eliminate this."

Numbers won't change at every block, Calvert said, "but once the program is implemented you can tell where the house is located."

There won't be any problem with major road addresses, he said.

The north-south base line for the quadrants will be Colorado Avenue with the east-west line a line between townships 37 and 38.

It was noted that in the Jensen Beach area the quadrant will be from the St. Lucie River north to the county line and Indian River Drive to U.S. 1.

It also noted that Commercial Street would be the name of the road to U.S. 1 instead of the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road for a segment of the highway.

Chamber president Art Hansen promised support of the program in Jensen Beach.

"We want to help," Hansen said. "There are a lot of areas in the county that don't want to help." Peet replied in pointing out that he would contact the chamber when he is ready to begin work in the area.

Speed gun plays dollar tune

SEWALL'S POINT—A running battle to ... verify its accuracy and ... motorists have paid fines to ... $1,000 since Sewall's Point ... department has been using a ... radar gun.

... to get a free reading you have to get directly in the path of the car, but that's not possible," Matuszewski said.

He points out that from an angle while the officer is standing at the side of the road or parked in the patrolcar the fact that the speed gun can read a lone target attests to the sensitivity of the system.

And from the angle the motorist gets the benefit of a couple of miles, Matuszewski said.

The town leased the speed gun, and last week the town commission voted to purchase the speed gun.

Martin County has been getting as much as $2,000 a month in traffic fines from use of the county's speed gun on Florida's Turnpike.

Troopers use the speed gun on the Martin segment of the Turnpike to enforce the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit.

The association members have filled six scrap books with clippings showing that Article II has been more than fulfilled.

The scrap books record the club's activities of its members and service to the community.

And one of the association's proudest moments was June 22, 1969.

An editorial in The Mirror June 19, 1969 states in part:

The ladies of the Jensen Beach Women's Association will dedicate a dream this Sunday, a dream of many years. The new building, the Women's Club is something to see, and will be a definite asset to Jensen Beach.

Monday, April 21, the ladies of the Jensen Beach Women's Association will gather at the "dream house" on Sugar Hill road, cut a big cake and drink punch from a silver bowl.

They will be celebrating the association's 25th anniversary.

Editor applauds Jensen bicentennial celebration

BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH—Local efforts to plan a year of celebration for the bicentennial won the praise of Tippin Davidson, executive editor of the Daytona Beach News-Journal, as he offered suggestions on America's birthday to businessmen Monday.

Davidson told Jensen Kiwanians, meeting at Frances Langford's Outrigger Restaurant, to take a look backward into history, celebrate today for we owe ourselves a part in the back, and look to the future so that citizens of our quadricentennial, two hundred years from now, can look with the same respect and regard that we have for the mighty contributions of our founding fathers.

With a background that includes being president of the Florida Fine Arts League, chairman of the Florida Fine Arts Council for five years, and founder of the Florida International Festival, Davidson combined his newspaper expertise with a cultural background to seek a realization on the part of Jensen Kiwanians that the bicentennial that Jensen Beach should celebrate is the part of America that is Jensen Beach, its history and its heritage.

"I urge you to look at local history and to mix it well and frequently with cherry trees, colonials breeches and Bunker Hill," Davidson said.

He thought that the now widely recognized Leif Eriksen Day festival of Jensen Beach is the area's best offering with potential for statewide publicity that could bring in a lot of visitors and good will.

He added that emphasis should be placed on keeping commercialism out of the bicentennial.

As to the future, Davidson said, "I hope there will be an effort to leave a message that can be read 200 years hence, to preserve some little bit of ourselves and our time for those to come. Ideas like this can't be bought from a flag salesman; they must come from the community and its leaders."

Following his speech, Davidson presented each member of the Kiwanis Club and guests with a promotional historical map of Florida printed by the News-Journal for free distribution during the bicentennial.

The map was a wall mural that depicted the historical battles and legends of Florida history.

Sun rays project warm

JENSEN BEACH—The possibility that Martin County may have a solar energy demonstration project was voiced at Wednesday's meeting of the Advisory Committee of the Environmental Studies Center.

The plan is just in the formative stage, but initial inquiries to several contributing sources have all been positive and enthusiastic.

Conceived as a joint project of the center, local builders, architects and businessmen, with support from the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce and others, the demonstration facility is originally envisioned as an energy-self-sufficient community meeting and conference building.

If the plan develops as conceived, the building will be erected immediately in back of the existing center complex on school board property. It will be powered heated and cooled by solar panels designed and installed by two area concerns. Solar Water Heating Co. of Stuart and Future Concepts, a research and development firm in Vero Beach.

Other forms of alternate energy development, including wind power, may also be incorporated into the project as it develops.

"Solar energy has great potential as a point-of-consumption energy source," center director Jay Jarrett said. "As our contribution to the observance of this country's bicentennial celebration, a solar energy demonstration center is ideal. Our future is closely tied to the future of energy development."

A subcommittee to draft plans for the building will meet at the Center on April 23 to determine needs and establish a course of action.

Nergard explains ERA vote

JENSEN BEACH–Rep. Chuck Nergard said he is very gratified over the large numbers of people, several hundred in numbers, who advised him of their feelings on the E.R.A. issue. He said he realizes this issue is a very emotional one, with both the progonents and opponents. The sentiments of the hundreds who contacted him was overwhelmingly against passing the proposed constitutional amendment ratifying E.R.A.

Due to the mandate he received from the people of our area, he felt obligated to cast his vote in the negative.

Rep. Nergard did support an amendment which would have placed the E.R.A. issue on the ballot at the presidential primary election to be held in March of 1976.

The presidential primary will be held prior to the convening of the 1976 Legislature, and taking into acount that E.R.A. could in no way be ratified by the required 38 states this year, this would afford the people of the state of Florida the opportunity to have the issue thoroughly debated and afford, without a doubt, the will of the majority to prevail.

This is a subject of interest to all who now have Medicare or soon will be eligible. All Seniors are invited.

Boat searches set record

JENSEN BEACH–Although the economy may be reducing boating in some parts of the country, the number of boats Seventh Coast Guard District forces search for during March this year is a record.

During March there were 950 search and rescue cases, averaging almost 32 a day, in the Seventh Coast Guard District. That's 200 more cases than for the same period last year.

The district covers the general area from South Carolina's northern border south through Georgia, Florida, Puerto Rico and the Caribbean.

The Coast Guard believes the number of search and rescue cases, during any period could be greatly reduced if a few basic precautions were practiced by boaters such as telling someone on shore where they are going and when they are expected to return, and making sure their boats are in good condition.

Martens in concert Sunday

STUART–A benefit Organ Concert and Buffet will be sponsored by the Martin County Association for Retarded Citizens on Sunday, April 20th, beginning at 1 p.m. at the Elks Lodge on Indiantown Road.

Woody Martens at the keyboard of his specially modified Hammond Organ will display the talent that has made him a popular entertainer and recording artist.

His organ has been modified so that Woody can create almost any sound from a freight train complete with lonesome whistle to a regiment of bagpipes marching through the room, as well as some of the most beautiful music ever to come out of an organ.

He is a willing volunteer for fund-raising appearances for many civic activities.

A buffet will be served during the performance, intermission, and admission will be a five dollar contribution to the Association for Retarded Citizens.

Scholarships total about $40,000

STUART–The scholarship program for 1975 Martin County High School seniors is expected to be about $40,000 according to school officials.

Scholarships range from $50 to $2,000 over a four-year period, according to the school guidance department.

A financial aid booklet has been distributed to the seniors and the guidance department is now correlating student needs with the available financial resources.

Last year graduates received $38,000 in scholarships.

Most Americans are conservationists and environmentalists to some extent. Few want to see our scenic wonders spoiled, our waters polluted, our natural resources wasted.

Yet, from time to time, some environmentalists go overboard in efforts to protect a view, preserve a recreational area or save the natural habitat of the native American mosquito.

Take, for instance, the case of the Trident base at Bangor, Wash.

Trident is the follow-on to the Polaris and Poseidon missile systems.

Basically, it consists of a multi-warhead, 4,000-mile (eventually 6,000-mile) missile launched from a nuclear submarine cruising beneath the surface of the ocean.

The Navy Department declares that a Trident base must be located in the Pacific because it "gives the Soviets another whole ocean to worry about." It goes on to say that strategically there is no alternative in the Pacific to the Bangor location.

For most Americans that would be enough. Few would object to construction of a desperately needed national defense base anywhere, especially when every effort is made as it is in the case of Trident to minimize its impact on the surrounding environment. And especially also, when such a base will provide much-needed jobs in a state where joblessness is high.

Yet an organization called Concerned About Trident (CAT) has been formed specifically for the purpose of halting construction of the Trident base on the grounds that the Navy has failed to comply with the National Environmental Policy Act.

To this end CAT has brought suit in federal court. Its avowed aim is to preserve the pristine beauty of the Bangor area at all costs, including the defense of the United States.

Well, fortunately, it looks as if CAT is not going to be successful. A major reason is the involvement in the suit on the side of the Navy of a small, relatively new public interest law firm, the Pacific Legal Foundation (PLF).

PLF has made some devastating points against CAT. Among them are these:

1. That CAT is merely a corporate shell founded solely for the purpose of stopping in the courts the construction of the base.

2. That the actual people behind the suit have yet to be disclosed.

3. That undisclosed persons or organizations are funding the suit "by laundering funds to plaintiffs' attorneys through various tax exempt charitable organizations in possible violation of Internal Revenue Service guidelines."

4. That there are serious legal questions regarding CAT's right to sue.

Although the suit is still in the courts, federal Judge George L. Hart has already denied a motion for a preliminary injunction to stop construction, largely on points made by PLF.

PLF lawyers are now confident of final victory for the Navy. This alone, will be good enough reason to cheer for Americans who worry with much justification that America is falling behind the Soviet Union in defense capabilities.

Another good reason is the discovery that at least one public interest law firm is working on behalf of the public instead of, as so often is the case with such firms, working for left-wing special interest groups at the expense of the public.

I will come back to the subject of the Pacific Legal Foundation on other columns. It is chalking up quite a record.

Sunshine government

WASHINGTON—"Government in the Sunshine" — conducting the public's business in public — is vital if we are to restore the public's confidence in the federal government.

All too many federal agencies feel they have the right — and the power — to operate behind closed doors, to operate in secret as if the public was not intelligent enough or important enough to sit in on the meetings.

That attitude has been responsible for the public's lack of faith in government. More important, it violates the very precepts on which this nation was founded.

The concept of democracy implies open government, where the people can participate in the decisions which affect their lives — or at least listen to and understand the reasons for the actions the government plans to take.

That is why I am co-sponsoring legislation to provide more public access to the work of the executive branch of government, to make the bulk of all meetings of federal agencies open to interested citizens.

Patterned loosely after Florida's successful "Government in the Sunshine" law, this bill provides that all meetings of federal agencies shall be open to the public unless the agency members vote to close the meeting.

And that decision to close the doors of any meeting can be made only for specific, narrowly defined reasons.

The bill, similar to one introduced last year with the support of practically the entire Florida delegation, also requires that a complete transcript of each meeting of federal agencies be kept and made available to the public.

It also would prohibit any secret communication between any interested person and any member of an agency engaged in an on-the-record proceeding. As a result, any communication made concerning an agency proceeding will be a matter of record and subject to public scrutiny.

In this regard, the Congress is merely asking the executive branch of government to follow its lead.

In 1973, the House adopted legislation to strengthen the requirement for open and public committee meetings, particularly in the field of final mark-up of all legislation.

And the change has been marked. In 1973, only 56 per cent of all House hearings and meetings were held in public. In 1974, following adoption of the new rules, 92 per cent of all committee hearings and markup sessions were open.

These steps have significantly opened up the legislative process to the public. And they were steps long overdue.

The only way to restore public confidence in the operation of the Congress is to erase doubts about possible conflict of interest, is to make the process as open as possible — to give the public a view of committee deliberations so they can understand how decisions are reached and why.

But the Congress isn't the only branch of the federal government in need of more public confidence.

The executive branch is also held in somewhat less than high esteem. So it too could benefit from a complete change in attitude toward open meetings.

After all, the public has an equal right to know how the agencies of the executive branch are interpreting the laws adopted by Congress — particularly since many of the rules promulgated by these agencies end up being much more stringent than anything ever considered by Congress.

For that reason, I am hopeful the Congress will give speedy consideration to this "government in the sunshine" law.

Health effects of air pollution

BY THOMAS KIEBER-EMMONS

FIT—Many health organizations are sets active in supply to the public free of charge, fact sheets dealing with the particular area of health the organization represents. These fact sheets represent the latest research that has been conducted.

Fact sheets are readily obtained by either visiting a local representative or by writing. The following excerpts are from a fact sheet published by the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

Almost everyone today recognizes that air pollution is bad. Harmful to people, animals, vegetation, and the inanimate world. Few are aware, however, of the mounting proof of the evil effects, especially on people.

Accumulating studies indicate that when you inhale today's polluted air, not only do the pollutants damage your respiratory system and place an extra burden on your heart, but they may also strike other parts of your body.

The large-scale air pollution disasters, with their toll of cardio-respiratory deaths, are well known, but epidemiological studies are also forging a link between average, every-day air pollution and both chronic and acute respiratory disease. For the major harm does indeed appear to be in the respiratory tract.

Investigations have given us some clues to the process by which the damage is done. Air pollution causes a constriction of the airways, slows down or stops the flow of mucus, immobilizes the bacteria-destroying cells of the respiratory system, and produces obstruction in the airways by causing an increase of mucus or cell growth. The constricted and obstructed airways make breathing more difficult. And now bacteria and other foreign matter are not effectively removed, respiratory infection strikes more easily. Furthermore, these continual assaults on the respiratory tract appear to contribute to the development of chronic respiratory diseases.

As research continues, air pollution's harmful effects will no doubt be further revealed and verified. A few recent studies, summarized in this fact sheet, demonstrate the growing evidence.

School is fighting to offer alternative

JENSEN BEACH—As private schools across America face continuing and mounting financial problems, the local Pine School is taking steps to assure a future opportunity for young people of Martin County to have an alternative to public education.

This was the thrust of a speech by Jim Rowe, headmaster of Pine School, to the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club.

But all is not rosy for the less than one-hundred parents who have children in the one-through-eight grades of Pine School.

In order to forestall a takeover of the school by a religious group that operates classes through fear (If you don't do as I say, God will strike you dead, and if He's not around there will be a teacher to do it for him)", the parents raised money to buy the school, according to Rowe, from its principal benefactor.

Costs were cut, and fathers even cut the lawn each Saturday to keep the costs down.

"We have a long way to go financially. Parents gave from $1,000 to $10,000 to raise the necessary $137,000 in the five days we were given to raise money," Rowe added.

The school got a boost with the moral support of the Episcopal Diocese in South Florida, and is now an affiliate of the organization.

"This does not mean financial help, but in the future it might be possible that some scholarships could become available," Rowe said.

The headmaster charted the growth of the school, always pointing to the continuing financial problems, from 35 children in the first year, to 85 in the second, to 140 in the third, when financial difficulties forced the tuition from $1100 to $1800 per year in the following year. The raise in tuition cost the school half of its 140 population, and more financial problems arose, forcing the parents to take action.

Rowe showed slides on the school, emphasizing the small classes and individual (one-to-one) teaching that students get. He explained the activities of the youngsters, and told of how the eighth grade class held fund raising projects to donate $200 to help to buy the school.

As to the Episcopal affiliation, Rowe said that it didn't mean that the students faced a religious education, but that a chapel service was held once a week for fifteen minutes by visiting ministers of various faiths.

"But no one is put in an uncomfortable position," Rowe said.

Rowe didn't offer a bright outlook for Stuart's private school, but said that the parents were working hard to make the school a success, indicating increased enrollment as the answer to money problems.

FIT impressive in Governor's Cup

FIT—In the race for the Governor's Cup last Saturday at FTT in Melbourne, three FIT Jensen Beach crews, especially the women's eight, made impressive showings.

In the women's eight 500 meter races, the FIT Jensen Beach crew took two straight races. In the second heat, FIT beat FTU, and in the third heat FIT beat both Rollins and Winter Park High.

After starting difficulties, which included a near collision caused by the Winter Park crew, the FIT women's crew was scratched from the first heat, thus preventing them from racing the over all winners in women's eight competition, Tampa.

The FIT men's J.V. eight burned past the University of Tampa in the last half of their 1000 meter race on Saturday.

In the varsity eight race, FIT came up with a near victory in the second heat against Rollins. FIT pushed Rollins so hard that the Rollins coxswain failed to notice a piling at the finish line and crushed into it ruining a week-old $8,000 dollar shell.

In FIT Jensen Beach's other two beats they suffered boat breakdowns, but still managed to give FTT, Melbourne, (the Governor's Cup winners), a run for their money.

Social Security 'direct deposit' offered

STUART—The federal government and Florida's financial institutions have begun an experiment in the automatic direct deposit of Social Security checks, and First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart is playing a key role.

This month, Florida's 1.6 million Social Security recipients are being advised that they can have their monthly payments sent directly to the financial institution of their choice and automatically deposited into their accounts.

The Florida pilot project is the second part of a three-stage program by the U.S. Treasury Department and the Social Security Administration aimed at the eventual conversion of Social Security payments to a nationwide electronic funds transfer system (EFTS) by the end of 1976.

"We are proud that First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart, with the assistance of the Florida Bankers Association and the American Bankers Association (ABA), is now able to offer this innovative, convenient and secure service to our customers," Dennis S. Hudson, Jr., Chairman, said.

Hudson pointed out that participation in the program is entirely the option of the customer. He did, however, note several benefits the direct deposit of Social Security payments offers the recipient.

Assurance of uninterrupted deposits during periods of relocation, temporary absence or illness.

Security – no chance that the Social Security payment check can be stolen – either from the mails or from the customer.

The convenience of not having to carry or mail the Social Security check to the bank. The deposit is made automatically, and the funds can be drawn upon whenever the customer wants.

Hudson said, "The service is very simple. All our customers need to do is sign a form at First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart to authorize Social Security checks in his name to be deposited in his account."

"We, at First National, believe that this project is a valuable service for our customers. Otherwise we wouldn't be offering it," Hudson noted.

"We encourage any Social Security recipient, whether a customer of First National or not, to come into one of our offices or telephone. We will be more than happy to explain the program in detail."

For a limited period of time, First National is offering a gift for persons participating in this Social Security Recipient program.

Awards program

HOWEY-IN-THE-HILLS—Thirty outstanding Howey Academy students from throughout Florida [illegible] and three foreign countries have been tapped for membership in the nation's leading high school hon[illegible] The Society of Distinguished Amer[illegible] High School Students.

The honor scholars, comprising almost one-third of the junior and senior classes of this school in central Florida, are now participating in an awards program which offers $800,000 in college scholarships.

Howey Headmaster William Branyon said the students were selected on the basis of high academic achievement and civic responsibility.

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Dutton Memorial United Presbyterian Church sanctuary was filled to capacity last Sunday as members dedicated a lectern, pulpit lamps and a set of hymnals to the memory of Louis Copenitch, a church official, and Alfred Speirs, a member of the Chancel Choir.

The memorials were the gift of the Friendship Bible Class.

Mrs. Paul Albert, president of the group, offered the prayer of dedication. Charles Whetsel, adult department superintendent, led the congregation in responsive dedication.

Profit or postage? Chamber to decide

JENSEN BEACH--Profit or postage? That is the question of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce Fishing Guide future.

Will the issue be resolved?

Chamber directors will decide--what course, what course.

Chamber directors Monday night were split over the future of the annual guide.

Some directors were of the opinion that the Fishing Guide should make a profit.

And other directors expressed the belief that the Fishing Guide should be a community service, and bring in sufficient revenue to defray the cost of postage.

Because of inflation and the economy, the Fishing Guide this year didn't bring in as much revenue as some directors were anticipating.

"It will cover the postage cost," chamber president Art Hansen said.

Fishing Guide chairman Richard Campbell will make his recommendations on the 1976 guide at next month's meeting of the directors.

Chamber back inlet work

JENSEN BEACH--Noting the economic benefit of the St. Lucie Inlet to the Martin County boating industry, Fred Stein Monday night urged Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce directors to support stabilization of the inlet with expenditure of federal funds.

Pointing out that the Martin County Commission had budget funds for engineering work, Stein said there wasn't any need to spend that money until federal funds are finalized.

Directors agreed with Stein and voted to write letters to the Florida congressional delegation backing the inlet.

Stein estimated that the boating industry provided about 300 jobs, and is a $10 million a year industry.

Commissioner Ross Philbrick told Stein that he underestimated the value of the industry, and that it was many millions more.

Experience is gained as FIT crew travels

FIT--The F.I.T. crew team traveled to the Marine Stadium in Miami to compete in the eighth annual International Regatta on Saturday, April 5. The teams competing were Belgium, Keepers, FIT-Melbourne, FIT Jensen Beach, Fla. Technological Institute, Miami Rowing Club, Big Five Rowing Club, Tampa, and Winter Park High School.

In the second heat the FIT-Jensen oarsmen got off to a good start and continued to pressure the leading teams but didn't have enough speed to win at the 1500 meters mark. Winning was FIT-Melbourne by a boat length, FTU by three seats, and Winter Park by two seats with FIT-Jensen coming in fourth with a substantial distance in front of Tampa, MRC, and BFRC.

Even though the crew team has lost the last two unofficial races they are gaining valuable experience that should help them in the upcoming official races.

The oarsmen participating in the regatta were Eric Botnik (coxswain), Bill Bater, stroke; Glen Bunting, Jay Deets, Tim Treas, Dick Elliot, Kevin Mark Russo, and Ken Smith.

Next Saturday, April 12, the team will travel to Melbourne to compete in the Governor's Cup race which will be the first official race of the season.

Green Berets operation considered

JENSEN BEACH--A Green Berets training operation may be held in Martin County's next month, according to a Jensen Beach resident who is a member of the Ft. Lauderdale-based National Guard company of berets.

Lt. Vin Zike said the operation, a mock revolution featuring kidnappings, robberies would be a weekend-long test.

Between a dozen and 25 Green Berets would take part, according to Zike. He said that Martin County was selected because the sheriff's department had formed a special squad equipped to handle unusual situations.

A spokesman for the department and sheriff James Holt had not studied the plan and that no decision had been made.

Zike said the operation was to train the local residents to test their communications.

DETAILS COMPLETED--Members of the Port St. Lucie Anglers Club gathered at the marina Monday to finalize plans for the annual cookout the club will sponsor Sunday, April 18. The menu, in part, will consist of hamburgers, hot dogs, baked beans and cole slaw. Council ponders night sessions

PORT ST. LUCIE--Mayor Schuyler Sharpe, citing the communications gap as being a major issue during the recent election, announced Tuesday all residents would have the opportunity of showing their interest in city government by attending an evening meeting April 24.

Starting at 8 p.m. the Charter Revision Committee will hold its first evening session at the CESA Building on Prima Vista Boulevard.

The attendance at this meeting will be one of the determining factors in the Council's decision as to whether or not evening meetings would be warranted for the City Council sessions.

Complaints have been heard regarding City Council meetings being held during the morning hours, thereby, segregating attendance by the working citizens of the community.

Former Mayor Larry Kimmel told the listeners council meetings are not scheduled for the convenience of members, they are arranged for the overall good of the community.

There has always been a good attendance at the Tuesday 9 a.m. meetings, he added.

If the purpose of a change is for better communications, then I think the news media must be taken into consideration, as that council ponders the possible re-scheduling of meeting times and dates," Councilman Bill McChesney said, pointing out the only possible change he sees feasible would be a Monday night session.

PTSF of PSL plans Thursday meeting

Have you seen the Marquardt's new Dodge wagon motor home? Pretty neat, but I still cannot get used to looking for them in their Dodge. They plan to take their first run in the west coast in a week or so. They have to fit Martin's long legs in to check out the cooking setup, etc

So many have been leaving for home now that it is almost impossible to keep track of them all. They will be sorry! Have you seen the weather reports from up north? The Pettisanis put their return off a week as the strong winds up in the eastern shores had raised havoc with the area. They run a marina, trailer park and fishing village up there and suffered some damage. They finally said they couldn't put it off any longer even though another storm was coming in and when I woke up this morning their trailer was gone. Dighton and Mary Smith plan to leave April 15th also.

It was my pleasure to meet Laverne Johnson, the wife of our new assistant manager the other evening. She is attractive and said that she is working as a secretary in our condominium office. I asked if she had children and she said they have a son Bill who is in college. This is their home now so we hope to see much more of her.

I see that Ron and Donna Sipperley are back to spend a month with us. They immediately both became active in resort activities. Donna now instructs the morning exercise class at the club house from 8 a.m. until 9 a.m. Ron directed the Easter Egg Hunt as he did last year too. It was a real success (about 300 children participated). He was also co-chairman of our last Las Vegas Night and will be in charge of the beer-blast for April 14th. Their sons Ronnie and Steven drove down and spent a week at Easter. Ronnie sharpened up his tennis playing with Matt Vogel, Bob Tiffi and others. After their sons left, they were joined by their daughter Patricia and her boy friend Ron Nickerson who flew into West Palm Beach. They will all return to Detroit, Mich. around the 20th of April.

Al Stumps who is coach of Conestus Athletic Club at the College in Buffalo had a disappointment this last week. He was supposed to fly out to California and meet his three girl championship team who was to compete there in gymnastics. Two days in succession the Buffalo airport was closed because of weather conditions and although he could have made the flight from her alright, his girls could not get out of Buffalo in time. See what I mean about the weather up north.

The Bob Emmons are on a trip down in the Keys and plan to recuperate back up here at Nettles Island for a week or so before leaving for home.

Evelyn and Mike Miller have also left for New York state.

Sam Ed and Helen Neely just left too. They live out of Washington, D.C. They partied right up to leaving time. I think the last one that was reported was on Saturday night. Sure will miss you good people.

The John Ballingers were not here last year but returned this month to stay awhile.

The Women's Club held their final meeting until fall. Edie Adams managed a lovely luncheon for us and Lee Vogel arranged a film for the program that covered a lot of territory, filmed through the eyes of a dog. The dialogue was entertaining and the pictures were just beautiful and from all over the country. Ruth Martin, our president gave a resume of what the club had accomplished since last fall when with the enthusiasm of Harriet Marquardt there were fifteen of us that formed a Women's Club. Now the club has far over 100 members, have arranged the flea market, fashion show with luncheon, and many social events for the condominium. The thing we are most proud of is the realization of a library. It was started from nothing and now has over 1000 books. It was started under the chairmanship of Edith Johnson and is now conducted under Edith Avis. The many volunteers who work every week are a part of the team too. At the business meeting, it was voted to give $100 to the therapeutic pool that the lot owners hope to put in with contributions solicited.

Matt Herman at the rental office told me a bit of news that sounded nice. A young man lost his wallet with $28 in it. The next day it was turned into the office by a couple who stay here. Renews one's faith in the human race doesn't it?

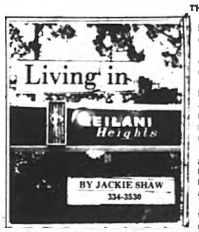
Have fun--enjoy all this sunshine--keep well

M Y H-P A-Y



This week let's visit a young, personable couple who are a bit unique in Leilani; as together, they build their own home. They are Laurie and Jim Swindlehurst of 1424 S.E. 24th Street Extension.

Laurie is from Syracuse, N.Y. and Jim was born and raised in Binghamton, N.Y. They met and graduated from Oneonta State College (Oneonta, N.Y.).

They were married in 1971. After their marriage they lived in Binghamton for a few years. Laurie's parents moved to Lake Park, Fl. Consequently, every summer, Easter and Christmas vacation, they spent their time visiting them. With each trip they were drawn more and more to Florida's way of living. In addition, Laurie missed her parents and Jim's parents are planning on retiring here shortly, so they decided to make a permanent move to Florida. As they were both school teachers, they applied for teaching positions in Florida and were accepted. They moved down and rented a house in Stuart, and then began scanning Martin County for a lot on which to build their own home, a dream they had shared for years.

As Laurie teaches fourth grade at Jensen Beach Elementary School and Jim is a sixth grade math and science teacher at Stuart Middle School, their discovery of Leilani Heights was exemplary.

They were drawn to Leilani because it reminded them a bit of the north with the rolling hills, pine trees and the many wood-framed houses already constructed, which was the type home they wanted to build.

They built their home from scratch themselves with the exception of the electrical and plumbing work. It took them four months to complete but painstakingly and with a feeling of deep fulfillment, they moved in on Aug. 15, 1974.

Along with building houses, their hobbies and interests include a host of other things.

They both love the ocean beach so close-at-hand for sunbathing and Jim enjoys surf fishing.

They also like to play tennis at Langford Park whenever they can find a free court. Working full time during the week leaves their free time limited to weekends and vacations when there is a full demand of the courts.

Gardening is rapidly becoming of great interest to them as this is their first house and they've discovered the fun of experimenting with landscaping and planting around their new home.

They did quite a bit of refinishing their own furniture in early American decor the last few years but find little time at present to continue this endeavor due to their many new and varied interests.

Laurie loves arts and crafts, especially needlework. She is currently [illegible] and she has a [illegible] interior decorating [illegible] are you ever there [illegible]

V.F.W. news

Post 10066 would like to thank all the great people who helped us have a wonderful weekend. It all started with the Sundowners doing a bang-up job on Friday night.

Sunday's jam session was, as usual, a terrific event. The talent that comes to the jam sessions is the best ever. Las Vegas couldn't provide any better.

A great big thanks to the many dedicated members who work so hard all the time to help make all these events so good.

The Auxiliary meets this Wednesday (tonight) at 8 p.m. Joyce asks that all members come and help elect officers for the upcoming year. The Auxiliary will hold a rummage sale Friday and Saturday, April 18 and 19, at the post home from 9 a.m. til 4 p.m. Come and browse around.

Thursday, April 17, Post 10066 will elect officers for the coming year. Nominated to date are: for commander, Bill Masinda; Sr. vice, Bill Chucta; Jr. vice, Ed Tracy; surgeon, Al Gottlieb; judge advocate, Herb Smith; chaplain, Larry Sanders; trustee-3 years, George Lawson; trustee-2 years, Wendell Halverson; trustee-1 year, Joe LaBlanc; corporation president, Elliot Nordhine; secretary-treasurer, George Lawson.

These are the nominees now. Nominations will be open until the election. If you know of someone who you think can and will do a good job, now is the time to speak up. All members are urged to attend and let us know who you want for your leaders next year. Food will be served.

Coming events to remember:

Saturday, May 3 — Loyalty Day with ceremonies, guest speakers, and Flag Burning Rites.

Sunday, May 4 — Woody Martens Concert. A limited supply of tickets are available to adults only. Don't miss out, get your tickets now.

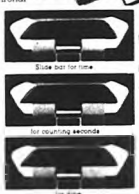
Synchronar 2100.
The world's first solar-powered timepiece.

Synchronar 2100 is a solar-powered precision wrist instrument. And the only solid-state digital readout timepiece electronically programmed to display the correct month and day for well over a century. Thus, Synchronar 2100 is, quite literally, years ahead of replaceable batteries, jewels and tuning forks... virtually a perpetual time machine.

Synchronar 2100 includes a acrylan-like silicon solar cell. This solar cell gathers its power from sunlight, daylight, ambient light, or even a simple light bulb. And, of course, it stores the power it gathers, so even if left in a dark drawer for a year it will still be performing to the very minute.

Synchronar 2100 includes the C MOS Brain.™ This computer on a chip, which was conceived and constructed in the Ragen laboratories is electronically programmed to display the correct month and day, with no resetting, for the next 125 years... automatically adjusting to short and long months, and even leap years. The C MOS Brain is totally sealed in its own capsule which has no openings whatsoever. It resists shock, is dust, grease, acid and temperature resistant, and fully waterproof.



Synchronar 2100 includes a light emitting diode (LED) array which displays it more accurately, beams the date and time in hours, minutes and counting seconds on a viewing screen mounted at the vertical edge of the timepiece. This exclusive digital display automatically adjusts to available light and is fully visible in sunlight, moonlight, or no light at all at 400 feet under water.

Synchronar 2100. Powered by the Sun.

VOL. 16 NO. 16, APRIL 16, 1975

Protection is object

City police department proposal is being studied

PORT ST. LUCIE–An additional $100,000 is all that is needed to set up a police department in the City of Port St. Lucie.

Jim Thomas, director of public safety, outlined a complete budget for the start of a city police department Tuesday morning during a council workshop session.

The city, for the past several years, has contracted for police protection with the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Department.

For the year 1975 the city paid $133,000 for two patrol units operating within the area round the clock. Officials estimate the 1976 contract price to be on the neighborhood of $142,000.

According to Thomas, the City could start their own police department for approximately $245,000, or $100,000 over what they are currently paying for the contracted services.

"There is no question the establishment of our own police department will be a big step toward curtailing crime in our city," Thomas told the group.

All those attending the session seemed to agree money was not the object.

It is the personal attention our city needs, one member said.

The $245,000 budget would include salaries for sixteen men, the purchase of five vehicles, the city now owns one unit, equipment and office expenses.

Under the proposal, the city would be patrolled by two units 24 hours a day, with an overlap unit serving during the peak hours of 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Thomas did point out the budget does not include the base station at 911 with a frequence assigned to the police department for the four or seven years.

"We would have to share the frequency used by the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Department," Thomas said, adding this would cut the cost for the city.

The county jail would be used to house prisoners at a cost of $4 per day per prisoner.

The police department employees would be covered under the same retirement plan used by other city employees.

Under the plan the department would consist of eight patrolmen, one chief, one investigator, one sergeant, and four dispatchers at the 911 center, and one secretary.

Although City Administrator advised the council that an L.E.A.A. grant for vehicles, radios and other items could probably be acquired, he suggested they did not depend on this.

"If you want a police department, be prepared to pay for it," Rubin said, adding that a grant would most likely not be obtained within the first year or two of operation.

Thomas said it would be desirable for the city to hire experienced men if possible, indicating such a move would result in a considerable savings to the city.

According to Thomas, the minimum standards set forth by the state require a minimum of 320 hours training for a recruit to become a certified patrol officer. The cost to the city for this training and a replacement is estimated at $880 per man.

The patrol cars could possibly be used for a period of two years with proper care.

"We have all paved roads in the city we do not anticipate high speed pursuits and the cars will be used only within the city limits," Thomas said.

If at the end of one year the marked units have been driven 65,000 miles or over, I would recommend the city trade them in to eliminate excessive maintenance costs," he added.

One councilman indicated that with over 100,000 parcels of land in the city the cost of adequate police protection would amount to $1 per parcel.

Other items not included in the $245,000 proposed budget were retirement, health insurance, utilities and prisoner charges.

Before concluding his presentation, Thomas said the cost of one additional unit provided by the Sheriff's Department is $64,000 per year.

Under the city's plan, that third unit would be provided during the peak hours.

PRESENTATION–Port St. Lucie's Safety Director Jim Thomas Tuesday presented a proposed budget outlining the cost of establishing a police department in the city. The residents would be afforded better and more personal protection by their own police department and the cost would be approximately $100,000 more than the city will have to pay for contracted services from the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Department. Thomas estimated it would take approximately one year to establish the police department.

Officers and directors honored at ball

PORT ST. LUCIE–Outgoing and incoming officers, directors and their ladies were honored at the Port St. Lucie Yacht Club Commodore's Ball last week.

The festive affair was held at the St. Lucie Hilton and began with a cocktail party, followed by dinner and dancing, with 240 members and guests in attendance.

Past Commodore Fred Johnston and June extended the gavel and keys to incoming Commodore Mike Reeb and Lee, who also received the commodore's flag honoring the office.

Vice Commodore Nelson Howery and Lady Johanna were presented with the vice commodore's flag.

Other new officers and directors include Lela Holzapfel, treasurer; Jo Walker, secretary; Bill Holzapfel, Fleet Captain; Fred Adler, membership chairman; Jack LaFrance and Bob Clemens, program chairmen; George Lindberg and John Schwartz, publicity chairmen and Past Commodore Fred Johnston.

An unusual ship-shaped floral arrangement was presented to the past Commodore's lady, June Johnston, and the past Commodore was given a commemorating plaque, along with the past commodore's flag.

Outgoing directors, who received kudoes for their able direction during 1974 are Grace Cousino, secretary; Lela Holzapfel, treasurer, and directors Fred Adler, John Schwartz, Jack LaFrance, Bill Flanagan, Bill Holzapfel and Walt Walker.

All details for the affair were arranged by chairmen Arthur and Marge Gerhardt, assisted by Sam and Gemma Kerley. Tony and Caroline DeSantis, Ward and Nita Davis, Knute and Ethel Nickelsen.

The next Yacht Club meeting is Tuesday, April 22, 7:30 p.m. at the Marina. The highlight of the session will be a fashion show with "Yacht Club Lovelies" as models, according to George Lindberg, publicity chairman.

Alderman sets city trial for May 21

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Port St. Lucie City Council will be back in court May 21 for what is expected to be the final trial in the suit brought against the city by the Interested Homeowners of Port St. Lucie, Inc.

The four count lawsuit charged abuse of powers. Two counts have already been decided in favor of Interested Homeowners in a January 30 summary hearing in St. Lucie Circuit Court.

During that session, Judge James C. Willis ordered former Mayor Larry Kimmel to stop accepting pay for one of the municipal positions he was holding.

The Interested Homeowners had charged double duty and double pay to Council members.

Also at that hearing, James F. Littman, attorney for the Homeowners and Rupert Smith, representing the city, debated whether an additional seat on the city council should be opened for the recent city election. The court decided in favor of the Homeowners and ordered the additional seat open.

To be decided at next month's trial is whether it is legal for a council member to hold an additional municipal post.

Judge Alderman, at the first trial, simply ordered Kimmel to stop collecting two salaries until the question is resolved.

The Homeowners group maintains that Kimmel and former vice-mayor Frank Reardales named themselves to other city posts thus gaining additional remuneration. Reardales, who resigned from office at the end of 1974 because of poor health, did double duty as the head of the city's Department of General Government.

Kimmel and Reardales may be required to reimburse the city treasury for their alleged unlawfully-collected salaries, depending upon the outcome of the May trial.

Also at issue is the right of councilmen to receive severance pay when they leave office.

The other issue awaiting court rule is the validity of the present retirement fund maintained by the city and whether funds expended were done so legally.

A spin-off from this issue is the possible repayment of monies received from the fund involved in this decision is Mrs. Grace Kavanaugh, widow of the late Mayor Eugene Kavanaugh.

Plaintiffs named in the suit include recently elected Councilwoman Lolita Kernohan, J. Arthur McDaniel, George Blackmond and Seymour B. Fleming.

Defendants named include Kimmel, Reardsley, former councilmen Vaughn Lewis, Kenneth Thompson and Harold Sobties and Councilman William McChesney.

Charter revision meets April 24

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Charter Revision Committee will hold its next regular meeting Thursday, April 24, at the CESA building, at 8 p.m.

All residents of the community are urged to attend this night session.

The Charter Committee has been working for the past three months on revising the city's outdated charter.

Chairman of the committee Solomon Raffe reports a favorable return of the questionnaires mailed to community residents two weeks ago.

City seeks attorney

PORT ST. LUCIE–Applications are now being accepted to fill the position of city attorney at the Port St. Lucie City Hall.

The announcement was made by City Administrator Bernard Rubin during the Tuesday workshop session of the city council.

"We have had three attorneys who have indicated interest in the position and desire interviews with the Council," Rubin said.

Pointing out the great backlog of work that is continually mounting, Rubin recommended applications be accepted for one week with interviews being scheduled for the following week.

Briefly listing some of the qualifications for this position, Rubin said, the applicant must be a member of the Florida Bar Association, St. Lucie County Bar Association, have at least five years experience, preferably familiar with municipal affairs and be a member of a law firm.

Former City Attorney Rupert Smith submitted a letter to the council on April 2 stating he did not wish to be considered for the position.

The city is currently involved in a lawsuit brought about by the Interested Homeowners of Port St. Lucie, Inc.

City workshop Tuesday

PORT ST. LUCIE–Councilmembers Tuesday unanimously agreed to hold workshop sessions on the first and fourth Tuesdays of each month.

I think the workshop sessions are a must for at least the next couple months in view of the pending workload and the lack of experience on the part of the newly elected councilmembers, Mayor Sharpe said.

The workshop sessions will be conducted at the City Hall starting at 9 a.m.

Rubin is named city manager

PORT ST. LUCIE–A recommendation appointing City Administrator Bernard Rubin to the position of Port St. Lucie's City Manager received favorable response from members of the council during Tuesday's workshop session.

In making the recommendation former mayor Larry Kimmel said that with the increased workload a mayor in the city would have to be on the go 23 hours a day to catch up.

"It is impossible for any one man to be able to handle all the details and administrative duties here at the City Hall," Kimmel said.

Councilman Bill McChesney, outlining the qualifications of a city manager, said, "I couldn't agree more with the recommendation. I think Mr. Rubin is extremely qualified for the position."

Adding his approval to the recommendation, Mayor Schuyler Sharpe said, "We will have a better run city with Mr. Rubin as City Manager. I'm new at this job and I have a lot to learn. I think we are very fortunate in having a man of Rubin's qualifications to fill the position."

Just last Tuesday, Rubin had submitted his resignation as City Administrator citing disunity among council members as the reason.

Following apologies by new council members, and pleas from residents of the community, Rubin withdrew the resignation the following day.

According to informed sources, the present city charter does allow for the appointment of a city manager.

The Charter Revision Committee, presently rewriting the city charter, has had a favorable response to their suggestion the city lean towards the city manager type government of the strong mayor form.

Recent questionnaires returned to the Revision Committee indicate 12% in favor of city manager as compared to 1% for strong mayor.

PORT ST. LUCIE–The River Area Port St. Lucie Blood Bank, Inc. will hold its annual meeting on Tuesday, April 29. It is scheduled to begin promptly at 7:30 p.m. at the North Port Marina.

Three new directors and officers for the coming year will be elected.

All interested residents are welcome to attend.

The Blood Bank has been in operation for the past eight years under the direction of Cedric Benz, president, and a small group of residents.

Lieberth and Rodler tie for low gross

PORT ST. LUCIE–Virginia Lieberth and Carolyn Rodler tied for low gross in a golf with 78 apiece in North Port Ladies Golf Association play last week.

Eight B leaders were Betty Fields, 90, and Irene Fields, 90.

Eight C winners were Ann Zukowski, 90, and Mary Jacobi, 99.

Fran Gehres was low putter with 28.

The North Port Association plays every Wednesday at the Holiday Jaycee Club of Stuart.

Commission approves concrete bike paths

PORT ST. LUCIE–The St. Lucie County Commission in a three-two vote approved the concrete bike paths to be constructed in this south county community.

The commission reversed their previous decision Tuesday morning following an appeal by Don White for the paths to be constructed of concrete rather than asphalt.

Construction of the five-foot wide path to run along the south side of Prima Vista Boulevard from U.S. 1 to Floresta is expected to be started within the near future.

Commissioners supporting the action during Tuesday's session were Ed Enns, Evert Green and Commission Chairman Willie McCain.

Commissioners Price and Parks opposed the move saying they feared everyone in the county would demand the concrete surfaces, which will result in additional costs to the county.

School is fighting to offer alternative

JENSEN BEACH–As private schools across America face continuing and mounting financial problems, the local Pine School is taking steps to assure a future opportunity for young people of Martin County to have an alternative to public education.

This was the thrust of a speech by Jim Rowe, headmaster of Pine School, to the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club.

But all is not rosy for the less than one-hundred parents who have children in the one-through-eight grades of Pine School.

In order to forestall a takeover of the school by a religious group that operates classes through fear (If you don't do as I say, God will strike you dead, and if He's not around there will be a teacher to do it for him)", the parents raised money to buy the school, according to Rowe, from its principal benefactor.

Costs were cut, and fathers even cut the lawn each Saturday to keep the costs down.

We have a long way to go financially. Parents gave from $1,000 to $10,000 to raise the necessary $137,000 in the five days we were given to raise money," Rowe added.

The school got a boost with the moral support of the Episcopal Diocese in South Florida, and is now an affiliate of the organization.

"This does not mean financial help, but in the future it might be possible that some scholarships could become available," Rowe said.

The headmaster charted the growth of the school, always pointing to the continuing financial problems, from 35 children in the first year, to 85 in the second, to 140 in the third, when financial difficulties forced the tuition from $1100 to $1800 per year in the following year. The raise in tuition cost the school half of its 140 population, and more financial problems arose, forcing the parents to take action.

Rowe showed slides on the school, emphasizing the small classes and individual (one-on-one) teaching that students get. He explained the activities of the youngsters, and told of how the eighth grade class held fund raising projects to donate $200 to help to buy the school.

As to the Episcopal affiliation, Rowe said that it didn't mean that the students faced a religious education, but that a chapel service was held once a week for fifteen minutes by visiting ministers of various faiths.

"But no one is put in an uncomfortable position," Rowe said.

Rowe didn't offer a bright outlook for Stuart's private school, but said that the parents were working hard to make the school a success, indicating increased enrollment as the answer to money problems.

FIT impressive in Governor's Cup

FIT–In the race for the Governor's Cup last Saturday at FIT in Melbourne, three FIT Jensen Beach crews, especially the women's eight, made impressive showings.

In the women's eight 500 meter races, the FIT Jensen Beach crew took two straight races. In the second heat, FIT beat FTL, and in the third heat FIT beat both Rollins and Winter Park High.

After starting difficulties, which included a near collision caused by the Winter Park crew, the FIT women's crew was scratched from the first heat, thus preventing them from racing the over all winners in women's eight competition, Tampa.

The FIT men's J.V. eight burned past the University of Tampa in the last half of their 1000 meter race on Saturday.

In the varsity eight race, FIT came up with a near victory in the second heat against Rollins. FIT pushed Rollins so hard that the Rollins coxswain failed to notice a piling at the finish line and crashed into it ruining a week-old $8,000 dollar shell.

In FIT Jensen Beach's other two heats they suffered boat breakdowns, but still managed to give FIT, Melbourne, (the Governor's Cup winners) a run for their money.

Social Security 'direct deposit' offered

STUART–The federal government and Florida's financial institutions have begun an experiment in the automatic direct deposit of Social Security checks, and First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart is playing a key role.

This month, Florida's 3.4 million Social Security recipients are being advised that they can have their monthly payments sent directly to the financial institution of their choice and automatically deposited into their accounts.

The Florida pilot project is the second part of a three-stage program by the U.S. Treasury Department and the Social Security Administration aimed at the eventual conversion of Social Security payments to a nationwide electronic funds transfer system (EFTS) by the end of 1978.

"We are proud that First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart, with the assistance of the Florida Bankers Association and the American Bankers Association (ABA), is now able to offer this innovative, convenient and secure service to our customers," Dennis S. Hudson, Jr., Chairman, said.

Hudson pointed out that participation in the program is entirely the option of the customer. He did, however, note several benefits the direct deposit of Social Security payments offers the recipient.

Assurance of uninterrupted deposits during periods of relocation, temporary absence or illness.

Security – no chance that the Social Security payment check can be stolen either from the mails or from the customer.

The convenience of not having to carry or mail the Social Security check to the bank. The deposit is made automatically, and the funds can be drawn upon whenever the customer wants.

Hudson said, "The service is very simple. All our customers need to do is sign a form at First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart to authorize Social Security checks in his name to be deposited in his account.

"We, at First National, believe that this project is a valuable service for our customers. Otherwise, we wouldn't be offering it," Hudson noted.

"We encourage any Social Security recipient, whether a customer of First National or not, to come into one of our offices or telephone. We will be more than happy to explain the program in detail."

For a limited period of time, First National is offering a gift for persons participating in this Social Security Recipient program.

Awards program

HOBEY IN THE HILLS– Thirty outstanding Hobey Academy students from throughout Florida five states and three foreign countries have been tapped for membership into the nation's leading high school honorary, The Society of Distinguished American High School Students.

The scholars – comprising almost one-third of the junior and senior classes of this school in central Florida – are now participating in an awards program which offers $800,000 in college scholarships.

Howey Headmaster William Branyon said the students were selected on the basis of high academic achievement and civic responsibility.

KAYAK IN RIVER–Randy Vauer, on bank, and Jerry Mimbach put a kayak in the Indian River at Florida Institute of Technology. The two young men arrived last week in two 15-foot kayaks, halfway through a 7,000 mile journey.

New planning council is urged

JENSEN BEACH–A new regional planning district, which would include Palm Beach County, has the backing of Martin County commissioners.

"This is what I've wanted for a long time," Martin County Commission Chairman Rosa Philbrick said Tuesday.

"I think we should go along with it," Philbrick added.

Last week Palm Beach County Commission indicated that they wanted to secede from the South Florida Regional Planning Council and join with counties to the north–Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River and possibly Okeechobee.

"I strongly support a planning council with adjacent counties," Commissioner Timer Powers said.

"Two years ago we wanted to work with Palm Beach County, but at that time they wanted to join with the larger counties to the south–Dade and Broward.

Powers, who was the prime force behind forming the Council of Governments (COG) involving Martin and St. Lucie counties, commissions and municipalities, said he thought that a new regional planning council was "our best bet."

St. Lucie County commissioners have indicated that they are willing to try once more to form a five-county district.

Two years ago when the state created the current planning district, the five counties asked to be allowed to form an 11th. But before the Department of Administration ruled on the request, Palm Beach commissioners said they wanted to be in the South Florida district.

The four remaining counties were considered too small to form a district, and the state rejected their request in July 1973. As a result, Martin and St. Lucie were assigned to South Florida Indian River to the East Central Florida Council, and Okeechobee was grouped with four other Central Florida counties.

Neither Martin nor St. Lucie has formally joined the council, paying no dues and having no vote, but being required to accept advice from the council.

Martin County commissioners have opposed stating that they don't want to be forced to join the council.

"Basically I am against being forced to join, but on top of that I am also against regionalization because it takes power away from the local level," Commissioner John Kiernan said.

Philbrick noted that if Martin County becomes part of the regional council as it now stands, either by choice or by force, it would cost about $7,000 for membership.

Last week Palm Beach County Commissioner Robert Culpepper resigned from the council, complaining that Dade and Broward County members didn't share Palm Beach County's concern for high density development. "They don't listen to us," Culpepper said.

Martin County Planner Kris Schenk also pointed out that the regional council members were not aware of Martin County problems although the council staff attempt to make themselves familiar with county problems.

It also was noted by St. Lucie and Martin officials that Palm Beach County was needed in a new council to make a new council a success.

"I think we should go with the new council, and I hope to write a letter to chairmen of other county commissions about this," Philbrick said.

Kayaks arrive in Jensen Beach

JENSEN BEACH–When you are averaging about three miles an hour [illegible] see a lot, and two Minnesota [illegible] men have seen a lot of the country's riverfront before stopping at Jensen Beach last week.

Jerry Mimbach 22, and Randy Bauer 25, arrived at the Outrigger Marina in kayaks.

People almost fell off the docks when they saw us," Bauer said. We didn't realize it was such an exclusive place."

Before arriving in Jensen Beach, they paddled their kayaks down the Mississippi River to New Orleans, out into the Gulf of Mexico, followed the coastline to Florida Bay, came down the state's west coast to Cape Sable and crossed the peninsula through the Everglades.

The Minnesota youths packed their gear and shoved off in their two 15-foot kayaks at Cocoa Rapids, Minn., about mid-September, hoping to beat the cold weather.

But winter caught up with them as they paddled down the Mississippi River. Four times they paddled through snowstorms, and at night they huddled in their tent against temperatures that dipped to 10 degrees.

Bauer said that it was the "romance" of kayaking that inspired him to make the trip, and Mimbach said it was a desire to see the country.

"I feel like my lifestyle has been changed," Mimbach said. And Bauer agreed that the trip so far has been enlightening.

They said the trip was undertaken for educational purposes. "There are things that you can't learn in school," Bauer, a college graduate, said.

After a brief stopover at Jensen Beach, including a stay at Florida Institute of Technology, the pair will resume their 7,000-mile trip.

They expect to make their way up the eastern seaboard along the Intracoastal Waterway. In New York, they'll cut off at the Hudson River, paddle through the Erie Canal to Lake Ontario, cross Georgia Bay to Lake Superior and paddle across Lake Superior to Duluth, Minn.

The kayakers hope to complete their trip this fall.

Talk continues

Bike path inches ahead

JENSEN BEACH–Bids for a 2,900 foot bike path along South Savanna Road will be opened at the May 13 meeting of the Martin County Commission, according to purchasing agent Paul Penrod.

According to Penrod, the bike path would extend from VFW Post 7066 Home north along the east side of Savanna Road to the north of Leilani Heights Subdivision and enter the rear of the Jensen Beach Elementary School property.

Big crowd enjoys art, fashion show

JENSEN BEACH–Approximately 1,000 persons attended the Martin County Adult Education Department's first art and fashion show last week at First Federal Savings and Loan Association in Jensen Beach.

And because of the state education system's limitations, the first show may be the last, according to Henry Childers, department supervisor.

The art and fashion show was one of the features of the year for the Community Service sewing and art classes for adults.

It opened at 1 p.m. and continued into the night and Childers pointed out to the group that because of the proposed state cutbacks in Community Service appropriations, the program may be in for some problems next year.

Childers said that the state would require from 30 to 40 students per class in the program under legislation proposed for passage by the current legislative session.

At present, the state requires 15 students per class and pays the entire cost of each class, according to Childers.

Enrollments during the current school year totals more than 1,000, almost one student for each three households in the county.

Community Service programs include classes for adults ranging from choral singing, cooking, sewing, art and foreign languages.

Inlet 'non-story' continues in news

INLET ANALYSIS
BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH–The "non-story" of the St. Lucie Inlet continues to be the subject of comment by public officials. The talk focusing on non-[illegible] placing of blame for [illegible] progress and claims of progress [illegible] ity in nature.

It appears to be adding up to people talking about talking and writing letters and news stories, and [illegible] individuals who can make things happen by talking or writing letters or news stories not doing anything.

"Frustrating" That is the name of the game.

However impossible it sounds, the solution to funding of the St. Lucie Inlet [illegible] with the development and [illegible] to the St. Lucie Inlet State Park. Federal and state participation in the [illegible] depends upon accessability of the park to the people and the guess [illegible] over whether there is to be a bridge or a ferry to the island. Wilderness is the stumbling block to progress.

The present key to the first phase of progress, the funding of a study by the U.S. Corps of Engineers, expected to take several years, lies in the U.S. Senate where approval of the use of Martin County commission money in lieu of federal funding is being sought by Congressman Skip Bafalis.

Unfortunately, the study would probably result in the recommendation that with a ferry the federal funding would be lessened, due to the few people who would have access to the park.

The estimated 400,000 visitors per year expected by the state could hardly travel the route by ferry.

Primary responsibility for action on the project lies with the Martin County Commission, which has turned-off the State Department of Transportation and Department of Natural Resources by inaction on whether there would be a ferry or a bridge to the island.

Opposition to the bridge is said to come from the residents of Jupiter Island, concerned about the number of people who would have access to the park and from the park to the pristine mile-long Reed Wilderness just to the south. However there has been no public pronouncement of such opposition.

Symps stated, the funding of the inlet project, and the county's share of that funding, depends upon what access there is to the inlet park, and the county commission seems to be inching itself along with the peripheral areas, rather than addressing the main decisions needed to get the project off the ground.

Former county commission chairman Frank Wachs has been stirring up officials with letters pointing out the lack of progress of the inlet movement in past weeks. His effort has brought other letters that deny delays and point up the work being done.

Congressman Skip Bafalis, entering his third year as representative of this area has worked to get the inlet study funded, shepherding the special funding idea through the House, and working on it through the Senate committee.

To date, however, no one from the county commission has addressed the primary, nagging questions of Wachs, who points out that in 1972, when he left office as a county commissioner, the following.

At that time, there was a commitment from the state to share in the costs of the project, and that now there is none.

At that time, he heard of the Department of Natural Resources had announced that the bridge to the island park would be included in the Department of Transportation's 1972-73 budget, and was not.

At that time, the U.S. Corps of Engineers announced that authorization might be expected in 1972, design in 1973, and construction of the inlet project might begin in 1974, and nothing has happened.

At that time, the Department of Transportation announced that work on the bridge to the park would be completed in 1973, and no bridge was built.

Thus, only the nagging letters of Wachs seem to be seeking some kind of action on the inlet project, and the funding problems caused by public participation through the inlet state park. Commissioners are pursuing the area of commission funding of the Corps of Engineers first phase study.

"A non-story". In days of a quiet news week any reporter can touch on what could or might be happening.

But there is still no inlet project, and still no state park available to the public except by boat.

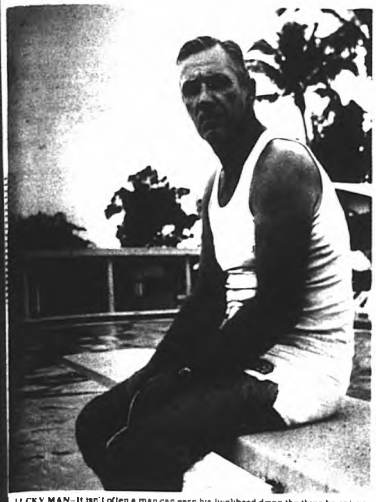
The key to the progress continues to lie with the emphasis and pressure that can only be brought to light by action of the Martin County Commission.

FULL HOUSE–A large crowd turned out for both the afternoon and evening fashion and art show sponsored by the Martin County Adult Education Program last Wednesday at the Harry Hoke Community Room in the First Federal Savings and Loan Association building. While the full house listened to the commentary during the fashion show, some still browsed around the art exhibit.

Crowder gets detective post

JENSEN BEACH–Former Martin County Sheriff Robert L. Crowder has become chief of detectives for Sheriff Jim Holt.

Crowder, who was defeated by Holt in the 1972 election, joined the detective force about six months ago.



LUCKY MAN--It isn't often a man can earn his livelihood doing the thing he enjoys most, but Andy Bagamery of Port St. Lucie has been able to do just that. From the time he received his Sr. Life Saving badge in 1948, Bagamery has been involved with swimming. Starting with the recreation department in the VA hospital, he has taught swimming and life saving, coached swim teams, managed pools and organized a number of aquatic clubs. Bagamery, who recently received his 30-year service award from the American Red Cross, has managed the St. Lucie Country Club pool for the past eight years. He also conducts life saving classes at the North Port Marina twice a year.

Door prizes of live trees went to Charlotte Deede and Dottie Offner with seeds for Royal Poinciana trees given to all who washed to try their hands at starting one.

Table decorations by the "garbage can be beautiful" committee, with the help of several husbands, were made of discarded scraps of wood and coffee cans. After much cutting, assembling and many coats of paint, they formed beautiful holders for live plants, supplies, or garden tools.

Ninety-six women attended the luncheon planned by Mrs. Lee Johnson, vice president.

NUTRITIOUS GROUP--There was nutrition aplenty when this group of fourth grade youngsters assembled on the stage of the Port St. Lucie Elementary School following a program they presented before members of the recently organized Parent-Teachers Association. The program entitled "The Whole Tooth" included the following cast pictured above. Fruit, Cheryl Barlow. Green vegetable, Amy Riddlemoser, yellow vegetable, Jennifer Webb; lean meat, Billy Farr, whole grain cereal, Peggy Geisler; milk, Sonya Goins; more milk, Chris Johnson; fresh air, Christine Wallace; and Mary Heinold as Sunshine.

Dogs must be licensed

PORT ST. LUCIE--Due to the number of complaints being turned into the City Hall, Public Safety Director Jim Thomas issued a word of warning to pet owners this week.

All dogs within the City of Port St. Lucie must be licensed, kept on a leash, or controlled on the owner's property.

"Animals running loose are subject to being picked up by the Fort Pierce Humane Society or turned over to them," Thomas said, adding a fine could also be imposed on the owner under the present city ordinance.

Dog licenses may be obtained at the city hall for a fee of $2. The owner must present a current rabies certificate at the time of licensing.

City Hall lease to be extended

PORT ST. LUCIE--City Clerk Bernard Rubin recently proposed the city rent the adjoining office space from General Development Corporation to house the building department. He asked authorization to look into the matter.

Tuesday, Rubin reported to council members that GDC was responsive to the request.

"We have been assured the additional space could be rented for $146 per month. The current lease would be extended until Feb. 1, 1977, which would include the additional space," Rubin told the Council.

"At that time," Rubin continued, "GDC officials did indicate they would negotiate for a rental increase."

The matter has been referred to the city's finance committee for further study.

Residents of this south county community have expressed much concern within the past three or four weeks over the closing of the Country Store located in the building.

Ron Moniz, operator of the store, received word last week from GDC Miami officials his lease would be honored.

Moniz had previously been notified the firm was cancelling his lease and the store building was to be vacated by May 1, 1975.

Local financial institutions are receiving social security deposits

JENSEN BEACH—Beginning with their April checks, residents of Jensen Beach and Port St. Lucie, can now have their social security checks deposited directly to the financial institution of their choice.

Local institutions participating in this program include First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Martin County and the Jensen Beach Bank.

An enclosure with the social security checks sent the first week in April listed the several advantages of having checks deposited directly to the recipient's checking or savings account each month. The advantages cited were:

"You don't have to go to your financial organization and stand in line to cash or deposit your check.

Even if you are away from home your money is available in your account instead of sitting in your mailbox.

"You don't have any problem in cashing your check because it goes directly into your account.

"You don't have to worry about losing your check after you receive it or having it stolen from your mailbox."

The enclosure further noted, "You can have your checks deposited in a checking or savings account at a bank, savings bank, savings and loan association or similar institution, or Federal or State chartered credit union. If you don't have an account now, you can open one with a financial organization.

To arrange for the direct deposit of social security checks, recipients should contact the financial organization of his or her choice and ask for a direct deposit form SF-1199. Completion of the form only authorizes deposits into an account; it does not authorize withdrawals.

For more information about the program, those receiving social security checks should get in touch with their financial organization or contact any social security office.

This program is presently a trial program prior to being extended to the entire United States. A preliminary trial began in the State of Georgia in October 1974 and was expanded to include Florida in April 1975. Federal officials plan to extend it nationwide in July.

Riverside Village News

BY VIRGINIA DRYER

A phone call from Orpha and Marion Woodring to us on Sunday, April 13th brought us the sad news that their son passed away in Toledo, Ohio that morning. We all share their sorrow.

+ + +

It seems that Bill and Louise Tugend did not leave for their home in Stony Brook, N.Y. as I reported last week. They had their car all packed and their trailer all closed. When they crawled into their Mercedes Benz and stepped on the starter they received nothing but a loud silence. The menfolk of the neighborhood crossed and crossed to no avail. The darn thing remained adamant so they had it towed to Fort Pierce to the repair shop. After a delay of a couple of days, they finally got on their way Thursday morning.

For several years I have been trying to explain to my relatives and friends that I am far too young to be getting old. For that reason I have given up having birthdays. However, I don't seem able to get the point across as you should see the lovely cards and gifts I received from my friends and good neighbors. I was also kept up half the night receiving phone calls from a son and daughter-in-law in Michigan another son and daughter-in-law who are in the Air Force in Missouri and from our daughter in Michigan who had just returned from a trip to Hawaii. I tell you, birthday anniversaries can be very exhausting.

+ + +

Clyde and I are enjoying a visit from our good friends Dutch and Mildred Levy from Hanover, Michigan.

+ + +

Keep in mind the proposed trip to Hawaii next November. If you are interested, get in touch with Florence Compton in the park or call her at 334-2963.

People are leaving the park almost daily now for their homes in various parts of the north. Besides those already mentioned are the Al Brynilsens to New York, the Petersons to Michigan and Madeline Comstock and her mother to their home in Vermont. There are surely others whom I have missed unintentionally but just haven't heard yet.

JENSEN BEACH BANK

Announces a new 42-months finance plan on new automobiles for qualified buyers.

The bank believes that with the higher cost of new automobiles a car buyer should have additional time to keep the monthly payments down to a realistic amount in relation to present car prices.

This innovation should accelerate the sale of new cars and keep the business in Martin County.

The bank suggests you check with the installment loan department of the bank for complete details.

Mabel and Frank McLain of Tenth Avenue entertained Bernice and Harry Covell and Ruby Wren at brunch at the Flame Room of the Holiday Inn Monday where they spent a couple of pleasant morning hours chatting and enjoying a great view of the ocean.

+ + +

Wednesday evening, Ellen and Jim Nixon entertained the Covells and Ruby Wren with a delicious dinner and good home made apple pie.

+ + +

The Covells had a letter from Clara Pfingsten who says they arrived home safe in Ohio. She says there were so many people on the way home campers especially.

+ + +

Rose and Ken Trenary arrived home at Hobart, Ind. They missed the big snow storm, but found many large piles of snow along the side of the road.

+ + +

Frank and Sallie Vondalle received a nice letter from Al and Millie Kivana stating that three of their sons were at their home to greet them in 30 degree temperature in New Jersey. The boys had the pump primed, the furnace turned on, etc.

+ + +

Margaret and Don Donnell of Findlay, Ohio were glad that their furnace was on when they arrived home. It was warm and cozy.

+ + +

Frank and Mabel McLain had coffee with the Covells before they left for their home in Iowa. These neighbors all had such a nice winter.

+ + +

A note from Bernice Covell:

"We the Covells and our doggie called Lady will be leaving for home to Lansing, Michigan on April 28. It surely was a perfect weather season, and we feel that Sallie and Frank Vondalle and Ruby Wren are lucky to remain with the sun and the sand, and so long to all other friends."

Vacancies exist in FIT classes

F.I.T. Dean Ernest E. Tealy has announced that the community interest in the evening welding class which began Thursday, April 17, was so great that the class has been split into two sections with the additional section meeting on Tuesday evenings.

Because of this, there are now additional openings in either the Tuesday or Thursday evening classes. Each class meets one night a week for three hours. Classes will terminate the week of June 23.

The classes are sponsored jointly by the Adult Education Department of Martin County Schools and the Florida Institute of Technology, Jensen Beach campus.

Association has history of service

JENSEN BEACH—Organized in 1956, the Jensen Beach Women's Association has a history of service.

A group of civic-minded women, whose vision extended beyond their domestic horizons, formed the association to meet the needs of a growing community.

The major objectives were promoting financial and population growth of the area.

Over its 25-year history, the association has performed many useful services to the community including sponsoring the Girl Scouts, sponsoring a choral group for several years, and with the aid of the Chamber of Commerce held the first Easter Sunrise Service in Martin County.

Donations to worthy causes always has been the accepted policy of the association, and members have worked with civic groups to carry out constructive community projects.

In May of 1952, the association applied for a charter under the laws of Florida, and it was granted.

For the first four years the association met at the Community Center, but with the growth in membership, and in January of 1955 the members purchased a club house on SR 707 in South Jensen Beach.

In February of 1961 "sewing for Sunland" was started and later became a continuing project. Articles of clothing and toys were made and sent to Sunland Hospital in Orlando.

In December of 1961 the association won a trophy in the Stuart Christmas parade for its entry of a float depicting the work being done for Sunland.

And in February of 1962 a generous gift of land was received from the Kiplinger Association. The site consisting of approximately four acres was on Sugar Hill Road, and members began making plans for a club house.

Association acts on incorporation

JENSEN BEACH—A March 2, 1953 newspaper clipping in the 1953-54 Jensen Beach Women's Association scrap book.

The report included sponsorship of the Jensen Beach Choral Club, Arts and Crafts Club, monthly joint covered dish supper with the Jensen Beach Area Chamber of Commerce two Christmas bazaars, two Christmas parties, 13 community card parties, two plays, three special parties, organization candidate for Miss Martin County, 53 bake sales, book reports, conservation program, health program and Jensen in the Old Days program.

The group also circulated a petition seeking cooperation from the county commission in retaining a road right-of-way on Hutchinson Island as a public beach for the county.

Donations were made to the Cancer fund, Girl Scouts, Archery Club, Langford-Hall Park, March of Dimes and American Red Cross.

"I'd kill him - I really would, I'd kill him!"

"Oh, no, I love it. Oh look, he invited the Crown Prince and her Royal Highness -- isn't that wonderful!" And here comes--put more shrimp in!"

Friends who attended Kathy and Bruce Parmenter's dinner party will recognize the truth of the above quotes. At no more than a few hours notice Kathy made a delicious Shrimp Cantonese dish (cleaning 10 lbs of shrimp) accompanied by a delicious fresh fruit salad, cocktails, hors doeuvres, etc. for 60 people!

Bruce, in his inimitable way, decided a party was due - he got on his bike - inviting one and all, stopped long enough to buy shrimp - for that is what he decided "he" wanted - then about noon he thought he had better tell Kathy that they were having some people over - and that they would serve shrimp.

Kathy, her beautiful face shining, went at once to bat and produced a feast fit for a king. As each guest arrived it was a delight to hear her, "Oh, great, here comes so and so!"

Ward and Cora Lee Irwin postponed their trip home one more day to attend the party and were so happy that they did. Thanks, you two wonderful people, for a great time at your beautiful Shangri la pad.

Those of us left on Swordfish Lane miss our neighbors who have gone home, but happy that we have heard from them all and that they arrived at their destinations safe and sound. Each couple said what a wonderful winter they had here and that they can't wait to get back -- the Ward Irwins, Boyd Kitts, the Sommers, Mowrys, Bowlings, to name a few.

The Wayne Barretts are probably home in Youngstown, Ohio by now, but they did stop enroute to see the new little Cadillac" shown in Orlando last week. It was fun meeting the Barret's son Dick, his wife, and toddler, Wayne Paul, a charmer if there ever was one.

Mate and Bill Greuling left Friday for Tampa, where they will visit their son before going on home to Michigan. The Willard Auchs entertained them for dinner Thursday evening.

Alice and Red Fitzgerald have been having fun with their guests, Eileen and Neale Parker of Manitua, Ohio. Eileen is Alice's sister, and a little gem she is. Her husband is the epitome of the handsome Scott - so to see him is to know him. Eileen will probably stay 'til Alice and Red leave for home sometime in May. Neale had to return this week for--can't say that awful word (work).

VENTURE HARBOUR
BY FRAN TENER

April 16, 1975 was a historic day for the mobile home owners St. Lucie County approved the zoning variance which made it possible for the lots to be purchased instead of rented. This culminates a year of more of active, continuing negotiations and legal technicalities. On that date we became Venture Harbour Inc., a corporation of lot owners. Our officers are Lawrence Atkin, president; Ernesto Ravinet, vice-president and Al Jones, treas.

A testimonial dinner was given on April 18th at the Crow's Nest in honor of Larry Atkin for the tremendous part he played in spearheading our efforts to purchase the lots. Larry was given a palm tree for his property and a plaque expressing the appreciation of his grateful neighbors. Hilda Atkin, his wife, was presented with a floral centerpiece in appreciation of her understanding and patience with Larry's time-consuming efforts.

Chuck Cassidy, vice president of Venture Out of America, in town for the occasion furnished champagne for the group and toasted Larry for his leadership and effectiveness in obtaining our goal.

It was a gala affair and it will be the first of annual celebrations to commemorate the founding of Venture Harbour, our beautiful little place in the sun.

That's why Tuff-Kote Dinol is the best investment you can make in a car. Especially nowadays when you're likely to be keeping your car longer than ever before.
There are side benefits, too. Like a much quieter ride. A stronger sales car. And a better looking car for as long as you keep it.

A large group showed up at the rec hall on Sat. to participate in a treasure hunt. It surely can be said it was a great deal of fun and for that day all of us who were so brave didn't lack for exercise. This idea was the brain child of Gene Krakaur with Ruth Firth writing up those very clever directions. Others on the committee with them were Jen Bollenbacher, Liz Krakaur, Dick Bradley and Bill Eastman.

Our congratulations to winners, who were six couples, led by Pat and Mary Scriven. All returned to the hall for coffee and donuts and winners awards.

Gene Krakaur put much effort into this and spent much time hiding the treasure. Our sincere thanks to all who made this so much fun.

+ + +

There were no three game winners at shuffling on the 14th and no games played at night.

At bridge on the 14th, Madeleine Balfanz won first, Edna Eastman second and Liz Krakaur third.

+ + +

Our very fine pot luck on the 17th had a good turn out of 72. A tasty meal of great variety was set up by the committee. Alice Stoddard, Kate Brinsley, Peggy Sommers and Liz Krakaur.

Table numbers were called with a bit of side humor by Bob Brice and table grace was given by Vern Stoddard.

After dinner, the hymn sing group sang "Shanty Town" and then led singing of many old songs. Alice Stoddard accompanied us on the piano.

The tables were decorated with yellow and white mums in new crystal glasses which made them look very pretty.

Also, our art class had hung all the beautiful paintings around the hall that they had worked on all season. It was most enjoyable to view them and much credit goes to the instructor, Mildred Mullen.

It was nice to have Glenn Oakes with us again.

+ + +

Bingo on the 18th was called by Harry Beamer and Pat Scriven to a scant group. Pat's humor, however, kept it a lively evening. And Reba being broken in by the Bullocks and a bit of luck.

Activities here now are dwindling as some folks are northern bound each week.

+ + +

And to all—

Peace.

Concert dignitaries piped in at Saturday concert

JENSEN BEACH—"You don't have to be Scottish to get excited at the sound of bagpipes and the sight of a line of tartan kilts swinging to the pace of the marchers," Mrs Janet Hutchinson said this week, as she completed plans for the arrival on Saturday, April 28, of the St Andrews Pipe Band of Miami. The band is being presented in concert by the Martin County Historical Society in the Jensen Beach auditorium of the Florida Institute of Technology.

Speaking of the pace of the piper, the Historical Society director continued, "Martin County's leading player of the bagpipes, George Nicoll, of Jensen Beach, will pipe a dozen or more dignitaries into the hall before the band rolls the drums to announce the beginning of the program. The gentlemen—at least four of them—will be wearing their full dress Highland attire, and their ladies wearing either formal white gowns with tartan sashes fastened to their shoulder, or less formal, but still floor-length, pleated skirts in their respective family tartan. A Scotswoman wears her sash pinned to the right shoulder, unless her husband—or her father is Chief of the Clan, or a Colonel of a regiment."

Among the guests being piped in probably to the tune known as "Farewell to the Black Watch", will be Historical Society President R H Philbrick and Mrs Philbrick, Dean Ernest E Tealey and Mrs Tealey, Colonel Hardin E. Ross Jr. and Mrs Ross, St Andrew Society of Florida President William M McKay and Mrs McKay, Dr. and Mrs John R Gross, Mr and Mrs Patrick G Kenny, Mr and Mrs Henry Lavery and Mrs Janet Hutchinson, who will be accompanied by the Reverend A Sidney Lowrie, honorary chaplain of the St Andrew Society.

News of Nettles Island

BY MAY TIFFT

Just beautiful weather--the pools, the ocean and everything looks so tempting --and I have a cold!!!

Reminds me of a very good friend who was a die-out golfer. If it rained, he would sit in his trailer and comment, "I'm not having any fun." But a cold can't last forever and we still have a few weeks before we leave for home.

+++

First thing, I want to correct an error that I made about the hydrangeas that were planted outside the rec hall. They were bought and given by the church and planted by the garden club members. Sorry that I misunderstood about that.

+++

Evelyn Gantz was nice to bring the following news. Speed and Dorothy Rupel and Evelyn and Al Gantz drove to Ft. Lauderdale to see the Rupel's daughter, Cindy, a teacher at Downer's Grove, Ill. Cindy left Port Everglades for a 7-day Carribean Cruise and the Nettles Islanders launched her off with champagne toasts. It was also Dorothy's birthday celebration. The Rupels left the day after Easter to return to their home on Buck Lake near Niles, Michigan.

+++

Gale and Ethel Olson of Anoka, Minn., were guests of Evelyn and Al Gantz last week. They love snow have four sno-mobiles, but when they had snow two feet high at the front door and more predicted they decided to find out what the big attraction is in Florida. Their first trip here and they are so enthralled by the beach, tides, shells and pool that they didn't want to go anywhere to sightsee. Gale also visited his sister Esther Morgan at Fort Pierce who celebrated her birthday Wed. by cooking a delicious dinner for all. It was Gale's birthday the 14th and it was the first time she and her brother had celebrated their birthdays together since she was 12 years old. Although the Olsons had to leave Friday, they are surely planning to return next year.

Lyn and Jim Jones came over from Palm Springs, Fla. Friday evening to spend the weekend with her parents, Al & Evelyn Gantz. That tall person with the short curly hair on the tennis court with Al was his daughter. In an old college sweat shirt & shorts, it is hard to tell the "he's" from the "she's". But you should have seen her when she put on her long gown to go out to dinner. No question then!

+++

Hear I missed an interesting one on the turtle release. That and when they come in to lay their eggs in early summer are two interesting things to see.

+++

John Strickland from Porpoise Island suffered a heart attack three days after returning home. Last notice says that he is now out of intensive care.

+++

Last week (the 14th) a young couple living near us, Judy and William Gregory had their first baby. He was eight pounds and they have named him Bryan. Judy's mother came from Bogata, Columbia to be with her for the happy event.

+++

A birth that I missed and just heard about was that of a little girl, now five weeks old to Wayne and Jody Borecki.

+++

Edith Johnson and Martha Briggs must be pretty sharp bridge players. On Friday, March 27th a Howell movement was played and they won first place. Game time is Friday, 1 p.m. at First Federal Savings in Jensen Beach.

+++

April 1, 3 & 8 at 1:30 p.m. groups from our resort enjoyed a guided tour of the Atomic Power Plant on Hutchinson Island. Van Goldsmith, of Fla. Power and Light, conducted this tour and presented 45 minutes of slides to familiarize all with what they were to see. We sincerely thank Mr. Goldsmith and FPL. Jim Dare arranged this with Mr. Goldsmith.

+++

So many are leaving just in our little neighborhood that before too long we will be isolated.

Rose & Elmer Carl trimmed their bushes and left April 14th as did Irene and Herb German. They always hate to say goodbyes so on their way out over the loudspeakers came the lovely recording of "Auf Wiedersaehen".

Lorin and Arlene that quietly slipped out Sunday morning. The 19th, the Samuel couple will be on their way and the 20th, the Szakels. Avarda and Greenburgs leave. There are probably many more but I don't know them all.

The Sangers also left this last week. Brenda and Reggie Moore say Canada is calling them so they will be on their way too. Their neighbors in section 1 will certainly miss them with all their kindnesses.

+++

Dick and Josephine Scott have also left for their home in Nazareth, Pa. Another year we hope to see more of them. They have some interesting slides we would all enjoy. He has been working as a retired executive organizing work in underprivileged countries. They have spent much time in Lebanon, Equador, Uraguay, etc.

+++

On the "In" side, we have James and Mary Clark from Gibralter, Mich. back with us. They were on their way the day Mary was released from the hospital after surgery. She had the stitches taken out here in Stuart. When I asked how she dared to start that way, she said she had to for she promised her grandchildren the trip. They are Jerry, Cody 10, Debby Cody 8 and Cindy Cody 7 who were here last year and were looking forward to it again.

+++

Matt Coyle, Jr. was here for a visit while his father was in the hospital.

+++

Ann Erskine's brother and his wife have been visiting. He and Ann look so much alike.

+++

Sherry Connell and daughter Sharon are visiting her parents Trudy and Jim Simms of Celebrity Island.

A Tennis Club has been formed and had a good response. It is hoped in this way that one of the courts can be arranged better, especially at the peak times. The officers are: pres. Kirk Gamble; vice pres. Ralph Briggs, secy-treas. George Beardo.

+++

Many will be pleased to hear that Matt Vogel has been selected to be director of recreation. Matt knows the place and its workings inside out and we have a great deal of faith that he will make it function efficiently. In my book, a better person could not have been selected.

+++

Andy & Teddy DeCook leave for N.Y. state (near Pleasantville) for two weeks and the, after they return here for a short while, they will be on their way out west for a summer trip in their motor home.

+++

April 12th, a hastily organized ice cream festival was held at the rec hall. Cones and sundaes were served and the proceeds went toward the therapeutic pool fund. It was well attended and was preceded in the morning by a parade to announce it. The reason band headed the parade and was followed by golf carts, motor bikes and bicycles all decorated. I counted at least fifty vehicles in all, so it was quite a showing.

+++

The Women's Club held a planning committee meeting with the new director, Matt Vogel, and it looks like a good season ahead starting in the fall. Get back early and stay late and enjoy it all.

What's a "Clsp-wann"?

JENSEN BEACH--A "CLSP-WANN" is a Continuing Lenten Study Program With A New Name, according to Reverend Bill Kincaid of the Jensen Beach Community Church.

Due to the positive response to Kincaid's Lenten study group sessions, more programs of the same nature are being planned.

Kincaid explained, "Since this type of program explores new ways of thinking about familiar ideas, and, because it involves the exploration of other people's thoughts and feelings, this group will be called The Explorers of Possibilities."

Interested persons are invited to attend an introductory session at 7 p.m. Sunday, April 27 in the church Fellowship Hall.

"At present, I anticipate just the one meeting before we all go on summer scheduling. Then, in the fall, we shall go at this program with reasonable scheduling," Kincaid concluded.

Pre schooler must register

PORT ST. LUCIE--Pre school registration is now underway at the Port St. Lucie Elementary, it was announced Tuesday.

All youngsters who will enter kindergarten this fall, or those children who will enter the first grade must be registered at the school office as soon as possible.

The only exception to the registration requirement applies to the child who will be entering the first grade this fall if this child attended a public kindergarten last year, registration will not be necessary.

Parents are asked to bring proof of immunization shots and a birth certificate at the time of registration.

Youngsters may be registered at the school office anytime Monday thru Friday between the hours of 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Although there is no set deadline, school officials urge an early registration.

First night meeting

Public hearing on proposed city charter is this Thursday

PORT ST. LUCIE--All city residents are reminded the Charter Revision Committee will hold their first public hearing night meeting on April 24 at 8 p.m. in the CESA Building located on Prima Vista Boulevard.

Indicating a large turnout can be expected, the Committee has recorded an approximate 50 percent return on the recent questionnaires mailed to city residents two weeks ago.

"I think this is a good sign the residents are interested in what this committee has accomplished," Chairman Solomon Raffe said Monday.

Following the introduction of committee members the Thursday night agenda includes a review of the first draft of the proposed city charter.

Those in attendance will also hear the results of the recent questionnaire.

The majority of the meeting time, however, has been reserved for open discussion of the proposed charter.

Questions submitted in writing during the meeting will be acknowledged and answered by Chairman Raffe with an able assist from committee members when necessary.

All questions will be limited to the residents of Port St. Lucie and must pertain to the proposed charter.

Time will not be given to air the problems of lone dog, drainage ditches, high grass or renters, the chairman said, pointing out this was the first draft of the proposed charter and that the committee was open for any suggestions and recommendations which are presented in an orderly fashion.

Members of the revision committee include Solomon Raffe, Milton Rudel, Mrs. Jan Wergles, Mrs. Alice Jensen, Elmer Johnson, Mike Reeh, Mrs. Irene Chapman, Robert Hanna, Norman Kelly, Robert Seeley, and ex officio members City Clerk Bernard Rubin and City Attorney Rupert Smith.

Lee Johnson recently filled the eleventh position following the resignation of William Mastre two weeks ago.

The committee was originally appointed by the then mayor, Larry Kimmel in January.

City appointment tabled for two weeks

PORT ST. LUCIE--The most heated controversary arose during the Tuesday meeting of the City Council when Mayor Schuyler Sharpe asked for the appointment of a city manager be tabled for a period of two weeks.

Councilman Larry Kimmel who had originally brought up the appointment of Bernard Rubin to city manager during last weeks worksession, was obviously surprised by the Mayor's move.

"This is a key position that needs to be filled," Kimmel continued. "We recently came out of a situation which nearly threw the entire burden on our shoulder. Mayor and now you want to table the appointment of the person who can be of the utmost assistance."

"I am very much aware this is a big job and I am also willing to shoulder that responsibility," the mayor answered adding "I am going to insist on the matter being tabled."

With that a motion was made by Councilman Frank Rose, seconded by Councilwoman Lolita Kernohan and carried by a three-two vote.

When Councilman Bud McChesney said he sincerely hoped this was not an indication of how future actions would be handled by the council, Kimmel asked if this was not just another way of making an interim appointment.

Mayor Sharpe denied that was the case and indicated he wanted the two week period to await the advice from the new city attorney.

"I want to be certain that what we are doing is correct in every way," the mayor said.

However, the next matter to come before the Council under Tuesday's agenda, was the appointment of a city attorney. This matter was also tabled for two weeks pending interviews with at least two applicants scheduled for this week.

The only comment forthcoming from the floor was made by Seymour Flemming who suggested perhaps the appointment would be immature since a Charter Revision Committee was presently rewriting the city's charter.

Although reports that the committee has suggested the city manager type government, the recommendations have not been officially submitted as yet and even then the new charter will be subject to a referendum.

Test period starts

City approves street and drainage takeover

PORT ST. LUCIE--The City of Port St. Lucie Tuesday agreed to approve the one year test period with County Development Corp. relative to the take-over of certain streets and drainage facilities.

The areas involved in the take-over are Units 8 and 24, both situated in the southern part of the city.

Pending the final stamp of approval by the resolution, it was pointed out to all those attending the morning session that only specific streets and drainage sections of these units are involved, not the entire units at this time.

Robert Seeley, GDC's Port St. Lucie area manager, and Council members agreed this is a continuing project as GDC gets additional streets and brings up to city standards they too will be accepted under a one year test period prior to official final acceptance by the city.

Tuesday the city agreed to accept the following streets in Unit 8: Gallivan Blvd. Orlando to Calhoun, Rue Ivan Calhoun to the east plat limit, Seaside from Seabreeze to Gallivan, Harbor from Seabreeze to Gallivan and Lennox from Marydale to Calhoun, also Maryndale from Maryndale to Calhoun, Asbury from Maryndale to Calhoun, Seabreeze from Verada to Calhoun, Skipper from Verada to Calhoun and Calhoun from Floresta to the east plat limit.

In Unit 24 the street involved is Anchor from Verada to Calhoun.

Under the stipulations set forth in the resolution, General Development is responsible for maintaining and repairing the streets and swales for a one year period from the date of the resolution, April 22, 1975.

GDC is also required to furnish the city with a complete log reflecting the cost of maintenance and repairs during the testing period.

PTSF meets at school

PORT ST. LUCIE--The first meeting of the Parents, Teachers, Students and Friends, PTSF, of the Port St. Lucie Elementary School was held at the school last week.

Entertainment for the evening was a presentation by the fourth grade classes on "The Whale Tooth" a book on dental health week.

Junior Blackmer, principal, was introduced as chairman of the Steering Committee. Other members of the committee include Jim Murphy, Treasurer, Trish Fane, secretary, Pat Pallan and Pat Villar, treasurers, Janie Flint and Rosemary Trappoli publicity. Betsy Horner and Ernestine Somerroom mothers, Pat Pallan volunteer chairman, Marge Murphy and Theresa Evans, charter members, Mrs. Thairmen, and Mrs. Sue Klein hospitality chairman.

The secretary reported on the progress of the Steering Committee the name PTSF was adopted for the association.

A Charter Membership plaque will be displayed on the school with each charter member's name.

Several reports were presented during the session including one on the importance of homeroom mothers by Betsy Horner, and on the volunteer program by Pat Pallan.

Senior citizens are most needed and welcomed in the volunteer program, as many children in this area do not have grandparents close by to enjoy and learn from. Carl Beiser, Spanish Lakes, is a volunteer through the RSVP program of the Council on Aging.

Persons interested in finding out about the volunteer program may call Mrs. Betty Cubbidge at 465-5220.

Also discussed was "adequate education for each child in Florida" from the Florida State Constitution", the Governor's budget, and a letter writing campaign to legislators stating the need for "adequate" to be defined, so that the people of St. Lucie County do not want to be short changed.

Refreshments were served to the more than 150 parents, teachers, students and friends in attendance.

Thomas to address PSL Republican Club

PORT ST. LUCIE--Senator Jerry Thomas will be in town to address the May 1st meeting of the Port St. Lucie Republican Club.

The former Republican candidate for governor is widely recognized for his knowledge of state and national government, economics, international relations, law and order, agribusiness and fiscal affairs.

Thomas married and the father of five children has been the recipient of many awards, including Most Outstanding First Term Member of the House 1961, Most Outstanding First Term Member of the Senate 1965, Most Valuable Member of the Senate 1970 and 1971 to name only a few.

He was named one of the five Outstanding Young Men of Florida in 1961 and was selected from among 4000 legislators as one of the sixteen top legislators in the United States by the Citizens Conference of State Legislators in 1971.

He received his education at Palm Beach Junior College, Florida State University and Florida Atlantic University, earning AA, BS, and Masters Degrees.

He is the President and Chairman of the Board of General Financial Systems, Inc., a bank holding company and resides in Jupiter.

Republicans from Port St. Lucie, the Country Club area, Spanish Lakes, White City, Walton and South Indian River Drive are invited. Special invitations have been extended to the county Executive Committee and other Republican Clubs in St. Lucie County.

The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, May 1, in the CESA Building on Prima Vista Boulevard in North Port St. Lucie, one block west of Airoso Boulevard.

The entire building is reserved for that evening, so there will be ample seating for the crowd expected.

SENATOR JERRY THOMAS

Anglers to have 'fishing fest'

PORT ST. LUCIE--A "Fishing Fest" at the Jensen Beach Causeway has been set for Thursday, May 1, according to Ben Forlenza, program chairman of the Port St. Lucie Anglers' Club.

Members will gather at the causeway whenever they choose for their favorite fishing. All will meet for lunch at 11:30.

Forlenza hinted that there may be a professional fisherman on hand to give advice.

Other business discussed at last week's meeting included a report by Phil Rodi, conservation chairman, stating that work is proceeding on legislation limiting surf fishing in St. Lucie County to two poles, and bridge fishing to one. The club approved action in this direction at an earlier meeting.

SUNDAY OUTING The couples pictured above were among the 356 persons attending the Sunday cookout sponsored by the Port St. Lucie Anglers Club. The affair was held at the marina from 4 to 6 p.m. Obviously enjoying the meal are Mr. and Mrs. William Muller and Mr. and Mrs. William Kessler. The Kesslers are seated opposite each other in the foreground.

Committee appointees announced by Sharpe

PORT ST. LUCIE--Mayor Schuyler Sharpe announced several committee appointments during the Tuesday meeting of the City Council.

Those appointed by the Mayor include former council member Vaughn Lewis to the Library board, Councilman Larry Kimmel, St. Lucie County Planning and Zoning Board, Col. Charles Porteous and Charles Hayde to the finance committee.

Frank Rose was appointed to the County Road and Bridge committee and will represent the City on the Port Pierce Chamber of Commerce.

The principal speaker for the occasion will be Ronald Stutz, vice president and branch manager of the Association.

Stutz will receive the flag which is being given to the Association in appreciation for their cooperation in promoting Loyalty Day.

Loyalty Day was established in 1958 by an act of Congress and is observed each year as a reminder to every American that loyalty to one's country is vital to the existence of a free people.

The public is invited to attend the 9 a.m. flag presentation and Loyalty Day program.

Rio Lindo Garden plans anniversary celebration

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Rio Lindo Garden Club is 15 years old and a gala luncheon affair is being planned in celebration of the club's founding. The date is May 19th, happy hour at 12 noon and luncheon at 1, at the Bay Harbor Yacht Club in Stuart.

Mrs. Daniel Westfall, Mrs. Vincent Ade and Mrs. Mahlon Cline are taking reservations for the event.

The next regular meeting of the group is scheduled for Monday, April 28, 1 p.m. at the CESA Building.

Officers for the coming year will be elected and installed.

Those members who received Black Artesia Plants at the last district meeting are asked to bring them on Monday for display. Also, those members who raised plants for the horticulture show (which was cancelled), are asked to bring them for showing.

Loyalty Day services set

JENSEN BEACH--Loyalty Day services will be held at 3 p.m. May 3 at VFW Post 10066 on South Savanna Road in Jensen Beach.

Martin County Commissioner Ross Philbrick last week signed a proclamation designating May 3 as Loyalty Day in Martin County.

Speakers for the VFW program include State Rep. Chuck Nergard, Bill Bradford, VFW state junior vice commander; Alan Higbee the Voice of America contest winner and Scouting.

The proclamation signed by Philbrick states in part:

This board does hereby call upon the citizens of Martin County to take full advantage of Loyalty Day as an opportunity to reaffirm their love of our country and its flag, and

This board does further call upon the citizens, schools, churches, organizations, business establishments and homes within Martin County to display proudly the flag of the United States of America and to participate in the public patriotic activities on Loyalty Day.

Following the ceremony a flag burning will be held.

Parade set for July 4

JENSEN BEACH--A gala Fourth of July parade will kick off the Jensen Beach area Bicentennial Celebration on July 4.

Several organizations have indicated that they want to have entries in the parade, Andrew Webb, chairman, said.

The Jensen Beach Optimist Auxiliary will be in charge of the parade which will begin at 10 a.m. at Langford Park.

We will begin the parade lineup at 9 a.m. at the park, Mrs. Webb said. The parade route will be from the park along SR 707 to Indian River Drive to Commercial Street.

The parade will proceed west on Commercial Street to Palmetto Street and then north on Palmetto to Ricou Street and disband behind Jensen Beach Bank.

While the parade is for the Jensen Beach area, Mrs. Webb said, "We would like for all of Martin County to turn out."

The parade is one of many activities planned by the Bicentennial Celebration Committee headed by Barbara Turow.

More than 20 persons representing some 12 area organizations have been holding monthly meetings at First Federal Savings and Loan in Jensen Beach.

The parade will tie in with the annual Fourth of July celebration on Jensen Beach Causeway which is recognized as one of the outstanding fireworks displays in the state.

The next Bicentennial Committee meeting is slated for 7:30 p.m. May 2.

Memorial Day services will be at All Saints

JENSEN BEACH--Memorial Day services are planned at All Saints Cemetery in Jensen Beach at 10 a.m. May 26 with Jensen Beach Post 126 of the American Legion in charge of arrangements.

Plans for the Martin County Memorial Day observance were made at the meeting of the Veterans Council of Martin County.

Services also will be held at Fern Hill Cemetery in Stuart at 1 p.m. with Harold Johns Post No. 62 in charge.

All veterans organizations will participate in both services.

Members of the Veterans Council include the American Legion of Stuart and Jensen Beach, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the two communities, Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of World War I and Red Cross.

Willard M. Collier as chairman of the council, and Kenneth E. Taft as secretary-treasurer.

The council also agreed to take an active part in the Bicentennial celebration which will be kicked off in Jensen Beach July 4 with a parade and the annual causeway festivities.

Boat speed check is asked

JENSEN BEACH--The St. Lucie River Council of Governments (COG) will be asked to help in controlling boat traffic on the North Fork of the St. Lucie River.

Martin County Conservation Alliance last week expressed concern about the problem of speeding boats on the river.

Alliance member Dr. Walter Stokes was appointed as chairman of a committee to go to COG with the problem.

"We can lay our case out and they can make recommendations," Dr. Stokes said.

Alliance members point out that speeding boats represent a safety hazard in both the south and north forks of the river and contend that the boats disturb fishing.

Lisle Dietz, who lives on the north fork, told the group that pollution of the waterway is due in part to runoff from orange groves and orange concentrate plant north of White City.

Dietz also noted that speeding boats endanger water skiers and are scaring the fish away.

On the pollution problem, it was suggested that the Pollution Control Board be asked to monitor the water at the White City Bridge.

The next scheduled meeting of COG is May 29.

Council on Aging gets budget report

JENSEN BEACH--The Martin County Council on Aging is seeking a total $47,000 in funds from the federal government for the coming year.

George Tsumanakis of the Gulfstream Areawide Council on Aging presented the local organization with a tentative budget at last Thursday's meeting at First Federal Savings and Loan meeting room in Jensen Beach.

Gulfstream Council is a coordinating agency for senior citizens programs in Martin, St. Lucie and Palm Beach counties.

The Martin County Council last year received about $36,000 in federal funds matched with about $8,500 in local money and services.

About $4,000 of the local total came from Indian River Community college which provided courses for seniors ranging from lip reading to conversational Spanish, plus a variety of hobby courses.

Tsumanakis pointed out that the state legislature may cut the college's community services division's budget.

"The community service program has been the source for the bulk of the salaries in that, in part, to runoff from orange groves and orange concentrate plant north of White City.

Dietz also noted that speeding boats endanger water skiers and are scaring the fish away.

On the pollution problem, it was suggested that the Pollution Control Board be asked to monitor the water at the White City Bridge.

The next scheduled meeting of COG is May 29.

Solar auditorium is planned

JENSEN BEACH--A community auditorium on the campus of the Environmental Studies Center in Jensen Beach to be powered completely by solar energy is in the planning stage.

"We submitted for the proposed solar energy demonstration project Tuesday (April 8)," Jay Jarrett said.

Jarrett, director of the center, added, "We have a better than even chance of getting money for the project."

We are asking the federal government to pick up the entire cost of the building from the ground up, and it shouldn't cost the school board a cent," Jarrett said.

The school board has voted to approve the project.

The center is seeking $150,000 of the approximately $180 million in grants to be given out this year by the Energy Research and Development Association.

We are told that our project seems to meet the criteria for funds," Jarrett said.

A 150-seat auditorium is planned with a lobby with space for exhibits and demonstrations.

In addition to heating and cooling, Jarrett and his planners propose that distillation of salt water with solar power can be demonstrated.

"We have plenty of room for the building at the rear of the center," Jarrett said.

Local architects and builders have promised to help with the project, and Jarrett said Dick Granfield has agreed to provide architectural sketches of the proposed building.

The purpose of the project is to show that solar energy doesn't have to be expensive, according to Jarrett.

Solar 76 and Sunshine House have been suggested as names for the building, but Jarrett noted, "We have been too busy to pick a name."

Free blood pressure exams 'save a life'

JENSEN BEACH--Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. the Jensen Beach Samaritans will be taking blood pressures of local residents in an effort to "save a life."

The Kiwanis-sponsored program will be conducted in the parking lot of the Jensen Beach Shopping Center near Winn Dixie Supermarket.

The drive is a part of the Florida wide effort of the Kiwanis Clubs to point up the need for blood pressure examinations since only a fraction of those with high blood pressure know they have it, according to Dr. Richard Pesnick, president of the local club.

High blood pressure increases the risk of stroke, kidney disease and other serious disorders, he added.

Samaritans will use a mobile home, donated by Jensen Trailer Sales, for the testing and Kiwanians will assist the Samaritans with the registration of the persons desiring the free examination.

School patrol sponsors needed

JENSEN BEACH--The Jensen Beach Elementary School safety patrol needs some sponsors for their annual trip to Disney World, according to PTA president Barbara Hendrix.

Mrs. Hendrix said the annual trip in June is to reward the patrol members for their service to the school.

Health director starts job

JENSEN BEACH--Martin County's first full-time health director started his duties last Monday and said his new post "is going to be an opportunity for me to expand the public health services in a growing county."

Dr. Archie McCallister is taking over a Health Department operation that had been directed part-time by Dr. Neil Miller, who also directed the health departments of St. Lucie and Okeechobee counties.

He said the Health Department also will be working in close cooperation with the county school system in screening and evaluation of preventible disease in children.

He said that one of the first things he intends to do in the new job is "publicize the services we offer countywide."

Before Dr. McCallister was hired by the County commission, he worked with the state division of health in Tallahassee. He practiced medicine in Miami before being employed by the state.

Savannas session is proposed

PORT ST. LUCIE--A tentative date has been set for a meeting with state officials on purchase of the savannas as an environmentally endangered area.

At last week's meeting of the St. Lucie County Regional Planning Council (RPC), Chairman J. Patrick Williams or something selling advertising in the community to businesses without the knowledge of the volunteer fire department.

He has no right or permission to solicit funds, Spinney said.

The fire chief added that he had talked with the man on a telephone after one of the businessmen solicited.

Gene Langston, have agreed to attend.

Also planning to attend the session, Beacom said, are representatives of General Development Corp., Wayne Construction Co. and Universal Adams, owners and developers of an estimated three-quarters of the area involved.

The vast wetlands scheduled to be purchased by the state extend south from Midway Road in St. Lucie County to Jensen Beach Cutoff Road in Martin County and between U.S. 1 on the west and Florida East Coast tracks on the east.

Port St. Lucie City Councilman Larry Kimmel, a member of St. Lucie Council of Governments (COG) and a member of RPC, pointed out that he did not feel the RPC should take a stand on the acquisition, only ask the state to make its decision on the savannas purchase.

Kimmel said that at a recent meeting of COG, two plans were offered. Plan B was to ask the state to take over the savannas and was one recommended by COG.

Plan A, Kimmell said, was to have local governments take over the area.

He said that a state official at a meeting, had said neither yes or no, but had indicated in so many words that the state would just as soon have local agencies do it.

Beacom said that he understood that the three-owner-developers would sell to the state at a reasonable price.

May 23 is the next meeting of the RPC and Beacom said he would like for officials, developers and environmentalists of both Martin and St. Lucie counties to attend the session.

"We want all these people to sit down with the state Department of Natural Resources to get the answers as to why it is taking the state so long to move on priority-approved acquisition of this environmentally endangered area," Beacom said.

The savannas are one of 17 top priority areas considered for purchase, which have not entered the negotiation stage.

Funds for purchase of environmentally encroached areas are to come from a $200 million bond issue floated by the state in 1973.

Ad sales not authorized-Spinney

JENSEN BEACH--Solicitation in Jensen Beach for advertising for a "policemen and firemen's benevolent fund" are not authorized by he Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department, according to Fire Chief Randolph Spinney.

Spinney called The Mirror Tuesday to complain of someone by the name of asked him to call.

He acted like he knows me, but I don't know him. He was dropping names of people I know. I called the sheriff's department and they said they were investigating," Spinney said.

The only drive for funds for the volunteer fire department is the one held in January, Spinney added, saying, "I don't know who they are, and never heard of them."

Marine scientists 'impressed'

JENSEN BEACH--State marine science teachers were impressed with our area," Environmental Studies Center director Jay Jarrett said Monday.

Jarrett and his staff were hosts this past weekend to about 100 members of the Florida Marine Science Education Association.

"Many of the teachers were from urban areas and haven't had the opportunity to tour mangroves like we have," Jarrett said.

Bob Bergen, president of the association and director of Florida Atlantic University's Pine Jog Environmental Science Center, pointed out that it was the first meeting of the group this far north in an environment that has both a high-energy beach and pristine hammocks.

The group held field trips and lectures, and many of the visitors stayed in tents behind the center.

The survey also shows that 28 per cent haven't had a physical in a year, 13 per cent did not see a doctor when ill, and 56 percent reported loneliness.

Since last April, the council has purchased and operated a bus, has had over 1,000 seeking information, and given referrals and had more than 22 home visits.

Tsumanakis said the survey would be used in the three-county area to formulate plans for various services.

Computer for county

JENSEN BEACH--Martin County Property Appraiser's office soon will have its own computer, according to the executive assistant property appraiser.

Ted Campo said that the big advantage of having a computer will be that "we won't have to deal with the computer center in the Palm Beach County appraiser's office."

Campo said work is proceeding well on preparing the tax roll, which is due in July.

He said there will be some adjustments in the new tax roll.

Last year foul-ups with the Palm Beach computer added to the delays in printing the tax roll and sending out tax bills.

PIPE BAND IN CONCERT--A full house of 300 listened to the St. Andrew Pipe Band in concert last Saturday evening in the auditorium at Florida Institute of Technology. The event was sponsored by the Martin County Historical Society. Guests heard such songs as "High Road to Gareloch", "Westering Home", "Barren Rocks of Aden" and "Badge of Scotland". Later dancers performed the Scottish Lilt and the popular Sword Dance. A dissertation on the Bagpipe was given by Lucius A. Daniel, IV.

Alliance backs court action

JENSEN BEACH- The Martin County Conservation Alliance last Friday voted to support Attorney Martin Hodder's proposals for court action in the case against a second nuclear unit on Hutchinson Island.

Hodder, who is representing the Alliance in site suitability hearings by the state Department of Pollution Control (DPC), told the group he intends to file a motion asking that Florida Power and Light Co. (FPL) be required to answer radiological questions in connection with site certification.

In his role as intervener, the Miami attorney told the Alliance that his position on site certification dovetails that of the Pollution Control Board in that both feel radiological questions are within the state's jurisdiction over site suitability.

FPL, on the other hand, has argued that the state is pre-empted from considering radiological matters.

In other action, the Alliance voted to oppose the appointment of Stanley K. Hathaway as U.S. Secretary of the Interior.

A letter will be sent to Florida's two senators, Lawton Chiles and Richard Stone, asking them to vote against confirmation of Hathaway when it is brought to a vote.

HOSPITAL DONATION--The Jensen Beach Women's Association purchased a 22 inch carpet sweeper for Martin Memorial Hospital. Members of the association passing a check to Guy Cromwell, third from left, are Marie Miller, trustee; Irene Gunter, president; and Agnes Bond, treasurer. Willie Leonard, hospital housekeeping supervisor, holds the newly purchased carpet sweeper.

Kiwanis wins opener as Jackson stars

BY DONNIE WILKIE

JENSEN BEACH--Jensen Kiwanis got off to a fine start in the second half of the Pony League baseball race, winning a crucial opener against the Stuart Jensen Elks last Monday night.

Gregg Jackson threw an almost perfect game in relief of Kiwanis starter Ronnie Rydell, who got into trouble in the third inning.

Kiwanis took an early 1-0 lead, due mainly to heads-up base running which saw them advance their runners around the bases on ground balls and wild pitches.

They then blew the game wide open in the last half of the second inning, when Ronnie Rydell's three-run bases-loaded double off the tall and faraway center field fence highlighted the seven run outburst.

However the Elks were not to be counted out--at least not just yet. Before the defending first half champions could blink their eyes, the Elks were right back within easy striking range at 8-7.

In that inning, Todd Bartlett got things going for the Elks with his ground ball into right field that ended up going through everybody. The error gave Todd Bartlett an easy opportunity to circle the bases and score the fourth run of the inning. His hit came with three men on base and nobody out in the third. Most of the seven runs scored by the Elks in the game were the result of errors in the Kiwanis outfield.

Gregg Jackson's fourth inning base hit gave Kiwanis the second of two insurance runs in the inning, and when the game was finally called due to the Pony League time limit of 10:15 p.m. Kiwanis had won by a score of 10-7.

Kiwanis will next meet Manley Construction Friday night at Langford Park. Ricky Bright will make his long awaited debut as a Manley starting pitcher against the first half champions and co-leaders in the second half standings.

The game will match Bright against the much-improved bats of Kiwanis Ronnie Rydell, Gregg Jackson, Dionne Wilkie, Pat Green, Jeff Smith, and Jack Richardson have all improved at the plate as the season has passed by. Whether these six people have good nights Friday night could very much decide the outcome of this struggle for first place.

There are games every night except Sundays, and some Saturdays at Langford Park. Be sure to come down and watch the athletes of tomorrow compete in the baseball program run so admirably by the Jensen Beach Optimist Club.

Golf complex is planned

JENSEN BEACH- Plans for a $100 million Professional Golfers Association (PGA) development in south Martin County were announced last week.

PGA President Henry Poe said his organization and Voight Development Corp. of Palm Beach are joining to build a permanent national headquarters for the PGA to be located west of Jonathan Dickinson State Park.

The new facility scheduled for completion in 1977 would include at least three golf courses a headquarters building a PGA library, museum and would be surrounded by 12,000 to 15,000 single-family homes.

It's not going to spring up over night, Martin County Commissioner John Kiernan observed when he learned of the project.

They'll have to go through as a Planned Unit Development (PUD) get approval as a Development of Regional Impact and all the other approvals, Kiernan said.

County planner Kris Schenk said the developers are talking about six square miles and putting a lot of people on it.

Building supplier Larry Timm was pleased to learn of the big development but pointed out that the new project would probably benefit Palm Beach County's building industry because the project is nearer to Palm Beach County suppliers.

Aggression

WASHINGTON—The Vietnam War has been, without a doubt, the most divisive issue our nation has faced in modern history.

But I fail to see how that war, as unpopular as it was with many Americans, could have led to the stand taken by some Members of Congress last week.

Imagine a resolution to condemn the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong for violating the Paris Peace Accord and 73 Members of Congress vote against it.

I know of no one who doubts that, if the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong had abided by the terms of that 1973 agreement which ended our military action in Indochina - if North Vietnam hadn't sent division after division after division into South Vietnam in violation of the Paris treaty, if the Viet Cong hadn't been supplied by the Soviet Union and Red China - the House of Representatives wouldn't have spent 14 straight hours debating a resolution to provide $150 million in humanitarian aid and another $177 million to evacuate Americans.

It just wouldn't have happened.

But 73 Members of Congress apparently operating under the thesis that what the North Vietnamese do is right and what our allies do is all wrong refused to condemn a clear cut case of aggression.

In addition, 71 members - many the same ones who voted against condemning the North Vietnamese - refused to accept an amendment prohibiting the use of any U.S. funds by the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong.

It apparently makes no difference to these Members that the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong were directly responsible for the deaths of 1,200 Americans - young GIs who died needlessly before they had a chance to live - and that they left many, many thousands of other young GIs wounded, blinded and maimed for life.

It apparently makes no difference to these members that both the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese have consistently and constantly refused to divulge any information which would put to rest the anxious hearts of mothers, fathers, wives, sons and daughters of those GIs listed as missing in action.

It was a disturbing scene as the votes were tabulated in the House chamber that night - not because the two restricting amendments failed. They didn't, the amendment to condemn the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong for aggression was adopted by an overwhelming 328-73, the amendment to bar aid to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong by an equally overwhelming 343-71.

It was disturbing because a small number of Congressmen and Congresswomen were willing to go overboard to appease aggressors, to slap in the face all the soldiers, sailors, Marines and airmen who fought bravely in Indochina.

It was disturbing because apparently the hard-earned dollars of the American taxpayers mean so little to them that they would turn the money over to the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong to administer.

Why not just send the money to Hanoi, to Peking or Moscow? If it hadn't been for their help - proffered in secret in violation of the Paris Peace Accord - the South Vietnamese might have been able to put together a stable government.

Granted the American people have a tradition of humanitarian aid and assistance, but to give money to our enemies - particularly when our own people are overtaxed, out of work and in dire need of help - strikes me as the ultimate in foolishness.

Fortunately, five sixths of the Members of the House felt the same and voted to first condemn the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong and then to keep them from grabbing for their own purposes aid funds meant to help the war-torn Vietnamese people.

Cancer bike-a-thon nets $4,000

BY DENNIS DOYLE

JENSEN BEACH–There were plenty of soft drinks and water every five miles at each of the four check points and a free hamburger, coke and french fries at the finish for the 105 cyclists who peddled 30 miles last Saturday morning raising $4,000 for the second annual Martin County Bike-A-Thon for the American Cancer Society.

Mac Lowry, chairman of the event and Monday that the bike-a-thon raised about the same amount of money as last year with the same number of cyclists.

I'm satisfied with the results" Lowry said. "Especially anytime you can get a group to ride 2 or 3 hours and get $4 000"

Sixteen adults participated in the event including three newsmen. Miami Herald's Stuart Bureau Chief Jerry Bowers and The Jensen Beach Mirror's Photo Editor Dennis Doyle

Martin County Commissioners John Kiernan and Maggy Hurchalla were also among the cyclists to peddle 30 miles. The two commissioners were able to see first hand the status of bike path conditions in the area.

They indicted perhaps a bike path along bumpy A1A could make a smoother ride after finishing the last leg of the ride perhaps a bit sore.

Talk of a project along Indian River Drive concerning the need for a bike path to that area turned out to be just talk. No one appeared to protest as the two commissioners biked along the drive.

Mike Hummon a high school Junior was the first to finish the route followed by Rowers and later on by veteran biker and former Martin County Commissioner Dr. Edward Geary.

The largest amount of money pledged was by a Leisure Village couple Harry and Dorothy Bittle who collected some $400. The two attracted a lot of attention in their red two seater bike with a white canopy top.

The couple made a ten mile ride to the first check out point and back however officials told them their pledges would not be cut in half as they thought, because the two rode for ten miles a piece.

The second largest pledge was made by Rhonda Stuart who collected some $380 in pledges.

The bikers left the Martin County Court House parking lot and headed out to US1 over the Roosevelt Bridge onto 707 to Rio. After a stop at Rick Carroll's Insurance Agency for refreshments the course proceeded down Palmer Road past FTT and north on Indian River Drive to the Jensen Beach Causeway.

They then continued down A1A to the second check point at Green Turtle Cove and then down the beach road toward Stuart until the third check point at the corner of A1A and Sewall's Point Road. The course then continued back to the court house parking lot, the last check point.

READY TO ROLL–One hundred and five cyclists gathered at the Martin County Court House parking lot last Saturday morning to peddle 30 miles in the second annual Cancer Society Bike-A Thon. $4 000 was pledged by the riders

Bike path status remains same

JENSEN BEACH–The status of additional bike paths in the county may still remain the same, but two Martin County Commissioners got to check out the problem first hand last Saturday in the bike-a-thon for the American Cancer Society.

Commissioner John Kiernan said Monday that both he and Maggy Hurchalla didn't see any one area which needed bike paths the most.

"We'd like to see bike paths all over the county but we just don't have the money , Kiernan said.

Bike paths currently run about $5 000 a mile and about $25 000 a year is budgeted for paths.

Kiernan said last year about $45 000 was used for bike paths, well over the budgeted amount.

It may be a while before Indian River Drive gets a much needed bike path, but perhaps commissioners will push more for the paths after seeing the problem first hand.

Red Cross audit excellent

STUART– The Martin County Chapter of the American National Red Cross was one of the thirty four Chapters throughout the United States selected by the Army Audit Agency, acting for the Secretary of Defense for an examination of its financial records.

Although American Red Cross does not receive any government funds, the Congress of the United States, in its Charter to the American National Red Cross requires that an annual audit of its accounts be performed by the Department of Defense.

The report of the audit which was completed in the fall of 1974 recommended a few changes in the Chapter's bookkeeping and recording systems. Local Red Cross Chapter Chairman Albert E. Palmer speaking for the Board of Directors stated that even though there were some minor deficiencies noted in procedural bookkeeping it is an excellent audit.

The Martin County Chapter is totally dependent upon local contributions to fulfill its budget requirements, Palmer said. The Chapter has one paid employee while some 45 men and women from the area volunteer their time to provide the multitude of community services for which American National Red Cross holds this Chapter responsible.

In addition to performing these various community services, Martin County Chapter is required to contribute an appropriate share of its locally raised funds to help defray the expenses of the American National Red Cross and the National Disaster Relief Fund.

Mr. Palmer added that a statement of the Chapter's Community services, as well as its financial status, will be published in July 1975, at the time of the Chapter s Annual Meeting.

Walter Ramsey has finished the concrete work at the sawmill. He certainly does professional work.

He and Hazel have also completed the work on the terrace lawn. However, they have many more projects lined up for the near and far future.

Hazel is not too busy to recruit more square dancers, though. She is so enthusiastic that there will undoubtedly be many new members in the beginners group starting early next November.

NEWS OF NETTLES ISLAND
BY MAY TIFFT

This will be my last column, for awhile anyhow, as we will be leaving for home the first part of May. You are fortunate to have as your new reporter, Harriet Maurquardt. She has a phone-334-0482-and it would be a big help to her if you would co-operate by calling in your news items.

Ed and Phylis Flemma and their son and daughter and Phylis' mother have been spending a couple weeks here. Ed is John Flemma's brother. John and Liz plan to leave for their home in New Hartford, New York very soon now.

Have you seen the library lately? You should.

The new shelves and bookstacks have been finished. They were given by the Women's Club and built by the volunteer labor of Harry Briggs, Bob Beedell and Elmer Hagen. The new labels on the shelves look very professional, too.

The librarians have asked that you be sure to return your books before you leave for home.

There are also shelves outside the library now to accomodate magazines. Why not bring in any magazines for which you have no further use, so that others may enjoy them?

The downstairs east wing at the rec hall adjacent to the library has been set aside for reading, card playing or just sittin' n talkin'. Coffee is always available.

+ + +

Selma Hall made an unusual find on the beach the other day. A complete set of false teeth in No. 1 condition. It was funny, but I couldn't help but feel sorry for the person who lost them.

+ + +

A new class has been started on Mon. nights for the camera buffs. This should appeal to everyone.

+ + +

Those gay ladies, Nina Leonard, Evelyn Ganz, Mary Coulliand, Mable Ackert and Isobel Read went shopping together again this week down to Boca Raton, and lunched at Port de Call. Came home with lots of packages too, their husbands said. Am sure the men were out having a good time also.

+ + +

It's beautiful--our resort on the ocean and the river--and we have fun as was evidenced a recent Saturday night at a Nautical Sina Along dance. The proceeds went to help finance the therapeutic pool.

The big plus of the evening was our own Resort band--"The Lady and the Tramps". The lady is Virginia Hasselden at the piano with Pat Conway, Jim Frary, Walter Avard and our drummer boy, Joseph Ginder, whose birthday we celebrated. Joseph is one of our life guards and our "Lifely" on the drums. All of us hope that we will enjoy this music often next season.

Etta and Bill Creighton were the spark-plugs of this occasion and Edye Adams was m.C. and provider of the hors d'oeurves. Many helped decorate with all kinds of sea motifs. Of course, Harold Leonard had to wear his infamous beach bum hat.

+ + +

There was a neighborhood party out on Celebrity Point given by Bob and Winnie Moore and their son Bob and daughter Carolyn. There were eighteen present and the event was to celebrate their purchase of a beautiful lot. Drinks and buffet dinner were served. Carolyn is a promising young tennis player here. Since the party, they have bought a double tip-out trailer also. Does this call for another party? If so, I think the neighbors should give it to them.

Bingo continues to draw big crowds even though our residency has diminished. The lure of winning cash just can't be beat, can it?

Evelyn Staley has been added to the rec staff as a sort of hostess for social activities. Lee Vogel helps a lot too with her zip at all the events. Matt, you are running a neat ship as new director.

+ + +

Jim Davis has just returned from Mexico. How about all those senoritas, Jim? And Audrey, who was here, says that summer has come at last and she took her first swim today.

There was an April birthday party up at the beach cabana. Those celebrating and present for cocktails and dinner were Flossie and Jack Sommers, Nadora and Frank Cox, Kenneth de Tracey Hackey, Ted and Judy Baker, Etta and Bill Creighton, Idele and Val Leger, Evelyn and Al Ganz, Lillian and Dave Rothbaum, and Jeanne and Fred Callow. Whom did I miss?

So, fare-thee-well, my dear friends. Have a nice summer. May you all have peace and love.

Trust Lola and Clyde Bonar to have a different surface patio blocks placed to show off shells in between in concrete. It's beautiful, as is their lovely new Florida screened room.

We are all happy to have them back, and from now on, this is to be their winter home.

The east side of S. Marlin has had it for this season. John and Louise Campbell left Thursday. Kay and Ray Kileen left Sunday; and Andy and Edna Wilston, Monday. We'll miss the good comradeship of that group.

Bob and Virginia Ramsey have had children and grandchildren visiting again, and now are due for a breather.

+ + +

Kenny and Bill Thompson had son Dick, his wife Joyce and grandchildren Ricky, Pattie and Suzie here. They have good reason to be proud of this fine family who hail from near Utica, N.Y. Leaving Thursday, they plan to visit Disney World and other attractions before returning home.

Summer fun at Howey

HOWEY IN THE HILLS—Enrollment for Howey Academy's seven week summer session June 16 August 1, is running ahead of last year and earliest possible application is urged by Academy officials.

Howey's academic program will benefit boys and girls in grades 4-12 who seek advanced standing in their class or those with subject or study habit deficiencies, said William Brannon, headmaster of the school.

Academics will be highlighted by a total recreation program which may be taken separately for summer fun if the student desires, said Brannon. He emphasized that all Howey recreational facilities would be staffed including riding stables, skiing and skeeting, air-conditioned gymnasium, student center and art center, tennis courts, playing fields, and a golf program at the nearby Mission Inn and Country Club.

The recreation program is offered from 2-7 weeks while those seeking academic credit may enroll four weeks and receive one half credit or earn up to two credits for seven weeks study. Subjects offered include English special studies, math, science, Spanish, study skills, reading, fine arts, physical education and driver education.

Stuart-Jensen Elks clubbed Lions, 11-2

BY DONNIE WILKIE

JENSEN BEACH–Led by the red-hot bat of Eric Stemle, and the steady relief pitching of Todd Bartlett, the Stuart-Jensen Elks clubbed the Jensen Lions club 11-2 in Pony League baseball action last Thursday night.

The victory by the Elks helped them to avoid the cellar in the first half Pony League standings, despite four losses in one earlier.

The Lions broke fast, as David Kenny smashed a triple down the left field line in the last half of the first inning, cracking in the first run of the game.

The Stuart-Jensen Elks came back in the third with four runs, as Eric Anderson, Gary Valarecourt, Holly Mosley and Greg Schaumburg put together a chain of four consecutive base hits to score three of the inning's four runs. Chesney's hit knocked in two runs.

Five more runs in the fourth inning by the Elks made the game an utter rout, as Stemle's triple added to four more consecutive hits by Anderson, Valarecourt, Chesney and Schaumburg.

The Lions made a vain attempt to counter in the last of the fourth, but one run knocked in by Frank Fitts didn't even dent the relentless attack of the Elks.

Two more runs in the fifth by the Elks put the game away for good.

The game was a game for the hitters, especially for the Elks, who whacked the roundball all around the baseball diamond throughout the evening, and when the dust had cleared, they had a grand total of 15 hits on the night.

Eric Stemle's two triples highlighted his three-for-three evening, while Eric Anderson went three-for-four. Bill Chesney was two-for-three.

David Kenny led the Lions with two hits in four trips to the plate, as they got but three hits all night. Frank Fitts had a single in the fourth inning that drove in their second and final run of the contest.

The second half begins this week, as Mosley, the Lions, and the Elks try to do a little bit better than first half champion Kiwanis.

Mosley Construction is given the best chance at the second half laurels, mainly because of the acquisition of Martin County Junior Varsity third baseman Ricky Bright, who will reportedly take the pitcher's mound tomorrow night in their big showdown with Kiwanis, winners of five straight games. The team that takes the nod there will probably stand the best chance of winning the second half title, although both Mosley and the Lions will be waiting for their cracks at the favorites, too.

Savannas session is proposed

PORT ST. LUCIE--A tentative date has been set for a meeting with state officials on purchase of the savannas as an environmentally endangered area.

At last week's meeting of the St Lucie County Regional Planning Council (RPC), Chairman J Patrick Beacom reported that he had set May 23 as the date for a session with Martin and St. Lucie counties and state officials.

According to Beacom, Ney Landrum, director of the State Division of Recreation and Parks and his assistant Gene Langston, have agreed to attend.

Also planning to attend the session, Beacom said, are representatives of General Development Corp., Wayne Construction Co. and Universal-Adams, owners and developers of an estimated three-quarters of the area involved.

The vast wetlands scheduled to be purchased by the state extend south from Midway Road in St. Lucie County to Jensen Beach Cutoff Road in Martin County and between U.S. 1 on the west and Florida East Coast tracks on the east.

Port St. Lucie City Councilman Larry Kimmel, a member of St. Lucie Council of Governments (COG) and a member of RPC, pointed out that he did not feel the RPC should take a stand on the acquisition only ask the state to make its decision on the savannas purchase.

Kimmel said that at a recent meeting of COG, two plans were offered. Plan B was to ask the state to take over the savannas and was one recommended by COG.

Plan A, Kimmel said, was to have local governments take over the area. He said that a state official at a meeting had said neither yes or no, but had indicated in so many words that the state would just as soon have local agencies do it.

Beacom said that he understood that the three owner developers would sell to the state at a reasonable price.

May 23 is the next meeting of the RPC and Beacom said he would like for officials, developers and environmentalists of both Martin and St. Lucie counties to attend the session.

"We want all these people to sit down with the state Department of Natural Resources to get the answers as to why it is taking the state so long to move on priority approved acquisition of this environmentally endangered area," Beacom said.

The savannas are one of 17 top priority areas considered for purchase, which have not entered the negotiation stage.

Funds for purchase of environmentally endangered areas are to come from a $200 million bond issue floated by the state in 1972.

Boat speed check is asked

JENSEN BEACH--The St. Lucie River Council of Governments (COG) will be asked to help in controlling boat traffic on the North Fork of the St. Lucie River.

Martin County Conservation Alliance last week expressed concern about the problem of speeding boats on the river.

Alliance member Dr. Walter Stokes was appointed as chairman of a committee to go to COG with the problem.

"We can lay our case out and they can make recommendations," Dr. Stokes said.

Alliance members point out that speeding boats represent a safety hazard in both the south and north forks of the river, and contend that the boats disturb fishing.

Don Dietz, who lives on the north fork, told the group that pollution of the waterways is due in part, to runoff from orange groves and orange concentrate plant north of White City.

Dietz also noted that speeding boats endanger water skiers and are scaring the fish away.

Into the pollution problem it was suggested that the Pollution Control Board be asked to monitor the water at the White City Bridge.

The next scheduled meeting of COG is May 29.

PTSF seeking charter members

PORT ST. LUCIE--The PTSF (Parents, Teachers, Students and Friends) organization is now running a charter membership drive. Deadline for charter memberships is May 7.

Resort renamed Sandpiper Bay

PORT ST. LUCIE--Sandpiper Bay at Port St. Lucie will be the new name for the General Development owned and operated resort facility formerly known as the St. Lucie Hilton Country Club.

In making the announcement, Sandpiper Bay's General Manager Pierre Roellinger also named Robert Reid Associates as the resort's international representative effective May 8.

Roellinger commenting on the name change said, "The Hilton association has been a long and happy one however as for the resort's image, would be best served by not being identified with a large chain."

Rio Lindo installs officers

PORT ST. LUCIE--Forty members and guests gathered at the CESA Building on Monday for the installation of officers for the Rio Lindo Garden Club.

Heading the group for the coming year is Mrs. Arthur Coulon, president. Mrs. James W. Lewis will serve as first vice president, and Mrs. Sol Cottman is the second vice president.

The head table was beautifully decorated with pink and silver roses surrounding the champagne punch bowl. Asparagus ferns and little red flowers were used for the dainty arrangements on other tables.

A special treat was the home made Swedish pastries and petit fours provided by club members.

Members are reminded that the gala celebration of the club's 15th anniversary is set for May 19. Mrs. Daniel Woodruff, Mrs. Vincent Ade and Mrs. Mahlon Cline are taking reservations for the event.

Spring luncheon is next week

PORT ST. LUCIE--The Port St. Lucie Homemakers will hold their annual Spring Luncheon on May 8th at a local restaurant.

Marguerite Brock will be an honored guest at the affair.

Class pledges doors for Dutton

PORT ST. LUCIE--In a short business session during a supper party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brach of White City, the Sayers Discussion Class of Dutton Memorial United Presbyterian Church voted to purchase a new set of front doors for the church.

Highlighting the affair was a menu of chicken and dumplin's. A period of recreation followed the dinner under the direction of M.T. and Judy Rust.

Charter group listens to public

PORT ST. LUCIE--For weeks the Charter Revision Committee has urged the residents of the community to make their values heard by offering suggestions for the new charter.

Over and over again, Committee Chairman Solomon Raffle told the people of Port St. Lucie it was their charter.

"For this committee to come up with the best possible document, your support is needed," he said.

Last Thursday, the committee conducted the first evening session for the purpose of introducing the first draft of the charter to the residents. Over 125 residents attended the meeting and taking the chairman at his word offered several recommendations and submitted a number of questions.

Evidence the committee's requests for resident input were not idle rhetoric was shown when one recommendation received at the meeting was incorporated into the charter at Monday's workshop.

Response from the meeting, as well as the results of a recent survey mailed to voters in the city, indicated a majority vote favoring the mayor being elected at large.

On this basis a motion was made and passed to have four districts, each of which would be served by a council member residing in that district. The councilmen would be elected by districts while the mayor elected by the people on a city wide vote.

The mayor will choose the vice mayor from the four councilmembers.

Redistricting will be based on population and not by registered voters.

While shortening the terms of office to two years was discussed at great length by the eleven member committee, the idea was rejected for two reasons. Councilpersons serving two year terms on a staggered basis would necessitate annual elections resulting in excessive expense incurred by the city.

The committee also agreed that, if a councilmember was performing his duties efficiently little could be accomplished in a two year term.

The charter committee will meet Wednesday, today, with the newly appointed City Attorney Gilbert to discuss several items including the incorporated changes made Monday.

The next regular charter meeting will be held Monday, May 5 at the Gazebo Room at the Hilton complex.

Planning, zoning, appeals committee members named

PORT ST. LUCIE--Mayor Schuyler Sharpe last week appointed committee members to head up the city's newly created Planning, Zoning and Appeals Boards.

Councilman Bill McChesney, who chaired the combined Planning and Zoning Committee, submitted a recommendation several weeks ago to split the P&Z board and, at the same time, create an appeals board.

Although McChesney suggested five-member boards, Mayor Sharpe went one step farther and appointed seven members to each.

All three boards will operate independently of the city council.

A resolution approving the appointments and the creation of the three separate entities is currently pending before the city council. Approval is expected at Tuesday's regular council meeting.

Those appointed to the seven-member Planning Board include Clyde Blunt and Vaughn Lewis, co-chairmen; Jack Radcliffe, Robert Jensen, Vernon Forrar, Charles Host, and A.J. Jarosewicz.

The Zoning Board will be composed of Edwin Faulkner, chairman; Howard Chase, C. Wayne Baughman, Roman Major, Herbert Tschudy, Henry Sewell and Charles Fields.

Members of the newly created Appeals Board are Charles Porteous, chairman, Ed Fessel, Hughes Brinnger, F.N. Candia, Joseph Sapala, S.A. Zane and William Lenz.

The only objection to the three-way split was voiced by the chairman of the zoning board, Edwin Faulkner, who said he felt one overall board would be superior since many matters were bound to overlap.

McChesney, who will continue to preside over the three groups until the council officially approves the boards members and chairmen, said he thought any overlap problems would eventually work themselves out.

NEWLY APPOINTED--During a special meeting held last Friday afternoon at the Port St. Lucie City Hall, the Council unanimously approved the appointment of Spencer B. Gilbert, a Fort Pierce lawyer, to fill the post of City Attorney. The vacancy was created nearly a month ago when veteran city attorney Rupert Smith announced his decision not to seek re-appointment.

Sponsored by the Port St. Lucie School Safety Patrol on behalf of the local Lions Club, the youngsters collected 67 pairs of eye glasses and several lenses.

Gilbert appointed city attorney

PORT ST. LUCIE--During a special meeting held Friday afternoon, the City Council unanimously approved the appointment of Spencer B. Gilbert to fill the post of City Attorney.

The vacancy was created during the reorganization meeting held earlier this month, when veteran city attorney Rupert Smith announced he would not seek re-appointment.

Gilbert, a native of Fort Pierce, has practiced law since 1953. His office is located at 220 South Second Street.

Serving as assistant state attorney for Martin and St. Lucie Counties from 1965 to 1967, Gilbert has also served as St. Lucie County First Board Attorney and city attorney for the City of Fort Pierce from 1967 through 1969.

Following the appointment, Gilbert said, "I am very happy and honored to be called upon to serve this community."

The new city attorney will receive $1,333 per month for his services until Oct. 1, beginning of the fiscal year. At that time he will negotiate with the city for continued terms.

During the meeting, Gilbert expressed his surprise at the lack of city files.

"I discussed this matter with former city attorney and was told there are no city files to be turned over. I therefore submit to you on the basis of past experience, it would be wise to have a city attorney file."

Indicating this would be one of the first projects to be started, Gilbert said, "These files will be cross indexed and will become the property of the city."

The council agreed to the purchase of fire proof filing cabinets.

Gilbert pointed out that he would be starting fresh, since with a fourteen-year history of the city, there are but few written legal records.

Another project Gilbert mentioned is the codifying of city ordinances so that memory will not be the only source used by city employees to locate specific ordinances.

Gilbert has offered to assist the Charter Revision Committee when his services are needed.

With reference to the current lawsuit brought against the city by the Interested Homeowners of Port St. Lucie, Gilbert said he has never read the suit nor discussed it with either Neil or the former city attorney Smith. The firm of Neill, Griffin, Jefferies and Lloyd Chartered of Fort Pierce is handling that litigation for the Homeowners group.

Several interviews were conducted by the Council prior to the appointment Friday afternoon.

Although the Council had stated its desire to employ an attorney who was connected with a law firm, providing backup lawyers when necessary, Gilbert is a lone practitioner.

Accent Florida adds to our bicentennial

A BOOK REVIEW
BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH–Any admirer of the historical writings of Hampton Dunn will relish the adventures of "Accent Florida" ($3.50, Tribune Co., Tampa, Fl. 33601).

Dunn has the magic of outstanding writing to add to his love of Florida in bringing vignettes of the many interesting and historical places of the state to the reader, plus photographic illustrations of the actual sites.

Martin Countians will relish the representation of the county in a story about Gilbert's Bar House of Refuge, now a museum on Hutchinson Island.

The paperback magazine-size book includes 100 of Dunn's most popular historical columns published in the Tampa Tribune's Florida Accent Magazine, and the articles cover Florida from one end ("Florida Doesn't End at Key West") to the other ("Chipley Lost By One Vote"), and from east ("Tombstone Honors an Honest Man") to west ("St. Petersburg's Oldest Church"), plus 96 other tales of interest covering the rest of the state.

Dunn is a legend among writers in Florida, produces photographic columns on points of interest in the state and has written many books on the history of various cities in the state.

The release of the book, published by the Tampa Tribune, coincides with the bicentennial celebration, and is a welcome addition to the historical materials available on Florida's heritage.

Dunn has won many awards for writings, and presently is serving as president of the Tampa Historical Society and has served as charter trustee of the Pensacola and Tallahassee preservation boards.

TOP SPELLER–Wayne Nichols of Parker Elementary School looks at the trophy he won in the county wide spelling bee last week at Jensen Beach Elementary School. Nichols spelled "harbor" after runner-up Frances Nowicki, also of Parker School, stumbled on the word "hangar." Tracy Chase of Jensen Beach Elementary was third runner-up.

Ron Johnston gets new kidney

STUART–Ronald Johnston, 25, went home this week with his newly transplanted kidney functioning beautifully.

Johnston underwent a kidney transplant March 26, at the Jackson Memorial Hospital, University of Miami School of Medicine Kidney Transplant Center. He was released from the hospital the weekend of April 20th.

A resident of Stuart, Johnston is a mortgage loan officer for Southern Mortgage Company. Seven years ago when he contracted glomerulonephritis, a kidney ailment which required him to begin regular renal dialysis treatment, Johnston was one of the outstanding young men in his community. He was President of the Stuart Junior Chamber of Commerce (Jaycees) and very active.

Johnston was the center of an extensive public campaign in the Stuart area, where over $27,000 was raised for his medical care. He lives with his wife, Merlin, at 1325 S.W. Egret Way, Stuart.

Johnston received a kidney from his sister, a San Diego, Ca. resident and experienced successful surgical procedure and acceptance of the new organ, according to the transplant team surgeon, Luca C. Rattazzi, M.D.

$175,000

County funds for inlet okayed

JENSEN BEACH– Martin County's tax money has been approved by a U.S. Senate committee to get engineering work started on improvements to the St. Lucie Inlet.

U.S. Senator Lawton Chiles' office Monday notified The Mirror that the Senate Public Works Committee has approved use of $175,000 of Martin's share of the project to get preliminary engineering work started.

Congressional committees refused last year to approve funds for design of the improvements, which are to include deepening of the channel and construction of jetties.

In a related announcement, Congressman L.A. "Skip" Bafalis notified Martin County officials that the House Appropriations Committee may approve some federal expenditures for the inlet improvement.

Under the U.S. Corps of Engineers plans, which have to be approved by Congress, inlet improvement costs would be borne by the federal government.

However, no federal money has been appropriated for the project so far.

Officials hope that by using available local funds for design of the improvements, work can get under way and federal money will be available soon for actual construction.

County Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick said arrangements to get the project under way with county money will be made as soon as the records are brought up to date showing the county has authorized the payment and the corps is authorized to receive it.

The $175,000 would be credited to Martin County's $1.2 million share of the total cost of inlet work.

The county has built up a $750,000 reserve of property taxes to pay for its share of the project costs.

U.S. Senators Richard Stone and Chiles along with Rep. Bafalis appeared Tuesday before Senate Public Works Committee headed by Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.).

The Florida delegation focused on the inlet program, pointing out that because of erosion, navigation through the inlet is now a hazard.

The project is aimed at relieving navigation hazards and halting erosion of Jupiter Island beaches.

Last year the Senate added funds in the public works appropriations bill for the project, however, they were lost in the conference committee.

Emergency dredging was completed in 1965 to restore a six-foot depth.

Reed denies Jupiter Island opposes Inlet Park bridge

JENSEN BEACH– A bridge to the new St. Lucie Inlet State Park is not opposed by the people of Jupiter Island, according to a letter to The Mirror by Nathanial Reed, assistant secretary of the Interior Department.

Reed's comment came in response to an inlet project analysis article by Mirror Editor Dick Campbell recently in which it was written: Opposition to the bridge is said to come from the residents of Jupiter Island concerned about the number of people who would have access to the park and from the park to the pristine mile-long Reed Wilderness just to the south. However there has been no public pronouncement of such opposition.

The Jupiter Island opposition to the bridge from Port Salerno to the park has been promoted by former County Commissioner Frank Wacha, who, in a series of letters to the Martin County Commission, has been attacking martion on the overall inlet project.

Reed's letter stated emphatically: "Opposition to the proposed Bridge does not come from Jupiter Island. I know of no formal or informal position taken by the Town of the Jupiter Island Association."

Reed said that as for the Reed family, pioneer developers of the island community, "we have two interests– the opening of the State Park for public use and the reconstruction of the inlet to prevent serious boating accidents and the accelerating impacts of beach erosion."

The Reed family donated the land within the Reed Wilderness refuge adjacent to the state park land.

While not supporting a bridge to the island, Reed looked to the state to provide access, placing responsibility for whatever that access is on the state.

The St. Lucie Park should be brilliantly designed as it is one of the most interesting beach front parks in South Florida. The County should aggressively push the State Department of Natural Resources to come up with innovative designs which minimize the impact of cars on the Park's resources. This does not mean that cars should be excluded from the park," Reed wrote.

Celebration group

Uncle Sam, Betsy Ross contest slated

JENSEN BEACH– The Bicentennial Celebration Committee will have two legendary American figures representing the area for the nation's 200th birthday.

A "Mr. Uncle Sam" and a "Miss Betsy Ross" will be selected to participate in the area's activities during the Bicentennial celebration.

Father Frank Alvarez outlined plans for selection of the contest at last Friday night's session of the Bicentennial Committee.

Participants in the contest must be residents of the Jensen Beach-Rio area, be students in grades 9-12, write an essay on "What is American Independence to me."

The contest participants must be responsible for costumes, and while he will recommend the top two boys and girls, the committee will be the final authority for selection according to Father Alvarez.

The winners in the contest will receive $25 Savings Bonds which will be donated by Mrs. Ginny Van Dorn of Jensen Beach Salon.

Father Alvarez will be chairman of the selection committee with members Mrs. Virginia Ray of Martin County High School English Department; John Bob, assistant principal of Jensen Beach Elementary School; and Mrs. Martha Moore, owner of Lord and Lady of Jensen Beach.

In other action the committee voted to purchase red, white and blue decals with the celebration slogan, "Our American Heritage," and will be sold for 50 cents each.

Cost of the decals will be $250, and it is estimated that return on decal sales will be $2,500. Also, an estimated $150 will be for the purchase of buntings to be placed on utility poles along the July 4th parade route and other streets.

Approximately $200 will be spent for stationery with the names of participating organizations in the celebration on the letter heads.

The Bicentennial Celebration Committee kick off dinner will be held June 30 at the Elks Club in Stuart, and the kick off for the year long celebration in the Jensen Beach-Rio area will be the first annual July 4th parade.

Andra Webb, parade chairman, reported on parade plans at the committee meeting.

Mrs. Webb, of the Jensen Beach Optimist Auxiliary, which will be in charge of the parade, said that the parade will begin at 10 a.m. July 4 at Langford Park and proceed along 707 to Indian River Drive to Commercial Street.

The parade color guard will proceed to Jensen Beach Causeway where the annual July 4th fireworks and other festivities will be held.

BIRTHDAY RING–Ocean Breeze Park artist Carl H. Engel holds a patriotic tag for his car which he designed. The red, white and blue tag with a replica of the Liberty Bell, 1776-1976, with the words–"Let's ring it again."

Chamber dinner

JENSEN BEACH– The annual spring membership dinner of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce will be held Friday, May 23, at the Cross 'n Nest restaurant in Rio.

A social hour beginning at 6:30 p.m. will get the evening festivities under way. A prime rib of beef will follow.

An amateur show will be held after dinner with Richard Campbell serving as master of ceremonies.

Need more jails

Stone charges DYS is fighting justice

JENSEN BEACH– Charging that the Division of Youth Services (DYS) is "fighting justice" and putting criminals back on the streets, States Attorney Bob Stone called for the age when a youth can be charged as an adult to be reduced from eighteen to fifteen.

Juveniles charged with serious felonies are put through the juvenile system and are sent back on the streets again, Stone said, speaking to the Jensen Kiwanis Club Monday at the Outrigger Restaurant.

In one case, a young man was arrested for the third time for breaking and entering. The DYS fought having him treated as an adult, and they sent him to Okeechobee Boy's School. In seventeen days, he was back on the streets and arrested for a life felony.

"We had him indicted, and he is in jail," Stone said.

Stone added that there are adequate safeguards to protect the constitutional rights of youthful offenders, "but youngsters who commit an adult crime should be treated as adults."

Stone also attacked the practice of releasing persons convicted of a capital felony on bond, saying that many crimes are committed by persons who are out on bond.

"If the law is there, it should be enforced," he said.

Stone also attacked the so-called reforms of the Florida Legislature, saying, "We might be better off if the legislature just left laws alone."

He said that law enforcement was weakened when the legislature reduced an attempted breaking and entering to a misdemeanor.

"Laws must have teeth in them to meet the rise in crime," Stone added.

With crime up 30 percent in the judicial district that includes Martin, St. Lucie, Okeechobee and Indian River Counties, as compared with 34.8 percent in Florida and only 18.8 percent nationally, Stone said that crime was due to increase even more.

The growth of crime is indicated in that when Stone was elected to office in 1972 there was only one prosecutor, and he now has eleven prosecutors, "all full time, all career men with no conflict of interest through outside jobs."

Stone compared with legislature's spending of $100 million on all law enforcements service agencies with $200 million spent on endangered lands saying, "The legislature thinks more of endangered lands than of endangered people."

Asked if more strict law enforcement wouldn't overcrowd the overcrowded jails even more, Stone said that Florida is bigger than it was ten years ago, and the state needs more jails.

He asked the Jensen Kiwanians to let legislators know how you feel about law and order.

LAW TALK–States Attorney Bob Stone discussed points of his law enforcement speech to the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club with attorney Brian Bibeau Monday following the luncheon talk.

Mirror again competes for Florida's top spot

JENSEN BEACH– The Jensen Beach Mirror is again in top competition for "Florida's Best Weekly Newspaper" honors. It was learned this week winning ten awards in the Florida Press Association's better newspapers contest.

Only three newspapers in the state won ten or more awards in the contest, including The Mirror, the Vero Beach Press-Journal and the St. Cloud News.

The Coral Gables Times won nine awards and the Brooksville Sun-Journal won eight awards in the contest.

Competition for the "sweepstakes" award, designating the newspaper as Florida's Best Weekly will be between five in the Mirror won the award last year, and in 1968 and 1970.

UF drive is planned for Jensen

JENSEN BEACH–Organization of a separate Ufer Fund drive for Jensen Beach and Rio got under way this week as volunteers met to seek the status of the old Jensen Beach-Rio UF charter and set up a late 1975 drive in this area.

Announcement of a separate drive by the Martin County United Fund brought almost unanimous approval when persons attending a Jensen Beach Quincentennial Committee meeting last week, according to Richard Neeson, a vice president of the Jensen-Rio United Fund.

Neeson joined with the establishment of the Martin County United Fund three years ago, and has been a part of that drive since. However, there has been disagreement with the method of conducting the drive on the part of Jensen Beach directors of the county-wide effort.

Art Hansen, president of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce and a former (two year) director of the Martin County UF, said, "Our interest is in the betterment of a United Fund drive for Jensen Beach and Martin County. We in Jensen Beach and Rio can better accomplish this through a local drive, and better serve our local organizations."

Neeson said that the charter of the Jensen-Rio UF was "still in effect, and we'll just have to dust it off."

He added that any local drive would have to be coordinated with the Martin County United Fund to "prevent overlap or duplication."

After all, we are trying to raise funds for needy organizations, and we must respect territorial responsibilities. By working together I think we can do a better job for those who deserve the support of the United Fund," he said.

Martin County UF to meet Tuesday in Jensen to elect

JENSEN BEACH–Facing the possibility that Jensen Beach and Rio will secede from the drive, the members of the Martin County United Fund will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Jensen Beach at First Federal's Harry Hoke Memorial Hall to elect officers and kick off the drive for 1976.

The board met yesterday Tuesday to discuss the action of a group of Jensen Beach leaders, and Guy Cromwell, president, said that the board "is willing to meet with Jensen Beach-Rio leaders to resolve any problems so that continued cooperation and harmony can be maintained within the United Fund organization."

The three-year-old drive was begun with the combination of the Jensen-Rio United Fund in the drive, and six directors are allocated to be from Jensen Beach. The board has eighteen members, with geographical distribution of the remaining twelve directors.

Cromwell is presently negotiating with Jensen Beach officials concerning the drive.

Jensen road resurfacing begins

JENSEN BEACH– Some road resurfacing work in the Jensen Beach area got under way Monday morning.

"This work is part of the continuing road improvement program approved by the County Commission," District 1 Jensen Beach Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick said.

Dickerson, Inc., of Stuart has the contract to resurface Hyline Drive, Sandra and Baker Hoods, Sunset Terrace, Flora Road and Sunset Drive.

Philbrick also pointed out that a flashing light would be placed on the north end of Skyline Drive at the Florida East Coast Railroad track.

The federal government will pay 90 percent of the flashing light cost with the county paying 10 percent, Philbrick said.

Bike paths are urged

JENSEN BEACH—The need for bike paths in the Jensen Beach-Rio area will be discussed by Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce president Art Hansen at the chamber's meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 12.

In the meeting agenda released Monday, Hansen points out, "The need for well located bike paths in our community is recognized.

"The subject has been discussed by many groups but no overall plans have been formulated," the chamber president said.

Hansen said a survey should be made of the area to determine where bike paths and sidewalks are needed.

"Priorities should be made and appropriate recommendations should be made to the County Commission."

Hansen also is seeking better communication with the County Commission, county departments and the Jensen Beach chamber.

"The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce is vitally concerned with the welfare of the business, professional, recreational and community in our area," Hansen said.

"The chamber encourages the commissioners and department officials to keep the chamber office informed of any proposed governmental action that might directly or indirectly affect the community," he said.

The chamber, in turn, will continually communicate local problems and conditions to the appropriate county officials and commissioner for District 1," he continued.

The principal areas of interest, according to Hansen, are District 1 budget details and taxes, planning and zoning, crime and traffic control, and sewers.

Flood insurance now available

PORT ST. LUCIE—Individual property owners are now eligible to purchase flood insurance protection at affordable federally subsidized rates, offering more extensive coverage under the expanded program authorized by the 1973 Flood Disaster Protection Act.

According to an announcement made by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, the City of Port St. Lucie was accepted into the National Flood Insurance Program effective May 7, 1975.

"We think the new expanded National Flood Insurance Program offers the best way of protecting property owners from the ravages of floods, and at the same time eases the burden on the general public," said J. Robert Hunter, acting Federal Insurance Administrator.

With the availability of flood insurance, the law requires it must be purchased by owners of property in areas identified as flood-prone by HUD, in order to qualify for virtually all forms of federal or federally-related financial assistance for building purposes in those areas.

This includes FHA or VA mortgages, loans from the Small Business Administration, or loans from any federal-regulated or supervised bank and saving and loans institutions.

While flood insurance is available to all residents of the community, Hunter emphasized the federal economic sanctions against building assistance will not apply to property outside the danger zones.

Under the expanded program, broader coverage can be obtained for all buildings and their contents. The limit of insurance for single-family homes is now $35,000, and $100,000 for other residential and non-residential buildings, at the subsidized rate of 25 cents per $100 of coverage. The rate goes to 40 cents per $100 for non-residential structures up to a maximum of $100,000 in coverage per unit.

Policies are effective immediately during the first thirty days the insurance becomes available. After the first thirty days, a fifteen-day waiting period will be required.

Hunter praised local officials for taking action before the July 1, 1975 deadline imposed under the act for enrolling in the program.

To become eligible under the program, Port St. Lucie officials prepared and submitted an application several months ago certifying the adoption of certain minimum flood plain management measures for the flood-prone areas of the community which conform with Federal requirements.

Monday night, the Bank and Rio were rained out in the bottom of the fourth with Rio leading 3-2. Lobbyist

WASHINGTON—"Lobbyist" the word has come to mean someone sneaking around in the background, spending money freely to get federal laws and regulations written in such a way as to help some special interest group.

Unfortunately, recent events regarding ITT and the milk lobby have shown this picture is at least partially accurate.

This does not mean that anyone, be he private citizen or special interest group should be denied the right to approach the government and argue his case. He should. The Constitution gives every American the right to petition his government for the redress the grievances.

But, as James Madison warned in the Federalist Papers, extreme care must be taken to insure that special interests never achieve the power to block what should always be Congress' overriding goal: accomplishing the greatest good for the greatest number.

Therefore, it is imperative that lobbyists be made to work in the open accountable for their actions to both the Congress and the public.

For that reason, I have just co-sponsored the "Public Disclosure of Lobbying Act" of 1975, a bill to give teeth to the outdated and never enforced 1946 lobbying regulation act.

This bill is based on the theory that those who seek to influence public policy should be open to public scrutiny. So, it calls for comprehensive disclosure requirements on not only the activities of lobbyists but also on their finances.

This proposed legislation goes a giant step beyond the 1946 act in that it also opens to the public all lobbying done before the executive branch of government done to influence rule-making or price supports or any one of a thousand things the executive branch of government can do to influence business.

Under this bill, all lobbyists defined as anyone who receives an income or makes expenditures of more than $250 in communicating with any federal officeholder regarding any bill or proposed law or any rule, adjudication or policy must be registered and must file quarterly reports.

The reports will be filed with a Federal Lobbying Disclosure Commission, which would not only publicize the reports but also insure that they are accurate and complete.

Even more important, this bill would provide stiff penalties for those who fail to file reports or who file misleading reports. In fact disobedience could be punished by a fine of up to $5,000 and or a jail term of up to two years.

I am hopeful the Congress will give speedy consideration to this much needed legislation. Opening up to the public work of the lobbyists is as necessary as opening up the meetings of Congress and the Executive Branch.

The Congress has already taken definite action to open up its inner workings to public scrutiny. In fact just last week the House Republican Conference voted to hold its meetings in public and a resolution to open the Democratic Caucus is currently pending.

In addition legislation has been introduced to bring the executive branch of government under the Government in the Sunshine requirements.

So long as secret meetings continue anywhere in Washington the public's loss of confidence in the federal government will continue.

Letter to the editor

To the editor:

The Jensen Beach Elementary School PTA would like to publicly thank your fine paper for the wonderful coverage given our school activities this year. Your coverage has helped to promote the interests and welfare of so many children.

A special thanks to Charlie Cates... you are fortunate to have this terrific man on your staff.

We look forward to working with you again next year.

With warmest regards,
Cathleen J. Grant, Secretary
Jensen Beach PTA

To the editor:

I refer to your column "Charter Confusion" in the April 30 Mirror.

At the April 24 meeting, I asked whether it was necessary for the charter to provide specifically authority to establish a police force. Someone in the crowd shouted that I was out of order for even asking the question. Nevertheless, Mr. Raffe graciously answered my question. He said that it was not necessary. Now I find in your column that "The charter grants the city the authority to establish a police department." I certainly did not hear that when the charter was read. If I had, I would not have asked the question. So I am still confused.

Also did not hear any prohibition in the charter against a council member or employee drawing two salaries. This should be in the charter and we should not have to depend upon the council to see fit to enact an ordinance to this effect. The Constitution of the United States has dual salary prohibitions in it. If it is good enough for the Constitution it is good enough for the Port St. Lucie charter.

The City of Port St. Lucie does need an updated charter. However, I am opposed to the cost of a city manager in a town of this size. This talk about an anticipated population of 200,000 is nothing more than a real estate developer's pipe dream. Therefore, I shall vote against a charter which sets up a city manager system.

Sincerely,
J.W. Wickham

V.F.W. news

BY CHUCK BENDER

This was a memorable week for Post 10066. Friday night's dinner was a big success. Jean Brafford deserves a big thanks for putting on a meal fit for a king. And to all the girls who helped, we tip our hats.

Loyalty Day brought together some of the finest speakers assembled for one occasion, starting with Commissioner Russ Philbrick who spoke about our duty to get involved in the government process. Captain Adams' theme was our responsibility to honor our flag and country.

State Jr. Vice Commander Cecil Branford and 11th District Commander Roy Prentice took charge of the Flag Burning ceremonies, an impressive part of our function.

Music by Lee Nalt put the cap on a successful day.

Words could never express how much we appreciate one of the finest entertainers there is for his contribution to our main project, the V.F.W. National Children's Home.

Woody Martens took time from his busy schedule to come over and help us raise money to help the home. Not only did he help us get funds, he also put on a show, the likes of which we haven't seen or probably will not be able to duplicate for a long time to come. As soon as all the proceeds are counted, we will publish the figures.

This Saturday, May 10, we invite all children with bicycles to stop by the Post on Savanna Road for our "Bike a Hike" Day. We will put reflector stickers on front and rear bumpers, and while the participants wait, they will be treated to refreshments.

Sunday, May 11, we are planning to work Mother's Day in with our monthly Jam Session. Mothers will be honored, so bring your mother to the Post and show her a good time.

Remember the dynamic 11th District Convention to be held at our Post Home on Sunday, May 18. Let's have a good turnout.

St. Martin's plan spring party

JENSEN BEACH–A Spring Card Party, sponsored by St. Martin's Church, will be held Friday, May 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the First Federal Building on Commercial Street, Jensen Beach.

Helen Knox is chairman of the event, which will feature table and attendance prizes.

Tickets may be purchased by calling 334-2125 or 334-4013.

Mrs. Knox says, "Plan a table with your friends and spend Friday night, May 16, with us. See you then."

'Star Spangled Girl' is Lyric offering

STUART–Neil Simon's "Star Spangled Girl" opens at Playhouse Lyric Friday, May 9, with performances on May 10, 16 and 17. Curtain rises at 8:30 p.m.

Deborah French, Bob Grossman and Jim Wheelus star in the fast-moving comedy which deals with two earnest young men struggling to put out a "protest" magazine and the All American girl who moves in next door and manages to send them both into a romantic tail spin.

Audiences throughout the country have enjoyed the three characters as they bubble a lot of fun, even out of familiar situations, which is the Neil Simon tradition.

Love and politics blend delightfully in a series of funny happenings set forth with masterly skill, the hallmark of Neil Simon comedy.

Call 287-9888 for reservations.

Help your child at home

STUART–This will be the program for the May meeting of the Martin County Association for Children with Learning Disabilities on May 14 at 8 p.m. in the Woman's Clubhouse on East Ocean Blvd.

Mrs. Marion Zboroveski, LD Teacher from Jensen Elementary and Anne Mateer, LD Teacher from Stuart Middle School will be on hand to give parents suggestions for helping children with learning problems at home during the summer months.

Art League to meet

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Art League will meet on Thursday, May 8, at 10 a.m. in the Community Room of First Federal Savings and Loan of Jensen Beach.

Among other agenda items will be the compilation of an exhibit schedule for four man shows during the summer months.

The meeting is for members only.

A PLEASURE—Commander John Donis, USN, is in charge of accepting each F-14 for delivery to the Navy. The stopover in Stuart was made as Donis headed the plane for active duty on the west coast. At left is Grumman Aerospace President George Skurla, who flew the 45 minute New York to Florida trip with Donis.

Grumman employees thrilled at sight of the F-14

STUART—The black tail of smoke from the afterburners of the jet began over the St. Lucie River and the F-14 Tomcat accelerated to over 600 miles per hour as it sped down the runway at Witham Field.

Several hundred employees of Grumman and guests gasped as the fighter suddenly swooped up into a vertical climb in front of the audience. The ear splitting roar of the jets and afterburners was frightening.

The Tomcat went straight up, out of sight in the cloudless sun, as suddenly appearing headed west.

That's about as close to Mach 1 — over 700 miles per hour — as he can get, said retired Air Force General Jack Merrell, bringing his fingers down from holding his ears closed.

The plane circled to the west and came in for a landing, its 180 mile per hour landing speed seemingly too slow in contrast to the lightening speed just exhibited.

As it touched down, taxiing in front of the audience, everyone applauded, thrilled by the exhibition.

Commander John Donis, USN, piloted the F-14, and his passenger was George Skurla, president of Grumman Aerospace Corp.

When the canopy raised the audience again applauded at length, and the principals left the aircraft for an elevated podium.

Skurla told the Grumman employees that the aircraft was a "complete fighter" and urged them to strive for quality in a speech that stressed the quality that Grumman is famous for.

"Do it right the first time," Skurla said, adding that when he was riding in the rear seat of the cockpit, "I kept wondering if the tail was back there."

The tail section of the plane is assembled in Stuart, and the weapons carriers are made in Stuart by 920 Grumman employees.

Describing the often vicious competition of companies for military business, Skurla said that Grumman was building 700 F-14s for the Navy, Marines and the Iranian Air Force.

Reaction of Grumman employees was more than the officials hoped for, and the impressive show had done its job.

"Do you mean I had a part of that?" a worker asked no one in an incredulous tone as the F-14 landed.

Its gleaming silver skin was bright in the sun, with reflective yellow markers identifying steps and doors. The F-14 was too much to see, in another employee. Throughout the crowd of assemblers there was an aura of amazement as the pieces that had been carefully assembled were shown in the completed and moving aircraft.

Skurla talked about "this magnificent bird" to the audience and then told the employees that the local facility would be enlarged, including an additional building, and a cafeteria.

More applause.

Following the speeches, tapes were lowered and the audience was allowed to walk around the aircraft.

A VIP luncheon followed at Stuart where a film of the F-14 in action was shown.

Move the airport?

Towl warns county

STUART—E. Clinton Towl, not to be known that Grumman Aerospace Corp. takes a dim view of any effort to move Witham Field to the west in Martin County, and the company that is the foremost employer in Martin County might have to fold its operation here if the facility is moved.

Talking to a VIP luncheon group gathered to celebrate the arrival of the F-14 Tomcat, Towl praised the work of local people and told how Grumman has endeavored to keep the employment level of the Stuart facility at a steady rate so that impact of economic changes are not felt in Florida.

We bring more work into Stuart when the economy lagers off, not when it is good. We try to be a good neighbor," Towl said.

We know that the airport must be operated as a public airport and if it is moved, then I know that situation is going to have a great asset. However, we will cooperate one hundred percent with what the local people want.

F-14 TOMCAT—top drawer pride of Grumman, has its tail section and some of the weapons carrier systems assembled and manufactured in the Stuart plant of Grumman Aerospace.

MAGNIFICENT—George Skurla, president of Grumman Aerospace Corp., called the F-14 Tomcat "a magnificent bird."

CROWDS VIEWED—The sleek F-14 Tomcat was viewed by hundreds of employees and visitors when it landed last Thursday at Witham Field. The Grumman Gulfstream executive jet is in the background.

What happens when you dial 911?

Everything - and all of it good, as Marge Owen discovered at 2:30 a.m. Thursday morning. Her husband, Bob, was taken by ambulance to the hospital in Stuart for a possible heart attack. In reply to her phone call, the ambulance, Rescue Squad and Police came to the first finger to no time flat. We're happy to report that though Bob had a heart attack, it was a mild one, and by the time you read this he should be out of Intensive Care. Marge says Bob looks good, is receiving excellent care and not worrying about a thing! We're all looking forward to your return to your lovely spot on Swordfish Lane, Bob Louise and Willard Auch are leaving this week for a two week trip to the mid-west, via a lovely motor coach. They should have a wonderful time for Louise's sister, Jane, and brother-in-law Vern will accompany them. Have a great time, you two - we'll miss you while you're gone.

The Frisby Fitzgeralds expect to leave for Ohio the end of this week. My, what a lonely park we'll be.

+ + +

Did you know that we have a celebrity in our midst, and have had for some time but didn't know it?

Her name is Martha Pierce of Lot 742. Before Martha and husband Bob moved to Venture Out for keeps they lived at Pembrook Pines near Miami. While there Martha was Social Director of So newept Recreation Club. Part of her duties were planning activities and introducing new residents to the club facilities.

Martha was a "natural" for the job for she likes being with people and has many hobbies, including helping others, politics, religion - to name a few.

The Pierce's have 2 daughters, grandchildren, a great-granddaughter and, as most of us know, an adorable miniature poodle named Tosh.

Martha has not been in the limelight for a while for she had an operation. The report is she is now feeling real good and ready to "go." More power to you, Martha, may your talents spread to us all.

They parked their trailer in a lovely spot and enjoyed being on the ocean. They also enjoyed the trip on the Conch Train around Key West. However, the trip north was so hot that they were glad to get back home and enjoy the cooling breeze on their own patio.

Pat & Bobbi Ostertag and Andy Gerard seem to have a regular to-the-west coast these past few weekends.

They enjoyed three days with Bobbi's aunt and uncle, Jessica and Al Baker, at their winter home on Sanibel Island, another weekend with close friends Florence and Earl Morris in St. Petersburg, and of course, their favorite hangout, Apollo Beach, with Gail and Michael Corcoran in their new home and sailing in their new sail boat.

They are also looking forward to daughter-in-law and granddaughter, Mary and Stephanie Gerard, returning for a few weeks of Florida sunshine from Brandywine, Md.

A letter from the Clarks say they were so sorry to miss the testimonial dinner for Larry Atkin. Evelyn and Clarence Arnold, Betty Drinkard's parents came up from Ft. Lauderdale to spend a few days with Betty and Paul. They celebrated Evelyn's birthday (the "t" one) with a few friends. From what I hear that was really quite a spaghetti supper with lots of music and fun.

City audit underway

PORT ST. LUCIE—A team of State auditors under the direction of State Attorney Robert E. Stone is presently examining the City's books and records.

The investigation got underway Tuesday afternoon, according to an announcement made by City Administrator Bernard Rubin.

Last February the Interested Home Owners of Port St. Lucie, Inc. gathered the signatures of 383 registered voters and petitioned the State Attorney's office for a full and complete audit of the City's financial practices.

"The three auditors are here in a cooperative mood and I have guaranteed them the city will cooperate in every possible way with their requests," Rubin told those attending Tuesday's workshop session.

A final point Rubin made clear was that the auditors would not accept phone calls nor would they provide press releases during their stay in the area.

"They are not here to judge the city's actions, they are here to examine the records and furnish their findings to the State Attorney upon completion," Rubin added.

Hayde named president

PORT ST. LUCIE—Charles Hayde, area's elected director of the Port St. Lucie Civic League, Tuesday was named President by the Board of Directors.

Rex Hannum was elected vice president, John Kocsly was named secretary and Bert McDonnell was re-elected as treasurer.

The new officers will serve a six year term.

Barracks 2936 dinner is planned

PORT ST. LUCIE—WWI Veterans Barracks 2936 with hold a chicken dinner for members and their guest on Thursday, May 8 @ 6:30 p.m. at the Marina.

Installation of officers will immediately follow the dinner at 7:30 p.m.

VOLUNTEER—Chaplain (Major) George C. Kramer was among the Air Force members who recently provided support during the airlift of Vietnamese and Cambodian orphans. Kramer, assigned to Clark Air Base in the Philippines, served as a volunteer during the stopover at Clark of more than 850 children enroute to new homes in America. Kramer is a nephew of Mrs. Mary Grant of 774 Linda Lane.

Final approval expected

Professional Center developers optimistic

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE—Developers of the proposed 21 unit medical center to be constructed in this south county area are optimistic loose ends can be wrapped up soon and that construction will be started within weeks.

Bill Salva, one of the three men who comprise the GGS Corp. developers of the $800,000 facility told The Mirror Monday that if the final approval is received from the State Department of Pollution Control (DPC) the last of May, as expected, the firm will breakground for the project immediately.

Our engineer is of the opinion the facility can be completed within three to four months after construction starts," Salva said.

Admitting the paperwork moves slowly, Salva did say the latest contact with the DPC indicated the final stamp of approval for the project could be expected as early as May 24.

"We have carefully followed the criteria set forth by the DPC and the State Board of Health and therefore can foresee no delay in the final approval," Salva, the corporation president, said.

"The water samples forwarded to the State Board of Health in Jacksonville have been analyzed and the reports were excellent," he said, adding, "the only treatment recommended was the addition of a water softner."

The firm will install their own sewage treatment plant.

The developers anticipate no problems in obtaining the necessary permits from St. Lucie County Planning Board to start construction. Approval has already been forthcoming from the County Fire Department.

Obtaining tenants for the proposed center is by far the least of the developer's concern.

As of now we have seventeen letters of intent from members of the medical profession throughout the county, Salva said.

Of the seventeen who have filed letters of intent, two are dentists, one a druggist, thirteen doctors and one is for a labratory.

The building will be situated on a two acre site recently acquired by the GGS Corporation and located approximately a mile south of the Prima Vista U.S. 1 intersection in Port St. Lucie.

The facility will provide 20,000 square feet of rental area.

There will be 98 parking spaces for patients and the two acre tract will be attractively landscaped.

The GGS Corporation is comprised of three equal partners. William "Bill" Salva, president; Joe Gerlak, vice president and Ed Glaser, secretary treasurer.

The firm has been involved in other projects in the area and has constructed homes and warehouses in Stuart.

MEDICAL CENTER—The proposed 21-unit, 20,000 square foot professional building to be constructed in the Port St. Lucie area by GGS Corporation is shown in the architect's rendering above. Bill Salva, president of the GGS and developers of the $800,000 facility, unveiled the drawing Monday for The Mirror. Presently awaiting the final stamp of approval from the State Department of Pollution Control, the developers are optimistic the center can be completed within three to four months from the start of construction. The project will include ample parking facilities and attractive landscaping.

Occupational licenses are needed in PSL

PORT ST. LUCIE—A complaint to the newly appointed City Attorney resulted in a thorough discussion of who does, and who does not, have to purchase an occupational license to do business in the City of Port St. Lucie.

During a workshop session Tuesday, City Attorney Spencer Gilbert told members of the Council the City has no lawful right to charge for an occupational license when the party transacting business holds a valid state, or county occupational licenses, and has no place of business located within the city.

Spelling the law out in the finest of degree, Gilbert said occupational license tax may be levied on:

1) Any person who maintains a permanent business location or branch office within the city of Port St. Lucie, for the privilege of engaging in or managing any business within its jurisdiction.

2) Any person who maintains a permanent business location or branch office within said municipality, for the privilege of engaging in or managing any profession or occupation within its jurisdiction.

Gilbert did point out this statute does not apply to persons engaged solely in interstate commerce.

City advised to 'Shake a Leg'

PORT ST. LUCIE—The City Council was warned during a workshop session Tuesday, they had better soon get to work on establishing some type of policies for the city.

"The city can not continue to function in the manner which has existed for the past couple of months," City Administrator Bernard Rubin said, adding, "there are policies to be set and decisions to be made that are already long overdue."

As an example, Rubin said he had not received a phone call to the Gil' Miami office relative to the City renting the vacant office space.

"I have presented this to the Council along with my recommendation, but that is as far as I am authorized to go. I can not make the decision for the Council, but I fear if a decision isn't forthcoming soon we might well find the space has been rented out from under us," Rubin told his listeners.

Another urgent matter pending is a decision from this council regarding the police protection.

The St. Lucie County Sheriff's department must compile the budget figures for the coming year.

"Do we city anticipate renewing the present contract with the Sheriff's office for police protection, increase the protection by one additional unit and four men, or get-wed with the proposal submitted by the Safety Director Jim Thomas for establishing a city police force?" These answers and decisions are needed.

Several weeks ago the council was presented with a lengthy proposal for study relative to the establishment of a city police force. Suggesting that it would take a minimum of nine months to have a functioning adequate force, Rubin recommended the Council consider renewing the present county contract and, if they so desire, start laying the ground work for forming their own department.

"Should the decision of this council be to continue with the Sheriff's Department, then I think consideration should be given to an additional unit serving the area," Rubin said.

The estimated cost of the additional unit is $66,665 per year, which includes the four men.

Mayor Schuyler Sharpe assured the matter would be placed on the agenda of the next official Council meeting, Tuesday, May 13.

Although Government grants would most likely be made available after the first year, Rubin has told the Council if you want your own police force, be prepared to pay for it.

Estimated cost for the first year is $250,000.

Democrats in action

PORT ST. LUCIE—There will be a meeting of Port St. Lucie Democrats at the North Port Marina on May 21 at 8 p.m.

The election of officers will take place at this meeting and a large attendance is expected. Also, ideas on programs for monthly meetings will be welcomed. These monthly meetings to take place the third Wednesday of May thru September at the Marina.

Savannas season passes

PORT ST. LUCIE—St. Lucie County Recreation Board is placing on sale seasonal day-usage passes for the Savanna Recreation area.

These passes can only be purchased by County residents. Effective date of issuance is May 1, and cost is $15 per season ending August 31, 1975.

No mistaking Sunshine Law

PORT ST. LUCIE—Newly named City Attorney Spencer B. Gilbert presented members of the City Council with his opinion re: the Government in the Sunshine Law at Tuesday morning's workshop session.

The action came as a result of a petition filed with the State's Attorneys Office last week which read:

"The undersigned all residents and voters of the City of Port St. Lucie, respectfully request a complete and thorough investigation of a secret and unannounced meeting of Mayor Schuyler Sharpe, Councilman Frank Rose, and Councilwoman Lolita Kernohan representing a majority of the City Council.

"This meeting was held immediately following the adjournment of the regular City Council meeting held on the morning of Tuesday, April 8, 1975.

"At this meeting the resignation of City Administrator Bernard Rubin, which had been submitted at the regular council meeting, was discussed.

"The meeting was reported by Mr. Leigh Coop, a reporter for The Fort Pierce Herald Tribune, in that paper on April 9, 1975. He reports in his article on the meeting as follows: 'The News Tribune was present at the meeting only because the reporter saw the three disappear, and later followed them. Other reporters present in the City Hall claimed that their Government in the Sunshine rights had been violated.'

"A complete copy of Mr. Coop's article is attached, together with several other articles from other newspapers pertaining to this matter.

"It is our firm belief that Sections 166.22 and 286.011 of the Florida Statutes have been violated and we respectfully request a complete and thorough investigation of this matter. Thank You."

The petition, which is now in the hands of Assistant State Attorney Steve Rubino, had 15 signatures. Elmer Johnson of 3181 Morningside Boulevard, who presented the petition, claimed that under present law only one request is necessary to initiate action.

He said that getting the 15 signatures was easy, adding "But the really funny thing was, that at least three quarters of the people who signed the petition are members of Mrs. Kernohan's own Interested Homeowners of Port St. Lucie, Inc."

Councilwoman Kernohan served as secretary to the Homeowners group before running for a council seat.

HAPPY ANGLERS—Members of the Port St. Lucie Anglers Club gathered on the Jensen Causeway last Thursday to enjoy a day of picnicing, fishing, and just plain socializing. Twenty seven members attended the first outing of its kind. Even though no record catches were landed, a good time was had by all. Plans are underway for the affair to become a Club regular. Tentative plans indicate the group will gather at the causeway on the first Thursday of each month from 8 a.m. till 4 p.m.

V.F.W. news

BY CHUCK RENDER

This was a memorable week for Post 10066. Friday night's dinner was a big success. Jean Brafford deserves a big thanks for putting on a meal fit for a king. And to all the girls who helped, we tip our hats.

Loyalty Day brought together some of the finest speakers assembled for one occasion, starting with Commissioner Ross Philbrick who spoke about our duty to get involved in the government process. Captain Adams' theme was our responsibility to honor our flag and country.

State Jr. Vice Commander Cecil Brantford and 11th District Commander Roy Prentice took charge of the Flag Burning ceremonies, an impressive part of our function.

Music by Lee Wall put the cap on a successful day.

Word could never express how much we appreciate one of the finest entertainers there is for his contribution to our main project, the V.F.W. National Children's Home.

Woody Martens took time from his busy schedule to come over and help us raise money to help the home. Not only did he help us get funds, he also put on a show the likes of which we haven't seen or probably will not be able to duplicate for a long time to come. As soon as all the proceeds are counted, we will publish the figures.

This Saturday, May 10, we invite all children with bicycles to stop by the Post on Savanna Road for our "Lite a Bike Day." We will put reflector stickers on front and rear bumpers and while the participants wait, they will be treated to refreshments.

Sunday, May 11, we are planning to work Mother's Day in with our monthly Jam Session. Mothers will be honored, so bring your mother to the Post and show her a good time.

Remember, the dynamic 11th District Convention to be held at our Post Home on Sunday, May 18. Let's have a good turnout.

St. Martin's plan spring party

JENSEN BEACH–A Spring Card Party, sponsored by St. Martin's Church, will be held Friday, May 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the First Federal Building on Commercial Street, Jensen Beach.

Helen Knox is chairman of the event, which will feature table and attendance prizes.

Tickets may be purchased by calling 334-2125 or 334-4013.

Mrs. Knox says, "Plan a table with your friends and spend Friday night, May 16, with us. See you there."

'Star Spangled Girl' is Lyric offering

STUART–Neil Simon's "Star Spangled Girl" opens at Playhouse Lyric Friday, May 9, with performances on May 10, 16 and 17. Curtain rises at 8:30 p.m.

Deborah French, Bob Grossman and Jim Wheelus star in the fast-moving comedy which deals with two earnest young men struggling to put out a "protest" magazine and the All American girl who moves in next door and manages to send them both into a romantic tail-spin.

Audiences throughout the country have enjoyed the three characters as they bubble a lot of fun, even out of familiar situations, which is the Neil Simon tradition.

Love and politics blend delightfully in a series of funny happenings, set forth with masterly skill, the hallmark of Neil Simon comedy.

Call 287-9880 for reservations.

Help your child at home

STUART–This will be the program for the May meeting of the Martin County Association for Children with Learning Disabilities on May 14 at 8 p.m. in the Woman's Clubhouse on East Ocean Blvd.

Mrs. Marion Zboreveski, LD Teacher from Jensen Elementary and Anne Matzer, LD Teacher from Stuart Middle School will be on hand to give parents suggestions for helping children with learning problems at home during the summer months.

Celebration plaque is planned

JENSEN BEACH–A bronze plaque will be purchased and placed in Jensen Beach by the Bicentennial Celebration Committee.

Mrs. Ginny Van Dien was appointed chairman of the Memorial Committee which will purchase the plaque and find a prominent place in the community for its location.

The plaque will signify the observance of the bicentennial celebration.

"I will welcome any suggestions relative to location and appropriate type of plaque," Mrs. Van Dien said.

Art League to meet

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Art League will meet on Thursday, May 8 at 10 a.m. in the Community Room of First Federal Savings and Loan of Jensen Beach.

Among other agenda items will be the compilation of an exhibit schedule for four main shows during the summer months.

The meeting is for members only.

Birthday greetings

JENSEN BEACH–Congratulations and best wishes for a happy day are extended this week to Bill Britton, celebrating May 7 (today); to Eleanor Sprague and Ruth Ann Decker, May 8; Frank Robinson, May 9; Gladys McComb, Ed Curtis and Earl Grant, May 10; Captain Francis Adams, 103 years old on Sunday, May 11; to Susan Tilton, May 11 also, but much younger than Captain Adams; Mrs. George Raynor, May 12; and to Morris Hartman and Barbara Grosanickle on May 13.

Mirror wins ten awards; places third in Florida

JENSEN BEACH--The Jensen Beach Mirror won first place in the coveted general excellence division of the Florida Press Association's annual better newspapers contest and won nine other awards at the FPA convention in Key Biscayne last Saturday, placing third in the contest for "Florida's Best Weekly Newspaper."

The Mirror's photo-feature story on the need for an interchange on I-95 in Hobe Sound won first place for best pictorial series. The feature story was written by Mirror editor Dick Campbell and photographs were by Dennis Doyle, photo editor.

For environmental and conservation writing, The Mirror won second place in the state with a series on the Universal-Adams development of Twin Canyon Plantation in the Jensen Savanna. The judges commented the series offered "... clear evidence of a strong commitment to the three interrelated issues covered. The effective combination of news coverage columns and editorials spread through virtually every issue of the year resulted in movement in all areas towards the desired goals."

The Mirror also won a second place award for community service, a series promoting the advantages of a Council of Governments in Martin and St. Lucie Counties. Judges said the series was "... a consistent and valuable contribution to the community well-being, and an example of how a consistent campaign can pay off."

A second place award for editorial page makeup was according to judges "so close a second that a choice was very difficult."

The Mirror also received honorable mention awards for excellence in typography special issue best column, use of color and newspaper promotion.

The Coral Gables Times was the sweepstakes winner, and the Vero Beach Press-Journal was in second place in points. The Mirror tied with the Gainesville Independent for third place.

Type different? Screekersplunks!

JENSEN BEACH--The type in The Mirror looks a little different this week and well it should. The typesetting computer went "screekersplunks" and stopped setting.

The big moment came at about 5 p.m. Monday, as the evening shift was on, and our Compuwriter wouldn't work. Efforts to fix the damned thing failed past the time that typing stations were closed, so we waited until Tuesday morning to try again.

We picked up the fuses that had blown through the evening, went to a filling station, got more, and worked on the machine by long distance call to Atlanta.

You need a new power unit," the technician said over the phone. "I'll get it on a plane."

We've got to put out a newspaper today," we protested.

To the rescue came Len Hawken and the Flashes. Hawken offered the use of the Flashes computer from noon Tuesday until we completed setting type.

It took quite a while, and shuttle service between the Flashes and The Mirror kept page makeup moving until late Tuesday, when about four hours late, we completed makeup and the newspaper.

Thanks, Len Hawken. The Mirror is out on time.

Tension mounts on solar bid

JENSEN BEACH--The Jensen Beach Environmental Studies Center hopes to be the first to have an application approved by the new Energy Research and Development Administration, hoping for federal funding of a project that would see a solar auditorium built here.

Jay Jarrett, director of the center, admitted to Chamber of Commerce directors that he was excited about prospects for the application, but the tension of waiting seemed evident in his explanation of the project. Along with that tension was a pride in the response of the community to the needs of the project.

"No one we've spoken to has said no," Jarrett said. "Dick Grandfield worked three days on the plans for the building as a part of his donation to the cause, and we've had promises of other support by builders."

The three hexagon shaped buildings will have a polynesian effect, necessitated by the angles of roofing required by the solar panels. Rooms will have 16-foot ceilings, designed to have the least amount of cooling or heating and full utilization of the cool breezes.

The auditorium in the main building will seat 150 people. One of the smaller units will feature displays on the various working models of solar energy systems.

Electricity would be provided by wind generating systems, with a required backup system from Florida Power and Light Company being underground, so don't want people looking at our solar energy building thinking we are using FPL electricity," Jarrett explained that the FPL tie-in is required by the state as a backup system.

A 5,000 gallon steel tank would be underground to service the unit.

The application asks for $155,000 to build the structure, which would be located on the rear portion of the center property.

If the request is turned down, the center plans to ask for assistance in building the solar system on the existing buildings.

"I don't see how they will respond," Jarrett said, but added that there had been interest in solar power locally. Les Combs has asked for help in building a 50,000 cistern for a year supply of water on Hutchinson Island, and also might put in wind generating equipment at his home there.

Chamber President Art Hansen, who originally brought up the idea by asking for a bicentennial tie in with solar energy, said, "It is one thing that would put us on the map nationwide."

NEW DECAL--The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce has designed a decal for use during the bicentennial. The decal is red, white and blue, with a map of the United States and Jensen Beach indicated on the map. The decals are available through the Chamber office on Commercial Street for fifty cents.

Computer system is planned

JENSEN BEACH--Martin County Property Appraiser E.F. (Dutch) Schnurbusch is installing a new system designed to maintain and update real estate and personal property files.

Schnurbusch said the new system designed by Boeing Computer Services will speed up and simplify the property appraiser's job.

The system will also speed the preparation and mailing of tax bills, Schnurbusch said.

The county has about 35,000 parcels, and the property appraiser points out that his office must keep information on each parcel.

About 1,000 to 1,500 parcels are added to the tax roll each year.

The property appraiser's office has paid $40,000 a year for computer service, and the new system is expected to be purchased at a cost of $180,000.

Executive Assistant County Appraiser Theodore Campo asked the County Commission last week to aid in the purchase, but they declined.

Schnurbusch said the new system in the future will post tax receipts, distribute tax payments to the proper taxing districts, and also quickly spot any tax bills which become delinquent.

Palms disbursed through Jensen

JENSEN BEACH--Plans for the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce to handle the distribution of lethal yellowing resistant Manjavan Palm trees along Indian River Drive were abandoned Monday night when the board of directors learned the delays had cost them the trees.

Only 75 of the 600 trees are left in the FTT nurseries according to Dean Tim Tealey, not enough to line the drive with palm trees.

Tealey reported that publicity on the availability of the palm trees brought only two requests for trees. The rest of the trees have been planted on the campus.

The Jensen Optimist Club might accept the remainder of the palm trees to plant in Langford Park.

Arch begins this week

JENSEN BEACH--Preparing for the bicentennial parade, this week the county will start work renovating the landmark Jensen Beach Arch.

Planned are ornamental brick doorways and recessed window areas, a complete paint job, a new sign and plantings in beautification of the arch by the Jensen Beach Garden Club.

The club has raised $300 to match county funds to do the job, according to Mrs. Harold Lartaud, president.

Mrs. Fulton to be principal

JENSEN BEACH--Clara B. Fulton of Jensen Beach, has been nominated to be principal of Martin County High School this year.

Mrs. Fulton will fill the vacancy left by Terrance Horrigan, principal of the school for six years, who is taking a sabbatical leave next year.

Appointment of Mrs. Fulton must be confirmed by the School Board which will meet May 20. There appears to be little opposition to her appointment.

Mrs. Fulton has taught at Jensen Beach Elementary and Stuart Elementary schools. St. Mary's Episcopal School where she was also school director, and Hobe Sound Elementary School, and has been assistant principal for the past year at the high school.

Mrs. Fulton, 38, holds a masters degree in education administration from Florida Atlantic University.

As principal, Mrs. Fulton will be the highest ranking female administrator in the school system.

PTA salutes teachers Friday

JENSEN BEACH--There are all kinds of "be kind" weeks, and the Jensen Beach Elementary School is taking advantage of them, planning a celebration of "Be kind to your teacher" on Friday at the school.

The teachers will be greeted at the school at 6 a.m. Friday by the members of the PTA.

Fireworks funds need in Jensen

JENSEN BEACH--The need for funds for the July 4 Independence Day celebration on the Jensen Beach Causeway continues, according to Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce fund raising committee.

It was reported that donations could be made to the fireworks fund c/o Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, Jensen Beach, Florida 33457.

In related events, Jack Klett reported that the bicentennial committee had no plans to charge for parking on the Jensen Beach Causeway.

He showed the original decal that had been designed by the Chamber for use during the bicentennial and said the decals would be sold for fifty cents to all who wanted them.

Chamber is planning liason with county

JENSEN BEACH--Liason with the Martin County Commission will be the subject of a committee to be named by Jensen Chamber President Art Hanson.

Hanson reported to the board of directors that he had talked with Ross Philbrick, county commissioners, and found that Philbrick indicated he would appreciate it very much.

The Chamber committee will be made up of Hanson, Dave Deci, Frank Mock and Ernie Baker.

Philbrick also asked if the Chamber would mind his visiting in Jensen Beach one day each week, using the chamber office to meet with his constituents. The Chamber directors asked that a certain day be named by Philbrick, and that the office be made available on that day.

Rep. Chuck Nergard has an office in The Mirror where he meets with local residents every Friday, when the legislature is not in session.

Rebate checks under way

JACKSONVILLE--The Internal Revenue Service today announced that the first of nearly 3 million rebate checks for 1974 income taxes will be reaching Florida taxpayers next week.

Charles O. DeWitt, IRS District Director for Florida, said taxpayers who filed returns the earliest will receive rebate checks first. He added that the IRS expects to have all the rebate checks issued by June 15.

The payments stem from enactment of the Tax Reduction Act of 1975 which provides for a rebate on 1974 taxes of between $100 and $200 for most taxpayers, DeWitt said.

Under the new legislation the maximum rebate is 10 percent of the tax liability up to a maximum rebate of $200, reduced by one percent of adjusted gross income in excess of $20,000 up to $30,000. Taxpayers with adjusted gross incomes in excess of $30,000 will receive a rebate of $100. Those who had a tax liability of less than $100 will receive a rebate equal to the tax liability.

Married persons filing separate returns will not get a larger rebate than those filing jointly since, under the law the maximum rebate for a married person filing separately is $100.

The IRS reminded Florida taxpayers that the rebates will be automatically computed and that they should wait until after June 15 to inquire about any missing rebate checks.

Many taxpayers, especially those filing returns close to the April 15 deadline, will receive one check for both the rebate and refund if the person is entitled to a refund.

Drugwar

WASHINGTON—Your neighborhood druggist stands on the frontlines in the war on drug abuse.

As federal and local law enforcement officers make it harder and harder for addicts to find an illicit drug supplier, more and more addicts are turning to drugstore robberies to satisfy their constant cravings.

For that reason, I have just co-sponsored legislation to make it a federal crime to rob a pharmacy and to provide stiff punishment for convicted drug thiefs.

It is legislation desperately needed in the war against drug abuse.

In fiscal 1974, there were some 6,000 drug thefts from pharmacies all across the nation. More disturbing is the fact that, in 18 per cent of these thefts, the robbers were armed.

And still more frightening is the report that the number of robberies and the incidence of violence are growing at a steady and extremely disconcerting rate.

Since it is impossible to station a policeman in every drugstore in America, we have a responsibility to ensure that those addicts who rob pharmacists are dealt with as severely as possible.

The bill which I have co-sponsored will do just that. Anyone convicted of robbing drugs from a pharmacy would be faced with a fine of up to $5,000 or imprisonment for not more than 20 years or both.

If a deadly weapon is used, the penalties jump to a $10,000 fine, 25 years in prison or both.

And, if the worst happens and someone is killed in the robbery, a mandatory jail sentence of at least 10 years shall be imposed.

While these penalties are not perhaps as strict as you and I would like, they do represent a step in the right direction — a definite step toward protecting the innocent from the onslaught of the junkie, the addict in such a desperate need for a fix that he will rob and kill willingly to satisfy his craving.

I know there are those who will tell you that the junkie who robs a drug store to obtain the narcotics he needs is someone no longer able to tell right from wrong, someone who can see no further than the physical craving gnawing at his body and soul.

That may be true. But the junkie who learns to satisfy his craving with a gun the first time is going to do it over and over again until he is stopped.

And the more he does it, the more desperate he is for the drugs he needs, the greater the chance he will shoot to kill if your neighborhood druggist or mine resists.

For that reason, it is high time we thought not about the problems of a desperate junkie crying for a fix, but the problems of the neighborhood druggist trying to make a living, of the problems his wife and children must face getting along without a bread winner.

It is time we worried less about the criminal and more about his victim.

It is time we started working harder to protect society instead of the armed robber and junkie.

This bill, I believe, is a step in that direction. Perhaps only a halting first step but an important step.

For that reason, I am hopeful the House Judiciary Committee will give this proposed legislation the speedy hearing it deserves.

The sooner we show we are concerned about the victims of crime and not just the criminals, the sooner we will restore confidence in our judicial system; the sooner we end mollycoddling the criminals, the sooner our streets will be safe for all of us.

And, after all, it is the drug addict who is responsible for much of our crime today.

News of Nettles Island

BY MAY TUFFT

Sunday, May 3rd was a "fun" day at Nettles Island.

Betty Weston, formerly of Woodmere, L.I., on lot 1404, had a block party in honor of our two new members of the Board of Directors, Harry Briggs and David Henry.

A three piece band consisting of Bernard Murphy, Pat Conway, and Jim Frary played all types of music including a palmetto fan dance done by Jean Callow and Evelyn Staley. (We will have to see this production on the stage some night--how about it gals?)

All kinds of "goodie" foods were served. Also there was plenty of "joy" water to add to the merriment of the day.

* * *

A grand time was had by all, says Evelyn Staley.

* * *

Martha Briggs says she just came back from a camera field trip. This group is under the direction of Jules Frere. He gave the group many pointers on using their cameras so I am sure all will have fine pictures.

We went to places we had never seen before, a very enjoyable trip.

* * *

Last Tuesday, Don Kitchen caught a 16" snook weighing 1½ lbs. on surf fishing. The John Bolengeres, Martha Gruman, Jack Somers and other friends enjoyed a fine fish dinner.

* * *

Speaking of fishing it has been good. We understand that even the blues go north and as they passed by our beach, all the anglers were out. Charlie Ludwig, Bill Williamson, others I'm sure but last, Hank Beiser known as "Huckleberry Finn," had one many he could. Heard just this morning that Bill Wood fishing with Mr. Justice caught three fish, sailfish, good going.

Council actions

By Alice Hickey

PORT ST. LUCIE--In what was without a doubt the most productive session held since the March elections, the City Council, Tuesday, made a move towards conducting city business.

Although the heated spars continued throughout the three-hour session, there were some accomplishments.

The Council agreed to accept the renewal contract from the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Department for the coming year. The agreement is subject to the presentation and review of the detailed budget by the Sheriff.

The renewal contract will provide the same protection, two units, however, the cost will be approximately $145,000.

Approval of the contract does not close the door to the Council's discussion and possible establishment of a city police force.

In other action the Council approved a resolution retaining Richard Neill of Neill, Griffin, Jeffries and Lloyd. Chartered Neill is defending the City in a lawsuit brought about by the Interested Homeowners of Port St. Lucie, Inc.

Later in the day, the Council interviewed Elmer Cox for the position of city administrator. The Council announced a special meeting will be held Friday at the City Hall to confirm Cox's appointment.

FIT wins national title

F.I.T. A small college national championship in Intercollegiate Rowing now resides in Martin County after Florida Institute of Technology's Jensen Beach oarsmen defeated all comers in the Freshman Four division at the Dad Vail Regatta in Philadelphia last Saturday.

The F.I.T. crew made the 2,000 meters race down the Schuylkill River look easy as their won going away from favored college finalists, Marist, Georgetown, St. Joseph, and Drexel. Originally scheduled to compete in the Varsity Four category because there were no openings left in the freshman slot, F.I.T. Jensen Beach switched to the freshman category when one of the entrants cancelled. From there they proceeded to win their quarter final and semi-final heats to qualify for the final Rowing into a slight headwind, they posted a time of 7:34 winning by well over a boat length.

It was a banner day all the way around for the combined campuses of Florida Institute of Technology as between them they brought home three Small College National titles and one third place finish. The F.I.T. Melbourne crew easily won the Lightweight Eight and Freshman Eight categories, and placed third in Varsity Four. Combined with the victors by the Jensen Beach campus, this gave F.I.T. enough points to easily win the all-sports trophy. However since the two campuses row as separate schools, this was not possible and the Coast Guard Academy claimed the trophy by one slim point over Melbourne.

F.I.T. Jensen Beach's win had to be the success story of the entire Regatta. In only their second year of rowing training in second-hand and borrowed equipment, this local crew has risen from obscurity to national prominence solely on desire and dedication. In the winning Four only the stroke, Bill Bater, had any previous experience. The others, Tim Terry, Jay Nies, and Glenn Bunting had never seen a racing shell before last October. This dedication extended also to the coaches, Bill Atwell and John Hennon who devoted their time and energy at no pay.

The twenty oarsmen and women who participated in F.I.T. Jensen Beach's crew program this year have now begun a tradition of winning that coaches Hennon and Atwell hope to build upon in the coming years. Returning next year will be a solid nucleus of experienced oarsmen and oarswomen who will make training of new participants much easier. If the much needed and long hoped for new equipment can be purchased, the Jensen Beach could be the home of more than one National Champion ship.

An interview with the Seminoles

BY SCOTT DAVIDSON

F.I.T. The history of Florida is intermixed with white man's mal treatment of the Seminole Indians. The politics during this period was the understanding of all three Seminoles. During the war that followed the Seminoles made the Indians strongest resistance to the white man. But this is all past history and the mistakes we made then we must live with forever.

To get more current information on the Seminole Indians I visited the reservation, Big Cypress, located in the Big Cypress swamp south of Lake Okeechobee. North of the reservation on your map is marked an area called Devils Garden. Even today this area is believed by the Indians to be truly the Devils Garden. The Indians on the reservation today, when passing through this area go in groups of at least two, carry a gun and travel as fast as they can through Devils Garden.

The people that I spoke to were members of one of the few tribes that never signed a treaty with the United States. The Indians living on the reservation look at the outside as another world. The reservation is owned by the United States and not the Indians living there. The tribe has divided the reservation into farming land, pastures for grazing their cattle and horses, and their village. The main industry of the Indians is raising their cattle and horses, of which the individual owner pass the tribe for the use of its pastures.

The main problem of the reservation is only complete from kindergarten to the sixth grade. Then if further education is needed they are forced to bus them to Miami, a distance of 200 miles a day to and from school. Upon arriving home after school they do their home-work, leaving little time for studies. Their illiteracy in English speaking is also an other little encouragement to the student for further education. Just recently the Indians' discussions were in their native language and in English.

The youth have many physical problems caused from close to their elders, permitting lots of germs. Also their home environment is far greater here as it is in most modern areas in the United States.

Another problem of living on the reservation is the uncontrollable fires that run through the reservation yearly. One of these fires last year almost destroyed the entire reserve now. These fires, even with modern day fire fighting methods are once started almost impossible to put out.

To me the fate of the Seminole Nation depends on the residents of Florida accepting the Seminole people as they are. Also that we don't forget these people are the only true native Floridians.

FIT plans open house

JENSEN BEACH. Plans for an open house to the public to view the facilities of Florida Institute of Technology's Jensen Beach are being made according to Dean Tom Bradley.

Bradley asked the Jensen Beach chamber of commerce to attend the open house planning to get the best possible exposure to the public, and directors Monday night approved a committee to handle the planning.

Those from outside the area should include the names of 3 persons to whom the scholarship program can be explained.

Quarterly figures released by GDC

MIAMI–General Development Corporation's net income for the first quarter ended March 31, 1975, was $2.2 million, or $.25 per share on revenues of $29.7 million. In 1974, net income was $3 million, or $.33 per share on total revenues of $42.5 million.

Louis E. Fischer, president and chief executive officer, said that despite the quarter's results, General Development continues to strengthen its liquidity position as a result of expense reductions and strong collections on homesite contracts receivable.

Shelter revenues declined 66 percent from the Company's 1974 record level of $84.3 million to $4.8 million, reflecting nationwide housing market conditions. Shelter inventories were reduced $2.3 million in the first quarter, favorable affecting eh Company's cash flow.

Homesite sales were $15.8 million, down from $18.5 million a year ago. Despite inflationary pressures, gross margins on homesite sales remained level while related marketing expenses were reduced, improving the profitability on homesite sales.

Interest income, accounting for 18 percent of total revenues, was $5.2 million compared with $4.9 million a year ago. The increase resulted from higher average interest rates on the Company's contracts receivable portfolio.

The Commercial Division, engaged principally in tract land sales and commercial property leasing, recorded 1975 revenues of $1.3 million compared with $3.1 million a year ago. In January 1974 the Company closed a single property sale of $2.9 million, contributing a restated $.11 per share to last year's first quarter earnings.

Revenues for the Communities Division, including amenities and utilities, were level with 1974's total of $3.6 million. GDV Financial Corp., the Company's mortgage banking subsidiary, contributed $117,000 to the first quarter's pretax income.

Fischer noted that General Development collected $17.0 million in the 1975 quarter from its contracts receivables, contributing to the Company's positive cash flow of $3.6 million. During the quarter the Company repaid $3.5 million on its revolving credit agreement.

Citrus

BY JON HILLES

F.I.T. The United States Citrus industry of which Florida is an important component had its start with the planting of three Brazilian orange trees in Riverside, California in 1873.

The U.S. now produces 32% of all citrus in the world but only 2% of the oranges, tangerines and lemons, the difference being due primarily to its dominance on the grapefruit market.

The most known citrus fruits are oranges, grapefruit, lemons, limes, tangerines and tangellos. The originations of these are southeast Asia for oranges, Indian for lemons and the West Indies for grapefruit.

Grapefruit is so named because it grows in clusters similar to grapes.

Limes gave two varieties the Key lime believed to be of West Indies or Mexican origin, while the Persian lime originated in southeast Asia.

The tangelo developed in 1897 is a cross between a grapefruit and a tangerine. The name is derived from the linking of tangerine and pomelo the Dutch name for grapefruit.

Florida produces primarily three varities of oranges over three time spans. Hamlins are at their peak during October and November, pineapple oranges during December and January. Valencias are best from February through June.

Florida produces two-thirds of all tangerines over three times as many grapefruit as Texas, California and Arizona combined.

In the state, Martin County ranked tenth in producing 5,283,000 boxes of all types of oranges in the 73-74 season. Martin County ranked sixth in producing 1,734,000 boxes of all types of grapefruit in the same season.

Polk County is Florida's number one producers of both oranges and grapefruit with 32,570,000 and 13,105,000 boxes respectively.

Most of Florida's oranges reach the market as concentrate whereas most of the California crop appears as fresh fruit.

Other leading nations in orange production are Japan, Spain, Brazil and Italy.

In the U.S.* California and Arizona produce 96% of all the lemons.

Florida fruits are not only good to eat they are good for you.

The bash and splash that happened in Bimini

BY KATHIE DUNLEAVY

F.I.T. On the second of May at six o'clock in the morning a group of 14 students and two working people were packing their cars to make tracks to the Ft. Lauderdale Airport. As we were all running around to assure to the last minute preparations, I couldn't help but think back on how this entire trip got off the ground and was about to swing past the planning stage.

It had been approximately three weeks before when some old time friends came down to the Sunshine State to enjoy not only the sunshine but to get in some serious fishing. We were all out having a grand old time trading stories and telling a lot of fish tales. It was during that conversation that the subject of Bimini came up. As the conversation evolved on fishing I suggested that Bimini would be a great place to go because of the fishing and clear waters. I was laughed at with my suggestion because of probable high cost. It really did kind of hurt my feelings but no matter as we got sand about it again for the rest of the evening.

It was after the guests left that it began to really bug me, who couldn't there be a group gotten together and enjoy the pleasures of this small nearby island for a few days over a weekend.

The following Monday I made tracks to the travel agencies and made several inquiries. To my surprise it was unbelievably inexpensive. Peter Shaw was such a big help and offered a lot of assistance in answering all the questions that were necessary to put this trip together.

In a short amount of time I had an influx of interest and a great deal of enthusiasm. The day had arrived and off we went to the airport.

We were all gathered with some stragglers by 8:30 ready to take off on our short venture. In no time at all the plan was in the air and now the excitement of not fully knowing what to expect was already in motion of all the passengers of our group.

It wasn't 25 minutes later when we landed on the south island. After going through customs and a short interview period we boarded the island ferry that would carry us to our hotel. Most of us had already dozed and all was settled in our rooms before the hours in shade built-up heat on the beach area. After the good night's rest we were looking at the same sun enough to relax with the usual sound up.

Left were Richard, David, Chabe, Warren Fisher, Kim Walters, Gus Inshaman, Bob Graben, Steve Acker (the fisherman), Phyllis Russe, Tom Barnhart, Phyllis Mitchell, Tom Kelly, Tom Mousnicet, Nancy Boisel, Sheri Kuiges, and Glen Simms, thank you all for a most fun time. You regularly can tell the rest of this unfinished story.

F.I.T. Arrangers model rooms in the United States for an age are remote or strange to the average person's thinking. In order to fulfill this need a large number of technicians must be trained to the that many occupants are not commonly known.

At present high schools teach such fields in a manner geared toward the development of such technology for the private sector. In an individual area Florida is of this situation is especially destructive of its people.

An American proverb says, the best laid plans of mice and men go often awry. Yet, we still continue, creating a dollar drain on the Florida economy, to train people for non-producing industries.

If we are going to have a viable economy, and transportation modules, we must train people to do the jobs that must be developed.

Broke and bored

BY KATHIE DUNLEAVY

F.I.T. Several weeks ago it was announced that the Jensen Beach area is to receive a $400,000 grant to be used for parks and recreation. This is a great step in the right direction for this area to receive the parks and recreation it needs.

A $400,000 grant will go a long way in providing a great deal of good for the people in this area. But, it will not go very far in providing for the needs of the people in this area.

The F.I.T. Campus, with Martin County officials, developed with the idea of including all kinds of facilities that might even spark a needs for an area like ours. The general consensus of feeling is needed from one area to another is the proper transportation, communication.

Many students forget that there are many activities that are open to them on campus, such as sailing, scuba diving, and tennis. Many of these activities are being developed with a stronger emphasis on getting more participation.

Some students don't realize that they have the opportunity to use the pool and work out in the gym. Many students don't realize that they have the opportunity to use the pool and work out in the gym. Winning is only half the fun.

There's a lot more to Jai-Alai than the thrill of winning a Perfecta, Quiniela, or Double.
There's the game itself.
Bouncing balls careening off walls at 150 miles an hour. The greatest athletes in the game climbing half way up a wall to retrieve a seemingly unretrievable shot.
The heart-pounding excitement of the do-or-die try.
From the moment the players step onto the court you're sure to remain on the edge of your seat.
Come out today and find out what Jai-Alai is really all about.

Mayor resigns as bank director

PORT ST. LUCIE--"I am resigning my directorship in the Port St. Lucie Bank at the board meeting scheduled for May 15, so I may devote full time to my duties as Mayor of the City of Port St. Lucie."

The Mayor's statement followed the reading of the opinion handed down by the Commission on Ethics relative to possible conflict of interest arising from Mayor Sharpe serving as a director and stockholder of a local bank where the city has a certificate of deposit and payroll account.

City Administrator Bernard Rubin requested the opinion at the direction of the Mayor immediately following the city elections in March.

According to the Commission, the certificate of deposit was purchased on a bid basis and in conformance with the best bid provision, therefore eliminating any conflict.

Relative to the payroll account, it was the opinion of the Commission the city is clearly "doing business" with the Port St. Lucie Bank by placing its payroll account there.

This business transaction does not create a conflict of interest, however, as the Mayor does not own a material interest in the bank that is, ten percent or more of the total assets.

Regardless of the fact the letter went on to say the Mayor is not required to disqualify himself from voting on issues involving the bank, he said, "People find enough to criticize, so I have made up my mind to resign my directorship of the bank. I want a clear conscience."

While on the subject, the Mayor noted he had received much criticism about being so cautious in handling affairs of the city, to the point of not accomplishing anything.

"I believe the people of this city will see that things move a little faster from here on out," he said, adding, "I preferred to start my term with a cautious approach rather than make a lot of errors that could possibly create even larger problems later on."

No unity forseen

Rubin resignation is accepted

PORT ST. LUCIE--The resignation of City Administrator-Clerk Bernard Rubin was officially accepted Tuesday by the members of the City Council.

Rubin, who said earlier he could foresee no unity between the new members of the council and the incumbents, spoke only briefly Tuesday morning before the standing room only crowd that jammed City Hall.

Although, I sincerely appreciate the support I have received from the residents of this community, I have made my decision and I leave without bitterness nor harsh words."

In my opinion, each end of this council table will have to literally embrace in order for the city to move ahead. I believe this can best be accomplished with someone else filling the post of City Administrator."

Rubin, who has been at constant odds with the new council, submitted his resignation one month ago.

Citing public support urging him to stay on, he rescinded the resignation the following day.

A week later, during a workshop session, Councilman Larry Kimmel recommended Rubin be named City Manager, a recommendation which carried the unanimous approval of the council.

However, when the appointment was to become official at the following Tuesday's regular session, Mayor Sharpe suggested the matter be tabled for another two weeks or until the yet-to-be appointed City Attorney could render an opinion on the legality of such a move.

With the appointment of Spencer Gilbert as City Attorney, a resolution naming Rubin as City Manager was presented to the Council.

The matter was once again tabled by Sharpe, and last week during a workshop session, Councilwoman Lolita Kernohan did a complete about-face when she took the stand that the city did not need a city manager at this time.

"The city has nothing to be managed except three automobiles, two trucks and not even a city hall. The books are kept by the auditor," she said, adding, "I can't see any great emergency that calls for such an appointment at this time."

Rubin said the turning point came when he discussed the situation with his wife. "We decided we don't need this aggravation anymore," he added.

As of May 19, he will begin work with the St. Lucie County Tax Assessor's office. "Where I'll be a lot happier."

Immediately following Tuesday's session, Mayor Sharpe and other council members conducted an interview with Elmer Cox in regard to hiring him to fill the Administrator-Clerk position.

Cox has served as planning administrator for the city of Fort Pierce where he was instrumental in securing large amounts of federal funds for community improvement. For several years he was press attache for the U.S. State Department, stationed in several foreign countries. His home is in Fort Pierce.

Council approves city hall expansion

PORT ST. LUCIE--The acquisition of the adjacent office space for use by the city building department was approved unanimously by members of the Council Tuesday.

The move was recommended by City Administrator Bernard Rubin several weeks ago as he cited an increase in traffic in the building department and described the present facility as being hectic to work out of.

The office will be rented by the City from General Development Corporation for $140 per month.

Rubin told his listeners the city would likely be reimbursed at a later date when various county employees will also be working out of the new office.

As soon as the computer hookup is completed, it is expected a representative from the property appraisers office, the tax collector's office and from the circuit court will occupy a portion of the new office.

GENERAL EXCELLENCE--The coveted general excellence award for newspapers over 4,000 circulation in the Florida Press Association was presented to Mirror Editor Dick Campbell by FPA President Tommy Greene last Saturday. The Mirror won ten awards and placed third in the state.

Cluster concept approved

PORT ST. LUCIE--General Development Corporation's top brass received the green light from city officials Tuesday to present their site plans for cluster housing to the City's Planning and Zoning Committee.

The Council unanimously approved the basic concept of the proposed project.

Although three basic sites are involved in the overall project, C.C. Crump, vice president of operations for GDC, noted the site adjacent to the marina was tentatively pinpointed for the earliest construction.

The other two sites involved include one just north of the marina and the other located east of the hotel.

It is the opinion of GDC attorneys that the "Special Commercial" zoning now in existance will permit the construction of the cluster housing planned for the site," Crump told his listeners.

Crump noted that GDC plans to begin construction of the six cluster units near the marina first, then work its way up Morningside Boulevard.

In presenting the plans, Architect Larry Burke noted each unit will range in size from 600 sq.ft. (not to be lived in year round), up to 1700 sq.ft.

According to Burke, the present zoning of the marina site would permit 15 units per acre, however he said GDC will hold that density figure to ten units.

"Since each cluster will be composed of two to three units, the project will not take on the look of a shanty town housing," he said.

Assuring the Council of proper maintenance, the project will be protected by a property owners association. Owners will pay a fee for the condominium type maintenance.

The mention of "condominium" maintenance brought objections from residents attending the morning session.

In an effort to clear the misunderstanding relative to the word "condominium", Mayor Sharpe said, "Condominium is a method of ownership, not a type of building."

It was also pointed out there are already two such projects in the area at this time.

Both Mid-Port and Floresta Pines Two have common maintenance agreements," the Mayor said.

It is expected the Planning and Zoning Committee will review the site plans and submit their recommendations to the City Council at the next regular meeting, May 27.

Crump ask the Council to be prepared to issue the necessary permits at the time the plans are submitted to them.

No comment

PORT ST. LUCIE--The firing of the only employee in the City's engineering department brought a firm "no comment" from Mayor Schuyler Sharpe last Friday.

According to Bill Green, the mayor entered his office (Green's) last Thursday, pulled up a chair and requested his immediate resignation.

"He gave no reason for my dismissal and when I asked, he said, 'We can do this the easy way or the hard way'," Green said.

Assuming the hard way was being fired, Green agreed to resign effective the following day, Friday.

An interview with the other Council members indicated they knew nothing of the mayor's decision until they read it in the paper.

Type different? Screekersplunks!

JENSEN BEACH--The type in The Mirror looks a little different this week and well it should. The typesetting computer went on "screekersplunks" and stopped setting.

The big moment came at about 5 p.m. Monday, as the evening shift went on, and our Compuwriter wouldn't work. Efforts to fix the blamed thing failed past the time that filling stations were closed, so we waited until Tuesday morning to try again.

We picked up the issue that had blown through the evening, went to a filling station, got more, and worked on the machine by long distance call to Atlanta.

"You need a new power shit," the technician said over the phone. "I'll get it on a plane."

"We've got to put out a newspaper today," we protested.

To the rescue came Les Hawken and the Flashes. Hawken offered the use of the Flashes computer from noon Tuesday until we completed setting type.

By Alice Hickey

News of Nettles Island

BY MAY TIFFT

Sunday, May 3rd was a "fun" day at Nettles Island.

Betty Weston, formerly of Woodmere, L.I., on lot 1404, had a block party in honor of our two new members of the Board of Directors, Harry Briggs and David Henry.

A three piece band consisting of Bernard Murphy, Pat Conway and Jim Frary played all types of music including a "palmetto fan" dance done by Jean Callow and Evelyn Staley. (We will have to see this production on the stage some night--how about it gals?)

All kinds of "goodie" foods were served. Also there was plenty of ice water to add to the merriment of the day.

+++

A grand time was had by all, says Evelyn Staley.

+++

Martha Briggs says she just came back from a camera field trip. This group is under the direction of Julius Freire. He gave the group many pointers on using their cameras so I am sure all will have fine pictures.

We went to places we had never seen before, a very enjoyable trip.

+++

Last Tuesday, Don Kitchen caught a 36" snook weighing 13½ lbs. surf fishing. The John Bolengers, Martha Gruman, Jack Somers and other friends enjoyed a fine fish dinner.

Speaking of fishing it has been good. We understand that even the blues go north and, as they passed by our beach, all the anglers were out. Charlie Ludwig, Jr., Bill Williamson, 3rd others I'm sure, but last, Hank, better known as "Huckleberry Finn" had too many to count. Heard just this morning that Bill W. out fishing with Mr. Justice caught his first sailfish good going.

+++

From our Recreation Department general clean up has been the order of the day. Cleaned drapes will be hung next week. Hopefully all the noise and confusion is over. If most of what has been planned materializes there should be greater utilization of the building. The recreation staff put on a rollicking popcorn party Saturday afternoon around the recreation pool for young and old to enjoy.

+++

Beginning next week music will be played all weekend for the enjoyment of sunbathers and swimmers alike.

+++

We all want to say happy birthday to Debbie daughter of Audrey and Jim Davis on having finally reached her 21st year. believe all us "old timers" this will be the best year of your life. My thanks for typing my news, M.T.

+++

I'll sign off with the motto as carried on our old Dodge: no name for it on the new V.W. camper. Due to lack of interest tomorrow has been postponed.

+++

Next week Bonnie Staley will be reporting. Maybe she want to go for a week?

JENSEN BEACH—A team of federal evaluators sent here last week by the Department of Education in Washington, D.C., have again officially approved the Environmental Center for another year of operation.

With the annual seal of validation, the center is eligible to receive its federal funding amounting to as much as $150,000 a year.

The team was very impressed with our center," said Jay Jarrett, director of the center, adding, "Especially with the audio visual teaching methods and some other methods developed by the staff."

Jarrett said a new method of testing students with slides and tapes could bring additional grants.

The team arrived Thursday night and began evaluation Friday morning. The group interviewed instructors, talked with students throughout the school system and also attended Friday's field trips.

The group came from Raleigh, North Carolina, the closest out of state regional office for the Department of Education in Washington. Although the seal of approval must come from Washington, the money is given to the Florida Department of Education where all centers must competitively request funding.

The center currently sees between 60 and 100 students in a day or about 8,000 a school year.

Jarrett said that both he and his staff are enthusiastic and relieved but that all their efforts toward validation were not over yet. They must update a seventy page document by June 1 before Tallahassee will give its final signature of approval. And they must at the same time also enter the center's budget for next year's funding outlining the complete program.

DISCUSSIONS—A team of federal evaluators interviewed members of the staff at the Environmental Center in Jensen Beach last Friday morning. The group later announced Saturday after their observations, that the center was again officially approved for its federal funds amounting to $150,000.

Over $900 is given in Legion bingo

JENSEN BEACH—Five Jensen Beach agencies are about $175 richer due to the recent fund raising effort of the Jensen Beach American Legion Post 126.

Checks for amounts ranging in the neighborhood of $175 were given to the Jensen Beach Samaritan Free Ambulance, the Jensen Beach and Rio Volunteer Fire Departments, Langford Park CUBS, and Martin Memorial Hospital.

Recently, the Legion delivered checks for $100 to the Jensen Beach Bicentennial Committee and $150 to the Jensen Beach Fireworks Committee.

Once each year at the end of the Bingo season, the Legion holds a month of fund raising in which the proceeds of each Bingo night are given to various groups.

This year also, the Legion is sponsoring two boys, Allen J. Pitchford and Michael Phillips to Boys State.

Memorial Day, a time to remember those who answered the call to arms when trouble threatened the land.

As veterans gather to remember the dead, Eugene Poux sits quietly in a wheelchair, reflecting on events of World War Two—events that cost him one leg, and could cost him another. A veteran forgotten in a maze of governmental red tape.

His pride cost him benefits

Memorial Day, a time to remember Gene Poux, a forgotten WW2 POW

BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH—Gene Poux crashed through bushes and vines to land the other side of the valley in Italy. He was in direct line of fire from the Germans, who were "quite aware" of my presence."

A Mortar fire wounded me in the leg, and I fell unconscious. When I regained my senses, I was surrounded by Germans."

When Gene Poux felt the searing pain of shrapnel in his leg his real story of pain began, pain that has lasted through the past thirty three years.

The story of pain is not just of his leg, for that has been amputated, nor of the partial loss of his other leg due to circulatory problems.

It is the story of the pain of the veteran, a prisoner of war in World War Two who endured shrapnel and frostbite, two years and three months in a POW camp, starvation and humiliation before he could return to freedom.

It is a story of the pain that mental anguish returns.

Because he was a proud man, and felt others had received greater injury, he did not fight for his benefits and his following his return from war.

Today he faces a greater fight, a fight with the massive government bureaucracy, but is the Veterans Administration.

The VA denies he was a prisoner of war. Also despite expert diagnosis that his circulatory problems are directly related to his wounds and forced winter marches that resulted in frostbite to both feet, the VA denies that his problems are service-related.

Richard Neeson, commander of American Legion Post 126, Jensen Beach, is spearheading a drive to gain support for benefits for this veteran. The Legion post has committed $1,000 to the cause.

"We had to stand against a wall while a German officer took a pistol from each, threatening to shoot us all. We were so miserable from lack of food, sleep and good treatment that anything could have been better."

Others are helping, too. Congressman Skip Bafalis is searching the records of the VA and is pushing the VA for action. But letters from governmental offices take time, and time is about all Poux has left as he sits in a wheelchair at his home on Hutchinson's Point.

A small pension was cut off when he didn't return a card to the VA. He didn't return the card because he was in the hospital having his leg amputated. His wife by his side, Bafalis was able to get the pension started again.

"We remained in the camp (in Italy) a month, then were packed in a box car and shipped to Germany. Each man was given five wedges of cheese and a small loaf of bread. Being almost starved to death, we ate the food greedily. Then we discovered the food was our rations for an entire week."

The battle for benefits lies mostly on the shoulders of his wife, Beatrice, who has found the attitude of the VA frustrating.

"Are the men over there human, or computers you can't talk to?" she asked Rep. Bafalis.

She explained the dilemma in that the government had "lined off the veins in his right leg" upon his return to the United States in 1945 and "through the years his leg has gotten progressively worse."

Malnutrition was the cause of his teeth falling out, according to Mrs. Poux, and it took a congressman to get the VA to admit service connection and provide dental treatment and dentures. He is still having delay problems with the VA over treatment of his teeth.

"During the German winter, three of the prisoners died. We froze them stiff under the barracks so that when roll was counted extra rations would be issued to the three men we stood next to us. This sounds horrible, but we were starving."

Further frustration lies in that the St. Petersburg VA does not consider Gene Poux a former prisoner of war. Efforts of the local Veterans of Foreign Wars have failed to convince the bureaucracy, even with letters, news stories and photographs.

The VA refuses to link the veins of Poux's leg to his arteries, saying that the veins are service-connected, but the arteries are not.

"We learned to make soup and cakes, which enabled some of us to survive the long march we were forced to take from January 26 to March 13 in 1945. The Germans were losing and had to keep us on the move because they had no place to house or feed us. We stole anything we could eat on the march."

Much of the fight for survival has gone out of Gene Poux. His voice is low, and his eyes have lost the sparkle they held when he operated his own electrical company and served as a volunteer Jensen Beach fireman.

Mrs. Poux continues to carry on the battle for his right to benefits from a government he served. "A government that bears the burden of faceless bureaucrats who treat veterans like cattle."

She has not given up, despite mounting medical bills and depleted resources.

After raising nine children, four still under 18 and in school, we don't have much to fall back on as prices soar," she wrote Rep. Bafalis recently. "What I am asking is 100 percent service-connected disability, outpatient treatment and any other rights due a man who fought for his country, spent years as a POW, and is now in desperate need."

Monday, Memorial Day in Jensen Beach, veterans organizations will place flags and flowers on the graves of former servicemen at All Saints Cemetery.

Gene Poux, World War Two veteran, and former prisoner of war, will be unable to attend.

Memorial Day services are planned at All Saints

JENSEN BEACH—Local veterans organizations plan Memorial Day services at All Saints Cemetery, on Monday, May 26, at 1 p.m., according to Richard Neeson, Post 126, American Legion.

The public is invited to the services.

Flowers and flags are to be placed on all veteran graves the night before, and the Legion, V.F.W., and Veterans of World War One, and their auxiliaries plan to have massed colors at the services.

Chin Chew Get, noted national Legion leader, will be the speaker.

Memorial salute will be by the Legion firing squad, directed by Boots St. Clair.

Corps asks $75,000 for inlet

STUART—The first request for funding of the planning of engineering for the improvement to the St. Lucie Inlet was made this week of Martin County by the U.S. Corps of Engineers.

The Corps asked for $75,000 to begin the planning.

Recently, through the efforts of Congressman Skip Bafalis and Sen. Lawton Chiles, the Congress departed from tradition and approved the use of Martin County funds to make the study, the first phase in a long range project that will see the deepening of the inlet and improvements to make the St. Lucie Inlet more safe. Usually, Congress will not allow local funds to be approved for use with federal funds.

The $5 million project has been approved, but has not been funded by the Congress. Martin County's share of the project will be approximately $1 million, of which $750,000 is now in the bank.

The first phase engineering will cost $175,000, but the Corps has only asked the county for $75,000 in hopes that the rest of the engineering, to cost $175,000, will be provided by Congress.

The first phase is a study of engineering to prove that original studies were correct in stating the need for the project. Studies have been made for more than fifteen years on the inlet.

Lawns, skeeters grow with summer rainfall

JENSEN BEACH—Heavy afternoon and evening rains over the past three weeks have brought local lawns alive and hatched long dormant mosquitoes.

The two combine as disgruntled homeowners plod behind whirring lawnmowers, stopping again and again to slap at the pesky, tiny skeeters.

The long, dry Spring weather had brought the water table to a low point and water rationing was urged throughout Martin and St. Lucie Counties. But the heavy rainfall added several inches to the parched water table and the savannas to replenish local wells.

With the rain, skeeters came and out came the repellant and the lawn mowers.

WIZARD OF OZ—Fifth graders from Jensen Beach Elementary will present the musical adaptation "The Wizard of Oz" this Thursday and Friday night beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the Florida Institute of Technology auditorium. Mothers have been busy the past weeks making colorful costumes while the fathers have been assembling a Yellow Brick Road along with the appropriate castles. Pictured above during rehearsals are: (not in order) The Cowardly Lion, played by Michael Caruthers, Tin Woodman, by Jeff Charles, Scarecrow, by Chuck Matthews, the Wizard of Oz, by Mike O'Connor, and Uncle Henry, played by Kent Olsen.

Bicentennial is at Stuart Elks

JENSEN BEACH—The Jensen Beach Women's Association will sponsor a kick off dinner for the Jensen Beach Rio-Ocean Breeze Bicentennial celebration on Friday, June 20 at the Stuart's Elks Club Happy hour is 6 to 7 p.m. Dinner at 7 p.m.

Entertainment and numerous door prizes will be furnished Tickets must be purchased well in advance as reservations are limited due to the seating capacity All participating organizations are advised to get tickets as soon as possible.

Mrs. Helen Richardson is Chairlady of the Ticket Committee and can be contacted at the office of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

AMBULANCE DONATED—A check for $18,740, half the cost of three new ambulances, was presented to Martin County by Anita Montgomery, right, as the Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitation part of the local purchase. The county will provice 25 per cent and the county volunteer ambulance services will pick up the balance. Seated with Ms. Montgomery is County Commissioner John Kiernan as, left to right, Walter Redit, Samaritan Ambulance, Frank Renehan, Palm City-Port Salerno Ambulance, Dr. Archie MacAllister, county health department, and Brian Tredray, civil defense, look on.

APPRECIATION—Mothers in the Jensen Beach PTA made special efforts last Friday morning in recognizing the teaching staff at Jensen Beach Elementary School. In honor of Teacher Appreciation Day, the PTA gave each instructor a red apple and for the ladies, a carnation corsage. Presenting Mrs. Carole Krall, media specialist, with her apple and corsage are from the left Jeanette Weiss and Mary Lou Sanders.

MONTE CARLO NIGHT—The Jensen Beach Optimist Club raised $1,195 for the Langford Park Youth Activity Fund Saturday night at a Monte Carlo Night attended by over 200 people in the VFW clubhouse on Savanna Road. Above at Delray Homazine and Randy Harden accumulate the Allen's bets. For Fire Fighters, Bobbie had 1 hit and Pam hit one for a single and a double.

Babe Ruth games are played every Saturday at 2 and 4 p.m. at Sportsman's Park.

Roger Jackson at the table, while to the right is pit boss Dick Nelson at the crap table. The Optimist will hold its regular meeting tonight Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Langford Park Field House. New members are welcome.

New community endeavor needs help

JENSEN BEACH—Martin County Taping Studio for the Visually and Physically Handicapped, Inc. is seeking help from the community in establishing a studio for taping "Talking Books."

Harvey Glasscock and his staff at WSTU are spearheading a fund raising drive for the studio.

Other community minded people who are involved are James S. Sienerson, Robert Ormiston, Fred Stresau, John Stanley, Jack Klett, Rev. Arthur A. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Norris Beasley.

The Martin County School Board has provided a home for the group in the Instructional Center on East Ocean Boulevard.

Why have a taping studio in Martin County?

The demand for Talking Books is much greater than the supply. In Florida alone, there are approximately 290,000 persons waiting for the service many of whom live in Martin County.

There is no charge to users of the service.

The Library of Congress pays for cassettes, records containers, record players, cassette players, and all postage.

But, it costs a lot to set up a studio, and these expenses are not paid for by the Library of Congress.

Two complete Teles Recording Systems are needed at $1440 apiece along with a Teles Duplicating System at $3545. Installation of the systems will cost about $300.

The cost of sound-proof recording booths is $500 each. A Sony reel tape-player is needed, approximate cost $300, and miscellaneous items such as furniture, stationery, office equipment will come to $1,000.

The local non-profit group will not only provide materials for distribution through the center at Daytona Beach but any legitimate need for a certain tape that has not been made by another studio can be handled at the local studio.

No appeal for volunteer work has been made as yet since there is no work to do until the equipment is installed.

What is needed at this time is money.

Tax-exempt donations should be made payable to: The Martin County Taping Studio, and mailed to Jack Klett, Treasurer; 222 N. Indian River Drive, Jensen Beach 33457.

In spite of the fact that request for volunteers has not been made as yet, forty persons have signed up to help and will be trained for different jobs.

Readers (narrators) will be needed when the studio is completed. Interested persons will be tested, reading for ten minutes from materials of their choice and then doing ten minutes of sight reading. Test tapes will be sent to the Talking Books Library in Daytona Beach, where a qualified committee will judge them.

Several two-hour sessions are required for recording a book, under the direction of a monitor with authority to clear up technical flaws and correct the reader on interpretation and pronunciation. Finally, the reviewer listens to the finished tape for further corrections.

When a tape is pronounced perfect, a master tape is made and as many cassettes or discs needed can be duplicated.

When a tape is exceptionally well made it is sent to the studio in Washington, D.C. for national distribution.

Further information about all aspects of the Taping Studio is available by calling Jo Beasley at 287-4334 or Mrs. Sirmons at 283-1768.

Letters to the editor

To the editor:

Kiwanis Clubs around the State of Florida could not have set all time records in hypertension screening without the help of many people and organizations. We publicly wish to acknowledge the great relationship that we have had with our co-sponsors, The Florida Heart Association and its Chapters and CIBA Pharmaceuticals as well as The American Red Cross, newspapers and electronic media across the state.

Furthermore, our own sponsored youth organizations, Key Club in high school and Circle K in college, showed by their hard work that we need not worry about the future leaders of our country.

The Kiwanis Theme this year is "Show You Care". We have been pleased to help in the fight against hypertension with this community service program.

Kiwanians do care.

L. A. Baker, Governor
Florida Kiwanis District

To the editor:

What can an ordinary citizen do to spur action on the part of his elected representatives? Apparently direct phone calls aren't the answer. Somehow, answers like, "I'm aware of the problem," "priorities aren't established yet," "We'll look into it," ad infinitum just don't get the job done.

Specifically, my present concern is the unsafe condition South Savanna Road has deteriorated into. More than a year ago, Leilani Heights development began. Our road system suffered under tons of fill removed from the project. As I understand it, pursuant to receiving approval for the development of this area, the developer agreed to provide turn-off lanes to assure safe entrance and egress from the development. Work was started but never completed, and a serious safety condition has occurred. There is at least a 4" drop from the paved road to the shellrock base provided as a turnoff lane. The road itself has chuck holes or "slots" more than 6" wide extending into the paving. Such conditions could result in a serious accident should someone drive near the edge or run off the paved road to avoid oncoming traffic. This condition has existed for more than a year and calls to our County Commissioner have brought no apparent results. Why hasn't the County forced the developer, G & A Construction to live up to its end of the bargain? I don't feel that repairing the condition with County funds is the answer, as has been done in the past.

Contrasted with this condition is the adequately maintained turnoff at Pinelake Village developed by a local developer. Ransom Tilton. Maybe lack of community interest is the answer as to why the present Leilani Heights condition exists.

Also, for years we were told the reason the section of the road from the school to Commercial Street couldn't be widened was because of the Ficus tree on the corner. It's been gone several months and very unsafe conditions have existed at the place where it was located, and the road still isn't widened.

Perhaps voters should pay more heed next time around to where the people running for office live. We surely do need more concerned local representation, if any of these problems are to be resolved. I think we've waited long enough, but perhaps our lessons have been well learned.

Sincerely,
Robert L. Hall

(Editor's Note: GA Construction has a $35,000 bond with Martin County, calling for completion of the turnoff lanes by November 1, 1975. The construction company indicates that the lanes are not paved because heavy trucks might damage the lane. Paving awaits the end of the need for the bulk of heavy loaded trucks using the approach to Leilani Heights.)

Food stamps

BY SKIP BAFALIS

WASHINGTON—If there ever was a runaway federal program, it has to be the food stamp program.

Eleven years ago, when the food stamp program was instituted as a means of helping the poor, it involved a mere 137 federal employees and a total cost of $31 million.

Today it requires 2,000 federal employees and cost the taxpayers a whopping $5 billion—nearly two-thirds of the entire budget for the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

And there is no end in sight.

From a program to help the involuntary poor, food stamps have evolved into a system of feeding the voluntary poor—college students, strikers, those who don't want to work, the hard of hearing and those who don't want to work at all.

And it's grown purely a food program. There is a proposal pending to include soap and other hygiene items. A few years ago it was expanded so Eskimos could use food stamps to buy hunting supplies.

Now, there's even talk about rent stamps, fuel stamps, even cotton stamps. Some even want to make restaurants and carry out food outlets use stamps in lieu of cash.

Even clinics for drug addicts and alcoholics may use stamps to feed their patients.

The courts are responsible for some of the growth in the food stamp program. The Agriculture Department is under court order to advertise the program so that all those interested in using up for their share will do so. And, one federal judge in California decided earlier this year that a pregnant mother is entitled to double stamps.

As a result, the Joint Economic Committee of the Congress has predicted the number of Americans on food stamps may jump from the current 17 million to some 50 million, one-quarter of the total U.S. population, by the end of fiscal 1976.

The time has come to end this escalation and to return the food stamp program to what Congress intended it should be: help for the truly needy, for the poor, the retiree struggling through a vicious inflation to make ends meet on a hard income, and for those unable to earn an income sufficient to feed their families.

Therefore, I am co-sponsoring legislation to change the current food stamp program, to turn it into a nutritional revenue-sharing program under which the states would be allowed to design and administer their own programs to supplement the diet of the really poor and needy.

Under this proposed legislation, the budget for food stamps would be slowly lowered over a five year period beginning with $4.5 billion the first year of the nutritional revenue-sharing program and finally reaching the $1 billion level.

This program would be beneficial not only because it would reverse the current trend of giving stamps to everyone and anyone, but it would better insure that tax dollars assist only the truly needy.

Allowing states to develop their own nutritional programs and to police them would, I feel, eliminate the possibility the program will continue to grow. The closer to the people the closer the supervision of the program.

And as it stands now, the food stamp program has suffered from too little supervision and too much largesse.

Food stamps are not a right. They are an attempt to help those who truly need help.

The sooner we can return to that concept, the sooner we can bring costs back in line.

Therefore, I am hopeful the House Committee on Agriculture will issue a quick call for hearings on this much-needed legislation.

Alternatives

BY JOHN GALLAGHER

There is a myth in America, which says what is good for G M is good for America. This saying makes reference to our dependence on the auto for our major source of employment and transportation.

However, at present, the auto industry is incapable of providing the number of jobs necessary for the economic stability of the United States.

This is not to say that the auto production is not a major factor, only that it is no longer the only major factor.

It is about time we began to look for alternatives to the air-polluting auto.

The alternative which will provide the U.S. the best opportunity for our present and future transportational needs must first be decided. The alternative we choose must provide us with consume little or petroleum and be presently available be operable to our road structure, and integrate with other modes.

The bicycle can provide all of these with another important factor, price.

The old myth should read "what is good for America is good for its land, its water, its air and its people."

Let us begin now to study and develop the bicycle not as a toy, but as an efficient and effective transportation.

The yack of the kayakers

BY KATHIE DUNLEAVY

The last week of March Penny (did) and I started talking about a short quiet weekend trip to the Keys. We both thought it would be cheaper to travel with a number of our splitting the expenses to help stretch our limited funds. Together we tried to round up two other interested parties not being too successful.

The most discouraging words we heard were "whose going and I can't afford it. Penny and I thought well, we don't know what they're missing.

A congood fortune would have it the students from Minn. pulled into this area and were interviewed on campus. In short conversation with these two adventurers, Penny and I asked if they would like to share our adventure to the Keys.

Within three hours they decided to take a chance on us as we had already taken a chance on them through our invitation. We left at six o'clock in the morning from the main campus. It be damp cool, but still functioning on the excitement of this "take it as it comes" trip.

After a few items of necessity poured into my green Ford VW, I sensed that this was going to be a fun trip and was glad that late had not matched this crew together. We traveled at a moderate speed stopping at the last gas station before Key Largo.

Here all the culverts had been cleared and the sun was assuring us that the weather was going to be great. We plodded along and stopped at Big Pine Key to view the wildlife refuge.

Since Randy was interested in life on the Keys, he made it a point to explore the information that was listed on the outdoor bulletin board.

After reaching Big Pine Key, we passed a small bait inviting flea market. The VW nosed itself right into the small parking place that seemed to be waiting for us. The guys even got interested in looking over the elegant trash. We all walked around for about half an hour and squeezed back into the car. Off we cruised over the many bridges and land splits.

After having a simple, but adequate lunch, we packed up and off to Key West we went. It was a little past noon when we reached the furthermost point south in the United States.

The car was parked in a central location and it was decided that we would all split up and wander around all day until dinner time. As we walked through the streets of that small historic community, the air of excitement passed through all of us knowing that some of the most exciting characters in American history had roamed around as we were doing.

At five o'clock when we met at the car everyone was wound down with lots of peace of mind. We all took walking that night and the entire group was so tired no one even mentioned going out.

Early Saturday morning we packed the car, stopped at a few shops and discovered some more. All the while we were walking around Jerry and Randy spoke fluently about their trip.

Randy had gotten out of the service this past July and worked a short time at a camp before he left in September on the trip down from Minn. Jerry had been going to school part-time and working full time in a gram mill before he left for the trip. They both agreed this last really changed their lives in several ways. Jerry especially expressed that he had a lot of energy and no place to put it, but discovered a whole new world on this trip. A new world for him outside of the city life he knew existed, but never thought it would be so much a part of his life. Randy had traveled extensively in Europe especially in Germany, so the seed for travel had already been planted and was taking a new form by traveling in a kayak in this country.

Collectively we all learned a lot about ourselves on this short weekend to the Keys. A strong desire to enjoy and appreciate what is immediately available. Florida offers so much to everyone whether they be from here or just passing through. If you are willing to take a chance on others in sharing an experience a lot can be learned on how the other half lives. The best things in life are free, and by the way, the total expenses of this trip worked out to ten dollars for each of us.

Melbourne students tour Jensen Beach campus

MELBOURNE--Forty high school students and several science teachers from five of the area schools were tour guests last week of Florida Institute of Technology and the Melbourne Area Chamber of Commerce Educational Committee at FIT.

The students, primarily interested in the field of marine technology, were from Satellite, Melbourne, Eau Gallie and Melbourne Central Catholic High Schools and from Florida Air Academy.

The tour, which began at 8 a.m. from the campus of FIT in Melbourne, continued to Jensen Beach, with a tour of the facilities there and an introduction to the faculty and staff of Jensen. A picnic lunch was served at mid-day and the students and teachers were then treated to a trip on the university's research vessels.

The tour was planned and supervised by Dr. G.J. Wheeler, South Brevard Area Superintendent of Schools; Dr. O. A. Holter, representing the Melbourne Chamber of Commerce and Dean Holmes C. Beaussang of FIT.

The turtle march we watched

BY CATHIE DUNLEAVY

After the hushed rush of mid-terms, a group of us decided to make a picnic on the beach. Our arms full of all the required necessities, we sank our toes in sand looking for the perfect spot. The perfect spot was right in front of us and we settled down, ready to eat.

After getting the food together, along with some sand, our conversation centered around the season when the turtles come ashore and lay their eggs. I could not have abandoned that conversation for but a few minutes, when a huge mother loggerhead slowly was making her way out of the water in a direct line towards us. It was as if she had answered on cue to our activities. It was around 8:30 in the evening as she slowly made her way up on the water. One could hardly see a definition of her except for the ugly outline of her shell, and an occasional splash of her flippers. We all sat still as if we were expecting the boogieman to scare us all. As she neared us she stopped about three feet away and began to dig her nest in the sand.

I think that all of us at one time or another couldn't help but think that with all the intrusions, demand and stress that man was placing on these beaches that this would be one of the few times this unique phenomenon would have a chance. In view of the facts facing overwhelming odds that the entire beach is being destroyed by construction, it would seem to much to hope for to see these odds of destruction changed. Aside from the unknowns of the future for the beaches and the wild life that inhabits there, the present was certainly a reality.

She slowly dug in the sand throwing sand from side to side. As she was busy diggin two of us crawled backwards and off to the side to come up from behind this sea monster, which most only have the pleasure to read about or see only pictures of.

As we approached to watch her lay eggs, the digging stopped. In a short time her hind flippers lifted and curled before each egg was dropped into the nest. The stress on this creature could be heard through her short breaths as the eggs continued to fall.

We put our hands on the back of her shell and the phosphorescence that had gathered on her back glowed. Even where she walked up from the beach were sparkles of the phosphorese in her tracks. We could see the tears running down her face in joy and sorrow of the future she was leaving behind. Even in these times of economic stress the best things in life are free. Just take stock and look around.

NEW PRINCIPAL--Jensen Beach resident Clara Fulton has been named principal at Martin County High School, becoming the highest ranking woman in the school system. A native Floridian, Mrs. Fulton has spent her 18 years teaching in the county school system. She doesn't plan to make many changes in the system, operated by Terry Horrigan, but admits "I am a different personality, and might handle some things differently."

'Chrysanthemum' ballet May 30-31

JENSEN BEACH--The ballet "Tiny Chrysanthemum" will be presented by nine talented and two students and dancers from the Chela Jacoba Dance Studio at the Lyric Theatre May 30 and 31 beginning at 8 p.m.

Making her debut as the Friday night star will be Debbie Horn, 18, a three-year student at the studio and senior at Martin County High School. Saturday night's star will be Sandy Britton, 19, a fourteen-year student.

The production was successfully performed three other times in the area by the studio, however this production promises to be more professional than its last recital in 1966, as the school has more experienced students and professionals now than it did then, Miss Chela said.

The ballet "Chrysanthemum" relates a story of the popular Martin County flower and how it survived traveling through foreign shores finally to the United States and then to Florida. The original research on the flower for the ballet was done by Pinky Hussey, wife of former Martin County Commissioner Bill Hussey.

The dance instructor, who first opened her doors twenty years ago with two students and now has one hundred and sixty, feels her students need to learn things from their environment, and she feels this adaptation with the flower gives the students a feeling of local nostalgia.

Many dance studios like to teach the classics, Miss Jacoba said. But if you'll excuse me when they perform pieces like "Swan Lake" they look like hell.

The ballet should appeal to everyone of every age as the performers are made up of men, women and children ranging in ages 6 to 30, Miss Jacoba said.

One of the most popular scenes in the ballet will take place in the second act when the flower reaches Spain. This section will include modern jazz with a Latin flavor with Ralph Clark performing the "Paa De Deux," a man and woman dancing together, the climax for any dancer.

Miss Jacoba, who originally began her own career in Spanish dancing, will take part in this sequence, however, she doesn't plan any emphasis on her own performance because if the ballet is a success, it is because her students did a good job, she said.

The ballet's choreography and production is handled by Miss Jacoba. Cynthia Cook and Christina Smith.

STARS--The two leading ladies who will perform on alternative nights in the production "Chrysanthemum," limber up during a recent rehearsal. The ballet will include students and dancers from the Chela Jacoba Dance Studio. Debbie Horn, 18, and Sandy Britton, 19, front, star in the ballet.

Sorry folks, there was a breakdown in the type setting machine in The Mirror office which accounts for the absence of last week's column. There were others left out, too, but thanks to Flashes' help, there was a paper published.

I am re-writing last week's news with the current items, so you will have it all.

We are expecting an exciting arrival soon. Mrs. Killeer is expecting four! And when anyone comes near her lot, she does all the antics at her command to keep from being disturbed, such as pretending she has a broken wing or leg.

But Mrs. Killdeer is very happy now that the cement blocks to guard her nest, water placed near her for drinking, plus a lot of friendly observers.

+ + +

The porch and steps made to fit the entrance to the office, the sidewalk and the patio are cemented now. It looks fine. The new signs are up, one denoting entrance to the office, and a large sign in the front of the trailer with our name "Holiday Out." They were painted by its owner Russ Wells.

+ + +

Good news: Ed Kay is back home from the hospital. He will be here for a couple of more before returning to New Jersey.

+ + +

Mrs. Martha Shetron has returned to the park after a long stay in the hospital and is very glad to be home.

+ + +

I also have a sad report to give. Jim and Martha Lewis arrived home in Akron, Ohio, in time to see Jim's mother who passes away May 2. We all send our condolences to Jim and Martha.

+ + +

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Auch flew to Illinois where they were met by her sister and brother-in-law with their sister home. They will all travel to Michigan for a family wedding, then go on to the Smokey Mountains to finish their vacation.

+ + +

Mother Allison left Tuesday for Overland for the wedding of her grandson Dom, and Betty Nagy will leave Thursday to join the family festivities. Brother Ronny and wife Anne Allison will join the same affair June 1.

+ + +

John and Grace Madden left the park first to visit family in central Florida, then to Alabama, on to their daughter's place in Illinois, ending up home in New York. Sounds like a nice trip.

+ + +

Dick and Dot Clark left May 8 for Breille, N.J. Before they left, however, Dot had the honor of being the first person in the park to be serenaded by Stanley McCart's bag pipes on her birthday. Following the morning serenade, many friends dropped by thru the day, including the Llewelyns from Stuart, the Amermans and Brinks from the park, and many more.

+ + +

Rose Mary Sells is flying to Denver, Colorado on May 31 to visit her family.

+ + +

Heard from Greta Updike enroute home. Seems that the Bing Crosbys had to leave the Updikes sooner than expected because of hitch trouble. Greta wrote from Bowling Green, Kentucky, reported a lot of rain and a little cold. They will be at Janesville, Wis. for a short stay to visit friends and relatives.

+ + +

John and Peggy Fleming left rather hurriedly, the plowing for their garden in Michigan was calling. So they hooked their boat on and away they went. I have heard they arrived home okay, had a little rain on the way, otherwise nice.

+ + +

W. T. Forsee on lot 92 will be here another week. Seems he is having refrig repair trouble. He is lucky to be in a nice park and receive service.

+ + +

+ + +

Henry and Loretta Traynor have returned to Long Island, N.Y.

+ + +

Norris and Dee Brink are leaving May 23 for an extended vacation trip, eventually ending up at home in Harrisburg, Pa. They will stop at Okefanokee Swamps in Georgia, then will meet with their daughter in North Carolina. All will then visit Dee's father in Canada before leaving for a summer-long tour of the west. Sounds like a lot of fun ahead.

+ + +

Leslie Byrne had Lorrie Lovett as a weekend house guest. She enjoyed the pool, the watermelon, etc., on the Long Nags lots.

+ + +

Alice Perreault left Sunday for her home in Ashbunham, Mass. She will return in October.

+ + +

Bertha and Clarence left Monday for Lunenburg, Mass. They will be back in October.

+ + +

+ + +

Marie and Peter Marchione, sister and brother-in-law of Palma Smaniotto, are visiting in the park.

+ + +

"Star Spangled Girl" at the Lyric Theatre afforded Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Webb and Mr. and Mrs. M. McDonnell an enjoyable evening out a good dinner and show.

+ + +

Al and Peg Ray reported enjoying the play at the Lyric very much, following dinner at Ding How.

+ + +

Peter Fonda, of lot 236, is awaiting the return of Archie Bunker of lot 278 in Holiday Out.

+ + +

The Urson were with us over the weekend on lot 156.

+ + +

Anniversary congratulations to Harriet and Scherley Green, May 15. John and Catherine May, May 19 (their 50th). Agnes and Joseph Wasilik, May 21. Jessie and George Shute, May 22 (their 50th).

Aging Council holds meeting

JENSEN BEACH—The Martin County Council on Aging will hold their monthly Board of Director's meeting Thursday, May 22 at 1:30 p.m. in the Community Room of The First National Bank in Stuart. Guests are welcome and encouraged to attend.

One item on the agenda will be a discussion of the results of talks with local merchants about "Discount Prices For Seniors."

The April meeting was an especially informative one in the Medicare and Medicaid areas but it will be good to keep informed on all the things the Council can do for those 60 years of age or over in Martin County.

Ronald Teal wins top spot

JENSEN BEACH—Ronald M. Teal, a former resident of Jensen Beach, has been appointed supervisor of sales and marketing of the Western Building District of Armco Steel, it was learned here recently.

Teal is married to the former Cathie Hoke of Ocean Breeze Park, and they have three sons.

He is the youngest person to ever hold the high sales position and is a graduate engineer of Georgia Tech.

The Teals will be moving from Fresno, California to Denver, Colorado in June to assume the position.

We had a great time on Mother's Day when we talked to all our ten grandchildren, seven boys and two girls. The happy event gave us a lift, indeed, as each one told us of his present interests.

Some of you will remember Kevin Collins who visited here and is Dolores and Art's son. He is one of their six children, and we are glad to report he will go to college in Nebraska this fall.

Our four farm grandsons are all active in sports and in raising and showing cattle.

+ + +

We're sorry to have missed bidding some of you a good summer, personally. Keeping busy, one sometimes loses track of time. So, to all whom we missed, stay healthy and enjoy yourselves.

+ + +

Bridge winners on the 12th were John Bollenbacher, first; Edna Eastman, second.

+ + +

Our monthly dinner held on May 15 was attended by 62. A most delicious dinner was set up by the committee. Our thanks to Jen Bollenbacher, Dotie Beamer, Jee Robertson, Lee VanCura and Marion Burke. And to John Bollenbacher, Harry Beamer and Jerry VanCura who served the coffee.

A bowl filled with a pretty variety of flowers centered the table. Table numbers were called by John B. and Sylvia Siman gave the grace.

+ + +

Harry Beamer assisted by Gene Krakaur, called bingo on the 18th to a sparse but happy group.

+ + +

For lack of news, I hope you will pardon the reference to ourselves. But we did have such a good time Saturday evening, I'd like to tell you about it.

The Sons of Norway had a smorgasbord and dance in remembrance of Norway's Independence Day, which is May 17. Many were in colorful native costume and we met the Lysters again.

Pauline and Harold sat with us at dinner both times and we had a most delightful time again. My husband hadn't lost his touch at dancing, even after so long a time. Needless to say the food as always was delicious.

+ + +

Take it easy these hot days and to all, Peace.

NEW CITY ADMINISTRATOR–Elmer Cox was sworn in as Port St. Lucie's City Administrator during a special session held Friday morning. City Clerk Donna Duggan administered the oath of office naming Cox to the $12,000 a year post. Mrs. Duggan, who was appointed city clerk only three days before, handled her first major assignment with the efficiency of a real pro.

Free pickup is May 28

Community pride week now in progress in PSL

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE–It is spring cleaning time again, that time of the year when folks busy themselves by sprucing up their homes, cleaning out garages and utility rooms, and trimming trees and shrubs.

The residents of the River Park Port St. Lucie area are more fortunate than others because they will have help in accomplishing this goal.

Keeping their community in ship-shape condition has been one of the major projects spearheaded by the River Park Port St. Lucie Homeowners Association for the past several years.

According to Bob Brunton, chairman of Community Pride Week, this year is no exception.

Through the efforts of the Homeowners Association and with the cooperation of General Development Corporation, Milton Garbage Service, and St. Lucie County, six trucks will be available May 28 for free pickup of unwanted items residents wish to dispose of.

The free pickup service provides the residents the opportunity to get rid of all trash, tree trimmings, broken lawnmowers, old appliances and other items which are not normally acceptable to the garbage services.

Articles and trash must be placed at curbside by 8 a.m. May 28.

If for some genuine reason the homeowner is unable to move his unwanted items to the curb, a call to Bob Brunton at 878-0904 will bring the necessary assistance to get the job done.

Fire station in operation

PORT ST. LUCIE–South county residents now have their long awaited fire station in operation.

The new station located at 1618 S.E. Port St. Lucie Boulevard was manned, equipped and placed in service May 15.

At the present time, apparatus assigned to the south county station consists of one 500 gallon capacity tank truck and one rescue vehicle.

According to Fire Chief R.M. Register a third unit will be assigned to the station within the next few months.

"When two additional heavy duty pumping engines are delivered to the St. Lucie County Fire Department one of the present heavy duty pumping engines now in service will be stationed at the south Port St. Lucie station," Register said.

City Administrator Elmer Cox is requesting the Insurance Service Office in Atlanta, Ga., to make a new survey of the City's fire defenses in an effort to obtain an improved insurance rating for the city.

VFW sponsors memorial services

PORT ST. LUCIE–Memorial Day services and a Flag Presentation have been set for 11 a.m. Monday, May 26, at the White City Cemetery.

Andre Mattos Post 10120 V.F.W. and Ladies Auxiliary will lead the community in honoring all servicemen who gave their lives for their country in all wars.

The Flag Presentation will be made by the White City Cemetery Association in the area set aside for veterans. The recipient of the flag will be Ed Carter, president of the cemetery association.

The Auxiliary will decorate graves with flags.

Reverend Frank Wingerter, Th.M., pastor of the Dutton Memorial Presbyterian Church, will be the principal speaker. James Wingerter will serve as bugler.

Post Commander William Gales requests all flags be flown at half mast until 1100 hours, then raised to full staff.

The public is expected for this impressive ceremony, Gales added.

CESA will go it alone

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE–Defeat is one word obviously not included in the vocabulary of the CESA directors and trustees.

For the past several months CESA's future has been hanging. Faced with their outside sources of revenue being wiped completely out come July 1, the board went into a huddle and recently emerged with the obvious solution.

CESA will go it alone.

Several months ago it was learned the Title III funds of the Older Americans Act would be discontinued as of July 1, 1975. These funds along with the rent received from Indian River Community College for the use of the facility to provide free classes to residents of the south county area provided approximately $8,000 per year for the operation of CESA.

In addition to losing the Title III funds unofficial word indicates that due to the lack of governmental funding the college's Community Service Program under which the free classes were supplied will also be discontinued.

Mrs. Stresha Schreiber, CESA secretary and vice president, spoke to members attending the special meeting of the President's Council held May 13 to find out how much community support could be expected to keep the center in operation.

She outlined for her listeners a program of events worked out by a committee of six that would not only cover the $9,000 CESA deficit but should, through community support provide an additional $6,000 cushion.

The calendar of events covers everything from a tea and book review to a Valentine Buffet, an amateur night and golf tourneys.

Starting with a Memorial Day cook out on May 25, there are two of three events scheduled monthly at the CESA facility through June 1976.

The program of events was worked up by a six member committee comprised of Ruth McDonnell, Leone Hest, Stresha Schreiber, Nicki Porter and Wanda and Dick Lundin.

WW I vets will observe tradional Memorial Day

PORT ST. LUCIE–The public is urged to attend Memorial Day services conducted by the Veterans of World War I Barracks 2936, on Friday, May 30, at the traditional Memorial Day site.

The program will start at 11 a.m. at the site in North Port Marina.

The is a patriotic service that should have community support. Barracks Commander Leo S. Malone said as he made the announcement.

Sharpe resignation accepted 'with regret'

PORT ST. LUCIE–C.A. Bramley, president of the Port St. Lucie Bank, announced the resignation of Dwight M. Sharpe as a director has been accepted with deep regret.

Sharpe's letter of resignation, effective immediately, was presented at the regular meeting of the bank's board of directors May 15.

Schuyler Sharpe, one of the original organizers and a faithful and valued director of the bank since its opening in 1971, resumed his association with the bank to devote his full time and energies to the interests of the citizens of this community and his duties as Mayor, Bramley said.

Egg and sausage at marina this Sunday

PORT ST. LUCIE–The Italian and American Club Association is offering a fish and sausage breakfast to the public on Sunday, May 25, from 7 a.m. to 12 p.m. Proceeds from the event are being saved for a worthy community project.

New members welcomed at last Sunday's meeting were Joseph and Mary Morroney, Gregory and Sophie Williams, Frank and Sally Branca, Gene and Bernard Tugender and Peter and William LaBrutto.

Orville Hanson announced that the annual affair is to be a picnic at the Savannas on June 22.

A report on the garage sale last month informed the membership that a percentage of the proceeds was donated to the St. Lucie Association for Retarded Persons and that all articles not sold were turned over to a Stuart organization to benefit Martin Memorial Hospital.

Helen Gilbert, program committee chairman, arranged a fun evening of bingo after the meeting, under the supervision of Val Gerb and Flo Dabney. Prizes were donated by the club.

TRIPLE CELEBRATION–The William McChesneys entertained recently in celebration of three anniversaries. Councilman McChesney's 60th birthday, the McChesneys 35th wedding anniversary, and Mrs. Eleanor Thorston's 84th birthday. Mrs. Thorston is the mother of Mrs. McChesney. The McChesneys were married May 11, 1940, in Oak Park, Illinois, her home town. He was born in Pittsburg, Pa. When they met he was a department store buyer and she was a

Reading will head blood bank

PORT ST. LUCIE–Judd Reading has been elected president of the River Park-Port St. Lucie Blood Bank April 29 when the organization held its annual meeting at the North Port Marina.

Retiring President Cedric Benz was honored during the meeting for his valued contribution to the community in establishing and operating the bank for the past eight years. Benz was elected President Emeritus and will serve on the Board of Directors in an advisory capacity.

Other officers elected included Albert McDonnell, vice president; Elwood Searles, treasurer; and Olga Atkins, as secretary.

Three new directors elected to the board include Fred Waggie, Olga Atkins and William Stratton. They will serve with directors Ethel Krail, John Lumbardie and Schuyler Sharpe.

Membership in the Blood Bank is open to any resident in the River Park-Port St. Lucie community. A membership fee of $1 entitles the member to purchase blood for $16 a pint anywhere in the United States.

Reading urged all residents of the community to join the blood bank and cited memberships could be obtained by contacting any officer or director.

Memberships are also available at the Blood Pressure Clinic held every Thursday morning at the CESA building from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

GDC establishes marina charges

PORT ST. LUCIE–As in every other area, inflation will take its bite at the Port St. Lucie Marina come June 1, the effective date fees will have to be paid for the use of the building.

In making the announcement Bob Seeley, GDC's general manager said that due to the ever increasing costs of labor, maintenance equipment, utilities and construction materials has made the continued free use of the building an impossibility.

"Rather than curtail the level of care, upkeep and accessibility to effect the needed budget cutback, we feel a nominal charge for use of the facility would be the best solution," Seeley said.

For a $5 fee the use of either the main room or the terrace room can be had for morning, afternoon or evening meetings.

The use of both rooms for a club meeting in the morning, afternoon or evening will cost the user $10.

Special events or activities requiring the main hall and the terrace room during the morning and afternoon, or the afternoon and evening hours will be $35, while special events using both rooms during any one part of the day will pay $25.

The use of the barbecue grills and picnic benches in conjunction with marina hall only is $35, and both rooms plus the grills and benches will be $40.

The highest charge made is $50 for any special activity using the hall, terrace room and grills for the complete day.

Breakfast affairs using the entire marina hall and terrace room from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Sundays will also cost $50.

Use of the marina hall and terrace room in the evening for local private parties will cost the user $35.

For $25, the swimming pool is available from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. for private parties.

All events not specified will be rated by marina manager Ronnie Loperfido.

Fees are to be paid in advance and do not include cleanup. Any group not cleaning up after a function will be assessed the amount paid to a cleaning service.

Monthly fees are payable in advance on the first of the month to Loperfido.

Cancellations must be made at least five days prior to a scheduled event to receive a refund.

State moves to buy savannas

JENSEN BEACH—A state official said that he was "highly optimistic" about the purchase of the savannas as an environmentally endangered land.

Gene Langston, assistant director of Parks and Recreation, pointed out that the project already has priority and money.

Langston, speaking at a special meeting of the St. Lucie County Regional Planning Council said that negotiating purchases with some 200 land owners will be a big job.

Preliminary discussions have started with owners of some of the large tracts of land.

General Development Corp. is one of the largest land owners.

Within 30 days, Langston said, the first appraisals of each piece of land should be ordered, to be completed in three or four months.

He said that a public meeting on the project will be held in June or early July.

The savannas purchase is one of seven projects approved by the cabinet and has top priority in the list of "working projects," according to Langston.

He said that $16 million is available for endangered land purchases, but that he couldn't estimate how far that would stretch over the seven top projects.

While the state has money for land purchase but no condemnation powers so purchase of each of the 200 or so parcels must be negotiated with the owners.

St. Lucie County Commissioner Ed Koons, a council member, asked if the state would accept long term leases instead of purchases.

"We would certainly look at such offers," Langston said. "But we would not pay the same amount of lease or easement that we could for purchase of the land."

The savannas, a 6,000-acre wetlands, extends from the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road (SR-707A) north to Midas Road in St. Lucie County and from U.S. 1 on the west to Florida East Coast Railroad tracks on the east.

A Save Our Savannas committee headed by Dr. Walter Stokes of Martin County worked for several years in an effort to get the vast wetlands preserved.

And the Council of Governments (COG) has concerned itself with preserving the area, a source of fresh water for Jensen Beach.

Bicentennial group to meet

JENSEN BEACH—The Jensen Beach Bicentennial Committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. Friday, May 30, at the First Federal Savings and Loan on Commercial Street in Jensen Beach.

Reports from various subcommittees are expected to be made at the monthly session.

Plans for the year long celebration are under way, including the July 4 parade and selection of a "Miss Betsy Ross and Mr. Uncle Sam."

Red, white and blue stationery with the names of the Jensen Beach Rio area organizations participating in the celebration are listed at the bottom of the stationery.

The Betsy Ross and Uncle Sam contest is open to students in grades 9 through 12 who are residents of Jensen Beach-Rio area.

Participants in the contest must write an essay on what does American Independence mean for me.

Winners in the contest will receive $25 savings bonds.

Memorial Day services are held

JENSEN BEACH—Solemn services paying tribute to the nation's heroes were held at All Saints Cemetery on Memorial Day, May 26.

Richard Neeson, of American Legion Post 76, Jensen Beach, presided at the brief ceremony which began at 1 p.m.

Neeson called the names of veterans who had died during the year, which was followed by a memorial salute by the Legion firing squad.

Principal speaker Chin Chew Get, noted national Legion leader, noted that Memorial Day "grew out of crisis."

He said that they had assembled "to pay tribute to American heroes for their devoted service."

He said that sacrifices of American heroes "have given our nation strength," and the Legion leader expressed confidence in the nation's future.

Veteran organizations and auxiliaries had massed colors at the services.

SPEAKER—Chin Chew Get, noted national Legion leader, was the speaker at Jensen Beach All Saints Cemetery Memorial Day services.

Freedom Shrine is planned in Jensen

JENSEN BEACH—A Jensen Beach Freedom Shrine is planned for display during the bicentennial celebration in Jensen Beach, it was announced today by Jack Klett, executive board member of the Jensen Beach Bicentennial Committee.

The shrine will be four by six feet, glass enclosed, and will rest on the front lawn of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Martin County's Jensen Beach office.

Contained in the shrine, according to Klett, will be the ten flags that have flown over the country since 1776, and parchment copies of bill of rights, constitution and the Declaration of Independence.

We believe that everyone should have a chance to see and feel proud of the documents and flags that have brought our great nation to this point of glory and the display will be to serve that purpose," Klett said.

The shrine will be installed before July 4, the date that the bicentennial begins.

DIRECTOR—Mrs. Myrtle Dailey directs traffic with a smile as she brings school children and buses into Jensen Beach Elementary School.

'Flexible'

Island plan is okayed

JENSEN BEACH—A new zoning plan for Hutchinson Island was approved by Martin County Commission Tuesday.

County Planner Kris Schenk called the plan "flexible."

The new Hutchinson Island plan will carry a density of 7.5 units per acre and has to be followed 12 units per acre if they "ask" a Planned Unit Development (PUD).

There were objections to the plan at the three hour public hearing Tuesday and other objections at previous work sessions on the plan.

Some objections came from owners of small parcels of land, and Schenk said this category of property owners should receive special consideration.

Attorney Evans Crary, Jr. representing some inland property owners, raised some questions on the rezoning and especially the "taxable or holdover land."

State and federal jurisdiction over land is a fact of life," Crary pointed out.

County Attorney Steve Calvert entered a statement in the ordinance stating if the state or federal agencies have no objections to the proposed use of land, then the land is buildable.

Crary also was critical of the zoning changes for restricting the island to residential development with few hotels or motels.

He said that the county needed a resort area which would provide employment and bring in the tourist industry.

At last week's work session, Schenk said the plan is reached a compromise between existing land use regulations and those that had been proposed by consultant Robert Doyle.

In 1971 it is suggested a maximum of 2,500 units be allowed on the island, and at that time commissioners approved a 7.5 units per acre density on the island.

The new plan would permit some hotel and motel development near the causeways that provide access to the island, according to Schenk.

Schenk pointed out that for the persons who will want something different they would have the means to get it if it's good enough to get County Commission approval through PUD either multi-units or hotel or motel.

The plan would limit capacity on the island to about 3,000 dwellings.

COG meets Thursday

JENSEN BEACH—The Council of Governments (COG) is scheduled to meet Thursday, May 29, at Stuart City Hall.

While there is not an agenda available for the meeting, the representatives of the two county governmental commissions and cities are expected to consider:

Pollution and boating related problems in the St. Lucie River.

Waste disposal issue.

At the April session of the Martin County Conservation Alliance it was decided by the members to ask COG to aid in the pollution and boating problem.

Alliance members said that speeding boats were a problem on the St. Lucie River.

Also Alliance members wanted the Pollution Control Board to monitor the water at the White City Bridge in St. Lucie County.

COG was set up to tackle issues of concern to both Martin and St. Lucie counties.

At the last COG meeting the waste-disposal issue was discussed, and it was noted that the key question in the problem is whether state and federal agencies will accept landfills as a measure of waste disposal after 1977.

Mrs. Dailey is celebrating eleven years on school patrol

JENSEN BEACH—With the school year coming to an end, the students have something to celebrate. So does Mrs. Myrtle Dailey, of Ocean Breeze Park.

For the past eleven years, Mrs. Dailes has been traffic safety officer at Jensen Beach Elementary School under the direction of the Martin County Sheriff's Department.

A nineteen year resident, Mrs. Dailey feels things have really changed since the days at old Jensen Elementary on Indian River Drive, when only one busload of students arrived each day.

"Today we have seven buses of children pulling in and out," she said.

In fact, the pace was so much slower back in 1964 that Mrs. Dailey would ride the school bus each afternoon and direct traffic at each stop when the children got off the bus.

The pace doesn't bother her now, as carloads of students arrive and leave every morning and afternoon. The traffic is heavier, but most people cooperate very well with their directions.

This June 7, Mrs. Dailey will again travel to Disney World with the school patrol from the school.

Council on aging may seek local aid

BY DENNIS DOYLE

STUART—Should the trend of State and Federal financial cutbacks effect Martin County, Council on the Aging, the group will apparently be forced to seek additional help from local government agencies.

During the council's regular meeting last week, president Alvin Rupp opened the discussion to the floor and asked members to think over the idea for the next regular meeting when the matter would SHOULD be a function in county government, will be reviewed.

"In my own opinion, I feel if local governments can spend around one million dollars for the St. Lucie Inlet it should have funds for the over 12,000 senior citizens who are also voters," Rupp stated adding that he had nothing against the improvement of the inlet or the inlet.

"There should be a definite responsibility on the part of city and county governments to contribute to the needed services by the senior citizens in the county," Rupp said.

No action was taken by the council on the question whether the group should "go in its own business in order to bring in more revenue. Talk of a possible thrift shop got talked down when members pointed out it would be in competition with about three others in the area.

Efforts by the council to sign up 26 local merchants in the Stuart-Jensen Beach area to give discounts to senior citizens were not as successful as expected. However, the council seconded a motion to include the names of the 16 merchants who agreed, in the council's new monthly brochure and newsletter. A motion was also accepted to design and distribute a decal to the participating merchants.

In other business, the council is contracting with the federal government to act as an agent to the Community Action Migrant Program (CAMP) in using their bus to give better transportation service to senior citizens in Indiantown.

CAMP, according to Rupp, has a bus but no financial assistance to hire a full time bus driver. Under the council's proposal they will supply the driver as an agent to CAMP, a successful program in western Martin County.

"We would like to see our bus used more locally," Rupp said, pointing to a map indicating the mileage between Stuart and Indiantown, "but you see how far Indiantown is."

The next regular meeting for the Martin Council on the Aging will be the fourth Thursday in June beginning at 1:30 p.m. in the community room on the second floor at the First National Bank.

Smoke damages Jensen Beach house

JENSEN BEACH—An early Sunday, May 25, morning fire damaged a home at 22 Melba Drive.

Jensen Beach Fire Chief Randolph Spinney said a bed lamp in the front bedroom shorted out, setting fire to the mattresses.

Chief Spinney said the home owner, Edwin L. Hain, was sleeping in a back bedroom, and was taken to Martin Memorial Hospital where he was given oxygen and then released.

Volunteer fire fighters used fire proof gloves to remove the smoking mattresses from the house, according to Spinney.

We used dry chemicals to knock down the fire inside the house, and cleared the house with smoke ejectors," the chief said.

"We didn't use any water inside the house and the house only sustained smoke damage," he pointed out.

Spinney estimated the damage at $3,000.

Thirteen fire fighters and three trucks were at the scene for about three hours, and, according to Spinney, the department received the call at 5:32 a.m.

FIX UP--John Clyde supervised the repair work of Todd Jackson and Tommy Neeson as the Jensen Optimists held their Tom Sawyer Day at Langford Park last Saturday. Over 150 fathers and sons worked together to clean up and paint the park facilities.

COOKOUT--Following the work, there is play, and a picnic lunch prepared by Optimists and their auxiliary at Langford Park. Mothers joined in as over 150 fathers and kids cleaned up the park and picnicked.

One service

JENSEN BEACH--Spring comes, winter residents head north and area churches change schedules.

This is the case for Trinity United Methodist Church where, starting Sunday, there will be one worship service at 11 a.m.

Church school starts at 9:30 a.m. and the youth meeting at 6:00 p.m.

Reverend Clark Thompson announced that the Youth Choir from First United Methodist Church of Stuart will perform at the regular 11 a.m. worship service on Sunday, June 8.

Tom Sawyers fix up Langford Park

jensen beach--Peanuts and popcorn have, for decades, been the traditional foods served at the ball park, but last Sunday, it was hamburgers, hot dogs, watermelon, and assorted goodies for everyone as the members of the Jensen Beach Optimist Club gathered their households and enjoyed Tom Sawyer Day at Langford Park.

The activity was, as has been the case with all of the Optimist projects, a huge success.

In the morning, Optimist Club workers spent hours improving the park's landscape and facilities, as they planted some sixty coconut palm trees, painted many of the bleachers and other structures, and cleaned out an equipment building, part of which will eventually become a locker room for the football program.

By one o'clock, everyone had cleaned up and was ready to dig into the seemingly endless supply of food, while others were eager to start softball and volleyball games.

The afternoon activities were clearly a tribute to Langford Park's growing facilities. The volleyball courts, baseball fields, tennis courts, horseshoe pits, and basketball courts were available all afternoon for those who were there.

The day was hot, and in the blistering sun, the Dolphin Motor Lodge offered free use of the pool to those who felt like cooling off and taking a swim.

Saints & Sinners start tourney play

Mayaguez

WASHINGTON—"There are limits beyond which the U.S. cannot be pushed."

That is how Administration leaders summed up our quick and decisive response to the Cambodians' seizure of the U.S. merchant ship, Mayaguez.

It was a response I heartily endorse. Carried out in a calm, deliberative manner, it was a response designed to tell all the nations of the world that, when kicked, we kick back hard.

From the moment radio operator Gilbert Hock sent out the distress call, we have been fired on and boarded by Cambodian armed forces, until the minute we learned the crew had been freed, President Ford acted as Americans hope their President will always act: calm yet forceful, willing to negotiate but unwilling to vacillate.

There was absolutely no justification for the actions of the Cambodians in seizing the ship. It was operating in international waters and under international law. Therefore, the seizure was mere piracy.

So in that regard alone, we were justified in taking prompt decisive action.

But there was another reason, perhaps not so obvious but equally as valid.

Our recent setbacks in Southeast Asia have led many nations—friends as well as possible foes—to wonder at the determination of the American people, and particularly at the determination of Congress.

They need not wonder any more.

The great majority of the American people—and the majority of the Members of Congress—supported President Ford in the Mayaguez incident.

Thank God for a President with guts. Said one fifth Congressional district resident who called this Washington office to support the President.

And that was just one of many, many response calls, letters and telegrams rolling for strong action against the Cambodians.

In the Congress, with of course a few exceptions, the support for the President was equally as strong. There were those, both in Washington and elsewhere, who objected to our actions.

But there always have been, and always will be men and women who prefer talking about a problem to a substitute for trying to solve it, who believe in bending over backwards to please every third rate nation in the world.

I'm glad to say, they are not representative of the vast majority of the American people.

We are a strong nation. And because we are strong, we must always avoid giving the appearance of being a bully.

So, we did in the Mayaguez incident: we got first for diplomacy. It failed.

That left us only two alternatives: to get the ship and its crew back through the only possible means left or subject the American people to piracy and blackmail.

President Ford made the right choice. I applaud him. The American people applaud him.

Fantastic scenery

Thunderbird mountain is a change for Floridians

BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH–The change from flatlands to mountains is awe-inspiring, and the neatly bordered farms of North Carolina disappeared as suddenly as the mountains rose before us as we flew at 8,500 feet in the bright afternoon sun.

Even at that height, the Cessna dodged mountain peaks as we followed the signal from the directional beams of the VOR station through the pass and into the valley.

Just about every flat place held a small farm, and flat places were few as we cowered between the mountain ranges. In the distance, a slight haze made the lush green mountains even more forbidding.

At the end of the valley, where the mountains rose even higher, a 4,200 foot landing strip welcomed us, and we easily set down on the first 1,500 feet of the airport. Taxiing up to the gas pumps

Ed Wood, a mountain man who is owner of the airport, flyer, mechanic and manager, fueled the plane as Ransom Tilton, Dr. Richard Penick and I unloaded our gear.

It was to be a three-day retreat of "porch-settin'" at Thunderbird Mountain where Tilton has a cabin. Three days of getting away. A time for reflection, quiet and mountain beauty.

The community of Ashville is small, and has the nearest airport to Thunderbird Mountain, twenty-five miles away. The mountain resort lies near Robbinsville, the county seat of Graham County, population 6,000. It has a four-page weekly newspaper, the Graham Star, general stores that boggle the mind in diversity, and all the mountain flavor of yesterday, mixed with a touch of modern.

The people are hardy, and seem completely satisfied with a life that doesn't include the outside world to any great degree. They take the many visitors to resort areas with friendly attitudes and country charm.

Nine miles north, through scenic winding highways, the majestic beauty of the Smoky Mountains rises up, and the wild beauty mixes with massive Lake Santeetlah, a boater and fisherman's paradise.

The influence of nearby Cherokee County is there, and Indian lore influences everything modern.

Thunderbird Mountain is a peninsular peak that juts out into the lake, and we were not prepared for the sight of narrow, one-way winding roads that double back up the mountainside that seems vertical.

Cottages cling precipitously to the mountain, their entrances tied to the mountain wall, and pilings on their view sides dropping from twenty to fifty feet down the cliff.

The views are all that scenic mountain views can be, and all across the mountain the natural beauty was actually startling. We were on the full-bloom of Spring, and mountain laurel, rhododendron, honeysuckle, wild azelea, Indian paint brush, goldenrod, climbing, rambling roses, and blackberry blossoms offered a montage of color.

Dr. Penick and I walked up the mountain trail to the top, and marveled at the maple, oak, sycamore, poplar, white pine, spruce, fir, locust, black walnut and dogwood that proliferated.

Roby and Helen Combs were waiting, and talked of the mountain. They are former managers of the resort that offers mountainside lots in a resort atmosphere. Combs is Tilton's partner in some real estate holdings there.

The unique character of Thunderbird Mountain is that it is one of the few privately owned pieces of land that is completely surrounded by the Joyce Kilmer National Forest (Joyce Kilmer wrote "Trees," and is a renown American poet).

The resort area is composed of a clubhouse, restaurant, night club, marina and a small convenience store-gas station. It has a heated swimming pool and a small motel. Some of the cottage owners allow their units to be rented.

The restaurant serves the best rainbow trout (freshly caught) that I have ever tasted.

The night club is private, and "members" bring their brown bags to be placed in lockers for drink service through the lounge. It is all part of the hypocrisy of North Carolina law, a part of yesterday.

A light rock rock group played music in the club, and we were surprised to learn they had performed at Jensen Beach just before coming there, and were from Vero Beach.

It was also surprising to see the number of Florida license plates on autos in the resort, three from Martin County.

Every cabin owner seemed to take pride in his cabin, and most used the natural vegetation to enhance the beauty of the surrounding mountains. A few city-types destroyed their own beauty with close-cropped city lawns of grasses not indigenous to the area.

The rocking chairs on the porch made "porch settin'" a pleasure, and we watched the colors of the mountains and lake change each evening, a restful, quiet experience, shattered only by small boats, their outboard engines murmuring across the lake as fishermen tried for bass, muskie, pike and trout.

We were joined on Saturday by Dr. Penick's daughter, Jacque, and her friend, Patti, both teachers in North Carolina elementary schools seeking their masters degrees at Western Carolina University.

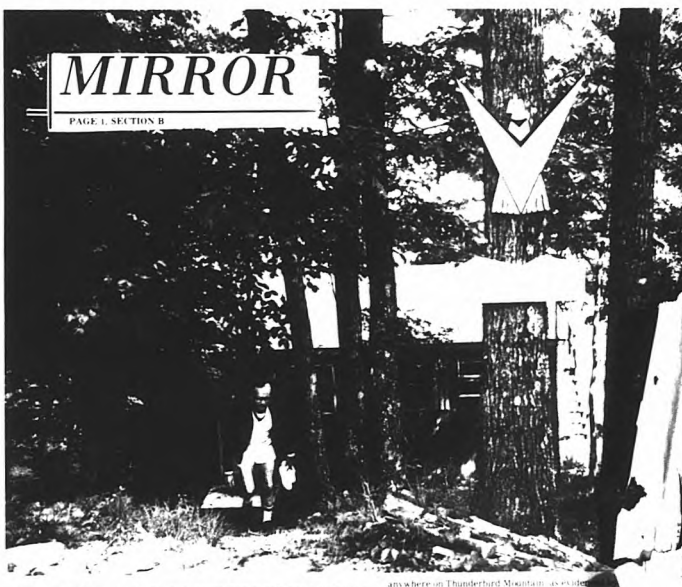
One afternoon, Roby Combs took us on a tour of the Alcoa owned lake, dammed to provide hydro-electric power for the area. The new view of the cabins dotting the mountainsides was, in itself, breathtaking.

We watched the eclipse of the moon from the steps leading to the cabin, and the clear night air offered a perfect view through towering trees.

A Sunday tennis match at Granny Squirrel Gap, playing with Mike O'Rody, the developer of the acre-mountain lots, worked off some of the quiet of "porch settin'," and we boarded the Cessna for the flight back to Jensen Beach.

Having been in Jensen Beach for so long, I finally found out that the world really isn't flat after all. It goes up and down in the mountains of North Carolina, beautifully.

HIKERS–Hiking around Thunderbird Mountain was one of the varied activ... Dr. Richard Penick, his daughter, Jacque, her fellow teacher, Pamela Fro... and Ransom Tilton. Typical tourist pictures were taken at the totems of ... lodge.



WALKING UP–No matter the direction, people have to walk up or down to go ... anywhere on Thunderbird Mountain, as evidenced from the cabin to the road.

Turnabout models parade

STUART–More than 50 professional models took part in a "Models Parade" at a recent meeting of active members of the Turnabout Modeling Agency in Stuart. Prizes in various categories were presented to the winners. Judging was based on the proper type of dress for a "go-see" or interview.

Heather Johnstone of Ft. St. Lucie tied for second in the children's category, along with Sara Lord of Stuart. First went to Corinne Newman, Stuart.

Teenage winners were Terry Bloehm first and Danny Alvey, second. Both are from Ft. Pierce. First in the adult class went to Moonie Graves of Vero and second to Lynn Rawley of Spanish Lakes.

A demonstration of accessorizing with scarves was presented by Melissa Duvall of the Turnabout staff. The "how-to" of photography movement was shown by Ms. Alvey. Reports on the recent New York trip to the Modeling Association Convention included tips on all the "latest" in fashion, professional work and related subjects.

A surprise fashion show ended the meeting. "The Look for Summer 1975" featured fashions from Stuart, Ft. Pierce and Vero shops.

The Turnabout Agency is the only professional agency operating in Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River and Okeechobee counties. It is licensed and bonded by the State of Florida under strict regulatory laws. Its active membership has grown from a few in 1973, when it received its license, to over 60. Members include men, women and children.

A new plan whereby professional members may monitor free of charge any Turnabout classes they have already had, was put into effect. Members plan to conduct bake sales to help raise monies for those who wish to attend the 1976 MAA convention.

EVANGELIST–Stan Ford of England, internationally known evangelist and Bible teacher, will conduct a Crusade for Christ at Faith Bible Chapel, 4396 County Line Road, Jupiter-Tequesta, beginning Sunday, June 1. Services will be held nightly at 7:30 p.m., except Saturdays, and continue thru Sunday, June 15. Ford will also speak at the 11 a.m. service on Sundays. The public is invited to hear this outstanding preacher. A nursery will be provided for all services.

Rio card parties continue

RIO—The Rio Civic Club card parties are continuing, with the next party set for next Tuesday, June 3, at 1 p.m.

Hostesses for the last party were Mary Grant, Grace Lewis, Edith Beck and Freda Schlimm. They reported a good attendance "considering the exodus of regular players for the north."

Mrs. Elias Rohrdanz won the door prize.

Table prize winners were Margaret Rausch, Ann Jacobs, Helen Shomer, Hazel Houghton, Esther Wilson, Grace Lewis, Marie Larson, Gen Heasley and Lil Manwaring.

Winning is only half the fun.

There's a lot more to Jai-Alai than the thrill of winning a Perfecta, Quinella or Double.

There's the game itself.

Bouncing balls caroming off walls at 150 miles an hour. The greatest athletes in the game climbing half way up a wall to retrieve a seemingly unretrievable shot.

The heart-pounding excitement of the do-or-die try.

From the moment the players step onto the court you're sure to remain on the edge of your seat.

Come out today and find out what Jai-Alai is really all about.

Holiday Outlines

BY RUTH BOWES

334-4946

There were a fairly large number of holiday guests in the park. The weather was good. After the rains of past weeks greening everything up, the park was at its best for them.

* * *

Had a letter from the Kiefabers, who are traveling out west this year.

After visiting Stephanie's sister in Orlando, they found that the shore road along the Gulf at Biloxi was repaired and a pleasure to use. In Texas they saw a plane flying very low over the fields. They stopped to inquire about what was going on, finding out that the fields had been seeded with rice earlier, and were being fertilized. They learned that thousands of acres in Texas are planted and fertilized that way.

Then on to a visit to NASA where the grounds are large and beautiful. They visited the museum, training building and visitors center. Then on to Busch Bird Park, where several shows are presented each day.

Paying a visit to the gift shop, they saw hats made from beer cans selling for $6.30. They were like the hats that are made around here.

Texas roadsides are covered with spring flowers with plenty of "free parking" parks along rivers and lakes. Most are limited to 14 days' stay.

Next stop was the Palo Duro Canyon where the colors of rock formations were "breath taking." Legend goes that Charles Goodnight owned over a million acres, and, at his death, the land went to Pecos for a state park. A two-floor museum was built in town filled with relics of early Texas life. Indian culture, a huge gun collection. It includes an old time barber shop where one could also have teeth extracted.

Fred and Stephanie spent eleven days of enjoyable sight seeing in Texas, carrying away with them a lot of good memories and two sad ones. They dropped his camera and broke the lens, and Stephanie lost a tooth.

More later. I promise you.

* * *

Theodore and Nancy Lentz, of lot 473, met their daughter and son-in-law, Sharon and Robert Furth and two grandchildren at Orlando. They all took in Disney World, Busch Gardens and other places of interest before coming to H.O. for a visit. Here they are enjoying the pool and ocean.

* * *

John and Pat Vetterl returned from their business trip to New Jersey over the weekend. Glad to see them back.

* * *

Vergaul and Harry Smith arrived home May 18. They took two weeks to get to Williamsburg, stopping for a visit to their niece in Charlottesville, Va., and for breakfast with Maurice and Lee Enote in Kent, Ohio. They saw Harry's two brothers and Vergaul's sister, Peg Nelson in Detroit, then on to their son's home in Mt. Pleasant, Michigan, where their daughter Margaret joined them for a get together on Vergaul's birthday. Now they are very busy with the everlasting spring yard work, flower beds and lawn and planting a garden.

* * *

Ode and Mary Nemeth arrived in Missouri and are at Table Rock enjoying the scenery and bass fishing with Ned and Bud Helm. Mary caught the first bass. They also went to a performance of "Shepherd of the Hills," which they report is very beautiful.

* * *

Leo and Mildred Stall had a good trip home to Hamburg, New York where he has a large vegetable garden started. Mmmmmm good.

* * *

Canadian owners, Tena and Geoff VanRaas, write they arrived home at Blenheim, Ontario, safely. About 35 miles from home they hit something in the middle of the road, got out to see and didn't think there was any damage. But when they got out of the car a little later for dinner they saw something leaking. On checking closer they found the oil pan was leaking and nearly all the oil was gone. They called a mechanic and were towed into town. Luckily, the necessary repairs could be made, and they were soon on their way home.

* * *

Heard from Martha Lewis. They are very busy doing all the things one needs to do after leaving a house and sold unattended for so long. They are also working on the shuffleboard [illegible]

THE MIRROR MAY 28, 1975 PA

Trying to get them ready for the Singles Tournament June 15-16-1 will be going to Carey, Ohio, Jun for State Doubles. Good luck.

* * *

Heard that it finally got warm Michigan, too fast, it seems. Fred and Herb Rough wrote that they were going to have a family cookout after the Memorial Day Parade.

* * *

The Frederich Rubecks are back on lot 181 for an indefinite stay.

* * *

John and Cappy Glassford arrived on May 19, to stay on lot 278 permanently, except for some short trips in their small trailer. Their many friends welcome them.

* * *

* * *

Jim and Lou Bathrick and Missy left Friday to fly home to Bradford, Pa., in their plane. They will return in the fall.

* * *

Plans for the H.O. float for the Bicentennial Parade July Fourth are coming along good. We will have more later on.

* * *

Anniversary. Congratulations to Jessie and Preston, Maureen and Ha Homes on May 29; to Ida and Howard Gustafson (their 40th) on May 30; and to Earl and Ruth Bowes (their 35th) on June 2.

Happy birthday wishes to Pa Homes May 28; Alice Pirreault, M. Martin Smith, June 2.

MEMORIAL DAY SERVICES--The Andy Matton Post 10130 VFW and Ladies Auxiliary led the community in honoring servicemen who gave their lives for their country Monday at 11 a.m. The ceremonies were held at the White City Cemetery. Reverend Frank Wingerter, Th.M., pastor of Dutton Memorial Presbyterian Church was the principal speaker.

Site plan is needed

Cluster housing tabled Tuesday

PORT ST. LUCIE--Although the city's Planning and Zoning Board submitted their recommendation last week for the approval of General Development Corporation's site plans for cluster housing, the City Council Tuesday tabled the matter.

GDC is seeking approval to move ahead with the construction of two cluster structures on a 1.65 acre site located adjacent to the marina. The two buildings will embrace a total of six dwelling units.

No zoning change is necessitated since the special commercial zoning now in existence will permit the cluster housing proposed for the site.

The Council two weeks ago approved the basic concept of the proposed multi-family project, but held back Tuesday because they were not furnished with the detailed site plans on which the Planning and Zoning Board had based their recommendations.

This council, as the sole body responsible for what goes on in this city for one am not going to approve any project without seeing the site plans. Granted, we did approve the basic concept on the basis the detailed plans would be furnished to the Planning and Zoning Board for their recommendations," Councilman Larry Kimmel said.

Today we have the recommendation for approval by the P&Z Board, but I have yet to see the actual site plans. These should have accompanied the recommendation.

Kimmel went on to say that if GDC couldn't get the paper work to the Council, he failed to see how they would get the equipment here to successfully complete the project.

"I remember when they (GDC) got so involved building a hotel here in the city they forgot to include the necessary parking area for the guests. Believe me that took some last minute emergency action," Kimmel quipped.

When three councilmembers agreed with Kimmel's thinking, the matter was tabled.

GDC Engineer Mark Baggett assured the council the site plans would be made available within days.

Two rezoning requests by GDC were also tabled during the Tuesday session to provide the necessary thirty day period to advertise the public hearing.

State law requires a public hearing when there are residents living within 500 feet of the area affected by the zoning change.

The rezoning request involved a 6.04 acre site situated adjacent to the Par Three Golf Course east of the Sandpiper Bay Complex on Pine Valley Road, and a 10.56 acre tract along Morningside Blvd.

Although all three sites are involved in the overall multi-family cluster housing project proposed by the developer, GDC officials told the Council two weeks ago they were most anxious to start construction at the marina site then work their way up Morningside Routes and

P & Z board formalized

PORT ST. LUCIE--The City's Planning and Zoning Board moved one step closer to finalization Tuesday when the City Council approved on the first reading, Ordinance 75-5 formally creating the Board.

Although the ordinance was approved by the Council a motion was made to specifically spell out the number of members needed to establish a quorum.

Top officers of the Planning and Zoning Board were elected during a special session held last Thursday at the City Hall. Thirteen of the eighteen member board were present for the election of officers.

Ed Fessel, an unsuccessful candidate in the March city elections was elected to chair the board. Dr. Charles Hoyt was elected vice chairman and Herb Tschudy, secretary.

City Clerk Donna Baggan will record the minutes of the overall board meetings, which will be held on the third Monday of each month at 1:30 p.m. in the City Hall.

The Planning and Zoning Board is subdivided into two nine member committees one will deal specifically with planning, while the second will handle the zoning matters of the city.

Each committee has elected its own officers.

The Planning committee is headed by Chairman Clyde Hunt. Vaughn Lewis has been named vice chairman. Although a secretary has not been named at the present time, Kathee Morelle will be on hand to record the minutes of the meetings.

The Planning committee meetings are held on the second Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at the City Hall.

Edward Faulkner will chair the zoning committee, with Charles Fields serving as vice chairman and Hank Sewell as secretary. Ann Flowers will record the minutes of the meetings which will be held on the second and fourth Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at the City Hall.

Several weeks ago Councilman Bill McCracken, who chaired the city's original planning and zoning committee, made a motion to establish three separate boards planning, zoning and appeals.

Although the motion was passed unanimously, the city attorney later suggested the Council could not relegate such powers relative to an appeals board, ruling the decisions of the appeals board could only be upset in the Circuit Court.

This decision led to the compromise at last Thursday when it was agreed the city would have a combined Planning and Zoning Board divided into the two separate committees.

Members of the planning sub committee include Clyde Hunt, Vaughn Lewis, Jack Radcliffe, Bob Jensen, Vern Forlenza, Charles Hoyt, A.J. Zamorano, Charles Porreca and Ed Fessel.

The Zoning sub committee consists of Ed Faulkner, C. Wayne Haughman, Retired Major Herb Tschudy, Hank Sewell, Charles Fields, Hughes Brininger, F.M. Candia and S.A. Zane.

Members of the Planning and Zoning Board will be appointed as follows: ten shall be appointed for a period of one year and the remaining eight will be appointed for a two year term. At the expiration of the initial appointments each term will be for two years.

The ex officio members of the Board are the city administrator, the major director of the Building and Zoning Department, and one member of the City Council.

Councilman Bill McCracken was appointed by Mayor Sharpe Tuesday to serve as the ex officio member representing the council.

Board accepts plans

Bid opening June 19 for CESA addition

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE--The long awaited expansion of the CESA community center might well get underway within the next thirty days if all goes according to plan.

The board of directors approved plans for a proposed 2,185 square foot addition to the present structure as presented by architect George Asklof during a special meeting held Friday.

The proposed addition which will be approximately 1,000 square feet larger than the present center, will include a lounge, snack bar, and additional restroom facilities.

A twelve foot archway will provide access to the CB addition which will be constructed adjacent to the southside of one of the existing buildings.

According to Judd Reading, chairman of the CESA building committee, bids for the proposed expansion will be opened June 19.

Providing the price is right the contract will be awarded and construction started within four to five days, Reading told The Mirror Monday.

The eight grant referred to by Reading will be an amount not exceeding the present financial limits of the CESA building fund, reportedly in the neighborhood of $50,000.

Commenting on the latest proposal for expanding the community center, Reading said, "I think this is a good idea and I am delighted we are going to move ahead with a reasonable expansion program rather than the elaborate 300 seat auditorium idea of last year."

This type addition the building committee figured feasible back when we first began talking about expanding the facility, Reading said.

Bids for the project will include such items as three five ton air conditioning units, a smoke withdrawal unit and the wiring for a public address system. The PA system will be installed at a later date when additional funds are available.

The three air conditioning units will allow flexibility of usage depending on the number of people using the facility.

Asklof said the bids would be accompanied by both bid bonds and performance bonds.

Construction of the addition is expected to be completed in time for CESA's planned New Year's party.

PRESENT ARMS--Obeying the orders of the firing squad leader Pete Amatites, past commander of the Andy Matton V F W Post 10130, the squad presents arms for the Memorial Day salute. The Andy Matton Post conducted the Memorial Day services at the White City Cemetery. Post commander Bill Gales presented Ed Arritt, president of the White City Cemetery Association with a flag to be used in the Veterans area of the cemetery.

Angler picnic next week

PORT ST. LUCIE--Encouraged by the success of the first event members of the Port St. Lucie Anglers club will gather for a second fishing picnic on Thursday, June 5, on the Jensen Beach Causeway.

Bob Forlenza, chairman, made the announcement to club members at the Tuesday meeting.

Members will begin fishing whenever they please and gather for lunch at noon. Forlenza hinted he might have a fishing instructor on hand.

In other business, the club made plans to participate in the Fourth of July parade, and voted to contribute $25 toward the cost of a band.

President Bob Brunton spoke briefly in memory of the late Bruce Miller, a longtime club member.

Bicentennial has it all together in Jensen plan

JENSEN BEACH--Broad-ranging plans of the Jensen Beach area communities were revealed to Jensen Kiwanians Monday as Barbara Torow, chairperson of the Jensen Beach Bicentennial Committee spoke to the group.

Mrs. Torow praised the Kiwanis Club for ceremonial pledge to the flag and singing of America to open the program adding that the recent high school graduation had no pledge to the flag.

"Our theme is 'Our American heritage, an honor to be earned,'" she said, adding that the heritage is to be cherished "but if you just cherish it you'll sit on your back end and no earn it."

She explained that the bicentennial committee is made up of 33 local organizations and brought along materials to show the progress of planning.

The new bicentennial decal for auto and store windows was displayed. The decal sells for fifty cents at local stores or at the Jensen Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Torow sold several decals at the Kiwanis meeting to eager Kiwanians. Profits from the decals will finance the committee activities.

Flag kits to be acquired and sold by the American Legion and local scout troop will be available in two weeks she said, indicating that half the original order of 100 kits were already sold.

Florida bicentennial flags will be flown from the flagstaffs of the Chamber of Commerce, Jensen Environmental Center, the House of Refuge Museum, and the Jensen Beach Elementary School.

The committee plans to place red, white and blue bunting on all Florida Power and Light poles from Rio to Jensen Beach, on Indian River Drive and SR 707. She said that individuals and businessmen can get the bunting for their poles from Jack Klett, who is handling the ordering.

Mrs. Torow outlined the "freedom shrine" that is planned for the First Federal lawn on Commercial Street. The shrine will hold copies of all flags that have flown over the county, and parchment copies of the bill of rights, the constitution and the declaration of independence.

A massive parade is first in Jensen Beach; will be held on July 4, with floats and color guards and live music. Andrea Wells is in charge of the parade, according to Mrs. Torow.

She outlined the community calendar of events that will be tied to the bicentennial including all regular events, such as Leif Erikson Day, the Garden Club tour of old homes and churches and the Lion and Kiwanis teeds. The calendar is located at the Chamber of Commerce office on Commercial Street, and all events will be listed so there is not conflict during the year.

An essay contest on the subject "What America means to me" will be held to pick a Miss Betsy Ross and Uncle Sam, who will preside during the year. The contest will be held at the beginning of the school year with winners announced on Armistice Day.

Mrs. Torow urged all residents to attend the next meeting of the committee, June 27 at Harry Hoke Memorial Hall at 8 p.m.

Kiwanis votes bicentennial license plate

JENSEN BEACH--A special license plate designed around the bicentennial celebration, will be produced for sale by the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club, it was announced Monday by Dr. Richard Penick, president.

Penick told Kiwanians that the plate would be designed by Carl Engel, Ocean Breeze artist and would be made of fiberglass. It should be available in thirty days.

The design according to Engle, is of red, white and blue stripes with a liberty bell in the center. The dates "1776-1976" and "Let's ring it again" are on the plate along with town identity.

Dr. Penick is honored

JENSEN BEACH--Dr. Richard Q. Penick, Jensen Beach physician, was honored Thursday evening, May 29 at the annual meeting of the Heart Association of Martin and Palm Beach Counties.

Richard L. Adams, president of the association, presented Dr. Penick with an award "for the successful public forums on heart disease and related subjects he coordinated this year in Stuart and for his work with the Kiwanis Club on high blood pressure screening." Dr. Penick serves on the Community Services Committee and is a member of the Association's board of directors.

Also honored, but unable to be present were Mrs. Nesbit Sills, Jr., chairman of Martin County's Heart Sunday drive; William E. Owens, chairman of the Induction drive and Dennis S. Hudson, Jr., chairman of Stuart's business drive.

Adams, speaking to the 170 Heart volunteers attending the dinner said the 1974-75 campaign income reached a record high of $329,642. Of that $83,512 came from Martin County; $1,700 Jensen Beach and Stuart, $100 Indiantown, $280 Hobe Sound Heart Sunday, $4,675 Stuart, $477 Jensen Beach, $907 Sewall's Point, $475 Hobe Sound.

July 4 parade route

JENSEN BEACH--The Bicentennial Celebration Fourth of July parade has a new route, ending up on the Jensen Beach Causeway and beginning at the point originally scheduled for the parade disbanding.

Andrea Webb, parade chairman, said the celebration parade would begin on Second Street at Jensen Beach Bank.

The parade had originally been scheduled to begin at Langford Park and proceed along SR 707, Indian River Drive and Commercial Street to the bank.

While the Sheriff's Department had agreed to the original route, Mrs. Webb said the Sheriff suggested the new route, pointing out that there are several side streets entering SR 707.

The parade line-up will begin at 7:30 a.m. July 4, and we would like as many of the units to be in the area as early as possible," Mrs. Webb said.

The deadline for the line-up is 8 a.m. with the parade starting at 10 a.m., she said.

Many of the organizations in the Bicentennial Celebration Committee have indicated that they will enter floats in the parade, Mrs. Webb said.

Trophies will be given in several categories, the parade chairman continued.

Trophies will be given for the first three place winners in the overall category, she said.

Other categories include marching units, horse entries, decorated bike divisions, best costume and business entries.

The parade will proceed from the bank area along Palmetto Drive to Commercial Street, and then east on Commercial Street to Indian River Drive, and then north on the drive to the Causeway.

Mrs. Webb said the parade will disband on the east side of the bridge.

Persons following the parade can go to the causeway where the annual Fourth of July celebration will be held culminating in the fireworks display.

Mrs. Webb said persons wanting information on the parade may contact her after 8 p.m. at 334-2896.

Preserve Savannas

Proposed mobile homes opposed

JENSEN BEACH--Proposed development of a mobile home park on a 1,500 acre tract east of U.S. 1 and north of Jensen Beach Cutoff Road (SR-707A) by General Development Corp. (GDC) officials Monday drew immediate protests.

GDC vice president William Kresdt, meeting with Martin County planning, engineering, and zoning officials at the courthouse, said there is a tremendous need for this type of housing.

But conservationist Dr. Walter Stokes and Martin County Planning Commission member Bob Krause spoke against the proposed trailer park.

"These structures simply cannot stand a hurricane," Dr. Stokes said. "I visualize Martin County as a disaster area if we have a hurricane."

Dr. Stokes noted that there are already 67 mobile home parks in the county.

And Krause added that recent figures indicate 18 per cent of Martin County residents live in mobile homes and that the Jensen Beach area is densely populated by trailer-dwellers.

"We are slowing down their approvals," Krause said.

Krause also questioned GDC's plans for a commercial area just north of the planned shopping mall on U.S. 1 at Jensen Beach Cutoff Road.

GDC officials are preparing a comprehensive land-use plan for its Port St. Lucie project and pointed out that they wanted to make Martin County officials aware of their plans.

Plans for preservation of the savannas and the North Fork of the St. Lucie River were discussed at the public hearing.

GDC engineer Wesley Jurgens said that the company plans to direct surface and storm water to large ponds.

The engineer said that instead of draining surface and storm water eastward across U.S. 1 into the north fork, the water will be retained on site between the highway and the savannas.

Jurgens said that the ponds will continue to recharge the savannas supply through the natural methods of percolation.

Edges of the savannas and the edges of the north fork will be preserved in their natural conditions according to Jurgens.

Dr. Stokes called the plan a phenomenal improvement.

Dr. Stokes had been critical of GDC's plans to drain its property by ditching to the north fork which would in turn might effect the savannas water supply.

GDC is the largest land owner in the savannas, and the state is presently making plans to purchase the vast wetlands between Jensen Beach Cutoff Road on the south to Midway Road in St. Lucie County and between U.S. 1 on the west and the Florida East Coast Railroad.

GDC officials pointed out that it had made installment contracts in the last 10 years to deliver 4,000 homesites between the savannas and U.S. 1.

GDC counsel Arthur Harper said the contracts were made before the company or state agencies were aware of the need to preserve the environment so they do not fit ideally into today's kind of planning.

Harper said that the company is working to overcome the environmental deficiencies in the original plan.

Martin County Planning Director Kirk Schenk said the company's plan for on-site draining is the kind of change that can be cheerfully accepted.

Island re-hearing is scheduled

JENSEN BEACH--A new land use plan for Hutchinson Island was approved last week by the Martin County Commission, and officials expressed hope that it was the final debate on the island.

But two more public hearings will have to be held.

County Administrator Jack Noble said last Friday that legal notices were not given of the public hearings.

As a result, public hearings will have to be held again before the county can validly adopt the new plan, Noble said.

The Planning Commission will hold a new hearing June 23 and the County Commission on June 24 to reconsider rezoning the Yacht Club Beach area for single family residences and for hotel-motel areas east of SR A1A.

Ordinance 63, which contains special land use restrictions for the island, remains in effect since it was properly advertised.

Noble said that the failure to run the legal notice was a case of one official thinking that another was taking care of it.

NEW COG MEMBER--Martin County Commission chairman and vice chairman of the Council of Governments (COG) Russ Philbrick, left, welcomes Pat Beacom to the council. Beacom, mayor of St. Lucie Village, is the newest member of COG.

Campbell heads Kiwanis

JENSEN BEACH--Richard E. Campbell, editor of The Mirror, was elected president of the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club Monday in the annual election of officers. Jack Scranton was re-elected vice president.

The secretary will continue to be Neil MacMillan, local attorney, and Clun Chew Get, Outrigger administrative chef, was re-elected treasurer.

In addition to the officers, board members include Bill Herzog, Glenn Bryan, Bryan Bibeau, Bryon Carson, George Smith and outgoing president Dr. Richard Penick.

Installation of officers is planned in the latter part of September.

COG talks boaters vs. skiers

JENSEN BEACH--After discussing the problem at length, members of St. Lucie River Council of Governments (COG) decided last week that they did not have jurisdiction on the boaters vs. skiers issue.

The North Fork of the St. Lucie River problem will be left with St. Lucie County Commission and Port St. Lucie Council.

Port St. Lucie resident Donald Dietz told COG members that the wake from speeding boats is eroding the shoreline of narrower portions of the river.

Dietz said he counted 38 trees washed into the river on a one-third mile stretch. "It was caused by bigger and faster boats coming up the north fork."

Dietz and George Ewing of Martin County complained about skiers whose two ropes stretch across the river, causing a possible hazard to other boaters.

The skiers come around the bend in the river with their ropes stretched all the way across. Somebody is going to get killed," Ewing said.

John Fort, of Martin County, representing the skiers, said the fishermen are just as dangerous, and related an incident where a fisherman attempted to hook a skier on his line. He said the reckless skiers and fishermen exist on both sides of the issue.

"The waterways are there for the use and enjoyment of all age groups," Fort said. "It's not right for these special interest groups to take action or attack other users of the river."

Martin County Commissioner Russ Philbrick, COG vice chairman who presided in the absence of Chairman Willie McCain, suggested that a long blast by boaters approaching north fork bends might be helpful, but was told that the Marine Patrol would have to enforce such a ruling.

Pat Beacom, mayor of St. Lucie Village, who is the newest member of COG, told of similar skiing problems along Indian River, and speeding boats.

Beacom said that the village drafted an ordinance, sent it to Tallahassee, got in touch with the Marine Patrol, and now skiing is only allowed in the deep channel of the Indian River.

Bob Bruton, a Port St. Lucie Angler, said restrictions should be made in the more hazardous portions of the river for security of skiers and fishermen, and a special spot should be established for the skiing enthusiasts.

And Port St. Lucie Mayor Schuyler Sharpe suggested that skiing should be outlawed in portions of the river where it is not practical.

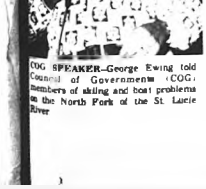
After discussing the issue for more than an hour with the use of a photograph of the north fork, Fort Pierce Mayor Ben Bryan noted that COG did not have jurisdiction of the matter.

"We can't solve it," Mayor Bryan said. "But either Port St. Lucie or the county should be capable of handling it."

COG attorney Gerry McCarthy indicated that the Department of Natural Resources will review the situation.

On another matter, COG members indicated that a discussion on sanitary landfill project will be held at the next meeting.

Stuart Commissioner Dale Anderson informed the group of a recent project undertaken by the City of Orlando, an incinerator to burn garbage.



COG SPEAKER--George Ewing told Council of Governments (COG) members of skiing and boat problems on the North Fork of the St. Lucie River.

JENSEN BEACH--A record number of boats are expected to take part in the fifth annual Offshore Small Boat Tournament of the Stuart-Sailfish Club.

PGA project still at tee as county putts around

STUART—Martin County commissioners said they are willing to listen to developers of the proposed Professional Golfers Association PGA, but developers haven't told them much about the south county project.

Several weeks ago officials of Voight Enterprises, Inc. asked the commission to allow soil scientists to survey their 1,000 acre project west of Hobe Sound to see what type development the land can support.

Commissioners rejected that request, and said the soil survey team should continue working in the Stuart area instead of changing its priorities.

Commissioner John Kiernan said that he had no objection to the soil survey team investigating the PGA property. But so far as I know they have not followed any guideline of procedure that's been recommended to them.

They haven't shown the commission the first piece of paper. They haven't done anything but talk," Kiernan said.

Letters to the editor

To the editor:

I appreciate your researching the situation concerning Leilani Heights developer (I&s Construction and the half finished turn off lanes on Savannah Road. Your comments were enlightening, however are unlikely to produce any results in getting the turn offs completed in a reasonable time. More likely your statements will merely give someone another hill to hide behind to avoid meeting the problem head on.

November is 6 months away. Somehow, I fail to see how the $35,000 performance bond could possibly prevent a serious accident that could be caused by the drop off. Does posting the bond relieve the developer of any legal liability should an accident occur? Would the county be liable? Would eighteen plus months constitute a legally reasonable time to complete the [illegible] originally?

It's understandable that the developer doesn't want to finish the turnoffs because his heavy laden trucks might tear them up. What about the damage that is occurring to the public roadways in the meantime? Are his trucks contributing to this? It's just possible that by November of we get our normal share of rain that so much damage will have been done that the $35,000 bond won't cover the repairs. Can the said asphalt normally used for turn offs adequately, permanently repair the roads currently built up roadways? Will the taxpayers have to pay the difference? Who will bear the cost of future repairs of the patch-work? Stay tuned!

I feel an immediate completion of the [illegible] is in order. Hope County [illegible] Commissioner Ross Philbrick should be responsive to the needs. Mr. Editor, your answers are informative and soothing, but we need ACTION NOW.

Sincerely,
Robert L. Hall

Mirror staff begins blood bank account

JENSEN BEACH--The staff of Mirror Newspapers, Inc. last week began donating the first pints of blood for what will be an organization account at the Martin County branch of the Palm Beach Blood Bank located in Martin Memorial Hospital.

"We have had a great response from the staff and should have no problem in reaching the minimum ten pints required to start the group account," explained Dennis Doyle, chairman for The Mirror account.

Under the staffs account, a pre-deposit plan insures credits when needed by anyone designated by the organization. This can include members of the staff, their immediate family or anyone the staff wishes to designate.

A family plan can be obtained by anyone or given from one family to another as a gift. In this plan, a deposit of one pint of blood covers at no cost all the blood needs of the provider and the immediate family for a period of one year. Coverage can then be extended each twelve months with annual premium of one pint of blood. Coverage under this plan includes the spouse and all unmarried children under 18 years of age.

Any individual can give blood by the direct donation to patient account whereby all the donor must indicate is the name of the patient, the hospital and the location.

Another plan named the Martin County Account, has been established for residents in Martin Cunty, said Sara Timon, chief R.N. in charge of the blood bank.

For each pint you donate, you receive a credit which you may release through your chairman at any time you desire. And this credit lasts indefinitely until used, she said.

[illegible] changes at the local [illegible] of the blood bank have been made in new hours, revisions in regulations and also a new R.N. to assist Mrs. Timon at the bank.

The blood bank will be open Monday [illegible] to 8 p.m. Wednesday 12 noon to [illegible] and Thursday, beginning June [illegible].

New revisions which applied before [illegible] been updated according to Mrs. [illegible] Full details age, anyone at the [illegible] call with a written parents [illegible] consent, donate blood.

[illegible] can also donate blood as long as there have been no malaria re-occurances within the past three years.

On May 25, Harriett Lynn and Pat Brady hosted a most friendly get together in the rec hall.

About 50 of our folks attended the lovely affair. A large array of delicious foods including turkey, ham, dips and salads were served on a very pretsily decorated table with pink and white cloth and flowers. All truly enjoyed this affair.

Charlie and I were sorry to miss it, since we were in West Palm to pick up our son Charles from Elkhorn, Wisc. at the time. But the gals graciously offered to save us some goodies and were still in the hall waiting to serve us.

* * *

Needless to say, Charlie and I were delighted to have our son here for a week.

* * *

Activities are diminishing here, as six of us found out on Friday night bingo. We wound up at our place for a few games, which was fun.

Happy and safe traveling to those leaving this week.

* * *

Very Happy Birthdays to Mrs. Huber and Robert Staples, June 16, Harriett Lynn, June 19, Fred Ballard, June 25, Lee Van Cura, June 27, and William Eastman, June 29.

And to all our there. Peace.

Auxilians attend gift shop seminar

STUART—Connie Bauman and Adelaide Roessler co-chairmen of the Martin Memorial Hospital Auxiliary gift shop, have just returned from a Gift Shop Seminar, sponsored by the Association of Florida Hospital Auxiliaries in Tampa.

Led by Mrs. Fanny Harris, Orange Memorial Hospital Auxiliary in Orlando, the morning meeting covered gift shop management and buying, mark-up and profit. Irene Redner, from Dale Wholesale Jewelry in Tampa, addressed the group and answered questions covering the wholesale side of gift shop operations.

At the afternoon session, each hospital gift shop representative participated in the "Show and Tell" portion of the seminar. THE PAINTERS–Taking a moment for levity, Sandy Thurlow, Joan Williams and Connie Rau ask for clipping help from painter Clay Lambeth as he passes by seeking more wall paint. Over forty residents of Indialucie turned out last Saturday to paint the subdivision wall.

CLIPPINGS–Cleaning up the clippings of the hedge in front of the Indialucie subdivision Saturday was Herman Murray, who joined with his fellow residents of [illegible] clean up the entrance and paint the wall.

Indialucie residents join to paint the wall

SEWALL'S POINT–Forty residents of Indialucie joined together to take a page from Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer" and paint the 1,000 foot concrete wall in front of the subdivision Saturday morning.

The effort of the Indialucie Homeowners Association was both work and social, with a luncheon-swim party following the work party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thurlow.

The work began at 8 a.m., with residents gathering at the entrance to the subdivision with pans and rollers.

One team began cutting back and pruning alamandas that have grown up the wall. They were followed by the painters, rolling the white paint on the wall. The paint sprayer was in action.

Wives of the painters prepared coffee and cakes early in the morning, following that with iced tea by 9 a.m. as the heat from the sun became intense.

The black letters of the wall entrance were removed earlier in the week and painted green. Jerry O'Brien, Joe Greenlees and Herman Murray joined to put the letters a foot higher on the wall as soon as the white paint had dried.

Children helped fathers and mothers, often getting more paint on themselves than on the wall, and wives weeded along the wall. Mrs. Larry Clark gathered a group to begin weeding and thinning out the subdivision circles, improving the looks of the entrance area.

"This is the greatest," said homeowner president O'Brien. "We could easily pay to have this done. But the people get to know each other better, and we are working together as a team," he said.

A group of alamandas was added to the wall, and plantings followed the work party at the Thurlow home.

Children played in the pool as refreshments were served by Mrs. Lucille Nelson and members of her committee.

COFFEE BREAK–Taking time out from weeding and pruning were Bertha Sullivan and Moree Elam.

ROLLING–Tom Thurlow set down his roller and pan to take a rest as Indialucie residents painted their subdivision wall Saturday. Thurlow was on the committee to improve the looks of the subdivision.

HELPERS–Shawn and Ronnie Paradise shared a refreshing Coke as they helped their father paint the Indialucie wall Saturday.

TRIMMING–Homeowner President Jerry O'Brien finds assistance from Joe Greenlees as he clips a hedge at the entrance to Indialucie.

WHITE WALL–Paint committee chairman Dick Campbell rested alongside the newly painted wall with Joan Williams and Irene O'Brien.

STRETCH–All that bending means you must stretch once in awhile, as Mrs. Irene O'Brien does in the middle of weeding the Indialucie wall.

WEEDING–Prepared for the hot sun, Tiffany Hendry wore her hat to fight off the glare as she weeded along the Indialucie wall.

LOADING–Clipped alamandas were loaded aboard a pickup truck as Sullivan directed the removal of clippings at the Indialucie wall Saturday.

I am happy to report the Park Security went into effect on June 1, from 4 p.m. to 8 a.m. We will soon have Owner Identification Decals to put on our cars. The decals will be needed to gain entrance to the park.

+ + +

Two benches have been placed by the Kiddie Pool for the convenience of mothers watching their children.

+ + +

Mac McCabe and R. Bowes attended the May 30th meeting of the Bicentennial Committee. Planning for the July Fourth parade is falling in place. Our H.O. entry plans are shaping up good, too.

+ + +

Grace and John Madden arrived home at Hampton Bay, New York, after a lovely trip. They said they had good weather enroute.

+ + +

The Stanley McCarts left June 2 to spend the summer in Ohio. They expect to return in October.

+ + +

Our pool man, Eric, and his wife are on a three week vacation in the vicinity of Chicago, Illinois, visiting relatives and friends. We wish them the best.

+ + +

Flora and Dave McCarthy left May 30 around 4 a.m. (that's too early). They made their first stop in Potomac, Maryland, to visit son David Jr. and his family, then on to Princeton, New Jersey, to visit Gerry and family. Next to Connecticut where they will stay until June 21, then on to Nova Scotia. Some well laid plans for a wonderful summer.

+ + +

Heard from Betty Taylor. She arrived home on May 9, where she was getting ready to go and visit Mother Taylor on Mother's Day, May 10, only to learn that Mrs. Taylor had passed away that morning. Betty's many friends send their condolences to her and her family.

At the time of her letter she wrote she had been baby sitting a supposedly sick ewe, who merely gave birth to triplets. So she has four to tend now.

+ + +

Here is another installment of Fred and Stephanie Kiefaber's travels out west:

Visiting Taos, New Mexico, altitude 7,000 feet, they found ice on the streams and four foot icycles which were very beautiful in the sunshine. A ski resort area, Taos is very picturesque and friendly.

They drove out to the the hundred foot high bridge which spans the Rio Grande, which they walked across for exercise. They spent that night in a motel where they were the only occupants, and were off to the Bandolier National Monument the next morning.

The ruins there were fantastic and Stephanie says, "Don't think that condominiums are new. The Indians had them over 1000 years ago!" They also saw a species of blue bird there that is rarely seen in the east.

Then it was on to Santa Fe to see the Church with the Circular Staircase.

The story goes that this church was built with a choir loft, but the builders forgot the stairs. After several years, an itinerant carpenter came to town, heard the story and built a circular stairs to the loft using a saw, hammer and a bucket of water. no nails were used. Before they got the man's name, he was gone. Several years later, a banister and new el posts were added.

Next stop, another church which has a bell molded in Spain in 1356 and brought by ox cart from Mexico to Santa Fe. Weighing 800 pounds, the bell is made of gold, iron, silver and copper. They were allowed to ring it, and it has a lovely, mellow tone.

Their next visit was to friends in Albuquerque, where they went to Window Rock, a beautiful place, after which they headed for Canyon de Shelly to see more ruins.

They say the one to be sure to take in there is the White House. You walk down a steep canyon a mile, then across some mud flats, then down the river for 700 feet. They took off their shoes, rolled up their pant legs and took off. Stephanie leading. She stepped into a hole, went down and nearly lost her shoes. But they continued on and when they came to the White House the tedious trip was well worth while, despite the long trek in windy, dusty weather. The house has 50 or more rooms, and is really a sight to see.

On their way out, they bought some bread from an Indian lady, which was quite good and contained no preservatives of any kind.

Their next stop will be Mesa Verde, Colorado.

+ + +

Don't forget all of you who are away, write those notes to me as our paper really gets around and all Holiday Outers love to read the news of friends.

+ + +

Congratulations to Art and Betty Nagy on their anniversary, June 7.

+ + +

Many happy birthday wishes are extended to John May on June 11.

'Room Service' opens Friday

STUART— "Room Service," a farce in three acts, opens at The Barn Theatre on Friday, June 6.

The play is directed by Richard Carr and Martha Carr is production manager. Kay Irwin is stage manager and Jeanne Small is in charge of props.

The action of "Room Service" is fast and at times ridiculous. The play was made famous in film by the Marx Brothers and many of their antics are evident in the local production.

The action takes place in Gordon Miller's room in the White Way Hotel. The year is 1937. Miller, who is a bit of a con man in the theatrical world, is played by Hand Langbehn. He will be remembered for his performance as Count dracula this season.

Other familiar faces in "Room Service" are Carl Schmidt, Bob Irwin, Darcy Conant, Ron Hutson and Roger Conant.

Also in the cast are Mort Foster, Candy Brown, Susan Smith, John Ferra, George McNulty, Fred Castle, Peter Ricci and John Fulton.

"Room Service" will run for three weekends at The Barn with curtain at 8:30 p.m. Reservations are recommended. For information and reservations call 287-0676.

Club receives awards

JENSEN BEACH—Two awards were presented to the Jensen Beach Garden Club at the District 10 President's Conference of Florida Federation of Garden Clubs Spring Meeting held in West Palm Beach last week.

Mrs. Harold R. Lartaud, president, represented the local club at the meeting.

The Jensen Beach club received a Certificate of Appreciation for donation to Youth Camp Wekiwa, sponsored by the Federation.

A Citation of Appreciation was awarded to the club for outstanding participation in the "World Gardening" program of the National Council of State Garden Clubs.

Mrs. Lartaud announced that the local club, with a $300 donation to the Martin County Commission, had started the rehabilitation of the historic landmark known as The Arch.

It is hoped that all work will be completed by July 1.

STUART—Mrs. Marge Bishop, president of the Martin Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, announced today that Mrs. Marion Daly has been appointed to serve as publicity co-chairman.

All Auxiliians are to call Mrs. Daley at 283-0772 or Mrs. Juanita Edwards at 287-2628 for any publicity needs.

The charter, held by school principal Victor Blackmer and PTSFA chairman Mrs. Robert Satchwill, was designed by Jack Roberts, career education coordinator for St. Lucie County Schools

PTSF charter is presented

PORT ST. LUCIE–The last regular meeting of the year of the Parent Teacher, Student and Friends Organization (PTSF) was held May 22.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation of the PTSF charter to Mr. Backmer by Mrs. Nancy Satchwell.

Mrs. Satchwell said that anyone wishing to volunteer to work on the PTSF or homeroom mothers, should contact her. The first planning meeting for the coming year will be held in August.

Mrs. Barbara Noone made a presentation of the school newspaper which the fourth grade classes had written.

Heated debate

Should city pay street lighting?

BY DICK CAMPBELL

PORT ST. LUCIE–A suggestion to have the city provide street lighting for those in Port St. Lucie who want it, eliminating the present lighting districts, brought heated debate and no conclusion in a topic that is certain to be another divisive factor in council relations in the future.

Mayor Schuyler Sharpe sought to have the council consider the city assumption of street lighting costs, using fifty percent of the Florida Power and Light Company franchise revenues for the job.

The move would eliminate special lighting charges of up to nine dollars per year from families now with street lighting in the northern part of the city, revenues of $6,000 in the past year. The city would assume the costs, using up to half of the $41,765 in franchise fees from FPL last year.

"People keep asking what they get for their taxes. This would give us a chance to show them one benefit," Sharpe said.

He suggested that if an area votes to have a lighting district the city should take over the obligation. Sharpe called the lighting district payments "double taxation."

Councilman Larry Kimmel objected to the matter on several grounds.

After a tongue in cheek complaint that Dade County has found that 24-hour lighting causes yellowing of palm trees and plants, Kimmel said that because the south city residents didn't want lights on the streets and the north city residents do, the north city residents should pay the bill.

He was joined in the protest by Lee Johnson, who said, "I don't see why people who don't want street lights should have to pay for them. You are taking funds that belong to all the people and giving them to certain areas. You are forcing tax dollars to pay for something in a certain area, and that is wrong.

"It's about time we give some services back to the people," Sharpe said. He was supported by Councilman Bill McChesney, who said he thought that the formula of using only that portion of the franchise funds that came in for the upper half of the city would be proper balance of the use of the money for lighting.

Johnson again complained that the use was not city wide, and asked that the funds be committed to police, recreation and safety, "not to lighting districts that benefit just a few."

Councilman Fred Rose said that the referendum should be used to see if the people want lights on their streets, and if they do, the city should pay for the lighting.

"You are opening the door to special interest groups," said Kimmel.

Johnson complained that the referendum would pass anywhere.

"If you tell people you are going to pay for lights you'll have people voting for it and you'll have sixty percent of the city in lights," Johnson said.

No decision was made on the subject by the council.

COG talks boaters vs. skiers

JENSEN BEACH–After discussing the problem at length, members of St. Lucie River Council of Governments (COG) decided last week that they "do not have jurisdiction on the boaters vs. skiers issue."

The North Fork of the St. Lucie River problem will be left with St. Lucie County Commission and Port St. Lucie Council.

Port St. Lucie resident Donald Dietz told COG members that the wake from speeding boats is eroding the shoreline of narrower portions of the river.

Dietz said he counted 38 trees washed into the river on a one-third mile stretch. "It was caused by bigger and faster boats coming up the north fork."

Dietz and George Ewing of Martin County complained about skiers whose tow ropes stretch across the river, causing a possible hazard to other boaters.

The skiers come around the bend in the river with their ropes stretched all the way across. Somebody is going to get killed," Ewing said.

John Furr of Martin County, representing the skiers, said the fishermen are just as dangerous, and related an incident where a fisherman attempted to hook a skier on his line. He said the reckless skiers and fishermen exist on both sides of the issue.

"The waterways are there for the use and enjoyment of all age groups," Furr said. "It's not right for these special interest groups to take action or attack other users of the river."

Martin County Commissioner Rosa Philbrick, COG vice chairman who presided in the absence of Chairman Willie McLean, suggested that a buoy blast by boaters approaching north fork bends might be helpful, but was told that the Marine Patrol would have to enforce such a ruling.

Pat Beacom, mayor of St. Lucie Village, who is the newest member of COG, told of similar skiing problems along Indian River, and speeding boats.

Beacom said that the village drafted an ordinance sent it to Tallahassee, got in touch with the Marine Patrol, and now skiing is only allowed on the deep channel of the Indian River.

Bob Brunton, a Port St. Lucie Angler, said restrictions should be made in the more hazardous portions of the river for security of skiers and fishermen, and a special spot should be established for the skiing enthusiasts.

And Port St. Lucie Mayor Schuyler Sharpe suggested that skiing should be outlawed in portions of the river where it is not practical.

After discussing the issue for more than an hour with the use of a photograph of the north fork, Fort Pierce Mayor Bert Bryan noted that COG did not have jurisdiction of the matter.

"We can't solve it," Mayor Bryan said. "But either Port St. Lucie or the county should be capable of handling it."

COG attorney Geers McGarity indicated that the Department of National Resources will review the situation.

On another matter, COG members indicated that a discussion on sanitary landfill project will be held at the next meeting.

Stuart Commissioner Dale Anderson informed the group of a recent project undertaken by the City of Orlando, an incinerator to burn garbage.

GDC asks approval of Unit 45 streets

PORT ST. LUCIE–The city council and engineers will inspect the streets of Unit 45 in Port St. Lucie to see if the area can be accepted by the city, following a request by General Development Corporation Tuesday.

Mayor Schuyler Sharpe said he was not satisfied with the improvements already made, and told GDC's Port St. Lucie general manager Bob Seeley that changes would have to be made. Seeley asked for written specifics of the changes so that GDC could proceed to have the changes made for acceptance of the unit.

City lease discussed

PORT ST. LUCIE–Proposed action on a lease that city attorney Spencer Gilbert referred to as a landlord's lease will be taken by the city in the near future.

Gilbert said that the lease gives the city the "thrill of paying your rent" for city offices in the General Development owned building.

Numbers used for precincts

PORT ST. LUCIE–St. Lucie County Supervisor of Elections James Brooks Tuesday announced new precinct numbers, eliminating the A, B, C method of designating the precincts.

In the Port St. Lucie area, Port St. Lucie Marina now (A) will be Precinct 20, Spanish Lakes now (AB) will be Precinct 21, Port St. Lucie City Hall now (C) will be Precinct 22, and PSA now (D) will be Precinct 23.

Brooks pointed out that Precinct 11A will be split making Precincts 22 and 23 to all city voters.

He pointed out there will be no boundry changes and no changing of voting locations.

The latest voting registration totals, according to Brooks, include:

Precinct 20, 1,085 Democrats and 1,241 Republicans with 746 other parties.

Precinct 22, 212 Democrats, 660 Republicans and 56 other parties.

Precinct 23, 435 Democrats and 286 Republicans with 161 other parties.

The voting locations for the Port St. Lucie area are Port St. Lucie Marina, Precinct 20; Spanish Lakes Recreation Center, Precinct 21; Port St. Lucie City Hall, Precinct 22, and PSA on SW Prima Vista Boulevard, Precinct 23.

Final Bunko session held

PORT ST. LUCIE–The May 29 session of Bunko was the final one until September.

Proposed mobile homes opposed

JENSEN BEACH–Proposed development of a mobile home park on a 1,500 acre tract east of U.S. 1 and north of Jensen Beach Cutoff Road (SR-707A) by General Development Corp. (GDC) officials Monday drew immediate protests.

GDC vice president William Kreidt, meeting with Martin County planning, engineering and zoning officials at the courthouse, said, "there is a tremendous need for this type of housing."

But conservationist Dr. Walter Stokes and Martin County Planning Commission member Bob Krause spoke against the proposed trailer park.

"These structures simply cannot stand a hurricane," Dr. Stokes said. "I visualize Martin County as a disaster area if we have a hurricane."

Dr. Stokes noted that there are already 67 mobile home parks in the county.

And Krause added that recent figures indicate 18 per cent of Martin County residents live in mobile homes and that the Jensen Beach area is densely populated by trailer-dwellers.

"We are slowing down their approvals," Krause said.

Krause also questioned GDC's plans for a commercial area just north of the planned shopping mall on U.S. 1 at Jensen Beach Cutoff Road.

GDC officials are preparing a comprehensive land-use plan for its Port St. Lucie project and pointed out that they wanted to make Martin County officials aware of their plans.

Plans for preservation of the savannas and the North Fork of the St. Lucie River were discussed at the public hearing.

GDC engineer Wesley Jurgens said that the company plans to direct surface and storm water to large ponds.

The engineer said that instead of draining surface and storm water eastward across U.S. 1 into the north fork, the water will be retained on site between the highway and the savannas.

Jurgens said that the ponds will continue to recharge the savannas supply through the natural methods of percolation.

Edges of the savannas and the edges of the north fork will be preserved in their natural conditions, according to Jurgens.

Dr. Stokes called the plan a phenomenal improvement.

Dr. Stokes had been critical of GDC's plans to drain its property by ditching to the north fork which would, in turn, might effect the savannas water supply.

GDC is the largest land owner in the savannas, and the state is presently making plans to purchase the vast wetlands between Jensen Beach Cutoff Road on the south to Midway Road in St. Lucie County, and between U.S. 1 on the west and the Florida East Coast Railroad.

GDC officials pointed out that it had made installment contracts in the last 10 years to deliver 4,000 homesites between the savannas and U.S. 1.

GDC counsel Arthur Harper said the contracts were made before the company or state agencies were aware of the need to preserve the environment so they do not fit ideally into today's kind of planning.

Harper said that the company is working to overcome the environmental deficiencies in the original plan.

Martin County Planning Director Kris Schenk said the company's plan for on-site draining is the kind of change that can be "cheerfully accepted."

Lake Manor News Notes

BY SYLVIA SIMAN

On May 25, Harriet Lynn and Pat Brady hosted a most friendly get-together in the rec hall.

About 50 of our folks attended the lovely affair. A large array of delicious foods, including turkey, ham, dips and salads, were served on a very prettily decorated table with pink and white cloth and flowers. All truly enjoyed this affair.

Charlie and I were sorry to miss it, since we were in West Palm to pick up our son Charles from Elkhorn, Wisc. at the time. But the gals graciously offered to save us some goodies and were still in the hall waiting to serve us.

* * *

Seedless to say, Charlie and I were delighted to have our son here for a week.

* * *

Activities are diminishing here, as six of us found out on Friday night bingo. We wound up at our place for a few games, which was fun.

Happy and safe traveling to those leaving this week.

Very Happy Birthdays to Mrs. Hubert and Robert Staples, June 16; Harriett Lynn, June 19; Fred Balfanz, June 25; Lee Van Cura, June 27; and William Eastman, June 29.

And to all out there . . . Peace.

Auxilians attend gift shop seminar

STUART–Connie Bauman and Adelaide Roesaler, co-chairmen of the Martin Memorial Hospital Auxiliary gift shop, have just returned from a Gift Shop Seminar, sponsored by the Association of Florida Hospital Auxiliaries in Tampa.

F.I.T. pioneers underwater tech for industrialists

BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH--The "hands on" philosophy of Florida Institute of Technology, Jensen Beach, is making big waves in the United States with a pioneer project that will provide better trained underwater technicians and para-medical divers.

The project came about by accident, when a team researching a diver-training project came across agencies actually looking for such a project on the national level.

"We had the project completely written up, and a visitor to the campus found that we had all the facilities to do the job, liked our program, and put us in touch with the federal agency that needed our research," said Tim Tesley, dean of FIT.

Increasing incidence of accidents, illness and lack of proper training of divers working on the offshore oil platforms brought about the need for a program that would properly train the divers that would be working the rigs, and provide the medical training for divers to handle accidents and illnesses that occur on the rigs.

Tesley said that FIT already provides some of the medical technician training, and will expand it under the program.

Working with the Association of Diving Contractors, a clearing house of diving technicians, Tesley's research team evaluated the needs of the industry, and then prepared the program to meet those needs.

Under the program, students would be exposed to training and background information through experts from industry brought to FIT to lecture the courses. Tesley called the program an "opportunity to really provide trained divers for an expanding industrial offshore community," citing the energy search as the main impetus of the program.

The college recently opened a new underwater training tank, in which students work under twenty feet of water to learn the basic skills of welding, pipe-fitting, carpentry, hydraulics and electronics needed for work on offshore rigs.

The dive tank gives students an opportunity to work while using breathing apparatus, become familiar with decompression and recompression and allows students to learn by doing, as they would in the field, according to Tesley. The tank was built with donations by local businessmen.

The two-year program will offer an associate degree to students.

Douglas Zinn receives study scholarship

BY DENNIS DOYLE

JENSEN BEACH--Douglas C. Zinn, 20, an FIT student in Jensen Beach was named first runner-up in the nationwide Our World-Underwater Scholarship Program at its annual conference recently in Chicago.

The scholarship will give Zinn 9 months of travel and study with some of the nations foremost authorities in the field of underwater research.

Zinn, a second-year honor student majoring in Oceanographic Technology, wrote a weekly science column for "The Messenger" in The Mirror this past year.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Charles Zinn, Jr. of Ephrata, Pa.

"I was really surprised when I learned the results," he said, "I still can't believe it."

Zinn won't have much time to think it over though, because just a few days after this semester ends he will be heading to study at the Naval Research Institute in Bethesda, Maryland, where for ten days he will study in specialized research with Dr. Arthur Bachrach. From there he will leave for California and spend two weeks at the Scripps Institute of Oceanography at LaJolla.

On July 13, Zinn will board a Standard Oil tanker in Oakland, California with Professor Ted Banks of Western Michigan University for an eight week course expedition to the Bering Sea and Aleutian Islands to conduct lab work research.

Banks is an author, anthropologist, former Fulbright scholar and leader of more than 30 expeditions into the Aleutians and Bering Sea.

Upon completion of the expedition, Zinn will return to California where he will spend 3 weeks at UCLA doing underwater research and filming with Dr. Glen Egstrom of the department of Kinesiology.

From there Zinn will spend two weeks at the Commercial Diving Center, a school specializing in commercial and industrial diving, under the direction of Tommy Tompson.

While in California, Zinn's schedule will include one week at a commercial fishery, a tour of Scubapro skin diving manufacturer and study with Paul Tzimoulis of "Skin Diver Magazine", who will help Zinn develop feature articles about his work for publication.

He will also study underwater photography in San Francisco with Al Giddings, of Sea Films, Inc.

After leaving the west coast, Zinn will go to the University of Michigan School of Engineering at Ann Arbor to study with Dr. Lee Somers. Later he will also have the opportunity to spend three months at Duke University Medical Research Center.

It took Zinn three months of preparation to enter the contest, which is open nationwide to students between the ages 18-25.

"I needed recommendations, grades, resumes and papers, most of which were typed and re-typed 8 to 10 times before they were finished", he said.

Later Zinn was interviewed by telephone three separate times by members of the scholarship committee.

Zinn plans to return to FIT Jensen Beach after his study tour in September 1973. "Right now I'm interested in marine biology, but I'm looking forward to studying "hyperbaric work" the study of pressure and stress in animals and humans", he said.

"I'm also going to keep an open mind to all the new fields awaiting me on this study-tour. fields I may become interested in and want to pursue.

All during Zinn's study, for which he is eligible for 40 credits, he will be required to maintain a daily log of his work and submit a detailed report twice each month to the executive committee of Our World-Underwater.

Zinn has been doing off campus work in marine and land archaeology with N.A. Cockrell, State Archaeologist for Florida.

End of the year

FIT--In ending the first year of The Messenger, as a part of The Mirror, thanks must be given to Mr. Campbell and his staff for their cooperation, patience, and friendliness.

Through The Mirror, FIT was enabled to have its first successful school newspaper. The Messenger did suffer a bit of spring fever during the last quarter, but will be back strong next year with some new freshmen blood to help the veterans.

FIT as a whole was given assurance of improvements by Dean Tesley as he spoke to a packed auditorium last Thursday.

Students and faculty worried about a possible 25 percent reduction of faculty, filled the auditorium to capacity to hear speakers Dean Tesley, Dr. Miller, vice president of academic affairs, Mr. Simmons, vice president of financial affairs, and members of the SGA all attempted to give adequate explanations of the schools present economic situation, which like everywhere else is in a bind.

The major question was answered by Dean Tesley when he said the equivalent of "the amount of new and returning students will determine the number of teachers rehired." Also that even if some teachers are not rehired there will be an adequate staff to provide quality education.

Dean Tesley also noted that there will be a new Marine Science building next year and that the conversion of Chavis Hall into a student center will begin soon.

Once again, thanks to all who made the paper possible and see you next year.

On May 25, Harriet Lynn and Pat Brady hosted a most friendly get together in the rec hall.

About 50 of our folks attended the lovely affair. A large array of delicious foods, including turkey, ham, dips and salads, were served on a very prettily decorated table with pink and white cloth and flowers. All truly enjoyed this affair.

Charlie and I were sorry to miss it, since we were in West Palm to pick up our son Charles from Elkhorn, Wisc. at the time. But the gals graciously offered to save us some goodies and were still in the hall waiting to serve us.

* * *

Needless to say, Charlie and I were delighted to have our son here for a week.

* * *

Activities are diminishing here, as six of us found out on Friday night bingo. We wound up at our place for a few games, which was fun.

Happy and safe traveling to those leaving this week.

Very Happy Birthdays to Mrs. Huber and Robert Staples, June 16, Harriett Lynn, June 19, Fred Ballant, June 25, Lee Van Clura, June 27, and William Eastman, June 29.

Auxilians attend gift shop seminar

STUART--Connie Bauman and Adelaide Roessler, co-chairmen of the Martin Memorial Hospital Auxiliary gift shop, have just returned from a Gift Shop Seminar, sponsored by the Association of Florida Hospital Auxiliaries in Tampa.

Led by Mrs. Fanny Harris, Orange Memorial Hospital Auxiliary in Orlando, the morning meeting covered gift shop management and buying, mark up and profit. Irene Redner, from Dale Wholesale Jewelry in Tampa, addressed the group and answered questions covering the wholesale side of gift shop operations.

At the afternoon session, each hospital gift shop representative participated in the "Show and Tell" portion of the seminar. One-way traffic plan is surfacing

JENSEN BEACH—One-way traffic for downtown Jensen Beach surfaced again Monday night at the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce directors meeting.

Some merchants seem to favor a one-way plan," Martin County Commission Chairman Rosa Philbrick told the directors.

I want to get the feelings of the directors," the Jensen Beach area (District 1) commissioner said.

Chamber president Art Hansen noted that the improvements made on Commercial Street last June had helped the traffic situation.

The improvements referred to by Hansen includes the five parallel parking spaces on the north side of Commercial Street immediately west of the Indian River Drive intersection.

Parallel parking made it possible for the establishment of two 12 foot lanes for east bound traffic, one lane for left turns and one lane for right turns.

Director Virginia Van Dien noted that there had been a rash of traffic mishaps at the intersections over the past months.

We will look into the traffic situation very carefully, and discuss it with merchants," Hansen said.

Hansen said he would appoint a Traffic Committee which would look into another traffic plan.

The committee also would make recommendations on sidewalks and bike paths," the chamber leader added.

In January of 1973 The Mirror began a series of articles pointing out the need for improving traffic flow on Commercial Street, recommending elimination of some angle parking to make another traffic lane.

In May of 1973 a traffic plan by a chamber traffic committee headed by Hansen was submitted to the County Commission which included the present Commercial Street three lanes and parallel parking at the Indian River Drive intersection.

At the same May meeting at mid one-way traffic plan for Commercial and Ricou streets was introduced.

While county engineer Ken Ferrara later in 1973 recommended a one-way traffic plan, with traffic control signals at four intersections—Commercial, Palmetto, Ricou and Indian River Drive, it was also suggested that Ricou have two west bound lanes and one east bound lane.

All marine grads have jobs

FIT will graduate 182 in commencement

JENSEN BEACH—It will be "Pomp and Circumstance" this Thursday at 4 p.m. as 122 students march to the stage of FIT auditorium to receive degrees. A total 182 students will graduate.

28 bachelor degrees in oceanographic technology will be awarded. There will also be 68 associate degrees in oceanographic technology, 31 associate degrees in marine science technology, 12 associate degrees in environmental technology.

Dr. John Gross, director of academic affairs of FIT, will be grand marshal, presiding over a class that will include Jerome Keuper, president of FIT, trustees Dr. Ralph Evinrude, Roland Merrell and James Lyons, and school officials John Miller, vice president of academic affairs and Peter Navarretta, director of student affairs.

The commencement address will be given by Dr. Wendell Patton, president, High Point (N.C.) College.

Honor students with the highest cumulative average of the graduating class include Stephen L. Wolfson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Wolfson, Lakeland Fla., who had a 3.629 point average, followed by Douglas A. Cochrane, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cochrane of Lafayette, La., with a 3.606 average. Both will receive bachelor degrees in ocean technology.

Top students with highest cumulative average in associate degrees include the following:

Ocean Technology, Kevin M. Tucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tucker, Toledo, Ohio, with 3.844 average, followed closely by Margaret Korty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Korty, Hinsdale, Ill., with 3.806 average.

Marine Science Technology, Terrand P. Merrigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Merrigan, Maitland, Fla., with 3.968 average.

Ocean Electronics Technology, Thomas A. Kelly, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kelly, McLean, Va., with 3.726 average.

Environmental Technology, Susan E. Woodburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Woodburn, Columbiana, Ohio, with a 3.794 average. Miss Woodburn already has a masters degree in library science. Also, Karyn M. Linbeham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bornstein, Stamford, Conn., with a 3.727 average.

It was announced that all associate degree graduates of marine science have been career placed in employment in industry through the efforts of Capt. Cecil B. Collins, department head of marine science.

A majority of the environmental technology graduates already have their associate degrees in oceanographic technology and many will continue to work for their bachelor degrees.

WHICH WAY—Figuring out how to put the mortar board cap on your head is a trial for any young graduate, as James Gardner discovers. Gardner from Ashland, Ill., will be one of 182 graduates from Florida Institute of Technology, Jensen Beach on Thursday, receiving an associate of science degree in oceanographic technology.

FIT receives $286,084 federal subsidy funds

JENSEN BEACH—Details are still sketchy on the announcement last week of the federal grant of $286,084 to Florida Institute of Technology in Jensen Beach.

I know about the money, but haven't had any of the paper sent down from H.E.W. yet," said Dean Tim Tealey on Tuesday.

The announcement came from the office of Congressman L.A. "Skip" Bafalis, who learned of the grant from the education department of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Tealey explained that the grant was to assist the private college in reducing interest to those persons paying the difference in the interest rate charged when the college bought the campus from the Sisters of St. Joseph several years ago.

FIT sold four million dollars in bonds to purchase the campus. The grant will reduce the debt service, reduce the interest on the investment bank, and retire some of the bonds, according to Tealey.

To qualify for the subsidy, FIT was required to modify some of its buildings to provide wheelchair ramps and widen some doors to meet HEW standards.

Bank plans drive-in facility

JENSEN BEACH—A major addition to Jensen Beach Bank was announced Tuesday by Chairman of the Board E. C. Wareheim and President Ron Mitchell.

The bank will build five drive-in windows and two walk up windows on its property on the north side of Ricou Road and east side of Palmetto Drive.

The $200,000 addition is scheduled for completion in September or early October, according to Mitchell.

This is a major addition to the bank that will help our customers," Wareheim said.

This will greatly relieve the traffic situation on Commercial Street," Wareheim added.

Mitchell said that the traffic will enter the drive-in lanes off Ricou Road on the east end of the facility and exit on Palmetto Drive.

The walk up windows will face the Post office and customers can make their deposits before or after going to the Post Office, Mitchell said.

Mitchell said the walk up windows would be covered and would be setback some 25 feet from Ricou Road.

With the modern drive-in facilities across Ricou Road from the bank it will eliminate vehicles entering Commercial Street from the bank's present drive in windows.

Mr. Wareheim pointed out, the new facility will help the Commercial Street traffic situation and add to the convenience of the bank's customers.

Stuart engineer Lee Brock said Tuesday that he had done a survey on the property for the bank and County Engineer Ken Ferrara said that his department would have to approve the traffic plan.

ON SITE—Jensen Beach Bank President Ron Mitchell, left, and E.C. Wareheim, Chairman of the Board, stand on the site where new bank drive-in facilities will be constructed—on the north side of Ricou Road, across from the bank and Post Office.

Turtle watches in June

JENSEN BEACH—Organized turtle watches will be held June 23 and June 28 at the Jensen Beach public beaches.

A planning session for the popular annual event will be held at the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 p.m. Friday, June 13, according to Al Tomaszewski, chairman.

Sponsored by the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, the turtle watches give residents and visitors an opportunity to see the unusual process of giant loggerhead turtles laying up to 150 eggs in nests along the beach.

Chamber directors at Monday night's meeting pointed out that Jensen Beach receives nation-wide publicity by holding the annual turtle watches.

Last year an NBC crew attended one of the watches and it was on nation wide television.

Tomaszewski said the watches would begin about 9 p.m., and that as in the past sheriff deputies and the Florida Marine Patrol will assist the chamber committee.

Persons taking part in the turtle watches are reminded that until the turtles begin laying eggs no flashlight should be turned on as the light will frighten the turtles back into the ocean.

Once the turtles begin laying eggs it is safe to turn on lights.

NEED A LITTLE HELP?—Just doing the graduation of Florida Institute of Technology in Jensen Beach leads to to help one another in adjusting the cape and gowns which most graduates of campus Thursday, left to right, Doug Cochrane, bachelor of ocean technology, from Lafayette, La., who had a 3.606 average; John Cornwell, bachelor of ocean technology of Newark, N.Y.; Anthony Ewing Mejeski, associate of marine science technology of Guayaquil, Ecuador; Ed Salvador and Thomas McKean, associate of marine science technology of North Grafton, Mass.

Donations needed for fireworks

JENSEN BEACH—So that the fabulous fireworks display can be held on Independence Day on the Jensen Beach Causeway, the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce Fireworks Committee are seeking more donations.

We are not halfway to the amount we need for the fireworks display," Fred Stein, chairman of the Fourth of July Fund Raising Committee said.

We have about $1,200 and we need about $3,000," Stein said.

Each year thousands of people thrill to the fireworks display on the causeway and people come here from all areas of South Florida," he noted.

Stein said that in the past, businessmen have been supporting the fireworks display and this year we would like to have donations from residents, maybe a few bucks from each house, to help finance the event that everyone enjoys."

He said that checks may be mailed to the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Meanwhile, plans are moving ahead for the big causeway celebration which on the kick off of the Bicentennial Celebration in Jensen Beach.

Tuesday, Martin County Commission approved a fireworks permit and authorized the closing of Jensen Beach Causeway to vehicular traffic from 2 to 10 p.m.

Area organizations are planning booths and other activities during the day and the Bicentennial Celebration of the July 4th parade first in Jensen Beach will move along Commercial Street and Indian River Drive to the Causeway.

The parade starts at 10 a.m. and many area clubs and organizations will have floats in the parade.

Monday night Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce directors authorized expenditure of about $200 for a parade float.

Boat registering this month

JENSEN BEACH—Boat registrations for 1973 is over or sale June 1, Martin County Tax Collector Alvin Andrews said.

All boats requiring registrations must be reregistered by July 1, Andrews said.

The tax collector pointed out that commercial boat owners must re-register their boats with the Department of Natural Resources in Tallahassee.

Andrews also reminded hunters and fishermen that licenses are on sale and deadline for getting new licenses is July 1.

Nergard is back

JENSEN BEACH—Now that the 1973 State Legislature has completed its session, State Rep. Chuck Nergard will be back at his desk in The Mirror office Friday, June 13.

The veteran legislator who represents the Jensen Beach area, has been to The Mirror office for the past couple of years to see area residents.

Nergard will be at his desk from 9 a.m. to noon, beginning Friday.

$200,000 project

OPEN HOUSE—Perry Cable Television Company executives stand in front of the new facility located on Britt Road, that recently went into operation. The 8,000 sq. ft. building cost a quarter of a million dollars and houses all the equipment for the cable television and cinema club. From the left are John Perry, Jr., president; Chris Evans, assistant to the president and Rollin F. Ankeny, manager.

NEW AT FIT–Pat Pfarrer, 44, has been named head of the marine science department of Florida Institute of Technology, Jensen Beach. Pfarrer, right, is a retired commander, former professor of tactics at the Naval War College, Newport, R.I., is a graduate of the Naval Academy, and has his masters in marine affairs from the University of Rhode Island. He plans to live in Stuart with his wife, Jess, and four children. He was welcomed to the Jensen Beach campus by Col Woody Johnson, assistant to the dean.

Area planning council talks set

JENSEN BEACH–Area county officials will meet Friday, June 13, to discuss the possibility of organizing a new South Florida Regional Planning Council.

"We're very interested in forming a new regional council," Martin County Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick said.

Philbrick, who represents the Jensen Beach area, will attend the Friday morning session at the Palm Beach County Courthouse.

Willie McCain, chairman of the St. Lucie County Commission, joins Philbrick in favoring a new planning district.

"I am delighted to hear that Palm Beach County is calling a joint meeting," McCain said last week on learning of the meeting.

Okeechobee and Indian River county officials have been asked to attend the meeting set for 9:30 a.m.

The region had received tentative approval from the state until Palm Beach County Commission decided they would prefer to be with Dade and Broward in the larger planning area and the four-county plan was killed.

Now Palm Beach Commission is unhappy with the present set-up claiming that some members of the larger counties–Dade and Broward–are insensative to environmental problems of the less-populated areas.

HELPING HOUSE–Members of the Martin County Builders Association are helping to boost the area economy by pitching in to construct a house in Leilani Heights on Savanna Road in Jensen Beach. In front of the house which will be sold for about $50,000 are, from left: Jim Northrup manager of C.E. Morgan Building Products; Ken Braid, C.E. Morgan district center in Miami; Tony Signore, president of Martin County Builders Association; Arline Signore, president of the association Women's Auxiliary; Frank Torow, owner of Torow Construction and Harry Wilson, association executive director.

Philbrick at CofC every Wednesday

JENSEN BEACH–Martin County Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick will be at the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce office each Wednesday from 9 to 10:30 a.m.

"I will be available to talk over community problems with the residents," the Jensen Beach area District 1 commissioner said.

"It will save the residents a trip to the courthouse," he added.

Philbrick attended the Monday night session of the chamber directors and talked about a variety of subjects.

On the Taxing District A, Jensen Beach area, budget discussion, Philbrick noted that the major items in the $131,000 budget were for street lights, Jensen Beach-Rio fire department-$35,000 for fire departments and $26,000 for street lights.

"I hope we can go into the 1975-76 fiscal year with a cash carry-over," he said.

Philbrick also noted that a big percentage of tax money in the district comes from Hutchinson Island and North River Shores while a large percentage of expenditure is in the Jensen Beach area.

Gun control

WASHINGTON--When Congress adopted the Federal Hazardous Substance Act, its avowed purpose was to require cautionary labels on products deemed dangerous to human health.

It was not--nor could it, by some wild stretch of the imagination, be considered a sub rosa vehicle for gun control.

Yet that is just what has happened, and not because the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission wanted it to happen.

Last June, a group called the Committee for Hand Gun Control, Inc. petitioned the Consumer Product Safety Commission for adoption of a rule banning the sale of bullets for hand guns as hazardous substances.

The Commission denied the petition saying it doubted whether Congress had intended to grant it any such power. As the Commission said: "The practical effect of the requested ban on hand gun bullets, if successful, would be a virtual ban on hand guns. There is clearly no authority under the act which the Commission administers to regulate hand guns."

Unfortunately, however, the Committee for Hand Gun Control Inc. refused to accept the denial and took the Commission to court. Last December, U.S. District Judge Thomas A. Flannery overruled the Commission and ordered it to consider the ban on hand gun bullets.

The Commission is now doing so, having called for comments on the proposed ban sought by the Committee for Hand Gun Control.

And it is an extensive ban. As outlined by the Committee for Hand Gun Control the ban would prohibit the sale of ammunition to anyone and everyone except police, licensed security guards, the military and licensed pistol clubs.

As you can imagine, this affair has prompted quite a lot of clamor in the Congress. In fact there are right now 20 bills before the House and Senate to prohibit the Consumer Product Safety Commission from acting in this matter.

And rightfully so.

Gun control is too important, and too controversial, a question to be delegated to an impersonal commission for a final decision. It is an issue on which the Congress should--indeed must--be willing to stand up and be counted. To do otherwise would be to ignore the Congress responsibility as the people's forum.

While I can sympathize with those Americans alarmed at the growing incidence of violence in our country, I am by no means convinced gun control is the answer.

Banning hand guns would have no great deterrent effect on the criminal. He would merely steal a weapon or, if at all talented with a lathe, make one.

To me the solution lies not in a ban on guns but in stiffer penalties for those criminals who use hand guns and in strict enforcement of the laws already on the books.

Therefore, I have recently co-sponsored legislation to make mandatory a criminal sentence for anyone using a weapon in the commission of a federal crime. I hope the states will follow suit soon.

If the thieves and hoodlums of this nation were sure they'd face a long prison term just for using a gun, we'd see a lot fewer crimes.

And we wouldn't have to disarm all the honest men and women in this country who believe the right to protect their own hand guns.

Beach rocks get backing

JENSEN BEACH--Coastal engineer William Sensabaugh of the State Department of Natural Resources has written Martin County officials that a proposed rock pile on Hutchinson Island is the best immediate solution for erosion control.

Little Ocean Place and Little Ocean Club condominium apartments have received state approval to bolster the seaward side of their oceanfront dunes with boulders.

Sensabaugh said other alternatives from stemming erosion would be too expensive for the property owners such as dredging additional sand onto the beach from the ocean.

County commissioners have objected to the proposal, saying it would increase erosion on adjacent property and decrease public use of the beach.

In harvard, Illinois, the farm territory where we lived for 31 years, they celebrated "Harvard Milk Day" on June 7. This is always the first Saturday in June. A large parade took place with bands from all over Awards were given to bands and floats by the Admiral Corporation, a large plant in Harvard. Other awards and prizes are given for presentations in the parade and for the finest cattle exhibited. Fine entertainment is provided in the evening. The evening before the big day, a parade is given by the tiny folk which is usually quite cute, some with their pets all prettied up. This reminds me of a parade our daughter, Diana Voss from Wehworth, Wisc., once was in.

All week she had washed and scrubbed her horse "King" till he shone. He had a fine, dark coat. The day before Milk Day, she rode him into town, six and a half miles to her girl friend's home. Next day, when I arrived for the parade, there was "King" as beautiful as could be. As soon as he saw me, he raised his head and gave out with his special neigh for me. At the same parade, our son Charles, from Elkhorn, Wisc., was on the Plainer bakery truck, throwing off candy to the children, as he then was a baker.

Suit filed against ex-policeman

SEWALL'S POINT—Harold S. Povenmire of Indian Harbour Beach filed suit last week in Martin County Circuit Court seeking damages from former Sewall's Point policeman Charles A. Duryea, alleging that Duryea pointed a pistol at him.

In the suit, Povenmire states that he was making astronomical observations at 2 a.m. May 16, 1973, at the intersection of Sewall's Point Road and Palmetto Court in Sewall's Point.

Povenmire contends that Duryea, the town policeman at that time, came on the scene and pointed a pistol at him which placed him in great fear for his life and physical safety.

Povenmire, now a school teacher, was employed by a government agency at the time and reportedly was studying a rare conjunction between the moon and a certain star.

News of Nettles Island

BY HARRIET MARQUARDT

News notes from around the resort — Joe and Liz Bazzano wrote that they have now sold their home in Elmhurst, etc. and, after a trip out West, their home will be Nettles Island lot 1231.

+ + +

Judy Vandergraaf, Irma & Leonard's granddaughter, arrived for a three week visit, then Judy will be taken home Irma and Leonard making plans before returning in early fall.

+ + +

Kenneth and Florence Snyder have their son David, a student at U. of Fla visiting now, and they enjoyed a visit from their daughter and her husband, Mr. & Mrs. Steven Marlay with granddaughter Carmen from Virginia Beach, va.

+ + +

There is a grandson visitor from Riverdale, Md. at the trailer of Mr. & Mrs. Clifford Thomas. Wayne would rather learn to swim in the ocean than the pool and, for a little one, he is really learning.

The Grappys are leaving for Pennsylvania to visit daughter Joan and her husband Senator R. Budd Dwyer. We also learned from the Grappys that we owe belated congratulations to their daughter Sandra who married Bill Phillips, an environmental biologist at McGill Univ., Montreal, Quebec. Interestingly, the two met at Nettles.

+ + +

Congratulations are in order for David Rothbaum who completed with high grades the F. M. T. course Emergency Medical Technology. This is a start toward what must be our goal in the not too distant future for Hutchinson Island ... an ambulance and a trained corps of dedicated people. We are deeply indebted to the Jensen Beach Ambulance Corp. Bob Scherer is presently working with this group.

+ + +

It is pleasant to report that Mr. Tyler is out of the hospital at his home in Ft. Lauderdale and Mrs. Hardwick back at the Resort.

+ + +

It is with profound sympathy that we report the passing of Earl Foote of Kalamazoo, Mich.

Another of us gone is Cecil Long of 3405 Broad St., Parkersburg, W. Va. Many will remember Cecil for his dedicated work on perfecting the sound system in the recreation hall.

Our loving thoughts are extended to both families.

+ + +

From the Recreation Dept.: Wait until you all get back and see the light wood panels in the downstairs area of the rec hall, a new sand box in the kiddies area, a roof over your heads on the shuffleboard courts, a new combination bang board court for tennis buffs and a paddle board court. More gifts are coming in daily for the therapeutic pool.

+ + +

We are happy to welcome Trudi Simms back on the staff and I must tell you about Jo Ginder, one of our life guards. Jo is an experienced diver. He and Lee Roe went out in the boat to the 4 mile reef and brought back some beautiful sand dollars which they generously gave to many of us. Never fear, they are environmentalists, and will not take too many.

+ + +

There will not be a weekly activity sheet during July and August but courts, pools and rec hall are open for your enjoyment. Watch the bulletin board for any specials.

+ + +

Carl and Marie Shields up from Boynton Beach for a weekend stay in their nephew's trailer. While on the beach Saturday, Carl and Don Kitchen saw a large school of blues and washed that they had their surf rods along. Marie and Pat, however, were pleased with their catch of sand dollars.

+ + +

Saturday night saw 50 or so good friends enjoying a "real bash" at a party put on by Ann and Bernard Murphy, celebrating their 20th wedding anniversary.

Included in the celebration were Charles and Helen Yando (this was their 35th year). The Yando's purchased an apartment at Beacon 21 but wouldn't give up their lot at Nettles for where else do you have more fun?

Last but by no means least, Marge Armbruster had a birthday. Didn't hear how many years but who cares when you're on the "fun" side of your life. Eating, dancing and making merry produced great fun for all.

+ + +

Our week ended, or perhaps I should say started, with another good non-denominational church service. During this past week about 30 church friends gathered on the Callow's patio. Jean is always serving this time tea and crumpets were enjoyed.

+ + +

Before this week's "sign off" a couple more comings and goings reported by Pat Kitchen who has recently come to my assistance by typing my column material.

Pat reports that Dr. & Mrs. Gary Priam and daughter Theresa left for home in Macon, Ga. after another pleasant week's stay on their lot on Porpoise Island. They spent lots of their time fishing.

Also, the Potters and the Hewitts won't be occupying their respective lots for a few weeks. Both couples left in their motor homes for New Orleans and Houston. Hope they have a happy vacation.

Picnic slated for AARP

JENSEN BEACH–Members of Martin County Chapter, American Association of Retired Persons, will have a chance to get acquainted at the group's first summer social event. A picnic is scheduled for Thursday, June 18, on the Stuart Causeway, beginning at 11 a.m. Mrs. Mildred "Jill" Morris is in charge of arrangements.

Members and friends are asked to bring their own food, drink and chairs. In case of impossible weather, a future date will be announced.

AARP bowlers are continuing to meet each Monday at 1 p.m. at the Jensen Lanes.

Al Tucker, membership chairman, reported at a recent board meeting in the home of chapter secretary, Anna Maria Del Aria, that 441 names had been submitted to the national organization with the application for a charter for the local chapter.

Although the charter list is closed, memberships are still being accepted and now exceed 450.

During the summer absence of the president, Charles S. MacIntyre, Ernest C. Curwen, first vice president, is in charge of local chapter affairs. Regular meetings of the chapter will resume on the third Thursday of October.

THANK YOU

A big "thank you" to all of you who were so thoughtful in sending cards, letters and flowers to me during my recent sojourn in the hospital. They made my family feel good too! Thanks also for the welcome-home cards, they were great.

CESA announces Fourth of July plans

PORT ST LUCIE—A gala day is planned for July Fourth when CESA will sponsor the annual Port St Lucie Parade This year the parade will start at the North Port St. Lucie Marina, and end at the CESA Community Center in time for the barbecue that begins at noon and runs until 4 p m

Art Coulon in the Parade Marshall and at last count, had 15 floats ready to go

The Port St Lucie Yacht Club is presenting the barbecue, which offers one pound of pork ribs, baked beans, cole slaw and rolls

President Dick Lundin assures everyone that the barbecue will be one of the best ever, citing the pit presence of such outstanding barbecuers as D.R. Seelinger, Bob Cousino, Joe Cornwell, Dick Nason and George Nanna guaranteeing quality and tastiness Dessert and beverages will be available at a nominal charge

The cutoff date for securing barbecue tickets is June 27 Tickets may be purchased from Yacht Club members, CESA trustees and at the CESA Building

Project director Don Donahoo adds that arrangements are being made to fire up the hamburger grill so that hot dogs can be sold throughout the afternoon for those who fail to buy their barbecue tickets in time

If possible Lundin said, "we'll have midway games for children right on the center grounds and some youth events over at Sportsmen's Park if we can find sponsoring groups

And Donahoo added Plan to spend your Fourth of July right here in Port St Lucie this year but get your tickets early LIBRARY SIGN—No mention has been given recently to the Port St. Lucie Junior Women's Club whose efforts brought about a sign in front of the Port St. Lucie Library. The club raised half the cost, and the library membership provided the remaining funds.

School office will close as of July 1

PORT ST. LUCIE—Seventy five kindergarten and new first grade students have been registered for the fall semester at the Port St. Lucie Elementary School

The school office will be closed during the month of July, but registrations will be taken from 8 30 a m to 3 30 p m each weekday for the rest of June, and after the office re-opens

Early registration is urged, however, to expedite planning for the new school year

Bingo replaces card

PORT ST. LUCIE—The St. Lucie Lutheran Women's Club is sponsoring a bingo party to be held at 1 30 p m on Wednesday, June 18 in the Parish Hall on Prima Vista Boulevard

The regular Women's Club dessert-card party, replaced this month by bingo, will resume in July

GDC issued permits for canal dredging

PORT ST. LUCIE—The long awaited state permits for dredging the Degan and Harborview Canals have now been approved and are in the hands of Robert Seeley, GDC vice president and general manager of Port St Lucie

Seeley, in making the announcement before the City Council meeting Tuesday, said the work would commence just as soon as the necessary equipment could be lined up and moved to the location

Since the canals have been restored and dredged to their original depths, it would be my opinion GDC will petition the city to take these over at that time Seeley told his listeners, adding the dredging will cost $80 per hour to operate

It was also pointed out the firm would utilize specific lots in the area to work the equipment on

Mayor Schuyler Sharpe a canal dredging campaigner from well over a year ago urged all residents and boaters to take every precaution possible to avoid future clogging of the canals once the dredging operation has been completed

"Bear in mind this is a very costly project and we can't come back on General Development to dredge them again free Mayor Sharpe said

No completion date was given for the work

The council then heard a last minute plea from Port St Lucie Homeowner President Vern Farror for some spot dredging along Schooner Way and Surfside canals in the northern part of the city

City's books inadequate, petty cash incomprehensible-Kernohan

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE The long awaited report on the keeping of records and finances in the city hall came Tuesday at the city council meeting, and Lolita Kernohan, councilwoman and treasurer called for major changes in the process

In a handwritten report to the council Mrs Kernohan said the finance committee found office methods and procedures relating to city finances were "totally inadequate or non existent

The report took the committee weeks to prepare during which caused criticism from former Mayor Larry Kimmel was directed at the lack of such a report and the committee found itself accused of secret meetings requiring an explanation of the Florida Government in the Sunshine law by a state's attorney

Termed a "not inconsiderable task" the report found that $300,000 in certificates of deposit were kept in an envelope in an open safe in city hall

With council permission the committee opened a safe deposit box which can be opened only by the treasurer Mayor Schuyler Sharpe and Administrator Elmer Cox with two persons needed to open the box

The employees' payroll record book was termed completely inadequate

Mrs Kernohan called the book "nothing more than a memorandum with no attempt at accumulating totals of amounts paid, or taxes deducted

The committee announced that it was in the process of preparing these records dating back to October 1, 1974 the beginning of the fiscal year

The petty cash book was called "practically incomprehensible" and the committee said it would be setting up a record that will be a useful adjunct to the city's bookkeeping records

Mrs. Kernohan also said that the committee had discussed with the city's auditors changes in the format of financial statements to include not hitherto available information

She mentioned that the job was made more difficult by the fact that the state auditors were also working on the city's books

In a slap at the "secret meeting" charges Mrs. Kernohan ended her report saying, "When you see members of the finance committee working in city hall you will realize that they are not engaged in secret session but are, in fact, doing routine service in preparing and establishing basic records and sound principles and methods which can serve the city for many years to come

Serving on the finance committee with Kernohan were Charles Fleitouris and Charles Hayde

At the conclusion of Mrs. Kernohan's report to the council city administrator Elmer Cox announced the finance committee would present a comprehensive preview of the 1975-76 budget at next Tuesday's workshop session

Although I am certain the budget will not be in its final form, it will be presented in considerable detail Cox told his listeners

He complimented Mrs. Kernohan and her committee on the preparation of the new budget and said it would reflect a much broader view of the entire accounting than previous budgets

Cox also reminded those present the work of the finance committee had been hampered to a great extent by the presence of the state auditors who have been working at the City Hall for the past six weeks

Since taking office following the March elections, Mrs. Kernohan has been the target of considerable criticism by Councilman Larry Kimmel

Kimmel has been quite concerned as to when the finance committee headed by Mrs. Kernohan would have the 1975-76 budget ready to submit to the council

Police budget is questioned

PORT ST. LUCIE The scrutinizing eye of the City's Safety Director Leslie Thomas might well save the local taxpayers a tidy $9,500 for the 1975-76 police budget

Thomas made the announcement after a careful review of the $143,785 police budget submitted to the city by the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Department during Tuesday's meeting of the City Council

The city has for several years contracted for police protection through the St Lucie County Sheriff's Department

Whether or not the savings will materialize depends on the outcome of a yet to be scheduled meeting between Mayor Schuyler Sharpe City Administrator Elmer Cox Thomas and Sheriff Lamar Norvell

Thomas cited four items in the proposed budget which he felt were excessive

Salaries constituted the largest saving

"The majority of the men patrolling our city have less than two years service Thomas said adding he thinks the $870 per month salary should be reduced to $800 per month per man

This would result in a $6,720 savings in salaries alone, and would be more in line with the patrolman's service experience he said

Relative to the reduction in salaries, Thomas pointed to a social security savings of $620

The second largest item pinpointed by Thomas was the cost of replacement uniforms for the men

While the tentative budget calls for $2,400, Thomas said $1,200 would be a more reasonable figure

"Since the original uniforms have already been purchased I find it hard to believe any man would need to replace six shirts and six pair of trousers in any twelve month period Thomas said

The final item, which would result in a $1,800 savings to the city was for car maintenance

"Since we have nothing but paved roads to be patrolled within the city I feel an annual maintenance cost of $600 per unit for the two and one half units which serve our area would be a fair figure Thomas said

The Council was in unanimous agreement a meeting should be held with the Sheriff at the earliest possible date

The contract would be effective October 1 and run through September 30, 1976

CESA cookout nets $436

PORT ST. LUCIE—CESA's 1975-76 program to raise operating funds got off to a rousing start at their recent cookout on the CESA Picnic Grounds Three hundred twenty five persons were fed bringing $436 into the association's accounts

Project Director Don Donahoo who also doubles as the CESA public relations officer reported that it was a great day for everyone and that practically all diners had words of praise for the pit staff Mel Brown, Hesse Demeules Russell Wolf, Bob Satchwell George Jacobs and Schuyler Sharpe

The apple pies donated by wives of the CESA trustees really topped off the meal based on comments heard afterward Donahoo noted

The next event on the annual program is a card party on Saturday June 28 at 1 p m This affair is chaired by Nickie Porter Tickets are now available from Mrs Porter

Safe boating is concern of city

PORT ST. LUCIE—Due to reports of boat accidents and the numerous complaints from residents along the North Fork of the St. Lucie River regarding the carelessness of water skiers and hot rod boaters the City Council Tuesday agreed to investigate ways of enforcing safety regulations on the waterway

Councilman Frank Rose reporting on a recent meeting of the St. Lucie River Council of Governments urged the City Council to take action on the matter before innocent people are injured or killed

"Since the majority of the SLRCC members felt this problem was a local one I would hope this Council would seek a meeting with the St Lucie County Commissioners to discuss ways of enforcing safe boating in the area Rose said, adding Perhaps a representative from the Dept of Natural Resources could attend and provide valuable information for the control of our waterways

City Attorney Spencer Gilbert advised council members the city has jurisdiction over the waters as far as public safety speed control and the type of water craft using the river are concerned

Pointing out the river traffic becomes heavier as the population of the city increases Rose urged all boat owners enroll in courses offered by the Power Squadron and Coast Guard Auxiliary

"It is especially important these owners make certain their children attend the courses before being permitted to operate the water craft" Rose added

Leasha Thomas the city's safety director, informed the Council the Coast Guard patrols the river as far north as the South Port Marina the Marine Patrol cruises the northern portions of the river at least twice a week and the St Lucie County Sheriff's boat patrols the waters of the St Lucie periodically

The Marine Patrol, according to Thomas can enforce the specific city regulations only if the city has signs posted

Mayor Schuyler Sharpe asked residents and boaters to report the craft's identification number when they spot a violation

South Porter Russ Wolfe added to the controversey when he said, "I find it ridiculously impossible to believe the city will be able to enforce water skiing when it can't even enforce the grass cutting ordinances

New members welcomed

PORT ST LUCIE—New members welcomed at the May meeting of the Port St Lucie Woman's Club included Mesdames Annette Allison, Sylvia Bernhardt, Theodora Bickford, Sally Bruce H.N. Brodie, Ada Burgess, J.E. Casperson, Frank Clobus, E.R. Cooksey, Anthony Francoline and Louis Francoini

Also inducted in the candlelight ceremony conducted by Mrs Donald Fisher, president, were Mesdames Ray Frandsum, John Jeffrey, Betty Jones, J.F. Lamoni, Salma Moga, E.A. Moorefield, Doris Muller, Betty Waldie, Ralph Waite, Juanita Sans and Joan Yopp

The program for the day featured Mrs. Meera Ramachandran, a native of India who plays the tambour and sings She also discussed Indian culture, customs and cooking

Mrs Renuka Ramakrustman, also a native of India entertained with authentic Indian dances

The busy month of May included a visit to Hacienda Girl's Ranch at Melbourne by a group of members The club has chosen the ranch as one of its projects

Ten members attended the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs' work shop in Lantana

The club has a summer bridge marathon in progress with 20 members participating

Plans are in progress for the club's first annual charity ball to be held next winter at Sandpiper Bay The ball will be co-chaired by Mrs Jack Schlef, first vice president and Mrs Joseph Fiester, publicity chairman A combined meeting of all committees for the affair was held recently at the home of Mrs Fiester

TURTLE WATCH—The voice of the turtle may not be heard in Jensen Beach, "Sea Turtle Capital of the World," but the watch is out for mama turtle June 21 and 28. Al Tomaszewski, chairman of the Jensen Beach Chamber Turtle Watch Committee, eyes the turtle and the turtle eyes Tomaszewski.

License stickers on sale July 1

JENSEN BEACH—Validation stickers that vehicle owners will begin buying July 1 have been received by Martin County Tax Collector Alvin Andrews.

The stickers, which will be placed on the upper right hand corner of the present tag, will be purchased this year instead of license plates.

The stickers will make the license plate valid for another year, Andrews said.

The renewal period is from July 1 to Aug. 20, he said.

We have received 50,500 stickers, Andrews said, and the stickers will be very easy to handle by the staff.

Cost of the sticker has increased 50 cents over last year's license tag.

The state increased the handling fee from 50 cents to $1, he said.

Andrews pointed out that the stickers may be mailed to residents on their request.

Residents must send in their old registration or photo copy of the registration plus 25 cents for mailing fee which is set by law, Andrews said.

The mailing address is:

Alvin Andrews, tax collector, P.O. Box 926, Stuart, 33494.

Cost of the green stickers are:

"D" $14; Plain $21.50; "W" $29; "WW" $36.50.

Manufactured at Apalachee Correctional Institution Sneads, in Northwest Florida, the 2.1 million stickers were printed in six months by a crew of about 20 inmates.

Making a full set of license plates takes a year for two shifts of 80 men.

Another sticker will be required in 1976.

Celebration is Friday

JENSEN BEACH—The Bicentennial celebration kick-off dinner will be held at the Elks Club in Stuart Friday, June 20.

Sponsored by the Jensen Beach Women's Association, a happy hour at 6 p.m. will start the evening of entertainment. The dinner will be held at 7 p.m.

4th parade is growing

JENSEN BEACH—The Bicentennial Celebration Fourth of July parade in Jensen Beach is going to be bigger than I ever hoped for," the parade chairman said Tuesday.

We will have about seventy units in the parade, Andrea Webb said.

This includes floats, marching units, bicycles, horses, and motorized units, Mrs. Webb said.

I have been surprised at the response the sentiment, and it hasn't been too late for people to enter.

Persons wishing to enter may contact me after 6 p.m. on the 20th.

Many of the organizations represented on the Bicentennial Celebration Committee have indicated that they would have a float in the 1 mile parade in Jensen Beach.

All Saints Episcopal Church announced Tuesday that it plans to have a float in the parade when it goes under way at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Webb said that Capt. Evans of Atlantic Inc. tug and Spanish-American War veterans also have decided to be in the parade.

The parade will turn by behind Jensen Beach Bank on Indian Street, proceed along Commercial Street, Indian River Drive to the Causeway, where the annual daily activities will be held during the day.

TAX STICKER—Martin County Tax Collector Alvin Andrews holds a [illegible] sticker which will be placed on license plates as of July 1. The green sticker will be required for the upper right hand corner of the license tag.

First turtle watch Saturday

JENSEN BEACH—The first of two organized turtle watches will be Saturday, June 21 at two locations on Jensen Beach public beaches.

The two locations for the public to watch the popular events are the Beach Pavilion and Park and Fish according to Al Tomaszewski, chairman.

Park and Fish is south of Holiday Inn and the pavilion will be the main area, Tomaszewski said.

Tomaszewski said the watch would begin at 9 p.m. and that a public address system will be used to give instructions to the public.

Sponsored by the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, the turtle watches, the second watch will be held Saturday, June 28, gives residents and visitors an opportunity to see the unusual process of giant loggerhead turtles laying up to 150 eggs or nests along the beach.

The chairman asked that people gathered for the event keep off the beach since moving vehicles under the supervision of Florida Marine Patrol will travel along the edge of the water.

A sea turtle watch committee was organized at a meeting last Friday at the chamber.

Don Wilkie was name co-chairman with members George Smith, Jr., Bud Breese, Tom Charles, Ruth Fenske, Gregory Hall, Leonard Cotton and Paul Michael.

Additional jeeps and volunteer drivers are needed for the two watches according to the committee.

And the committee reminds residents attending the watches that the turtles and eggs are protected by law and there is a fine for taking or molesting either the turtles or eggs.

Sheriff Department deputies, under the direction of Captain Morgan Sprott will be at the scene to control traffic.

LANDSCAPING—The Bicentennial Celebration July 4 Parade will line-up in the Jensen Beach Post Office area, so two members of the Jensen Beach Garden Club did some landscaping last Thursday so the area would look nice. During the landscaping, trimming the shrubs the club planted some years ago, are Mrs. Harold Garland, left club president and Mrs. William Stephenson, club Ways and Means chairman.

Four county area planning group urged

JENSEN BEACH—Martin County and three other South Florida counties derailed last week that they wanted no part of South Florida Regional Planning Council.

And the leaders of Martin, Palm Beach, St. Lucie and Indian River also agreed that they will present a united front in asking the state to allow them to form a new regional council.

The resolution approved by the elected officials of the four counties stated that they are desirous of withdrawing from their respective districts because of a lack of compatability with their respective interests and a lack of compatability with the underlying philosophies concerning growth, pattern and development germane to agricultural interests and areas of [illegible].

Softball tournament at Langford Park

BY DONNIE WILKIE

JENSEN BEACH—Each year hundreds of softball enthusiasts flock to Langford Park for the Jensen Beach Fireworks Committee's annual slow pitch tournament.

Now the years the Fireworks Committee has staged some sensational tournaments but this years classic should rank with the best of them.

Twenty seven of the state's top touring teams are, at this very moment, getting ready for this year's tourney, which begins promptly at 7 p.m. on Friday evening.

As in the past, many Martin County entrants are included in the field, but most of the other teams come from at least forty miles away.

However, Ft. Lauderdale with its five entrants, heads the list of cities. Bigham Insulation, champions of this tournament two years ago returns to try to improve on its fifth place effort last year. Joining them from Ft. Lauderdale are four other teams. Wentworth Plastering, H.D. Hummel Builders, J.M. Pontiac and Sparta Insulation. Both Wentworth and Sparta must be given championship consideration, if only because of their past experience in the tournament.

West Palm Beach, with a total of four teams entered, is another good bet, mainly because of their best team, Surplus Stock Outlet. Surplus Stock goes into this tournament as one of the definite favorites along with Stuart National Bank, and Bigham Insulation.

West Palm also sends us two other fairly strong contenders in the Kiki Lounge and Pratt and Whitney Aircraft. Pine Lumber & Supply is another West Palm team, but they are given little or no chance at all.

Stuart also sends four teams into the weekend tourney, as the local teams are turning out in their usual fashion. Case Air, Krauss & Crane, Newton Janitorial, and Phi Beta Sigma each enter the tournament with no big tournament wins under their belts, however, they must be given a small chance to at least be in the money.

Krauss & Crane has almost always put up a good battle, however they have never been able to win the big tournament. Two of the sentimental favorites, Case Air, formerly King's Inn, and Phi Beta Sigma, might surprise a lot of people, especially the sometimes up - sometimes down Case Air. Meanwhile, Newton Janitorial might have to sit back and watch Sunday's games, without the added pressure of having to play.

Jensen Beach has some strong teams, as Stuart National Bank looks to win the one tournament they haven't been able to win in the last few years. Not much is known about the team put together by Bruner's Sporting Goods, but the Martin County Merchants seem to have a chance. However, the Merchants are in a similar situation to that of Krauss & Crane. They are capable of getting through about half of the tournament, but then find it difficult against some of the most powerful teams in the state.

Miami sends us two teams, as does Boca Raton and Delray Beach. Dolphin Discount, featuring Rich Powell, the brother of Cleveland Indian first baseman Boog Powell, is definitely a team to watch. Not much is known about the Diamond Athletic Club, but if the name is an indication of their strength, watch out for the Diamond AC.

Delray Beach has entered two teams, including Central Materials, a team that has been in the tourney before. Central was eliminated early in last year's tournament, but they must be given some consideration. Gipper Barwick is another Delray team, and they are making their debut. As with Bruner's and Diamond AC, nothing much is known about this team, but no team in this tourney is a pushover.

From Boca Raton we have two entrants, including the Out of the Box Restaurant. But judging from their performance last year, they could be out of the way very quickly. Frank's Pizza could surprise many, but although they are quite capable might have to pack up early.

Five more teams fill out the field of twenty seven, all from different cities.

The Longhorn Restaurant from Satellite Beach was to have made the field into twenty eight, but they notified Vince Bocchino Monday that they could not make it this year.

Meanwhile, Grumpa's Bakers is given a good shot to go all the way in this star studded tournament. Grumpa's is considered as a state power and won't be here for just a short visit. Grumpa's comes from Dania, a suburb of Miami.

Piper Aircraft has been in some great tournaments and has never been embarrassed. They have in the last few years been fortunate to have a solid team. Piper could easily be back for more on Sunday.

The other three teams shouldn't be overpowering, in fact, they could quickly be overpowered themselves. Scotti's Mufflers, from Naples, was here last year, and didn't do all that much. Dade Merchants, from Miramar, have a fairly good team, but with all the power in this year's classic, they should be an early victim. Club LeSabre, from Hialeah, also a suburb of Miami, will field a good team, and they could finish as the tournament's surprise, but they might not be able to handle the tough competition.

50-STAR DRESS FLAG—Inaugurating its bicentennial activities on Flag Day, the Halpatiokee Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, presented a 50 star dress flag to the Martin County Historical Society in honor of the 100th anniversary of the Society's Gilbert's Bar House of Refuge, which is on the Florida "Bicentennial Trail." Mrs. Carl H.A. Taggesell, chapter regent, left, handed the flag to Mrs. Dennis Hudson, Jr., a member of the Historical Society board of trustees, who turned it over to Richard Carr, Keeper of the House of Refuge. It will be flown for the first time on October 18, when the community will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the establishment of the Martin County landmark. In 1875 Congress ordered the construction of nine houses of refuge on the Florida coast, and the only one remaining is Gilbert's Bar.

Slow road to top for slow-pitch play

BY DONNIE WILKIE

JENSEN BEACH--It has taken a very long time but it seems that finally the Jensen Beach Fireworks Committee revitalizational Slow-Pitch Softball Tournament has achieved the success it has deserved.

This week some 28 teams from all parts of central and southern Florida will gather at Langford Park in Jensen Beach to vie for the 1975 championship. However, the tournament has not always been so smoothly conducted. In the nine years since its inception, the journey has faced a long, uphill battle. And looking back, the organizers can be proud of their climb thus far.

The round robin was first held in 1967 on the small Langford Park. It did not, at the time, have three baseball-softball fields nor did it contain the enormous facilities that it now does.

Eight teams, all from St. Lucie and Martin counties, gathered at the lonely park to build what was hoped to be the first of a long line of softball tournaments to come.

Krauss & Crane won that first tournament. They did it with one of the tournament's greatest upsets, as they defeated unbeaten Abood of Fort Pierce twice in the final games of the week long classic. Abood had not lost in the previous outings but these two defeats put them in the dubious position of losing the first tournament.

The next year, however, was much different for Krauss & Crane, as the defending champions fainted defeat in both of their first three games, 16 - 14 to the Salerno Crabs, and 6 - 2 to the Outlaws, then managed by Earl Meadows of Stuart.

Melbourne T.V. won the 1969 tournament, but it took them two games in the final round to do it. The final round victim was Wonder Bar, featuring tourney Most Valuable Player Stuart Weinstein. Wonder Bar had a terrific struggle, but lost in the second game, 9 - 8 after taking the first 3 - 9.

It was at this point that the visiting teams started to dominate the round robin, but that only showed that the tournament was emerging from its early stages of growth. Vince Bocchino and Frank Wachs are the two men primarily responsible for bringing this tournament out of the dark.

The fourth tournament (1970) produced a slugfare never seen at that ball park since its early days. The 37 teams combined for an unbelievable total of 134 home runs! The tournament, now played in early July, got not early August, was won by Big Daddy's of Fort Lauderdale. They swept through the huge line-up of teams undefeated and defeated Melbourne, 18 - 3 in the final game.

The 1971 classic featured another record number of entries, as 38 teams registered for the round robin. When the dust had cleared, Jerry's Catering of Miami had taken the first place trophy. Jerry's later went on to win the District tournament at Langford Park two weeks later, while the Outrigger, who made it to the final weekend of play in the Fireworks tourney, went on to finish fourth in the District playoffs. The park had indeed grown with the tournament.

Marks Brothers of Miami continued the chain of Miami's title efforts in 1972, as they overcame cross-town rival and defending champions, Jerry's Catering, in finals Kenny Bryson, still very active as a player, won the Most Valuable Player Award. Bryson played for Marks. George Millan, of Abbco Windows in Miami, made his presence felt as did Rich Powell of French's Transmission. They each shared a portion of the home run title, as they knocked seven apiece. Both men later returned to the tourney, and both captivated the crowd with their tremendous home run blasts. Local teams did not make any kind of a showing at all in the tourney, as no Martin County entrant finished in the top ten.

Bigham Insulation, of Fort Lauderdale, made it to the top in the 1973 classic. New-found stars such as Jim Overfield, Rusty Hinote, and pitcher Fran Murphy made Bigham into a powerhouse, and as of this day they are still a team to reckon with.

In the 1973 tourney, Abbco brought to surface a new problem in the new three-day format. On Sunday, the final day of competition, they had to play a total of six games. However, Abbco swept through their first five, showing the marks of real pros. But, the heat and Bigham caught up to them in the second game of the finals, as they dropped a 14 - 5 decision to the champions.

Tank Juhasz led Waldrep & Sons Roofing of Hollywood to the title in 1974 as the Tank and his teammates turned the rest of the field with relative ease. However, they almost came a cropper to a surprising Kiki Lounge in the finals. Waldrep & Sons lost the first game, but came on strong to win the title over the same team, 7 - 6.

When the tourney was started in 1967, it was just a little sprout on a huge tree.

The tree was the existing tournament structure around the state of Florida. But now, in its ninth year, the Jensen Beach Fireworks Committee tournament stands tall and proud as one of the state's most successful round robins.

This can be attributed to volunteers such as Bocchino, Wachs, Bill Yurillo, and scorekeepers such as Jim Driscoll and Pat Barker.

There is no help more prosperous than volunteer help, and that is needed at every tournament ever held at Langford Park. Simply contact Vince Bocchino at 334-2508 and you can probably find a spot just right for you.

Fans are another very important part of what makes this tournament click. This year's tournament begins at 7:45 p.m. on Friday evening, continues on Saturday all day and night until 11 p.m., and concludes on Sunday morning and afternoon.

Come down and see top-grade softball action. You'll enjoy it.

Florida flag ceremony

JENSEN BEACH--A Florida bicentennial flag will be presented to Mrs. Janet Hutchinson, director of Martin County Historical Society Museums, at the House of Refuge.

The 9:30 a.m. Friday, June 20, presentation will be made by Mrs. Barbara Torrow, chairman of the executive board of the Bicentennial Celebration.

SAFE BOATING--Ed Benedict and Charles Koach, Flotilla 59 Commander, look over some of the many safety devices as they inspect a boat in the Bailey Boat Marina in conjunction with the "Safe Boating is no Accident" program sponsored jointly by the St. Lucie Power Squadron and the Coast Guard Auxiliary, Flotilla 59 from June 29 thru July 5.

Safe boating inspections planned

JENSEN BEACH--In the most extensive project of its kind ever attempted here, the St. Lucie River Power Squadron and Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 59 will join forces in a program of free boat-safety examinations during National Safe Boating Week, June 29 to July 5.

Theme of the annual observance is "Safe Boating is No Accident".

Details of the venture were described in a joint statement issued by Robert E. Baer, commander of the Power Squadron, and Charles L. Koch, Flotilla 59 commander.

Qualified examiners of the Coast Guard Auxiliary, assisted by Power Squadron members, will conduct the "courtesy examinations" at nine locations, including the Stuart Municipal Pier.

Boats found to meet the recommended conditions and equipment standards of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary will be awarded its "Safe Boat Decal," a highly prized label that marks the craft as a properly equipped vessel, and identifies its skipper as an exponent of safe boating practice.

It is noted that boats displaying this emblem are not likely to be flagged down and boarded by Coast Guard inspectors in their routine searches for violations of safety regulations. The decal is renewable at the annual re-examination. The inspections are conducted on a completely confidential basis; no records of the findings are retained by the inspectors.

Pointing up the need for expanded effort in the promotion of safe boating is a May, 1975, "Boating Statistics" report by the Coast Guard which shows a rate of 16.9 fatalities per 100,000 recreational boats. The publication lists 1,446 persons as having lost their lives in boating accidents in 1974.

Statistics released indicate that last year there were 5,104 boating accidents involving 6,449 vessels. Resulting from these accidents were injuries to 993 persons and $9,181,000 worth of property damage.

"Recreational boating is increasing in popularity," Commanders Baer and Koch point out. "This year, more than 46 million Americans will engage in pleasure cruising on the water in some 9 million boats. Despite its constant growth, boating has remained reasonably safe, largely because boating officials, volunteer organizations and thousands of individual boatmen are constantly working toward prevention of accidents. The observance of National Safe Boating Week is an annual reminder that boating fun and safety go hand-in-hand all year long."

The nine inspection sites and schedule of free boat examinations are as follows:

Sailfish Marina, Manatee Pocket, June 29 & 30, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.; Stuart Municipal Pier, 1st St. So. of Roosevelt Bridge, next to Lord Chumley's, June 29 & 30, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Bailey Boat Co., Jensen Beach, July 1, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.; St. Lucie Marine, Stuart, July 1, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Anchorage Marina, Rio, July 2, 9 a.m. to Noon.

Budge Smith Pirate's Cove Marina, Port Salerno, July 2, 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.; Stuart Marine Center, Stuart, July 2, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Martin Marine Center, Stuart, July 3, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.; Casa Rio Boat and Motor Sales, Rio, July 3, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Those planning to avail themselves of the courtesy examinations are urged to make certain that their boats have on board the various safety devices and equipment required by Coast Guard Auxiliary regulations. This will prevent much difficulty and facilitate inspection.

A list of such items is available at various marinas. It is also suggested that insofar as possible, boats be brought to the listed marina that is nearest to the boatman's regular mooring. A little advance planning, officials advise, will pay real dividends in time and convenience.

Yearbooks are here

STUART--Stuart Middle School Yearbooks will be available at a Yearbook Signing Party this Friday, June 20, from 6:30 to 9 p.m. in the Media Center.

Students are asked to bring their receipts or $3. Refreshments will be served.

For those unable to attend the party, the Yearbooks will be available at the school during the month of June, from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on weekdays.

All-stars getting ready

BY DONNIE WILKIE

JENSEN BEACH--The Mustang, Bronco and Pony Leagues have concluded their seasons, and it is now time for the All-Stars to make ready for area competition.

The baseball administration at Langford Park made sure that this year's league playoffs were held at the beginning of June, so that the All-Stars could enjoy almost a full month of practice.

The Mustang League All-Stars are comprised of the outstanding players from the six teams. They will take on teams from Lake Worth, Palm Springs and the Martin County league (all town; in Martin County except Jensen Beach). The tournament will take place in Palm Springs. The JB team is coached by Roger Jackson.

Jensen Beach's Bronco League All-Stars coached by Pete Howanitz and Tom Crook, will host the Area tournament beginning July 7, against the same teams mentioned above. Earlier this year the Optimist Club decides against accepting the state tourney for reasons undisclosed, and instead took the area round robin.

The Pony League All-Stars will meet Lake Worth, Palm Springs and Martin County in the Area tournament at Lake Worth on mid-July, the date was not set at press time. The Pony team will be managed by Jeff Alter, with Herb Seal serving as the assistant.

Welfare

WASHINGTON—One out of every eight children in this nation has a parent getting welfare money through aid to dependent children programs.

In fact, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare says the AFDC caseload is now 11,239,411, the highest in history.

But that doesn't tell the whole story. In some major metropolitan areas the ratio of children with parents getting welfare checks is now one in three.

Yet, just 20 years ago, the number of children listed on AFDC rolls was just one in 20.

I can think of no better argument for speedy passage of the welfare reform legislation I and a number of other concerned Congressmen introduced in March. The need for reform was urgent, desperately urgent then. But it is more urgent now.

Fortunately, the need for quick action is being recognized. Right now the National Welfare Reform Act has 74 co-sponsors in the House and 19 in the Senate.

The National Welfare Reform Act isn't going to penalize the truly needy. In fact, it will probably help them.

What it will do is get rid of the lazy and the cheaters. It will do away with the loopholes which allow persons with high incomes to collect welfare under the aid for dependent children program. And there are more than a few people with good incomes benefiting under this program.

In fact, cases of women earning as much as $1,000 and $1,200 a month and still collecting welfare have been documented in state after state after state.

No wonder the price tag for this program has jumped 6,800 per cent since it inception in 1936. No wonder the price tag has doubled to $4 billion in just the last five years.

But it need not be that high. The National Welfare Reform Act, if adopted could save taxpayers $1.8 billion a year.

Nearly $700 million of that savings would come from eliminating just those welfare recipients with high incomes.

And that wouldn't be the biggest savings.

By eliminating the loopholes which allow fathers to escape their responsibilities for supporting their children we can save the taxpayers at least $887 million a year.

And by making those receiving benefits work we can save another $211 million.

But the savings in current appropriation levels aren't the only reason for a national welfare reform program. More important is the savings to be obtained by discouraging new loophole recipients.

Only by keeping AFDC and other welfare programs for the truly needy can we see an end to the tremendous growth in the number of people who would rather draw welfare than work.

If the growth in the number of parents with children on the rolls continues to grow at the current rate, we will soon see the day when as is already happening in New York City, five working men and women are losing the shirts off their backs in taxes so that one person can live off the cuff.

That's why the National Welfare Reform Act is so important, why Congress should act quickly to enact these needed and long overdue reforms.

Then we can restore the concept of public welfare assistance to its original purpose, helping those who are really needy and cannot help themselves.

And at the same time discourage those who think able-bodied citizens should be able to loaf at the taxpayers expense.

Letters to the editor

To the editor:

In recent months there has been considerable discussion regarding the merits of having two new hospitals in St. Lucie County. There are those that feel that one hospital should be adequate and that a second one would be unnecessary and wasteful. Others feel, however, that a second hospital will serve a useful need.

Now that plans for the construction of the new hospital in Fort Pierce have become well advanced it seems reasonable to review the pros and cons concerning a possible additional hospital in the Port St. Lucie area.

Some people have expressed concern that such a second hospital would undermine the development of the Fort Pierce Hospital by causing a significant reduction in the number of potential patients who would be using this hospital. Evaluation of this objective requires the application of some principles of geography and arithmetic.

First regarding geography. It should be noted that the planned site of the Port St. Lucie Hospital is across the main highway from the north entrance to the Sandpiper Bay Country Club. This is a distance of about 15 miles from Fort Pierce, 6 miles from Stuart. It would be reasonable to anticipate that at this location a new hospital would attract people who lived closer to this hospital than to any of the other hospitals in the area. To make anything like an accurate analysis, we should endeavor to answer such of these questions as "Where do these people reside?" "What is their number?" "Where do they now go for hospitaliza-

These people reside in several [illegible] areas between Fort Pierce and Stuart. It includes South Port St. Lucie, Sandpiper Bay Country Club, Spanish Lakes, Jensen Beach and Hutchinson Island. Data obtained from General Development Corp. and the U.S. Post Office reveal that a total of at least 30,000 people inhabit these areas during the winter months. The figures for North Port St. Lucie are 8,000, Sandpiper Bay 4,000, Spanish Lakes 4,000, Jensen Beach 13,000, Hutchinson Island 2,500. At present these people go to the Fort Pierce Memorial and Martin Memorial Hospitals. Because of their relative proximity to Stuart, it can reasonably be estimated that at least 80 per cent of the people in Jensen Beach and Hutchinson Island go to Martin Memorial. Similarly about 80 per cent of the residents of Sandpiper Bay go to Stuart for their medical care. The estimate for North Port St. Lucie and Spanish Lakes both approximately mid way between Fort Pierce and Stuart could be reasonably estimated as 50-50. Making a calculation on this basis results in a figure of 23,000 for the number of people who could be expected to go to Martin Memorial Hospital, 2,000 to Fort Pierce Memorial.

From these figures we can conclude that the great majority of the residents of the intermediate area between Fort Pierce and Stuart do not tend to use the present hospital at Fort Pierce but get their care in Stuart. This means that only a relatively small number of people in this area could be expected to change from Fort Pierce to a new hospital in Port St. Lucie. So one could reasonably conclude therefore that a new hospital in Port St. Lucie would tend to undermine the new hospital being developed in Fort Pierce. Instead those who are planning the hospital in Fort St. Lucie wish to stress the fact that they would share their facilities to supplement those of the new hospital in Fort Pierce as well as those of Martin Memorial in Stuart.

Very truly yours,
s/ Bernard D. Ross, M.D.

Two New Ways To Earn Tax Free Interest and Pay Less Income Tax

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT (IRA)

If you are not an active participant in a retirement plan where you work you can now start your own pension plan — an Individual Retirement Account (IRA).

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

The Pension Reform Act of 1974 now allows wage earners who are not covered under any qualified retirement plan to set aside up to 15% of your annual earnings not to exceed $1,500 per year. All deposits to your IRA will be tax deductible and the interest will accumulate income tax free.

While your funds are accumulating in your IRA we will pay interest compounded daily at our usual high rates.

When you reach retirement age — any age you choose between 59½ and 70½ — you may arrange to have your funds paid out to you in a lump sum or over a period of years. As you receive this money, it will then become taxable as ordinary income.

BENEFIT PAYMENTS

A. Regular Retirement Benefits
At retirement age — between 59½ and 70½ — you may elect, by written notice, to withdraw your funds in one lump sum or to have them distributed to you over a period of years not to exceed your life expectancy.

B. Distributions made prior to age 59½
Benefit payments can be made prior to age 59½ for death or disability without incurring adverse tax penalties. However, if you voluntarily withdraw your funds prior to age 59½, the distribution will be included as ordinary income for the year of receipt and a federal tax penalty equal to 10% of the amount received will be imposed.

ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

Wage earners who are not already covered by Keogh Plans, Corporate Retirement Plans, Government Plans and Tax Sheltered Annuities may establish an IRA.

Also, the following persons are eligible: a spouse working part time or full time; students with part time jobs; self employed individuals who do not wish to establish a Keogh Plan.

TAX ADVANTAGES

A. Pre-retirement Years (accumulation period)
During this period of time you are allowed to take a tax deduction for the full amount of your deposit. You are entitled to this deduction even if you don't itemize your deductions. Also the interest earned by your IRA will accumulate income tax free until distributed.

B. Retirement Years (distribution period)
When you reach retirement age — any age you select between 59½ and 70½ — the proceeds from IRA are fully taxable as ordinary income when distributed. But the effect of this tax will be lessened by your lower tax bracket after retirement and your qualifying for a double tax exemption at age 65.

BENEDICTION–Rev. Dr. Jerry Morris prepared to give the benediction to the graduation class at the FIT ceremonies last Thursday. At the dias were, left to right, behind Morris, Peter Savaretta, head of students, Roland Merrill and Dr. Ralph Evinrude, trustees, Dean Tim Tenley, FIT President Dr. Jerry Keuper, Dr. Wendell Patton, president of High Point College, Dr. John Gross, grand marshal, and Ed Brown, crier.

Riley is immediate past president of the Jensen Beach Lions Club and his 15 year old daughter will be a senior next fall at Martin County High School.

MIRROR

SCHOOL–Discussion of the graduation took a serious tone as Mirror Editor Dick Campbell, acting president of the FIT Board of Advisors, explained a point to Dean Tim Tenley concerning newspaper coverage of the graduation following the ceremonies last Thursday.

LIONS LEADERS–New officers of the Jensen Beach Lions Club were installed Monday night, June 16, at the Crow's Nest Restaurant. PHOTOS FOR MEMORIES–Proud parents took time out after the FIT graduation to snap photographs of their graduates before attending a reception in the rose garden of the campus.

Reading program at Academy

Howes-in-the-Hills–Howes Academy is expanding its reading program in keeping with the traditional emphasis on teaching the three R's at this central Florida co-educational college preparatory school.

Headmaster William Branyon said Howes's reading program helps those with reading deficiencies also those who desire speed reading lessons and those who need help reading in subject areas like social studies, math or science.

Sue Royall, former Lake County reading specialist, has been appointed to head up programs for both the Howes Summer Session, now in progress, and the regular school year. She has received her master's degree from Appalachian State University.

"Reading with comprehension is a key to success in most subject areas," said Branyon. "We've continued to expand our program while many schools are budgeting out reading because we feel it's an answer to the complaints by today's employer that the nation's high school graduate can't spell, can't write or lacks other fundamental skills."

He explained that school wide evaluative reading tests indicate which Howes students need individualized help in reading.

NEW DIRECTOR–Frank J. Walker of Miami Shores has been elected to the Board of Directors of Community Federal Savings and Loan Association, according to Robert F. Cromwell, president. Walker was born in Pittsburgh, attended Rollins College and graduated from M.I.T. with a B.S. in Mechanical Engineering. After retiring from general contracting in 1965, he entered the hotel and financial building design and construction consulting field. It was during this period he developed the modular financial building known as PORTA-BRANCH, which is used as branch offices for savings and loan associations. The design was ultimately purchased by Diebold, Incorporated in 1966. Walker has his own research and development lab where he develops and patents various ideas.

Porteous, Appel top golf

PORT ST. LUCIE–The driving of Chuck Porteous and the scrambling of Len Appel were too much for the field in Thursday's weekly golf tournament of the St. Lucie Country Club Men's Golf Assn. played over the Savanna Course of the SLCC. The winning two-man teams in the odd and even hole partnership event were:

Appel and Porteous 66. Ray Hannum and Hector McDougall, 68's; Mel Seeley and George Taylor, 69. Paul Miller and Myron Thomas, 69's; John Huncharek and Len Schnell, and Tom Chapman and August Ruppell, 70's; Seymour Fleming and Paul Lewallen, 71.

This week's competition features individual stroke play with full handicaps at the Sinner's Course.

The Tupperware party Monday, June 7th, was fun and profitable for the activity fund. The ladies got some nice prizes and the fund received about $25.

The final total isn't in yet, so it may be even more. A number of ladies expressed interest in another party, so we may have one in the fall, according to Sharyon. By then we'll be interested in getting storage containers for left over Thanksgiving and Christmas goodies.

* * *

Sharyon is planning a jewelry show and maybe an Avon show later on to give us some Christmas ideas. It sure is an easy way to shop for your presents. Read the bulletin board for the exact dates.

* * *

We had a good crowd out for bingo last Wednesday. Rose DeVries and Bill Duren split the jack pot. It's nice and cool in the clubhouse, so come on down Wednesday night at 7:30.

* * *

Tuesday and Thursday nights the men play pill pool. If you're interested come down to the game room. Ladies are welcome, too.

* * *

Bill and Grace Duren returned recently after visiting relatives in Kansa City, Mo., and Paloa, Kansas. They also visited Bill's parents at Fayette, Mo.

* * *

Rena LaValley, a niece from Union Hill, Maryland, and her friend Beverly Fallon visited with Rita and Bob Palmer.

Rachel and Camiel LaCluyse talked to six of their grandchildren, the Tobolski family, and were informed by them that they each passed their particular grade with flying colors. Of course, all of us like to hear this kind of news from our children and grandchildren.

* * *

Penny and Jerry O'Donnell are again visiting with Jerry's parents, Irene and Larry. This time, instead of bringing a palm tree, they brought a folding rocking chair on the plane.

* * *

June and Fred LaVigne had June's cousin Ruth Courter from New Jersey with them for a few days.

* * *

Mary Jane and Russ Freese have returned from a short vacation seeing some of Florida. They visited Marine Land, then went on to St. Augustine to see the Old Historical City. The next stop was Disney World, where they saw the beautiful parade commemorating the Bicentennial. Mary Jane says that the Mission Control and America the Beautiful are fine for anyone visiting there. The Hall of Presidents was very impressive, too.

Both agreed it was a relaxing as well as impressive vacation, getting to know the state they live in better.

There were 13 people in the pool last Friday the 13th. It was the coolest place to be! Everyone had a lot of fun.

George Horne can now swim across the pool and back without any trouble. I'll bet he'll be able to swim it lengthwise within the month.

Man is hit by train

JENSEN BEACH—An 86-year-old man was hit by a train Friday night as he attempted to cross the Florida East Coast Railway tracks in Jensen Beach.

George Roberts of Pitchford's Trailer Park was taken to Martin Memorial Hospital, treated for a lacerated heel and elbow and released.

Mildred Mullen was happy to have her cousin, Douglas Rogers from the Pittsburg area visit her and Elsie Schoeneman over one night. He was on a business trip with American Bridge Co. and was meeting with officials at Cape Canaveral. His company was pleasantly enjoyed.

Our deepest sympathy goes out to Pat Brady whose father passed away in New Jersey.

Winner at bridge on the 12th was Lee King. The gals were good to let me in the game as a novice.

It is always nice to have visitors in the park, especially so when children are included. Alice and Vernon Stoddard were so happy to have their daughter Joan Pollen from Laurel, Maryland, visit them for several days. Alice said they talked for several days since they hadn't seen Joan in quite a while.

* * *

Jen and John Bollenbacker are enjoying having their daughter Barbara Humphres from Middlefield, Ohio here for a visit. It is fun watching her son Douglas age-wise at the pool catching all those fish. I have an advantage spot at my kitchen sink where I can enjoy such things.

Margaret Elkins son Richard was here from Melbourne for a few days visit along with his family. Visiting his wife and three children were Craig, Susan and their cousin Allen Evans. They all seemed to be having a good time investigating things on the coast.

Friendship, food and funds

70-acre annexation

virtually a certainty

PORT ST. LUCIE—A favorable recommendation handed over to the City Council by the local Planning committee makes the annexation of a 70 acre tract situated just north of the City a virtual certainty.

According to City Administrator Elmer Cox, there has been nothing other than favorable comments relative to the pending annexation which would include Sportsman's Park, three churches, the library, the CESA building and the Southern Bell Telephone property.

The only tax revenue to be derived from the annexation would be the Southern Bell property, which Mayor Schuyler Sharpe said Tuesday would set the city approximately $8,000.

The City's Planning and Zoning Board has recommended spending $50,000 during the first year on improvements to Sportsman's Park.

Of this amount, we will ask the St. Lucie County Commission to kick in $25,000 because, through the annexation, we will become a part of the St. Lucie County Recreation Program," Cox said during the Tuesday's workshop session.

Aside from the money the County would provide program services under their recreation program.

The city would hire the caretaker to keep the grounds in order.

Although there have been no final decisions on the physical improvements at the park, there seems to be initial support for the construction of two tennis courts, fenced and lighted. Cost has been roughly estimated at $20,000.

Cox also told his listeners, the grandstand would be inspected and it was hoped there would be improvements made to the baseball diamonds.

We will also encourage the Port St. Lucie Optimist Club and the Little League to continue their programs with the same enthusiasm they have shown in the past several years," Cox said.

In order to include the recreation improvements in the 1975-76 budget, it is expected the city will move forward with the annexation as soon as possible.

A second recommendation received from the Planning and Zoning Committee was that the city form a recreation board.

According to Cox, a referendum for the annexation would not be required since there have been no protests.

Competition 'unfortunate'

Community hospital plans unveiled Friday

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE—Plans for a proposed 116 bed, non-profit hospital to be situated in the Midport area of the City were unveiled before members of the press last Friday.

The proposed health care facility, to be known as the PSL Community Hospital is planned as an acute care, short stay, medical surgical hospital designed to meet all Federal and State safety, engineering and health requirements.

Dr. William H. Meyer, Jr., an officer of the non-profit corporation who chaired the press conference explained the one story, masonry concrete structure would be located on a 15 acre site providing ample parking area, adequate expansion space and a satisfactory distance shield from noise and general trespass.

In announcing the June 18 public hearing to be conducted at the Student Union of Indian River Community College by the Martin/St. Lucie Health Planning Council, Dr. Meyer urged local residents to support the proposed hospital by appearing at the hearing. Meeting time is 7:30 Wednesday evening.

If we are to obtain the Certificate of Need, an essential requirement for the construction of a hospital in the State of Florida, we will need all the support we can get at the hearing from the community," Dr. Meyer said.

Two applications for certificates of need are to be considered by the Health Planning Committee when the group meets Wednesday evening.

The Hospital Corporation of America, which proposes constructing a 250 bed hospital as a replacement for Fort Pierce Memorial, has also submitted an application.

Dr. Meyer reiterated the methods of competition with the 116 bed non-profit making hospital in Fort Pierce as being unbelievable.

It was pointed out in a recently completed feasibility study, it was most apparent that the primary service area of the PSL Community Hospital would encompass the main population densities within the southeastern portion of St. Lucie County, plus a small northeastern portion of Martin County, which would include Port St. Lucie, River Park, Spanish Lakes and the Jensen Beach areas.

Dr. Bernard Ross, also an officer of the board for the PSL hospital said the intermediate area to be served by the local facility encompassed a population of 80,000 during the winter season.

GDC's General Manager Bob Seeley, also a member of the hospital board, said the group of proponents had not only done the need for the health care facility must now, but assuming the certificate is issued, it would be three more years before the doors of the new hospital would be opened.

With the growth of the area, this need will be even greater at that time," Seeley said.

A recent staff report released by the Martin/St. Lucie Health Planning Committee indicated the group favored the HCA proposal, although it stated the proposed charges were high for the area.

The same report termed the Port St. Lucie Community facility as not being economically feasible and implied it would draw patients from Martin Memorial Hospital and increase costs in that county due to underutilization of the Martin hospital.

Should the certificate of need be granted the PSL hospital would include the family intensive care unit, 24 hour emergency room, laboratory, dietary, pharmacy, physical therapy, inhalation therapy, medical library, operating and recovery rooms.

The initial building will contain approximately 83,700 square feet, will be completely air conditioned and will have the required auxiliary power supply.

The location is already appropriately zoned for the facility and there will be community public utilities to the site, including water, sewerage and power.

Estimated cost of the facility is $6.5 million.

Designer of the new hospital is Ken Starratt of Fort Pierce.

The Community Hospital will be owned and operated by Port St. Lucie Community Hospital, Inc., a not for profit corporation. The officers of the corporation presently are four of prominent St. Lucie County physicians including Dr. Wm. H. Meyer, Jr., president; Drs. Geo. T. Theodorou and Bernard D. Ross, vice president and Dr. C.R. Cambron, secretary and treasurer.

The Board of Directors, in addition to the officers, includes Robert L. Seeley, Clement Bramley, Vaughn Lewis, Don White and Ed Pessel. The five directors are all actively prominent business and civic leaders of the Port St. Lucie area.

Chester B. Griffin, with the law offices of Neill, Griffin, Jeffries & Lloyd, has been retained as legal counsel for the corporation.

It is anticipated that construction may be commenced on or about January, 1976, with a target date of completion and operation by July, 1977.

A wave, a smile...a reason to wake up

BY ALICE HICKEY

PORT ST. LUCIE—Her eyes were filled with tears as she accepted the certificate of appreciation from members of the PFTS at the Port St. Lucie Elementary School.

But it is I who should be thanking you for the wonderful opportunity the opportunity of belonging," Mrs. Elsie Slupetz told the group.

This job has done so much for me. It gave me a reason to wake up each morning and put purpose back into my life," she said with a voice which showed signs of breaking.

The occasion was an end of the year coffee given by the PFTS Parents, Friends, Teachers & Students group for the teachers and staff of the new school last Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Slupetz is not a teacher, nor is she a member of the school staff, but there is little doubt she was the most popular and best loved person associated with the school by parents and children alike.

Mrs. Slupetz has been a senior citizen volunteer who offered her services last winter when the doors of the new school were first opened.

Each morning since last February she has taken her stand at the corner of Irving and Prima Vista Boulevard where she watched over and assisted the children crossing the dangerous intersection.

Widowed just two years ago, Mrs. Slupetz moved to Port St. Lucie last August from Chicago at the invitation of an aunt and uncle who reside here.

Although she loved the area she was lonely and extremely depressed.

The loneliness seemed more than I could bear. I just couldn't seem to find a spot where I fit. Everyplace I would go there were only couples," she told her listeners.

I considered going back to Chicago but my aunt asked me to remain for one year and give myself a chance.

To be with people, I attended every bingo game that was held. It was at a bingo game at CESA where I noticed the request for senior citizen volunteers to assist in several areas at the new school," she said.

Mrs. Slupetz, one of the first to offer her services, attended the safety course sponsored by the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Department and has faithfully taken her post every morning from 7:45 to 8:30 a.m. at the crossing.

Everyone has been so friendly. All the teachers and parents would wave each morning as they passed by taking the children to school," she said.

There was only one father who refused to wave, but I suppose he had his mind on work."

Commenting on the children, Mrs. Slupetz said: They are just precious each one of them."

She recalled only little boys in particular who expressed concern when he believed she had fallen, but then always had a big smile, waving one instead of drawing the car."

Mrs. Slupetz is there something wrong with your car today?" Assuring him there wasn't, she tried to explain she just wanted the exercise.

Are you sure you didn't have a wreck with your car? I would be sorry if you did," he called back as he continued towards the school.

So you see, Mrs. Slupetz continued, there simply aren't sufficient words to express my gratitude for what this volunteer job has done for me.

There is no way each person who smiled and waved to me in the mornings could possibly know just how much they did to change my life.

Now I have a reason to wake up each day, and believe me that is a wonderful feeling.

Mrs. Slupetz who has two sons, a daughter and three grandchildren in Chicago, expressed her concern for other widows in the area. She strongly urges they volunteer their services and become involved.

It is the best remedy for loneliness," she added.

Since volunteering her services at the school Mrs. Slupetz has also joined the staff of Pink Ladies at Martin Memorial Hospital where she works every Wednesday afternoon.

Aside from that, she has enrolled in the handicraft and sewing classes at the CESA Community Center.

There is little doubt that when the school bell rings this fall at the Port St. Lucie Elementary, Mrs. Elsie Slupetz will again be at the corner of Irving and Prima Vista to greet the children and wave to parents, teachers and staff members as they pass by.

By getting involved, loneliness is now, for the most part, a thing of the past for Mrs. Slupetz.

July 4 in Jensen will be great

JENSEN BEACH--Fourth of July on Jensen Beach Causeway always is a big event.

There always is food, fun, frolic for young and old. The day-long festivities always is climaxed by a fireworks display that is one of the best in Florida.

This year, there is going to be more fun than ever.

The Bicentennial Celebration parade will get the festivities under way this year.

And "Uncle Sam" will be the parade marshal.

Parade Chairman Andrew Webb said the parade--first one in Jensen Beach--would move along Commercial Street and Indian River Drive past the judge's stand at the Snook Nook to the Causeway.

Judges for the parade will be Joe Colville, Carson Meyer and Bill Palmer.

There will be trophies awarded in several categories, Mrs. Webb said.

With the parade moving through downtown Jensen Beach beginning at 10 a.m., the Causeway festivities will start at noon with the flag raising by the VFW color guard.

Area organizations once again sponsor the event, including the watermelon eating contest by the VFW, and a greased pole contest by the Optimist Club.

There will be foot races sponsored by the Lions Club, and an inner tube race sponsored by Greens Department Store.

At Causeway booths, there will be a variety of activities, including a bake sale by the Legion Auxiliary; sale of flags by the Legion, and the Chamber of Commerce will have Bicentennial decals on sale.

The Kiwanis Club will sell soft drinks, and there will be some penny pitching under the supervision of the VFW.

The Red Cross will have an open house, and the Lions Club will have a booth set up for eye donor contribution.

To get to the Causeway and their special events for the day, most area organizations will have units in the Bicentennial parade.

Mrs. Webb said she expects 70 units, including floats, bicycles, horses and walking units.

The big birthday party will climax at about dark with the fireworks display under the direction of Bill Yurillo.

Yurillo, who always puts on a fantastic display, will go all out this year to celebrate the nation's 200th birthday.

Yurillo will feature a turtle and a birthday cake in the display, and 20,000 persons are expected to crowd the Causeway and surrounding area to view this fabulous fireworks show.

Donations are urged

JENSEN BEACH--Jensen Beach annually has a fantastic Fourth of July fireworks display on the Causeway.

Each year Bill Yurillo, who is in charge of the fireworks, has a better and bigger show that brings enjoyment to thousands of young and old viewers at the event.

But the fireworks display, recognized as one of the best in Florida, costs money.

Fred Stein, chairman of the Fourth of July Fund Raising Committee, is seeking to raise $3,000.

"We have $1,800 cash in hand," Stein said. "We have other donations assured."

The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce is backing the fireworks, and Stein pointed out that in the past businessmen have been supporting the display.

"We would like to get more donations from area residents," Stein said. "The fireworks is something all age groups enjoy."

"We are very fortunate to have a man like Bill Yurillo to supervise the display.

"If we didn't have Yurillo, the fireworks would cost us much more," Stein added.

Donations to the fireworks display fund may be mailed to the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Site of Jensen Beach solar auditorium

No growth is needed

Solar energy solutions sought

BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH--How do you charge for sunshine falling on your roof?

That is one of the many befuddling questions that has held back research on solar energy, according to Jay Jarrett, head of the Jensen Beach Environmental Center.

Jarrett, speaking to the Jensen Kiwanis Club Monday, said that there was enough sunshine falling on the United States in one day to provide for the country's needs to the year 2000, but the commercial application of it, and how a profit could be made from it, was a major problem to research.

"The answer seems to lie in the profit being made on the point of use, and instead of collecting a flat distribution, the collector should be right at the point of use," he said.

Jarrett said that the cost of a solar water heater for a home, about $450, made it an expensive addition. But, if it could be done, and if one percent of the people in the country was on solar energy, thirty million barrels of oil per year could be saved.

The energy problems of America brought a $309 million grant to study and research solar energy, and the Jensen Beach Environmental Center has applied for a grant to build a solar auditorium on its Indian River Drive property.

It will be a $155,000 auditorium that will seat 150 people, and the project was put together by a group of interested residents who serve on the environmental center advisory board. It took only five days to draw the document, as it had to be filed in Washington by June 1, according to Jarrett.

"I can't think of a better project for Jensen Beach in this bicentennial year," Jarrett said. He explained that the idea for the auditorium came from Jensen Chamber of Commerce President Art Hansen.

In outlining the need to use solar energy, Jarrett led the Kiwanians through an outline of the need to protect the natural resources of the world, tying his comments to a book entitled "The Limits To Growth," which was written by a group of scientists.

The five basic factors of life: population growth, capital investment, food production, use of non-renewable resources, and pollution, were used by the scientists to compute the future of the world, and they found that the planet Earth would reach its limit in 100 years.

The scientists then deduced that "we must establish a no-growth policy."

However, Jarrett said, "Economists agree that no one can agree on a solution to the problem."

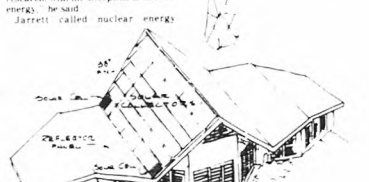
He then followed the law of diminishing returns to oil production, pointing out that the low price of oil prevented the development of oil shale deposits, deep sea platforms, and the Alaskan oil fields until the per barrel price moved up to make it worthwhile for capital investment to be made.

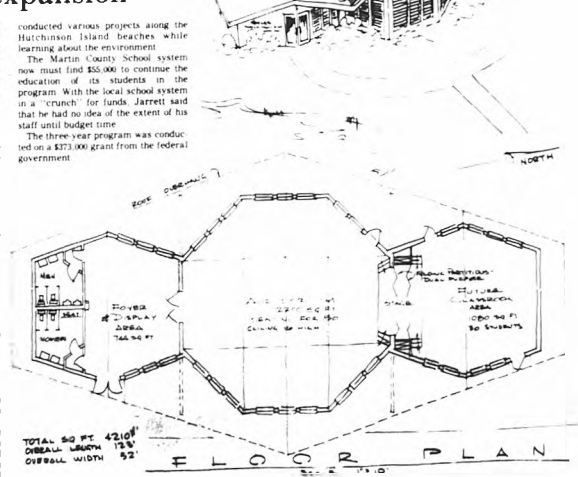
"One drilling rig costs $100 million, more than has been spent on all energy research, with the exception of nuclear energy," he said.

Jarrett called nuclear energy "playing Russian roulette with our environment," and said the nuclear power plants were a "stop-gap measure" to give us time to search for something new.

The solar auditorium, would embody a demonstration room to show displays of solar and wind energy equipment, a classroom for teaching local people how to construct such energy sources, as well as the auditorium.

Wind devices would be exhibited and would generate power as would the solar panels. It is planned that the entire building be heated, cooled and powered by wind or solar energy.





New planning council is backed

JENSEN BEACH--Creation of a new Regional Planning Council got the backing of the Martin County Commission Tuesday.

Martin County will join with St. Lucie, Indian River and Palm Beach counties in asking the state to establish a new regional planning council.

Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick will "hand carry the resolution along with officials of the other three counties to Tallahassee."

At a meeting earlier this month all the elected officials of the four counties agreed they wanted to form a new planning council.

Palm Beach County recently resigned from the South Florida Regional Planning Council, and Philbrick pointed out that Martin and St. Lucie counties never had representation on the council.

Martin, Palm Beach and St. Lucie counties are in District 10, South Florida Region and Indian River County is in District 6.

"A new council will help our county planning," Philbrick said.

PGA plans are reported

STUART--High-rise structures exceeding Martin County's four-story limit may be proposed for the Professional Golfers Assn. (PGA) complex in south Martin County, developer Floyd Voight said last week.

Voight, president of Voight Enterprises, Inc., told Stuart Chamber of Commerce members about his firm's plans for the PGA golf course community west of the Jonathan Dickinson State Park.

The developer told the breakfast gathering of business leaders that he had tried unsuccessfully to get approval of hi-rises on Hutchinson Island for the Dolphins Bay condominium apartments, but gave it up when he couldn't get the County Commission to approve buildings over four stories.

"Four story buildings are the most uneconomical you can build," Voight said. "I'm sure that buildings higher than four stories will be proposed. And areas with all buildings the same height don't look good."

Voight said he has a contract with the PGA to have two golf courses ready for use Jan. 1, 1978, and by that time he plans to have housing available for users of the courses.

He said that maintenance of the golf courses would cost about $8,000 per hole per year and these expenses must be met by use of the course, primarily by the residents of the community and part-time residents who would buy units in the proposed time sharing condominiums.

Under the time sharing plan, each unit in luxury hotels would be sold to 51 buyers for about $3,500 each. This would entitle each buyer to use the unit one week a year. Annual maintenance would cost about $500 per buyer per year, Voight said.

He said that he plans to "live with whatever Martin County will give us if it is economically feasible."

He said a minimum density of 3.5 or 4 units per acre is needed.

Noting the opposition from Jupiter Island and Hobe Sound residents based on possible harm to water supplies, Voight urged the people not to oppose the project until the plans are formulated.

He pointed out that his firm is spending about $20,000 on engineering studies to find out about the water situation in the area.

PGA PLANS--Floyd J. Voight, president of Voight Enterprises, Inc., outlines plans for the proposed PGA complex at a Stuart Chamber of Commerce breakfast last Thursday at the Stuart Holiday Inn.

Environmental program is pilot for expansion

JENSEN BEACH--Lessons learned from the three-year federal program at the Jensen Beach Environmental Center will be used to encourage other school districts to establish like programs, and an $86,000 grant will help to do it.

The staff at the environmental center is planning to bring representatives of other school districts to Jensen Beach to evaluate the program and establish similar programs throughout the southeastern United States in their home districts, according to Jay Jarrett, who established the program.

A recent federal evaluation of the program "by a bunch of PhD types" proved that the cost of such education was within reason, that students learned from the program, and that the program was suitable for use in other school systems, so next week the school will begin taking the program around the country to sell it to school systems.

Jarrett spoke to the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club Monday at Frances Langford's Outrigger Restaurant, saying, "If you can't take care of the environment you live in, there is no sense in learning anything else."

"We anticipate that federal funding will come as long as some school districts can be convinced that they need this program."

The program brought classes from schools in the four-county area, in elementary and secondary education, to view the environment in the laboratories and in the field at the environmental center. Students netted in the Indian River took soil samples along the shoreline and in the river, and conducted various projects along the Hutchinson Island beaches while learning about the environment.

The Martin County School system now must find $55,000 to continue the education of its students in the program. With the local school system in a "crunch" for funds, Jarrett said that he had no idea of the extent of his staff until budget time.

The three-year program was conducted on a $373,000 grant from the federal government.

Fire destroys building, vehicles

JENSEN BEACH—A spectacular fire, punctuated by explosions of propane gas bottles and vehicle gas tanks, destroyed Lockwood Storage on U.S. 1 last Friday morning.

A lightning bolt apparently struck a trailer parked just outside the storage building which is at the rear of Barkes Travel Center.

Civil Defense received the call at 9:58 a.m. and the first unit from Rio Fire Department was on the scene at 10:07 a.m.

The fire was almost under control when two fire trucks from Rio Department ran out of water, according to Chief Bill Gass.

Flames quickly spread to the wooden roof of the building, and the blaze destroyed the building and its contents of some 30 recreational vehicles and cars.

No one was injured in the blaze, and Earl Barkes, who operates a travel trailer business in front of the storage building, estimated the loss to be many many thousands of dollars.

Fire fighting equipment from Rio, Jensen Beach, Tropical Farms, Palm City, District No. 2, Port Salerno and the City of Stuart battled the blaze for about four hours.

Barkes said he was sitting at his desk in the office when a bolt of lightning struck during a thunderstorm. He said he saw smoke coming from a trailer near the south end of the building, and called firemen.

Gass said the first two trucks at the scene had 900 gallons of water on board. Gass said that the department usually sends equipment with 1,000 gallons of water but they were shorthanded at the time.

Gass said that after the 900 gallons was used up he called for assistance from Jensen Beach and District 1.

Smoke from the fire was visible in Jensen Beach and south of Stuart, and traffic on U.S. 1 was slowed as Sheriff Department deputies shuffled fire equipment in and out of the scene.

POURING IT ON—A volunteer fire fighter pours water on to the blaze at Lockwood Storage from atop his ladder, while other fire fighters man the hose. The storage building and some 30 recreational vehicles and cars were destroyed in the Friday morning blaze.

SMOKE POURS FROM BUILDING—A fire believed caused by a bolt of lightning destroyed the Lockwood Storage on U.S. 1 and some 30 recreational vehicles in the building. Fire fighters from seven Fire Departments battled the Friday morning blaze for several hours before bringing it under control.

Dolphin Discount takes title in Fireworks

BY DONNIE WILKIE

JENSEN BEACH—In a tournament which saw many upsets, Dolphin Walked away with the championship in a convincing fashion, remaining undefeated through their six games.

This marked the sixth consecutive year that a Dade or Broward county entrant has taken the title. It has not been won by another region since Melbourne T.V. won the round-robin with one loss in 1985.

Finishing second was the Stuart National Bank, who, once again couldn't quite put it together when it really counted. Nevertheless, Stuart National beat some very good teams including the Kiki Lounge, the third place finishers.

Club LeSabre, featuring Mike "Tank" Julian, who has obviously found time to lose some weight, couldn't quite keep pace with the others as they fell into the fourth slot.

Meanwhile Central Materials and Gipper Barwick came in a surprising fifth as Gipper suffered no loss of pride in two losses to Dolphin Discount, and to Club LeSabre. Central lost to Dolphin Discount, and to the Kiki Lounge. Finishing tied for seventh were Surplus Stock Outlet and the Out of the Way Restaurant, who both put up gallant fights before being knocked out of the competition.

Hummel Builders, Sparta Insulation, Bigham Installation, and Stuart's Phi Beta Sigma finished knotted in the ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth positions. Phi Beta Sigma was a pleasant surprise, winning two big ones over Pine Lumber & Supply and Krauss & Crane. The victory of K & C put them in against Surplus Stock, but they just weren't up to it, as Surplus overwhelmed them, 24-2.

In the semi-final game, Stuart National Bank shut out the Kiki Lounge by a score of 7-0. SNB got on the scoreboard in the second as Mark Zinn singled home John Van Slate with the first run of the contest, while there were two out.

The Bankers broke the game open in the third inning, as they bombed Kiki for six runs. Gary Morgan singled to start things off, and Tim Sweeny followed with another base hit. That, coupled with an error on the play, scored Morgan to make it 2-0. Mike Lanza singled Sweeny to third, then clean up hitter Ron Kammel doubled to score both baserunners, and the score was now 4-0.

Dave Stout's single scored Kammel to make the score 5-0, and, after two consecutive (!) balks, Zac Jenkins, Zinn and Dennis Rinaldi all singled to score two more runs and make the score 7-0.

The Kiki Lounge showed their skills throughout the rest of the game, but the big lead was just too much for Kiki to overcome. Three key double plays, two of the sixth inning, when Bill Thompson and pinch hitter Jim Arguimbau singled with one out, but after a ground ball moved them up a notch, the rally was halted as Carl Mosers grounded out to second base.

Kiki's biggest problem was most evident in the semi-finals when they got only five hits, with two in the sixth. Five hits will almost never be enough to win any softball game, especially the semi-finals in the prestigious Fireworks Committee tourney.

Stuart National's final round bid was not quite strong enough to pose a serious threat to Dolphin Discount. But they did make a very interesting game until the fifth inning.

Stuart National got on the board first, as Mark Zinn doubled home Zac Jenkins, who had walked. But Dolphin Discount responded with a tally in the third, as Dan Davis tripled and George "Too Tall" Kram came up with a clutch single to make it 3-1. Frank Sumner and Jeff Davis reached on an error, which scored the former. Kram then came up with another single to score Davis, and make it 6-2.

Stuart National tried to close the gap through the rest of the game, but couldn't quite do it. So the final score was 6-2.

TROPHIES—The undefeated Miami team, Dolphins Discount were the winners of the 9th annual Fireworks Tournament last weekend at Langford Park after winning the final game 6-2 over Stuart National Bank. From the left are team manager of the Dolphins Discount, Tom Lathero, Frank Wacha, tourney chairman and from Stuart National Bank, the second place winners are Richard Moore and Dr. Dennis Rinaldi.

PICNIC—It was a picnic atmosphere as the hundreds of softball players waited for their games to come up in the annual Fireworks Tournament last weekend at Langford Park. In the foreground, the Stuart Nationals wait their turn in the double elimination tournament.

FIELDS—Little is said about the condition of the softball fields at Langford Park but Vince Bocchino took care of that during the tournament last weekend. Bocchino and his helpers worked to handle the many games on the three fields keeping the fields in great shape for play.

Cuba?

WASHINGTON—Cuba, the communist dagger poised closest to the United States.

Cuba, run by a bearded dictator who just 13 years ago came close to building a nuclear missile threat which could have wiped out about half the big cities in the U.S.

Cuba, a nation whose harsh and cruel treatment of its own citizens sent thousands fleeing to Florida for refuge.

Yet, despite all this, there are those who are calling for the resumption of diplomatic and trade relations with Cuba.

In fact, Senator George McGovern who just returned from a visit to Castro's Cuba, thinks we ought to exchange basketball teams as a preliminary to trade talks.

Ridiculous, utterly ridiculous.

I can see nothing which would be gained from our recognizing Castro's Cuba now.

And, it it's not to our benefit, why should we do it?

The time is long overdue for a critical look at our foreign policy – particularly as it applies to relationships with nations which are not to our benefit.

In the case of communist Cuba, it would be particularly asinine to open up formal trade relations. It is currently costing the Soviet Union almost $1 million a day to prop up the Castro regime. Why should we engage in trade with Castro and ease the burden of the USSR?

There are those, both in and out of government, who feel the U.S. should have trade and diplomatic relations with every nation on earth. This may be true when it comes to major powers such as the Soviet Union or Communist China.

Both nations are too powerful to be ignored. And, in the case of both countries, some form of diplomatic exchange is better than running the risk of war.

But certainly, this argument doesn't hold true with Cuba. Castro's regime is not a major power. It is not even a significant power.

And, therefore, there is no good reason for recognizing Castro and giving that country prestige it doesn't merit.

There is another good reason for not resuming normal relations with Cuba – the $1.8 billion in American-owned businesses and properties expropriated by that Communist dictatorship shortly after Castro came to power.

I would hope our nation will continue its embargo against trade with Cuba despite any action the Organization of American States may take in the future.

At present the OAS has imposed sanction against Cuba, precluding normal trade relations. And, although some nations appear anxious to lift the sanctions, no defined steps in that direction have yet been taken.

However, even if the OAS should lift its sanctions, it will be up to the individual OAS member nations to decide whether to resume trade.

And I intend to take whatever steps possible to see to it that the United States decides against resumption of trade.

Let Cuba continue to be a millstone around the neck of the Soviet Union.

There is no good reason for us to do business with that nation.

Two New Ways To Earn Tax Free Interest and Pay Less Income Tax

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT (IRA)

If you are not an active participant in a retirement plan where you work you can now start your own pension plan ... an Individual Retirement Account (IRA).

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:

The Pension Reform Act of 1974 now allows wage earners who are not covered under any qualified retirement plan to set aside up to 15% of their annual earnings, not to exceed $1,500 per year. All deposits to your IRA will be tax deductible and the interest will accumulate income tax free.

While your funds are accumulating in your IRA we will pay interest compounded daily at our usual high rates.

When you reach retirement age ... any age you choose between 59½ and 70½ ... you may arrange to have your funds paid out to you in a lump sum or over a period of years. As you receive this money it will then become taxable as ordinary income.

BENEFIT PAYMENTS

A. Regular Retirement Benefits
At retirement age ... between 59½ and 70½ ... you may elect, by written notice, to withdraw your funds in one lump sum or to have them distributed to you over a period of years not to exceed your life expectancy.

B. Distributions made prior to age 59½.
Benefit payments can be made prior to age 59½ for death or disability without incurring adverse tax penalties. However, if you voluntarily withdraw your funds prior to age 59½ the distribution will be included as ordinary income for the year of receipt and a Federal tax penalty equal to 10% of the amount received will be imposed.

ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

Wage earners who are not already covered by Keogh Plans, Corporate Retirement Plans, Government Plans and Tax Sheltered Annuities may establish an IRA.

Also, the following persons are eligible: a spouse working part time or full time; students with part time jobs; self employed individuals who do not wish to establish a Keogh Plan.

TAX ADVANTAGES

A. Pre retirement Years (accumulation period)
During this period of time, you are allowed to take a tax deduction for the full amount of your deposit. You are entitled to this deduction even if you don't itemize your deductions. Also the interest earned by your IRA will accumulate income tax free until distributed.

B. Retirement Years (distribution period)
When you reach retirement age ... any age you select between 59½ and 70½ ... the proceeds from IRA are fully taxable as ordinary income when distributed. But the effect of this tax will be lessened by your lower tax bracket after retirement and your qualifying for a double tax exemption at age 65.

IF YOU SET ASIDE $1,500.00 A YEAR YOU COULD EXPECT:

AFTER	NORMAL SAVINGS	IRA
5 years	$ 6,908.12	$ 8,175.00
10 years	13,925.97	19,950.00
20 years	34,325.05	52,500.00
30 years	63,85.01	107,100.00

ALL FIGURES ARE BASED ON A 5% RETURN AND ASSUMES 25% TAX BRACKET. HIGHER RATES ARE AVAILABLE DEPENDING UPON TERMS.

HR-10 PLAN FOR SELF-EMPLOYED

The Pension Reform Act of 1974 contains important new provisions for self-employed persons to set up tax sheltered retirement funds. We at First National have all the information available on retirement planning for the self-employed and invite you to come in for a consultation or exploration.

SETTING UP THE PLAN

If you are self-employed (a sole proprietor, an unincorporated business or doctor, lawyer, accountant or other professional person), you may set up a retirement plan. Any combination of contributions may be made.

You may set up your plan at First National with some funds earmarked in a special savings certificate. A deposit can be made each year, contributing up to $7,500.00 each year or 100% of your income, whichever is less. If you desire to contribute more than $7,500.00 you are subject to the limit of $7,500.00 or 15% of earned income, whichever is less.

TAX BENEFITS

During your pre-retirement years you are allowed to take a tax deduction for the full amount of your deposits. All interest will accumulate tax free until distributed. When you reach retirement age ... the age you select between 59½ and 70½ ... the proceeds are fully taxable as ordinary income when distributed. But the effect of this tax will be lessened by your lower tax bracket after retirement and your qualifying for a double tax exemption at age 65. Check the comparative chart below to see the advantages of a tax sheltered plan vs. a non-sheltered plan.

EMPLOYEES ARE INCLUDED

You must include your full time employees in your plan who have worked for you for three or more years. Contributions to the plan for you and your employees must be at the same percentage rate as there cannot be any discrimination under this law.

PENSION OR PROFIT SHARING PLAN

You may establish either type plan depending on your individual needs.

PENALTY FOR PREMATURE DISTRIBUTION

A premature distribution occurs when you withdraw money before age 59½ ... except in case of death or disability. The government will impose a 10% excise tax in addition to regular income tax.

IF YOU SET ASIDE $1,500.00 A YEAR YOU COULD EXPECT:

AFTER	NORMAL SAVINGS	HR-10
5 years	$ 6,908.12	$ 8,175.00
10 years	$ 13,925.97	$ 19,950.00
20 years	$ 34,325.05	$ 52,500.00
30 years	$ 63,85.01	$ 107,100.00

ALL FIGURES ARE BASED ON A 5% RETURN AND ASSUMES 50% TAX BRACKET. HIGHER RATES ARE AVAILABLE DEPENDING UPON TERMS.

Courtesy boat inspections begin here Sunday, June 29

JENSEN BEACH—National Safe Boating Week, the annual drive to make recreational boating a safer pastime, opens Sunday, June 30 and continues through Saturday, July 5. Theme of this year's observance — proclaimed annually by the President — is "Safe Boating is No Accident."

The St. Lucie River Power Squadron and U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 58 have teamed up in the most extensive program of free courtesy motor boat examinations ever undertaken here. Qualified examiners of the Coast Guard Auxiliary, assisted by Power Squadron members, will conduct free boat-safety checks at ten locations.

The inspection sites and schedule of free examinations is as follows:

June 29-30, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Salifish Marina at Manatee Pocket;

June 29-30, 9 to 11 a.m., Lord Chumley's Floating Dock and Parking Area — trailer boat inspections here also;

June 29-30, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Stuart Municipal Pier;

July 1, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Bailey Boat Company, Jensen Beach;

July 1, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., St. Lucie Marine, Stuart;

July 3, 9 a.m. to noon, Anchorage Marina, Rio;

July 3, 1 to 4 p.m., Pirate's Cove Marina, Port Salerno;

July 3, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Stuart Marine Center;

July 3, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Martin Marine Center, Stuart;

July 3, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Casa Rio Boat and Motor Sales, Rio.

Each boat brought in will be checked by the examiners to determine whether it meets the recommended conditions and equipment standards of the Coast Guard Auxiliary. Those that qualify will be awarded "Safe Boat" decals, a valued label that marks the craft as a properly equipped vessel, and identifies its owner as a safe boating exponent.

Display of the decal is a service to enforcement agencies as well as to the boatman who believes in keeping within the law. The decal is renewable at annual re-examinations.

Boatmen who hesitate to apply for the courtesy inspection in fear that faulty or inadequate equipment may invoke penalties, need have no concern. The examinations are handled on a confidential basis. No records of findings are retained by inspectors.

Although the "Safe Boat" decal cannot be awarded to a craft that fails to pass muster, the skipper will be given an opportunity to correct any flaws or deficiencies found in the first examination, then re-apply. Every boat owner has a chance to earn and display the decal.

Those wishing to take advantage of the free inspections are advised to make sure that their boats have on board the various safety devices and equipment specified by Coast Guard Auxiliary regulations. This will prevent difficulty and facilitate procedures. A list of such items is available at various marinas.

The urgent need for wider appreciation of safe equipment and skillful boat handling is clearly indicated by Coast Guard studies which show a rate of 16.9 fatalities per 100,000 recreational boats in 1974.

The study lists 1,446 persons as having lost their lives in boating accidents last year, with 5,104 boating accidents involving 6,648 vessels. Resulting from these accidents were injuries to 983 persons and $9,181,000 worth of property damage.

Ten safety rules stressed during National Safe Boating Week are: 1 Know your boat 2 Don't overload 3 Keep a good lookout 4 Operate at safe speeds 5 Respect the weather 6 Take sufficient fuel 7 Keep your boat in shape 8 Carry necessary equipment 9 Secure your boat properly 10 Obey the law.

Robert E. Baer, commander of the Power Squadron, and Charles L. Koch, Flotilla 58 commander, head the Safe Boat project.

BOAT INSPECTION—National Safe Boating Week will get underway June 29. Boat inspections will take place locally. Shown above with some of the safety features required in the inspection are Frank Robertson, general manager of Casa Rio Boat and Motor Sales, Rio, and Glenn A. Riegle, vessel examination officer.

Stetsons, boots and saddles are cowboy gear at River Ranch

PULL–Craig Newman, a Port Charlotte businessman, has been shooting skeet for two years, and comes regularly to River Ranch to practice. At left, ranger Gordon Irwin answers the call for clay birds as Newman shoots.

BY DICK CAMPBELL

RIVER RANCH, FLORIDA–Only two hours west of Jensen Beach, cowboys ride their horses as a way to work, wear Stetson hats, jeans and boots, and the only dudes are those who come to visit.

It is another side of Florida that few see, and it is the old west revisited, a mixture of cowboys and cowgirls doing their thing to the enjoyment of hundreds of people who are both residents and visitors.

It is River Ranch, a complete resort on the Kissimmee River not too near Lake Wales, on a lonesome stretch of State Road 60, 58 miles west of Vero Beach.

The ride to River Ranch is through the cowboy country of Florida–vast acreage of pastureland and palmetto scrub with dark islands of tall pines. Dairy cows and beef cattle wander aimlessly through the fields, as snow white cattle egret stand on the backs of their guardians or upton along beside their friends.

River Ranch itself is a recreation complex that defies the imagination.

Rustic buildings in a rustic setting blend a rodeo arena with an old time saloon, ranch trading post, motel, restaurant, tennis courts, convention hall, swimming pool, ice cream store, skeet range, camping area and marina.

The cowboy influence is ever present. On Saturday nights there is a rodeo with cowboys and cowgirls participating in the calf roping, bronc riding, bull riding, barrel races and other events, using stock that is of championship caliber.

Prior to the rodeo there is a barbeque cookout with Florida beef the specialty.

The mood is not pretentious with the only coats seen worn over cowboy shirts, generally of leather or denim. All wear cowboy hats eating, drinking, walking, running or riding, and the bare-headed stranger is usually a tourist.

The people are cowboy, they think and talk with the soft twang of the west or of the mountains or of the south.

The live piece band in the saloon blares out the sad and humorous songs of country western flavor and the favorite dance is the Okeechobee Stomp, when the floor shakes with the stomp of leather boots.

It is an impressive show that should be seen by every visitor and native Floridian.

Trail rides seem most incongruous as they pass tennis courts near a modern marina just off the river.

It is not an expensive resort and hotel prices in the restaurant are reasonable. The food itself is hearty, and if country cooking can be called gourmet this is the place for it.

There is a campground for recreation vehicles and the ranch is the site of the Florida Jaycees Muscular Dystrophy summer camps.

During the summer, the ranch restricts its activities to the weekends, when the cowboys come off the ranches to the entertainment of the clubhouse and saloon, offering color that is unmatched in diversity.

With a motel rate of $24 per day for two and a camper hookup of five dollars per day, the rates are reasonable and a weekend within reach of any family looking for the different part of Florida for a change.

To get there drive west on SR 80 from Vero Beach or fly in a plane to the small airport there or boat up the Kissimmee River through five locks and 34 miles north of Lake Okeechobee.

And getting there is just one part of the fun.

'Small world' at academy

Hoaers-in-the-Hills, Hoaers Academy's nineteenth annual summer session has a "small world" atmosphere where students from five foreign countries, ten states and 45 Florida cities are happily trading a summer of idleness for one of academic profit and recreational adventure.

The program began June 14 and ends August 1 but applications will continue to be accepted for summer campers enrolling for minimum two week recreation periods.

Boys and girls in grades 4-12 are attending the summer program either for individualized classroom instruction for the special recreational activities like horsemanship and water skiing or to combine both study and fun.

According to the admissions department, the number of day students has doubled over last summer due to a lack of public school academic programs.

Fairburn address Orchid Society

STUART–Dr. David C. Fairburn, orchid expert from McKee Jungle Gardens, will address the Martin County Orchid Society this Thursday, June 26, 8 p.m. at the Agricultural Center.

His topic will be the 8th World Orchid Conference held in Frankfurt, Germany recently.

Visitors are welcome.

Shots required for kids

STUART–Two things must be taken care of by parents before their child can enter school for the first time. They are immunizations and a certified copy of the birth certificate.

Dr. McCallister, director of the Martin County Health Department stated: "Now is the time to complete the immunizations for your children who will be entering Martin County schools in the fall.

We know from our recent survey of two-year-old children in the State of Florida that most two-year-olds have started their immunizations, but many, unfortunately, have not completed the series and therefore are not fully protected."

The diseases for which a child can be protected by immunization are diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, measles, rubella and polio. It is also recommended that the mumps vaccine be included as a routine immunization.

Dr. McCallister recommends that parents contact their private physicians as soon as possible or bring their children to the Health Department for appropriate immunizations and legal documentation. He also recommends that all younger brothers and sisters of the children entering school this fall also be given the benefit of immunizations to prevent unnecessary disease.

Mrs. Barbara Bitzkowski, Nursing Director, said, "It is also necessary that the child entering kindergarten or first grade for the first time have legal proof of age. If born in Martin County a copy of the birth certificate may be obtained at the Health Department.

"If you need information for other counties or states you can call 287-2277 and we will be glad to give addresses to parents. I urgently suggest doing this now to prevent the last minute rush."

Big parade to highlight July 4

PORT ST. LUCIE–It isn't often you have a chance to be your own thing, but Art Cimino, chairman of the July Fourth Parade is giving every individual that opportunity.

In extending the invitation for all to take part in the parade, Cimino suggests you ride a horse, paddle a canoe, enter a float, or simply be your own thing, but be a part of it real fun day by joining in.

Kids with bikes decorate their bikes and ride in the parade will receive a prize.

We will have some new units appearing for the first time this year. Clinton sand riding the Port St. Lucie Chowder and Cycling Society, an informal group planning a real Happy Birthday, U.S.A. as an example.

The parade will start at 10:30 a.m. at the Marina and proceed west on Prima Vista to the Sportsman's Park area.

Across the street, LCSA will serve barbecued ribs to those who have tickets. Hot dogs and cold drinks will be available also.

For more information call Cimino at 287-8681 or 878-9644.

The tree trimming and fertilizing has started. And what an improvement. Most owners are having their trees done. The rec area and entrance are completed, and they look so neat. I am sure the owners who haven't joined the majority will be sorry. So, don't be left out.

Another week and a half and the big day will be here for the Fourth of July Bicentennial parade in Jensen. The float is coming along marvelously, the dresses are about ready, and what pretty colors. More people are coming in with help and suggestions. The enthusiasm is growing. Last I heard there will be 30 entries in the parade.

Holiday Outlines

Si and Dot Haberle left the park Saturday after a five day visit. All of their friends enjoyed seeing them, only a "too short visit" was the complaint.

* * *

Fact is often stranger than fiction - as this will prove.

John Smaniotta enjoyed the visit of his sister Mary. She stayed on lot 324. After returning home, Mary wrote she had lost her diamond necklace somewhere. Palma had vacuumed the Walters trailer prior to Mary's visit and went back to clean up after the visit but no necklace. On second thought Palma emptied the dust bag, finding the necklace to her amazement.

Bert Turner, one of our directors, writes he has gone back for the summer as resident engineer for the U.S. Army at Frenchboro, Maine. His Airstream is doubling as home and field office as Frenchboro is located on a small island 10 miles out in the Atlantic. The population is 23. All have fishing boats. There are no telephones, communications by radio. No stores, theaters, gas pumps, restaurants, but there is a mile and a half of paved road around the harbor area. The one church closes in the summer. A ferry bound for another island stops at Frenchboro twice a week in the summer. Mail is delivered by fishing boat and they do have a post office in a house. Frenchboro is off the southern tip of Mt. Desert, Acadia National Park.

* * *

The Harmon Fauretts, Mac O'Donnells and Mac McCabes attended the Jensen Beach bicentennial dinner held at the Stuart Elks Club Friday night. The Holiday Gutters enjoyed the evening very much, and Jean McCabe won one of the door prizes.

* * *

Diane and Doug LaRock and Viola and Bill Garrow, all of Ottawa, Canada, have purchased lot 183 from Jean and Rene Beauchamp, also of Ottawa. Diane spend a two week holiday in the park with Monique Robbins, daughter of the Beauchamps, and loved it so much here that she convinced her husband and her parents to buy here, sight unseen. The Beauchamps winter on lot 268.

* * *

A card from the Bing Crosbys, who are in Brandon, Canada tells of the rainy cool weather, wishing for some of our warm sunshine. They hope to be here for sometime as the International Rally for Airstreamers is there.

* * *

Dick and Dot Clark are enjoying a Bermuda holiday on board S.S. Statendam. They embarked at New York City for a one and a half day sail to Bermuda, four days in Bermuda on the ship, and return - a most delightful way to see Bermuda, they say. They also tell of the lovely blossoms due to a prolonged wet spring in New York.

* * *

Ruth and Earl Bowes of lot 11 had a most delightful surprise visit of dear friends from Michigan days. Barbara Lombardo, daughters Sally and Sandy, son Mark, and Sally's friend, Katie Panagaus. Really, the day was too short.

* * *

Happy birthday wishes to: Helen Kay June 26, Eddie Kay June 28, Ruth Hoskins June 29, Orville Blood July 1, and Erling Johnson July 2.

THE MIRROR JUNE 25, 1976 PAGE 3B

Fisher presents annual communications update

BY DICK CAMPBELL

PORT ST. LUCIE–In a wide-ranging, hour-long report to the people of Port St. Lucie, Louis Fisher, president of General Development Corporation, presented the corporation's view of the present and future and answered questions of residents Tuesday during the city council meeting.

Fisher looked with "cautious optimism" to the economic future of GDC, saying the "difficult economy" offered a "challenge in 1975" that brought the company to see a low capital and low risk policy in diversification.

Accompanied by a group of advisors, including Ed Cortese, vice-president of communications; Ken Knight, director of corporate communications; C.C. Crump, senior vice president of homesite development; and Bob Seeley, general manager of Port St. Lucie, Fisher said that problems will be solved by all areas of participation by the city council, homeowner groups and the company.

"There are no problems that are going to solved by any one group. The ultimate development of the community will be due to common pursuit of all groups," Fisher noted.

"If we put our personal interests aside there is nothing we can't do," he said.

Fisher reiterated four basic points he had made one year ago in his first few weeks as president of GDC, that GDC has a responsibility to customers, to give them what they pay for, to employees, to offer a proper environment to find satisfaction in work and achieve personal goals, to shareholders, by offering prudent management, and to social responsibilities that recognize that GDC must help to make the community a better place to live.

"The corporation that works toward maximization of profits is short-lived today," he said.

Moving to commercial and industrial development, Fisher said that GDC would work to gain industry so that jobs would be created to broaden the base of employment in Port St. Lucie.

He added that the company had worked for six months on a master plan of commercial development, including a corporate five year plan of development that includes six areas of diversification and abandonment of expansion out of Florida.

There are adequate opportunities for expansion in Florida, Fisher said, adding, "and we are staying in Florida."

Fisher opened the floor to discussion and found many areas of local interest in GDC projects.

In answer to a question by William McChesney, councilman, Fisher said that the decision to begin completion of the last nine holes of the wilderness golf course would be made in a few weeks, saying that work had been held up by permits for a bridge. He did emphasize that the course would be completed in 1976, either in January or in the latter part of the year, depending upon the timetable to proceed.

Crump said that the environmental reports for Mid-Port would be completed this year, but didn't look for action by governmental groups during the year on the project. He called the report a "book three feet tall."

He found support from the residents in reaffirming the company's decision to follow the "green belt type of layout," adding that it would be a part of the planning of all future developments.

"Our housing is being upgraded, and we will have a complete new line," Crump said.

Councilman Larry Kimmel commented on the "operation catch-up" being conducted by Fisher and asked for consideration of removal of a mound near the new turnpike interchange and the proper screening of commercial buildings.

"You can help by bringing these things to my attention," Fisher commented. "I have an idea you'll see something happening."

Complaints of some residents about homes being built in the Mid Port area, and the lack of landscaping, brought a promise that landscaping would be build in future home plans of GDC.

Vern Farrar, president of the PSL Homeowners Association, said that the prices at Sandpiper Bay were too high, adding that the restaurants was not being used by local people due to prices. He also asked that there be more activities for youth.

Fisher said that the prices would be looked at, and that the company recognized that there was a lack of recreational activities for youth and promised to get with you to see what can be done to accumulate the young people.

Told that there was a rumor circulating that GDC was getting out of the housing business, Fisher said that production was down because of the market, but that housing in the long term is a major part of business. "We don't have to chase the market, but we are going up in the shelter business."

Al Bowman, president of the PSL River Park Homeowners Association, sought an answer to enforcement of deed restrictions in the unincorporated area of Port St. Lucie. Fisher told him that a committee had been set up to deal with enforcement, and Seeley said that if letters to offending property owners did not work, legal redress against owners would be taken.

Both pointed out that any action would have to be cooperative with the city or county.

Asked about the possibility of a bowling alley being constructed in Port St. Lucie, Fisher said that GDC had built one at Port Charlotte and one at Port Malabar, and was presently trying to sell both to private interests.

"We might look at the same thing for Port St. Lucie," he said.

TOP BRASS–A full compliment of GDC's top brass was on hand Tuesday morning for the regular meeting of the Port St. Lucie City Council. Louis E. Fischer, president and chief executive officer of GDC, gave an annual report on the accomplishments and future plans of the developing firm. Others attending the meeting from GDC's Miami base were pictured above left to right, Ken Knight, director of corporate communications; C.C. Crump, Sr. vice-president of homesite development; Robert Seeley, general manager of Port St. Lucie; Cy Hornsby, vice president and treasurer of GDC; seated and partially hidden by Seeley is Edward Cortese, vice president of corporate communications.

Court orders $7,600 to be returned to city

PORT ST. LUCIE–According to the ruling handed down by Circuit Court Judge James Alderman last week, severance pay and salaries for second position held by councilmen will have to be returned to the City's till.

The court ruled former Councilman Franklin Beardsley, who held a second position as Head of General Government now owes the city $1,800, while former mayor and Councilman Larry Kimmel, who served as city engineer, will have to return approximately $4,000.

Former Councilman Dr. Harold Nottley, who retired before his term was completed, was also ordered to return $1,800 in severance pay to the city.

Judge Alderman termed the severance pay ordinance unreasonable, noting that Dr. Nottley drew more in severance pay than he would have drawn in salary – $1,200 of he had served his full term in office.

Aside from that, the defendants were ordered to pay all court costs in the suit which was filed several months ago by the Interested Homeowners of Port St. Lucie, Inc.

Mrs. Grace Kavanaugh, widow of former Mayor Eugene P. Kavanaugh, will be able to keep the $15,000 pension she received and can also claim the unpaid balance.

According to Judge Alderman Kavanaugh at the time of his death had fulfilled all requirements of the pension plan and was entitled to receive the benefits.

To let Kimmel and Beardsley keep the money they received as second position salaries would be a bad example to set for other politicians.

The Judge noted that both Councilmen Kimmel and Beardsley were unlawfully appointed and, therefore, can not retain the fruits of the unlawful employment with the city.

Public officials should not be allowed to benefit from their wrong doing, Alderman was quoted as saying.

The only defendant to comment on the ruling was Councilman Larry Kimmel, who said he was shocked by the decision.

"I am sorry it turned out this way," he said adding, "I am amazed the people could accept my services without criticism, then say I must pay the money back."

Former Councilmen Frank Beardsley and Dr. Harold Nottley were not available for comment.

Support urged

Public hearing on Hospital is June 26

PORT ST. LUCIE–Although the Area Health Planning Council (HPC) turned down the application for a certificate of need requested by the Port St. Lucie Community Hospital, Inc. last Wednesday, board members and officers of the proposed $8.5 million facility planned for the Midport section of the city will submit their request to the Regional HPC Thursday, June 26.

The Regional HPS, the parent organization of the local committee, will conduct a public hearing at the Holiday Inn, located immediately west of PGA Blvd. and I-95 intersection in Palm Beach Gardens. Meeting time will be 7 p.m.

Proponents of the Port St. Lucie Hospital are urged to make their support evident by attending the public hearing, the second phase in trying to acquire the vital certificate of need.

By an 8-1 vote the Area HPC turned thumbs down on recommending a certificate of need for the local hospital.

A certificate of need is a prerequisite for a hospital to be constructed in the State of Florida.

Following the public hearing, the HPC will forward its recommendations to the state. It is generally considered that neither the Palm Beach HPC nor the state will reverse the original recommendation made by the local committee.

Factors noted by the local HPC for their recommendation to disapprove the certificate of need included an overlapping of service with Stuart's Martin Memorial Hospital, which might possibly adversely affect the utilization of that hospital and cause an increase in health care costs in that county; the PSL hospital not being economically feasible at this time; and the fact the center would not include either pediatric or obstetrical services.

Dr. William H. Meyer, president of the local proposed hospital corporation, termed the disapproval list as being "totally unjustified" and "unbelievable."

According to the certificate of need application, the new hospital's primary service area would cover an eight mile radius of the facility. This area would encompass the Southeastern section of St. Lucie County and a small northeastern portion of Martin County including Jensen Beach, Ocean Breeze Park, Rio and Sewall's Point.

The local HPC has approved a certificate of need for the Hospital Corporation of America for the construction of a 265 bed hospital to located just north of the Lawnwood Recreation Complex in southwest Fort Pierce. The new for-profit hospital will replace the Fort Pierce Memorial facility.

The Port St. Lucie Community Hospital group plans a general care facility which would be a non-profit institution. Tax exempt bonds would have been used for financing the facility.

Plans were unveiled less than two weeks ago for the proposed Port St. Lucie Hospital, slated for construction on the east side of U.S. 1 at Morningside Blvd. in the Midport section of the city.

Demo Club receives charter

PORT ST. LUCIE–The South St. Lucie County Democratic Club has received the Charter from Tallahassee, according to an announcement made by Larry Johnston, club president.

There were 68 in attendance when the group held their second regular meeting at the North Port Marina last Wednesday evening.

At that time, chairpeople for all the various committees were nominated and elected.

All persons interested in the betterment of government, both local and national, are welcome to attend the meetings held on the third Wednesday of each month at the North Port Marina.

Meeting time is 8 p.m.

PROUD PRESIDENT–Bill Strout was one proud president as he accepted a certificate of appreciation on behalf of the Port St. Lucie Lions Club during the first annual installation banquet held last Tuesday, June 17. The certificate was awarded by the Florida Lions Eye Bank to the local club in recognition of the club's participation in the Eye Pledge program. The PSL Lions were one of five clubs throughout the state to fulfill the goal of obtaining an average of two eye pledge cards per member. The local club reported an average of 2.1 pledges per member. Strout, pictured above, gave much of the credit to Lion Stanley Borgman for his diligent work on the program.

Mrs. Brunton named Mirror correspondent

PORT ST. LUCIE–Mrs. Robert Brunton of 874 Solaz Avenue has been named correspondent for the Port St. Lucie Mirror, according to an announcement released Monday by Editor Richard E. "Dick" Campbell.

As correspondent, Mrs. Brunton will head a column of personal items relative to the residents of this south county community, their activities and interests.

As a convenience to the people of Port St. Lucie, Mrs. Brunton will accept news items by phone, 878-0904, or they may be placed in the Mirror drop box at the North Port Marina.

"I believe that is something the residents of the community would enjoy reading and I feel certain of their cooperation in furnishing such items," Mrs. Brunton said.

Although the Bruntons moved to Port St. Lucie from Chicago, Ill., three years ago, they had been vacationing in the area since 1968.

Both have taken an active roll in the community and are members of the Anglers Club, CESA volunteers, Yacht Club and All States Club.

Mrs. Brunton also serves as secretary for the Anglers Club and shares her hobbies of fishing and boating with her husband.

The Bruntons have two sons, Robert and Richard, both of Chicago.

Courtesy boat inspections begin here Sunday, June 29

JENSEN BEACH--National Safe Boating Week, the annual drive to make recreational boating a safer pastime, opens Sunday, June 29 and continues through Saturday, July 5. Theme of this year's observance -- proclaimed annually by the President -- is "Safe Boating Is No Accident."

The St. Lucie River Power Squadron and U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 58 have teamed up in the most extensive program of free courtesy motor boat examinations ever undertaken here. Qualified examiners of the Coast Guard Auxiliary, assisted by Power Squadron members, will conduct free boat-safety checks at ten locations.

The inspection sites and schedule of free examinations is as follows:

June 28-29, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Sailfish Marina at Manatee Pocket.

June 29-30, 9 to 11 a.m., Lord Chumley's Floating Dock and Parking Area (trailer boat inspections here also).

June 29-30, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Stuart Municipal Pier.

July 1, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Bailey Boat Company, Jensen Beach.

July 1, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., St. Lucie Marine, Stuart.

July 2, 8 a.m. to noon, Anchorage Marina, Rio.

July 3, 1 to 4 p.m., Pirate's Cove Marina, Port Salerno.

July 3, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Stuart Marine Center.

July 3, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Martin Marine Center, Stuart.

July 3, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Casa Rio Boat and Motor Sales, Rio.

Each boat brought in will be checked by the examiners to determine whether it meets the recommended conditions and equipment standards of the Coast Guard Auxiliary. Those that qualify will be awarded "Safe Boat" decals, a valued label that marks the craft as a properly equipped vessel, and identifies its owner as a safe boating exponent.

Display of the decal is a service to enforcement agencies as well as to the boatman who believes in keeping within the law. The decal is renewable at annual re-examinations.

Boatmen who hesitate to apply for the courtesy inspection in fear that faulty or inadequate equipment may invoke penalties, need have no concern. The examinations are handled on a confidential basis. No records of findings are retained by inspectors.

Although the "Safe Boat" decal cannot be awarded to a craft that fails to pass muster, the skipper will be given an opportunity to correct any flaws or deficiencies found in the first examination, then re-apply. Every boat owner has a chance to earn and display the decal.

Those wishing to take advantage of the free inspections are advised to make sure that their boats have on board the various safety devices and equipment specified by Coast Guard Auxiliary regulations. This will prevent difficulty and facilitate procedures. A list of such items is available at various marinas.

The urgent need for wider appreciation of safe equipment and skillful boat handling is clearly indicated by Coast Guard studies which show a rate of 16.9 fatalities per 100,000 recreational boats up to 1974.

The study lists 1,446 persons as having lost their lives in boating accidents last year, with 5,106 boating accidents involving 6,648 vessels. Resulting from these accidents were injuries to 980 persons and $9,181,000 worth of property damage.

Ten safety rules stressed during National Safe Boating Week are: 1 Know your boat 2 Don't overload 3 Keep a good lookout 4 Operate at safe speeds 5 Respect the weather 6 Take sufficient fuel 7 Keep your boat in shape 8 Carry necessary equipment 9 Secure your boat properly 10 Obey the law.

Robert E. Baer, commander of the Power Squadron, and Charles L. Koch, Flotilla 58 commander, head the Safe Boat project.

BOAT INSPECTION--National Safe Boating Week will get underway June 29. Boat inspections will take place locally. Shown above with some of the safety features required in the inspection are Frank Robertson, general manager of Casa Rio Boat and Motor Sales, Rio, and Glenn A. Riegle, vessel examination officer.

JENSEN BEACH–Independence Day observation in Jensen Beach will feature a parade with floats, marching units and children–lots and lots of children on bikes and in costumes.

And the Causeway festivities following the parade will kick-off the Bicentennial Celebration in the area.

Parade Chairman Andrea Webb said the Friday, 10 a.m. parade will have "more than 100 children in costumes and on bikes, and more than 35 other units."

Staging area for the first annual Jensen Beach parade will be on Ricou Road behind Jensen Beach Bank.

"We would like for all parade units and participants in the area no later than 9 a.m.," Mrs. Webb said.

Mrs. Webb said that the parade will be led by Martin County Sheriff Department's patrol cars and Stuart Police Department patrol cars, followed by Jensen Beach and Rio volunteer fire departments.

After the ambulance unit and Optimist Club banner, "Uncle Sam," the grand marshal will follow, and Barracks 864 float will follow and then Spanish American War veteran Capt. Francis Adams will follow.

There will be music from a special band, drum and bugle organization, a "tin lizzy unit," and many floats from volunteer organizations.

The parade will move from Ricou along Palmetto Avenue and east on Commercial Street and then proceed north on Indian River Drive to the Causeway where it will disband.

Mrs. Webb said trophies will be awarded in several categories including:

Grand prize float, sponsored by Jensen Beach Bank, second place float, sponsored by Community Federal Savings and Loan, and Community Federal will sponsor the third place float trophy also.

First place marching unit trophy is sponsored by First Federal Savings and Loan, and second place marching unit trophy is sponsored by First National Bank and Trust Co.

First place business entry trophy is sponsored by Stuart National Bank, and Port Salerno National Bank sponsors the most patriotic entry, and Hobe Sound National Bank sponsors first place parade horse trophy.

Jensen Beach Optimist Auxiliary sponsors trophies for the first three places in bike entries, and first three places in costume entries.

Trophies will be awarded on the Causeway, Mrs. Webb said.

On the Causeway during the day, footraces, watermelon eating contests, will be held, and civic and service groups will offer hot dogs and hamburgers.

Flag raising ceremonies at noon will get the Causeway festivities under way, and the fantastic fireworks display at dark under the direction of Bill Yurillo, will conclude the day-long events.

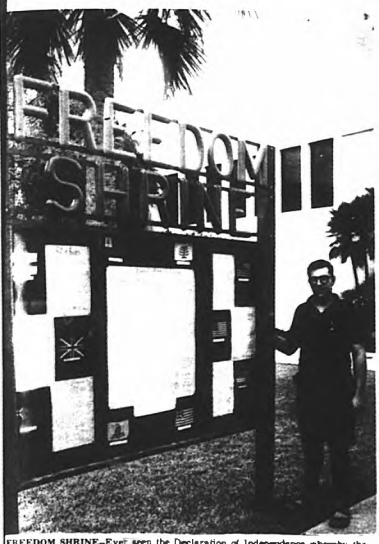
Donations for fireworks asked

JENSEN BEACH–Area residents who will enjoy the annual Fourth of July fireworks display at dark on Jensen Beach Causeway will have an opportunity to support the "fireworks fund."

"We will have two boats along the Causeway during the July 4 festivities collecting contributions from the boats that pull in for the fireworks."

"We also will be selling Bicentennial decals for $1, with 50 cents going to the fireworks fund and 50 cents to the Bicentennial Celebration Committee," said John Heyburn of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber is seeking to raise $3,000 for the fireworks fund, and Fred Stein, chairman of the fireworks committee, said his group has about $2,200 in donations.



FREEDOM SHRINE–Ever seen the Declaration of Independence whereby the Continental Congress stated on July 4, 1776 that American colonies were "Free and Independent States"? A reproduction of that important document may be viewed in the Freedom Shrine which graces the lawn in front of the First Federal building on Commercial Street. Along with the Declaration are the first seven articles of the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address and the Star Spangled Banner. Jensen Beach's Bicentennial Committee gathered the materials and Jack Klett of the Snook Nook, pictured above, put them all together and built the shrine. Included in the display are St. George's Cross, the first English flag raised in North America, Betsy Ross' flag, Old Glory, which inspired our national anthem, as well as other banners. Take a couple of minutes to visit the Freedom Shrine . . . it is awe-inspiring.

Rocks, sand for island slated

JENSEN BEACH–Rebuilding eroded Hutchinson Island with sand and boulders is the cure, Department of Natural Resources (DNR) officials said.

DNR officials told Martin County commissioners last Friday that while sand is the best long-term solution, a rock revetment may be the only way to save condominium apartments.

Bill Carlton, chief of the Florida Bureau of Beaches and Shores, said a rock revetment may be the only way to save Little Ocean Club and Little Ocean Place.

Both condominium apartments are threatened by the worsening erosion problem. The two condominium apartments have obtained a state permit to use boulders for erosion protection, but county commissioners are concerned that the rock pile is the answer.

Carlton said that a wall of boulders on the beach would be an effective, if temporary way, to deal with worsening erosion.

Beach restoration, with quantities of sand added to the entire shoreline, is the "final answer," Carlton said.

A new study of oceanfront dune protection in the county will begin in a few weeks by researchers from the University of Florida, according to Carlton.

The study will be made under a $47,500 contract with the State Bureau of Beaches and Shores.

The study will determine whether the county and state should widen the area of the oceanfront dune protection.

State regulations ban construction or any disturbance of the dune on the seaward side of the setback line. The existing line is about 25 feet landward of the crest of the oceanfront dune.

Meanwhile, the commissioners may soon begin a five year federal-state program to rebuild the beaches. Carlton told the commissioners that the federal and state governments may bear about $3 million of the anticipated $4 million beach restoration project.

Church open on July 4

JENSEN BEACH–The Jensen Beach Christian Church, 13 Church St., will be offering a service to the community on the Fourth of July, Milton Fronsoe, minister, said.

The church will be open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., he said.

"We will have a patriotic song, a brief account of some events in history and a prayer," the minister said.

Minister Fronsoe said the service is part of the Bicentennial Celebration.

VOLUNTEER WORKERS–Red, white and blue buntings were placed on utility poles in the community last Sunday. Placing the colorful buntings on the poles were Carl Baker, right, and 12 year old son Nick, and Eugene Wood, on the ladder. Flags, buntings and decals are being distributed by the Bicentennial Celebration Committee throughout the community.

LEMON LANDED–Mary Killer of Jensen Beach is shown with a 163¼ pound lemon shark she caught last week while fishing in the surf at Park and Fish on Hutchinson Island.

County commission

Considers $1 million for building

JENSEN BEACH–Martin County Commission is moving ahead to spend $1,025,000 for purchase of a building to house the county's administrative offices.

Commissioners last week decided to draw up a contract for purchase of the three-story Executive Plaza office building across from the Stuart Post Office.

An additional $51,000 or more will have to be spent to finish the unfinished portions of the interior.

A public hearing will be held in about a month before the contract is signed, according to Commission Chairman Rosa Phillbrick.

County Tax Appraiser E.E. (Dutch) Schnurbusch said Monday that assessment on the 27,400 square-foot building was about $750,000.

"The assessment would be more in an open area," Schnurbusch said. "If the inside was finished the assessment might go to $900,000, but we would have to review the assessment."

Schnurbusch said he couldn't determine how much would be lost on the tax roll if the county occupied the building.

Commissioners rejected a proposal to purchase the four-story Stuart Plaza office building near the intersection of U.S. 1 and SR-76.

The four-story building with about 31,000 square feet of space was for sale for $938,000.

Commissioners point out that the Executive Plaza has a 1.8-acre site compared to 1.2 acres for Stuart Plaza, and has more parking space.

Commission Chairman Phillbrick said more office space was needed because the court load needs the courthouse space occupied now by administrative offices.

Commissioner Elmer Powers, chairman of the finance committee, proposed budgeting $247,650 a year for the next five years to pay the principal and interest on the $1 million purchase.

Financing would be accomplished through a lease-purchase arrangement that would be with a local financial institution.

The Executive Plaza building is about a year old.

Merchants support guessing game

JENSEN BEACH–Area merchants who are members of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce will offer $10 gift certificates to winners in a guessing game at the chamber booth on the Causeway July 4.

Chamber president Art Hansen said there "will be at least three $10 certificates and two $10 certificates."

"Individuals who come closest to guessing how many visitors came to the chamber between July 1, 1974 and July 1975, plus the number of chamber telephone calls during the same period will be declared winners," Hansen said.

Merchants in Jensen Beach and Rio are supporting this event," Hansen said. "People are urged to stop by the chamber booth during the July 4 festivities."

Hansen said the contest winners will be notified July 7.

Island building permits are halted

JENSEN BEACH–Until the water system on Hutchinson Island can be improved, Martin County Commission voted unanimously last week to impose a building moratorium.

No more building permits will be issued beyond the 1,009 housing units already approved for the island until water pressure is improved, probably by addition of a 750,000 gallon storage tank.

County engineer Ken Ferrari told commissioners that there is sufficient water for domestic use, but the system is inadequate for fire protection and that water pressure is too low at some points in the system.

Ferrari said that 54 per cent of the water pumped through the Southern Gulf Utilities system is sold in St. Lucie County and only 46 per cent in Martin County.

There are 1,009 dwellings already existing or under construction or conceptually approved for construction on the Martin segment of the island. The moratorium would not affect construction of single family homes on lots of record, but applies to multi-family residents.

In other commission action on the island, a revision of zoning was approved which would abolish hotel and motel zoning on the island.

Last week's vote corrects a technical error in the island zoning which was adopted several weeks ago. After the first zoning plan was adopted, officials found that they had failed to run legal advertisement of the rezoning plan.

Guessing age for money

JENSEN BEACH–Guessing the total age of 14 senior citizens on a bus in the July 4 parade could win a spectator $25.

Martin County Council on Aging will have 14 persons in a bus in the parade, and the person guessing the closest total age will win $25.

Entry forms will be passed out along the parade route for people to enter the guessing game.

Entry forms must be returned to the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce no later than Wednesday, July 9, and the winner will be notified Thursday, July 10.

Turtle watches big success

JENSEN BEACH–A second successful turtle watch was held last Saturday, June 28, on Jensen Beach public beaches, Al Tomaszewski said.

"We had another big crowd," Tomaszewski, chairman of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce Turtle Watch, said.

Turtles laying their eggs were spotted from the Holiday Inn north to Sheraton Inn in St. Lucie County.

"People were on the beaches until after midnight, and they were very cooperative," Tomaszewski said.

"Florida Marine Patrol and Martin County sheriff deputies did an outstanding job both Saturday night," he said.

"The officers of the two departments helped in making the two turtle watches a big success, and enabled hundreds of people to enjoy the event."

Auto tag decals ready

JENSEN BEACH–Renewal auto tag decals are now on sale at Martin County Tax Collector Alvin Andrews' office.

This year motorists are receiving decals instead of new tags. The decals are to be placed in the upper right corner of the old tags.

The decals, an inch and a half square, are green with the outline of the state and renewal number imprinted on them.

Birth date and street addresses also will be required with this year's tag renewals. Renewal prices range from $14 to $36.50.

No questions will be asked

RIO–The Walkie-Talkie radio, belonging to the Rio Volunteer Department, that strayed away last week at Cass Rio is of no use to anyone but the fire department.

It is strictly fire frequency and cannot be used for anything else.

No questions will be asked of a person who returns it. The radio may be turned in to the sheriff's department, the fire department, the Civil Defense, or the Jensen Beach Mirror office.

The Walkie-Talkie is an expensive piece of fire equipment and its return will be greatly appreciated.

STUART--New hours for the Animal Rescue League shelter has been announced.

Shelter manager Armin Elsaesser said the new hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday.

The new weekend hours should make it easier for working couples to visit the shelter, Elsaesser said.

Miles of "Ma Bell" lines

JENSEN BEACH--Southern Bell Telephone Company crews have been laying conduit lines along U.S. 1 North to Morningside Drive in Port St. Lucie for the past several weeks.

The job of placing 47,886 feet about two feet deep along the east side of U.S. 1 is expected to be completed this week, Glenn Sutton, manager of Southern Bell's Stuart office, said Monday.

Sutton said the conduit is a continuation of previous placed conduit from the company's central office in Stuart.

"There will be about nine miles of cable housed in the conduit," Sutton said. "The size cable that will be placed will be big enough to serve 1,800 customers in the areas of Jensen Beach, Port St. Lucie, Midport and the Port St. Lucie Industrial Park."

ANTIQUE CAR--Rick Carroll, of Jensen Beach, sits in his 1912 Mercer Raceabout, one of two antique cars he will display July 19 as part of the Martin County 50th anniversary. He also will display his 1925 Rolls Royce Springfield Silver Ghost Piccadilly Roadster at Monterey Shopping Plaza.

Nuclear site hearing recessed

JENSEN BEACH--Public hearings on Florida Power and Light Co.'s proposed second nuclear unit on Hutchinson Island have recessed until 9 a.m. July 14 in Fort Pierce.

Florida Power and Light must receive site approval from the Department of Pollution Control under the state's Power Plant Site Law, and Chris Bentley is conducting the hearings which opened two weeks ago at the Holiday Inn Oceanside in Fort Pierce.

Historical Society director given bicentennial award

JENSEN BEACH--An award to "Community Leaders and Noteworthy Americans" has been presented to Mrs. Janet Hutchinson, director of the Martin County Historical Society, by the editorial board of the American Biographical Institute. The honor signifies selection for inclusion in the Institute's Bicentennial Edition, 1975-76 "in recognition of past achievements and outstanding service to community and state."

As director of the Historical Society, Mrs. Hutchinson has responsible for having both of the society's museums--the Elliott Museum and the Gilbert's Bar House of Refuge designated Historic Memorials in the State of Florida. She has also had the 99-year-old House of Refuge--Martin County's leading landmark--listed on the National Register of Historic Places, thus making it eligible to receive matching funds for its restoration.

Mrs. Hutchinson is completing her tenth year as director of the society, which was organized in 1955 by public spirited local residents to preserve and protect the House of Refuge from vandals, neglect, and the elements.

Softball program to start

JENSEN BEACH--No longer will there be a lapse in summer sports at Langford Park. Junior softball will be added to the busy program, starting soon.

The Jensen Beach Optimists have taken the responsibility of trying to beef up the junior sports programs at Langford Park. Jensen Beach's growing sports and recreation center. In only one year, they have strengthened the baseball program, started a basketball program, and made plans for a track to be built. In brief, this addition is just another of the Optimist Club's marvelous ideas.

Registration for the program will be held tonight (Wednesday), and tommorrow night (Thursday), from 6-8 p.m. at the Langford Park Fieldhouse, according to publicity chairman Bob Moussou.

There will also be registration at the fieldhouse at 10 a.m. Saturday morning, and it will end at 2 p.m. that afternoon.

According to Moussou, "All boys and girls aged 10-18 in the Jensen Beach area will be eligible for the softball program.

Come down and sign up now."

Flood history survey planned

SEWALL's point--Residents of the Town of Sewall's Point have been requested by the Federal Flood Insurance Administration (FFIA) to help establish a storm history of the community to help conduct a flood plane survey.

FFIA insurance specialist Bob Cassell said the purpose of the survey is to establish actuarial rates for the flood insurance offered by the federal government.

Cassell and Jim Nelson from the Civil Engineering firm Tetra Tech of California, met with residents and officials of Sewall's Point and City of Stuart last Friday.

Since July 1974, insurance up to $35,000 has been available to those living in flood plane areas.

A federal law exists which requires the insurance be purchased for intended homes and buildings built in those areas before a loan can be issued from any banking institution operating under federal regulations.

When the latest survey is completed, within one and a half to two years additional insurance will be provided under rates set from results of the survey, according to Cassell.

The two men request the historical data in order to establish precise 50 and 100 year flood boundries for neighborhoods and find out how high water rose in past storms and hurricanes.

Because there are no actual meteorological records for the area, the survey will be based on old photographs, diaries, letters and memories of those who know of storms.

Tetra Tech, a company which specializes in oceanographic and hydrological research, will conduct the survey.

County birthday party planned

JENSEN BEACH--Martin County will celebrate its 50th birthday July 18-21, about two weeks in advance of the official anniversary date.

Attorney Bill Scott, head of the anniversary planning committee, said the date was moved up from August 5 to accomodate Gov. Reubin Askew's schedule.

But if Gov. Askew has since canceled his plans to visit, and Scott said it is too late to rearrange the celebration timetable.

The golden anniversary date falls on August 5.

Scott said the five-day celebration begins with a 5-8 p.m. barbecue Friday, July 18, at the county fairgrounds.

Tickets for the barbecue, sponsored by the volunteer firemen of Martin County are $2. There will be games and a band at the fairgrounds.

Scott said the next day children will be installing street decorations in competition with one another, and there will be a songfest and Dixieland band at the Monterey Shopping Center and at Stuart Lincoln-Mercury.

On Sunday, July 20, several local ministers will preach on the subject of "Old Time Religion" and Sunday afternoon there will be surfing exhibition and sailboat races.

Condominium, apartment recreation supervisors will hold dances on Monday with participants dressed in 1925 costumes, Scott said.

Persons in the Best costumes will be invited to attend Tuesday's County Commission meeting with two original commissioners--Warner Tilton, Sr. and Carroll Dunscombe in attendance.

ARCH SHRUBS--Mildred Greenland, left, and Anne Lartard of the Jensen Beach Garden Club planted shrubs around the Jensen Beach Arch Monday, June 30.

Nuclear hearings

The application for a second unit of the nuclear power plant on Hutchinson Island got under way recently. we are not quite sure where, but somewhere north of Ft. Pierce

The Florida Power and Light Company nuclear power plant on Hutchinson Island is south of Ft. Pierce in St. Lucie County. It is seven miles north of Jensen Beach across from Walton.

The people of Jensen Beach didn't know anything about the hearings on the plant that is next door to them. nor did they get notified of the hearings in The Mirror.

The people of Jensen Beach might have heard of the hearing if they had read of it in several area newspapers. but not if they only read their local newspaper.

We feel that the impact of such a second unit of the nuclear power plant deserves the highest publicity on the part of the state and federal bureaucracies that run the hearings.

After all. the people of Jensen Beach kinda deserve to say a few words. if only "goodbye". to the people who are sitting in judgement on the project.

The public hearings, for those who would be interested in such events that will affect the future of every home in Jensen Beach and Port St. Lucie. are being held up north of Ft. Pierce. at a hotel on the beach no. not on Hutchinson Island.

There is a hotel, in fact, two hotels. within bike-riding distance of the nuclear power plant. The hotels are much more accessible to the people more directly involved in the future of this area, the people of Jensen Beach, Port St. Lucie, Walton, Eden and Eldred. that the hotel that is north of the Ft. Pierce Inlet, on an island that is not Hutchinson Island, and is more accessible to Tallahassee or Washington D.C. than to local people.

We kinda feel that the public hearings on a nuclear power plant in this area should be in this area, and that people from this area should be invited to talk about it, and go to the meetings, and learn more about it.

Unfortunately, the bumbleheads of state and federal agencies that are holding such public meetings don't give a hoot about the area that the nuclear power plant is in.

However, by reading out-of-town newspapers. we can report that the hearings have found that conservationists are against unit number two, and Florida Power and Light Company, and its expert witnesses, is for it.

Impersonal credit threats

Once upon a time a man walked into the office and made a presentation on how to collect more money from bad pay accounts. It was a doozey.

The man represented a state-wide collection firm, and showed me a group of letters that would be sent out to businesses that didn't pay their bills too regularly.

Once the account was overdue the first letter was a gentle one, with a mild threat. Then the colors and the wording of the letters become more and more terse until they are downright insulting.

I guess everybody falls into the easy way out trap and succumbs to the idea that for a small percentage of the take you can collect some of the bad accounts you have and I did.

The first month or so things went well. We had very few bad debts as we try to avoid doing business with what we call "bad pay accounts". The few that got the letters either ignored them or they called and apologized and paid.

In either case we never had their business again, as they were both embarrassed and insulted by the letters.

That is dealing with businessmen, who know the ins and outs of business and the ins and outs of credit.

Eventually we signed up with the Merchants Credit Bureau of Martin County, a local personal credit bureau that is composed of businessmen who try to protect their credit rating by paying as soon as they can.

In the past, credit bureaus in the county had problems with their ratings of businesses due to ineffective people running the office. But now, the credit bureau is doing a pretty good job.

In the past six months the credit problems with Martin Memorial Hospital have been fantastic. The hospital doesn't use a billing system that can place all costs of treatment on one bill.

Persons attending emergency facilities must pay separate bills on doctors, x-rays, and hospital fees.

There is an outfit called Emergency Medical Associates that does some of the work for the hospital, sends a bill for ten dollars and begins sending the rapid fire progressively insulting bills through a Lexington, Kentucky collection agency that has no idea of the case involved.

The great threat of "protect your credit record" hangs over everyone.

Unfortunately, having medical insurance doesn't seem to matter. That the bill is covered by a medical policy makes no difference, mainly because of the fact that the "Associates" don't get the information.

It is so impersonal that even after bills are paid the insulting "protect your credit" notes continue.

Once the little pink (or whatever color) slip start coming there seems to be no recourse. You can't even pay the bill locally, as there is no address on the slip.

Few little old ladies who live in fear of their credit rating know to look in the telephone book to find that Emergency Medical Associates is on Hospital Drive. They quake and possibly pay the bill several times sending the money to Kentucky.

Those with insurance pay just to try to stop the letters, sometimes to no avail, and then try to collect from their insurance carrier. The insurance carrier doesn't like this as it means a considerable amount of correspondence.

Somewhere there is an answer to all this. It might be in the hospital producing one bill for patients, a bill that outlines the charges and gives reasons for each charge. Thus, doctors and x-ray technicians and everyone else with separate charges can get paid for work done without a big hassle.

And if a person has two or three charges in a month for two or three different things, one bill might help especially if he has medical insurance.

It certainly would get rid of a lot of costly correspondence and using local people to follow up and investigate collection cases makes it all a little more human, and humane.

A fair share tax bill proposed

WASHINGTON--The House Ways and Means Committee has at last begun hearings on the most important subject it will take up during the 94th Congress - tax reform.

And I am delighted to say the committee plans to make it a comprehensive re-examination of the total tax situation.

The re-examination will be conducted in two phases. Phase one, which has just begun, will take up such matters as tax shelters, minimum taxes, taxes on natural resources, personal property, capital gains, investment credits and the like.

Also included in this phase will be simplification of tax returns - a much needed reform as anyone who has ever sat down and tried to figure out his taxes can swear.

The bill which results from this initial round of hearings will go to the House floor for full debate and final passage sometime in September.

Sometime later this Fall, the Ways and Means Committee will take up estate and gift taxes, proposals to equalize the tax treatment of married and single persons, and tax exemption in state and municipal bonds.

In my opinion, the most important reform to be taken up in the first phase is a minimum tax -- to force those wealthy individuals who now escape all taxation by investing in state and municipal bonds to pay their fair share.

There is no justification -- nor can there ever be -- for a tax policy which allows some wealthy men and women to escape completely paying taxes.

Equally as important, by forcing the wealthy to pay their fair share, we can ease the burden on those Americans now carrying the heaviest load - the middle income working man and woman who spends half of each day working to pay his taxes.

However, this reform as well as every other one to be considered by the committee must be undertaken carefully.

For each tax break given, a tax increase must be adopted. Otherwise we run the risk of adopting a bill which will cost the government billions upon billions of dollars in revenue each year.

And at a time when some experts are predicting a $100 billion deficit this year alone, we can't afford to turn a tax reform bill into a tax giveaway package.

As anyone who has studied our tax laws no matter how quickly can attest, our current system is unfair. The burdens is by no means distributed equally. the loopholes and tax incentives are provided those to whom taxes are not a big load to bear.

It is the obvious inequities which have so infuriated the average taxpayer - not the fact that he has to pay taxes. Most Americans do that willingly or at least without a great deal of dismay.

They only want to be assured that everyone else is paying a fair share too.

Hopefully, we will accomplish that this year in the Ways and Means Committee.

Laos aid

On June 30, the U.S. Agency for International Development ("AID", our dispenser of foreign aid) will fold its tent and silently steal away from Laos, leaving the tent (and all its other property) to the new Pathet Lao Communist government which wants U.S. aid money to continue flowing, but with no strings attached.

Although opposition to the Pathet Lao collapsed more swiftly--after a decade of tug-of-war--than even the Pathet Lao expected, the new regime hasn't wasted any time consolidating its position.

For years the Laotian cabinet had been a delicately balanced coalition of leftists, rightists and "neutralists" kept glued together by neutralist Prime Minister Prince Souvanna Phouma.

Shortly after Saigon fell, though, Pathet Lao "rent-a-crowds" -- as one European diplomat describes them -- began demonstrating in Vientiane for the removal of rightist members of the cabinet. Most of them got the message very quickly and took off for Thailand.

Since the emigres were mostly generals and represented whatever military leadership the right wing had, the Pathet Lao rushed in to fill the vacuum. Its army, with North Vietnamese well-integrated into it right down to the company level, made a show of strength to intimidate hitherto rightist towns in southern Laos and the bloodless takeover was indeed over.

The street demonstrators, meanwhile, stormed the AID offices in Vientiane, occupying them and taking hostages. To end the occupation and win the release of the hostages, U.S. officials had to agree to pull AID out of Laos entirely, along with its 300 American employees (it also employs 2,500 Laotians).

The Pathet Lao wants to not quite kill the goose, for they like those golden eggs it produces. Now, they want U.S. aid ($33 million this fiscal year) "direct and unconditional." In other words, a blank check. It's no wonder they want the money. The United States is Laos largest donor by far and this aid keeps the local currency afloat. Without it, the Laotian economy will be in real trouble.

Those arguing for continuation of our aid on Pathet Lao terms contend it will help maintain a tiny U.S. toehold in Indochina, but close observers of the scene believe the "toehold" will produce no tangible benefits and no leverage over the Pathet Lao.

Removal of AID would probably result in the Laotians breaking off diplomatic relations with the United States, but in the wake of the fall of Cambodia and South Vietnam, that would scarcely be a catastrophe.

As long as we're dispensing foreign aid, we'd better turn our attention to allies who need it, such as South Korea, and forget Laos. Perhaps the Pathet Lao can float a loan with their allies, the North Vietnamese.

July 4 parade

There is going to be a parade in Jensen Beach July 4.

Most readers I hope, will say "Yeah I know."

But some residents don't know about the parade or about other events planned by the Bicentennial Celebration Committee.

The Mirror has had stories about plans for the Fourth of July parade, and plans for celebrating the nation's 200th birthday, for several weeks.

But some folks don't know what is going on in their community.

An example of some folks not knowing about events specifically the Fourth of July parade occurred last week.

I was talking to the Rev. Frank Alvarez, rector of All Saints Episcopal Church, the other day about this and that.

The talk got around to people not knowing about events or not taking part in them.

As we started to walk off in different directions, I said:

"Ask the first three people you see if they are going to the parade."

A short while later, Father Alvarez reported:

"The third person I asked wanted to know what parade I was talking about."

Maybe by the time the parade starts along Commercial Street at 10 a.m. most folks will know what is going on around the community.

There's a whole list of folks taking part in the parade, Causeway activities and other events which is kicking off the Bicentennial Celebration in Jensen Beach and Rio.

If folks driving to work along Indian River Drive and other areas north would lift their eyes a couple of inches they would see the red, white and blue buntings on utility poles.

Last Sunday volunteers Carl Barker with his 12 year-old son Nick along with Eugene Wood put the buntings on the poles.

There's always volunteer work done by the folks of this area, and sometimes it spills over into other communities.

The Jensen Beach Arch has a nice fresh coat of paint and PGC Painting of Stuart, Paul Cotton, owner, donated the paint and labor for the work.

But back to the parade.

There will be a lot of volunteer work going on to make the first Jensen Beach parade a success.

Parade Chairman Andrea Webb, a volunteer, expects to have 70 units in the parade.

Seven or seventy, it's going to be a great event.

Mirror readers 70 years from now will see in the "70 years ago" column that Jensen Beach had its first parade in 1975 on July 4.

But before you take your position on Commercial Street or Indian River Drive, you might attend the July 3 7:30 p.m. services at All Saints Church, or stop by Jensen Beach Christian Church at 9 a.m. July 4, and find out what this Bicentennial Celebration is all about.

Support is earned

Aside from having a telephone receiver slammed in your ear from time to time, being a reporter is for the most part, a pretty nice job to have.

It is a position which offers a wide range of opportunities.

There are also demands made of the reporter, some of which we would like to be in a position to ignore.

But to me, the nicest aspect of reporting is that it provides the opportunity of publicly giving credit where credit is due.

Although there are a number of clubs and organizations in Port St. Lucie who have unselfishly given much time and effort to making their community a better place to live, I can't help but take notice of one in particular.

Eleven short months ago, Bill Strout spearheaded the organization of the Port St. Lucie Lions Club, and in October 1974 the local club received its Charter from Lions International.

With a small, but growing membership the club has established and achieved precedents and goals far beyond the expectation of its president, Bill Strout.

Every member of the club has worked hard and given untold hours to the various fund raising projects. Those projects netted the local club over $2,000, all of which has been donated to the various Lion Sight Preservation and Research programs including the Florida Lions Eye Bank, Lions International Fund, and the Lions International Foundation.

The club has conducted free glaucoma tests in four areas throughout the community and has financed eye examinations and provided glasses for individuals.

The PSL Lions have been recognized statewide for submitting 3 8 eye pledge cards per member, not to mention the 436 pairs of used eyeglasses they collected from there eyeglass and lens collection stations they set up in the community.

But here again, these are the things we expect of a Lions Club - it is their purpose.

It is only when members of a club put forth the extra effort to do the things over and beyond the call of duty that they deserve special recognition.

Like when fifteen members of the local club, with their families, gave up an entire weekend to travel some seventy miles across state to do volunteer construction work that constitutes something special.

While the PSL Lions helped in hang doors, install hand rails at the dormitory, and do repair work on cabins, their wives and children were busy painting doors and woodwork and laying floor tile.

Because of their efforts, combined with other Lions Clubs over the state, the Florida Lions Camp for the Visually Handicapped opened its doors to forty blind persons for the first time on June 21.

The camp, located on beautiful grounds just five miles west of Indian Lake Estates on Route 60, offers a perfect vacation for the blind.

Included on the premises are a number of small cabins, a dormitory, and a large arts and crafts building.

Although the entire complex has been completely geared to the visually handicapped, counselors will be on hand at all times to assist campers.

The various activities which are available include horseback riding, boating, swimming and hiking.

It is proposed the camp will be open year round, serving the youth in the summer and the adults the remainder of the year.

As a means of financially supporting the camp, the issuance of property deeds has been proposed.

According to Strout, a deed for one square inch of property can be purchased for a minimum donation of five dollars.

Another opportunity residents throughout the state will have to support the project will be by sponsoring a blind person to the camp. The cost of sponsorship is minimal.

Those interested in sponsoring a visually handicapped person to the camp or purchasing a property deed should contact Bill Strout, 878-2648 for complete details.

Yes, the Port St. Lucie Lions Club is indeed a credit to the community which has supported them ... and that support was earned.

Two New Ways To Earn Tax Free Interest and Pay Less Income Tax

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT (IRA)

If you are not an active participant in a retirement plan where you work you can now start your own pension plan — an Individual Retirement Account (IRA).

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

The Pension Reform Act of 1974 now allows wage earners who are not covered under any qualified retirement plan to set aside up to 15% of their annual earnings, not to exceed $1,500 per year. All deposits to your IRA will be tax deductible and the interest will accumulate income tax free.

While your funds are accumulating in your IRA, we will pay interest compounded daily, at our usual high rates.

When you reach retirement age — any age you choose between 59½ and 70½ — you may arrange to have your funds paid out to you in a lump sum or over a period of years. As you receive this money, it will then become taxable as ordinary income.

BENEFIT PAYMENTS

A. Regular Retirement Benefits
At retirement age — between 59½ and 70½ — you may elect, by written notice, to withdraw your funds in one lump sum or to have them distributed to you over a period of years not to exceed your life expectancy.

B. Distributions made prior to age 59½:
Benefit payments can be made prior to age 59½ for death or disability, without incurring adverse tax penalties. However, if you voluntarily withdraw your funds prior to age 59½, the distribution will be included as ordinary income for the year of receipt and a Federal tax penalty, equal to 10% of the amount received will be imposed.

ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

Wage earners who are not already covered by Keogh Plans, Corporate Retirement Plans, Government Plans and Tax Sheltered Annuities may establish an IRA.

Also, the following persons are eligible: a spouse working part time or full time; students with part time jobs; self employed individuals who do not wish to establish a Keogh Plan.

TAX ADVANTAGES

A. Pre retirement Years (accumulation period)
During this period of time, you are allowed to take a tax deduction for the full amount of your deposit. You are entitled to this deduction even if you don't itemize your deductions. Also the interest earned by your IRA will accumulate income tax free until distributed.

B. Retirement Years (distribution period)
When you reach retirement age — any age you select between 59½ and 70½ — the proceeds from IRA are fully taxable as ordinary income when distributed. But the effect of this tax will be lessened by your lower tax bracket after retirement and your qualifying for a double tax exemption at age 65.

IF YOU SET ASIDE $1,500.00 A YEAR YOU COULD EXPECT

AFTER	NORMAL SAVINGS	IRA
5 years	$ 6,308.12	$ 8,745.52

HR-10 PLAN FOR SELF EMPLOYED

The Pension Reform Act of 1974 contains important new provisions for self employed persons to set up tax sheltered retirement funds. We at First National have all the information available on retirement planning for the self employed and invite you to come in for a comprehensive explanation.

SETTING UP THE PLAN

If you are self employed, the owner of an unincorporated business, a doctor, lawyer, accountant or other professional person, you may set up a retirement plan. Also, members of partnerships may set up plans.

You may set up your plan at First National with your funds going into a special savings or certificate of deposit account. You may contribute up to $750.00 each year or 100% of your income — whichever is less. If you desire to contribute more than $750.00 you are subject to the limit of $7,500.00 or 15% of earned income — whichever is less.

TAX BENEFITS

During your pre retirement years you are allowed to take a tax deduction for the full amount of your deposits. All interest will accumulate tax free until distributed. When you reach retirement age — any age you select between 59½ and 70½ — the proceeds are fully taxable as ordinary income when distributed. But the effect of this tax will be lessened by your lower tax bracket after retirement and your qualifying for a double tax exemption at age 65. Check the comparative chart below to see the advantages of a tax sheltered plan as a tax shelter plan.

EMPLOYEES ARE INCLUDED

You must include your full time employees in your plan who have worked for you for three or more years. Contributions to the plan for you and your employees must be at the same percentage rate as there cannot be any discrimination under the law.

PENSION OR PROFIT SHARING PLAN

You may establish either type plan depending on your individual needs.

PENALTY FOR PREMATURE DISTRIBUTION

A premature distribution occurs when you withdraw money before age 59½ — except in case of death or disability. The government will impose a 10% excise tax in addition to regular income tax.

IF YOU SET ASIDE $750.00 A YEAR YOU COULD EXPECT

AFTER	NORMAL SAVINGS	HR-10
5 years	$4,242.10	$4,967.58
10 years	$11,175.65	$13,760.28

Two FIT students put FPL 'silo' on the map

FIT–Among the many fascinating and meaningful projects carried out by FIT students at Jensen Beach was the determination of the precise position of the huge silo at the FPL Atomic Power Plant on Hutchinson Island. This towering structure visible many miles at sea, is potentially a very valuable aid to navigation but is not yet shown on government charts.

Using celestial and electronic navigation techniques in their work toward a degree in Marine Science Technology, the students took sights of a variety of stars and the moon. They also recorded the lighting on the silo to assist navigators at night. Jim Martenhoff, Boating Editor of the Miami Herald, considered the work of these students significant enough to report on it recently.

When and if the St. Lucie Inlet is ever made safely navigable, the importance of this aid to navigation will be greatly increased.

The two students, Michael Carr, of Torrington, Connecticut, and Thomas McKean, of Grafton, Massachusetts, report splendid cooperation from officials of the Florida Power and Light Company.

Interested boatmen can plot the location of the silo on their charts at 27 degrees 21 minutes North, 80 degrees 15 minutes West. There are five flashing (every two seconds) red lights, the one on top 202 feet high, the others 15 feet lower, located around the fringe of the dome. The luminous range of the lights is 11.5 miles at night, daylight visibility of the dome is 16 miles.

The projects undertaken by FIT students covers a wide variety of technical and environmentally important subjects, from experiments on dune preservation to studies of nutrification in dead-end canals. They include projects aimed at increasing our body of knowledge on such matters as the biological habits of shrimp, the growth patterns of barnacles, rain-water runoff pollution, inlet currents and shoaling, the electrical characteristics of the torpedo ray and the sensory systems of sharks.

Students specializing in electronics also engage in a variety of projects designed to broaden their knowledge and increase their technical skills, designing circuitry for and fabricating specialized electronic equipment: radio, testing, medical. The skills and practical experience these students are acquiring is fitting them for useful, gainful occupations in the future.

Unlocks free services and 5¼% per year interest...
KEY ACCOUNT
"Community Spirit" is the password... Now there's Key Account.
Lots of new services have been offered recently by financial institutions. Now Community Federal brings these services together under one roof and offers you one Key Account.
It's a new type of interest-earning account. If you make transactions, you'll receive monthly statements. If there is no account activity, we'll send you quarterly statements to show the interest you've earned.
And your funds will earn 5¼% yearly interest, compounded daily, from the day you put your money in until the day you take it out.
The "Master Key"
Your $300 minimum Key Account balance will bring you some very valuable money management tools:
- Free Prestige Card. Serves as your account identification at all Community Federal offices – and at participating Prestige savings and loans across the country.
- Prestige Emergency Cash. From now on, when you're out of town and out of cash you're not out of luck! Just visit the nearest Prestige location (over 2,000 in 46 states). You can cash a personal check or make an Emergency Cash Withdrawal from your Key Account.
- Free Dial-A-Count® Service. Earn daily interest on your paycheck; then transfer that money to your bank checking account for monthly bills. Transfer money from checking to Key Account, too – by telephone, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.
- Transamatic® Savings. You never need to miss a savings deposit again. We can make it for you – automatically – on the day (or days) of the month that you specify.
- Free Automatic Mortgage Payment. For Community Federal home loan customers. Let us do the work for you!
- Free Direct Deposit of Social Security Checks. Do your plans conform to check day? Has your check ever been lost or stolen? Now the Treasury Department can mail your check directly to Community Federal each month. And we'll deposit it in your Key Account – automatically.
- Free Travelers Checks. Why pay a service charge? You can have as many free First National City Travelers Checks as you need – as often as you like!
- Free Money Orders. Sometimes you'd rather pay a bill with a money order than with a check. Now you can have free money orders with Key Account.
- Free Notary Service. There's a notary public at every Community Federal office (except our Singer Island Drive-In Facility). And now this service is free.
- More Free Services Will Be Added!
Open Your Key Account!
Community Federal's Key Account is the one account that makes sense for the homemaker and the tycoon. For young marrieds and retirees.
To open your Key Account – the one account that unlocks the door to many free financial services – just visit the Community Federal office nearest you. Or, give us a call, and we'll be happy to mail the materials to you.

Ocean Breeze News Notes

BY LETA KEITH

334-4366 6 Vista Drive

Lately we have been experiencing some strange weather. Although this is the rainy season, and we all delight in every bit of the wet stuff that falls, bad wea- er warnings are posted nearly ever- day. Some of the storms have been ite- lent, at least noisy, with thunc- us rumbles following the lightni- flashes.

Howe- the park is green and beautiful, flowers are blooming and the whole area is a delight to the eye.

No damage has been reported in the park. There have been a couple of house fires outside and the Lockwood Storage fire involved a bunch of recreation units. Water tables are rising, for which we are all grateful.

+ + +

In a letter to Elder Yeago from the Schneiders, Len told about some of the activities of their Senior group.

"Our Lemont Senior Citizens had a pot luck and sing along in June which featured a good dinner and seven acts of entertainment. I talked two of the acts from the Ford City Chicago performance into coming to Lemont. Vanita was on this show, too.

We had 350 pieces of chicken and a 15 pound ham, paid for by our organization, and the gals brought the salads, cakes, etc. We had a "bang up" time. As of this date we have 175 paid up members in our Senior group."

+ + +

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott, 15 Melaleuca Drive, enjoyed a visit with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Warren J. Slavin of Somerville, New Jersey.

The Slavins, who stayed at the Holiday Inn on Hutchinson Island, flew down, attended a wedding at Lake Park, visited his father at Pinnellas Park, then came to Jensen Beach for four days.

They enjoyed good bathing and meals at the Scotts and nearby restaurants. Walter has recovered sufficiently to eat out occasionally.

+ + +

A few folks left the park during the past week, including Val Wells, Oscar Norman, Martha Trumble, Lyman and Jane Smith, Dorothy Gerber, Mildred Fenwick, Helen Martin and Louis Schuldwach.

And returning were Leo and Blanche Hare and Julian Gresham.

The girls in the office report that all is quiet. As of July 1, there were three trailers out on Lil Bit Lane, and no reservations as yet for the Fourth.

+ + +

Jensen Beach is a bustling with preparations for the July Fourth parade and kick off of the Bicentennial year. Fly your flags and have a good time.

DECORATED WINDOW--Jensen 5 & 10 on Commercial Street is one of the businesses in the community to decorate the window for the Bicentennial Celebration.

Pat Groover is changing positions from housekeeping to a position in the condominium office. It may not be as strenuous, Pat, but they'll keep you busy.

Talk about luck! Tom Vanmeter who runs the Bait Box in Jensen Beach won the Nettle's Island jackpot, five out of the nine last games. Missing the big one Friday didn't bother him as he won the $15.00 coverall and split the second Nettle's Island jackpot.

+ + +

Peter Otovec, our new life guard, is replacing Joe Ginder who left Saturday for Iowa where he plans on racing boats for his dad. Peter is a graduate of F.I.T. Glad to have you on the staff here, Pete.

+ + +

Several friends of Russell Crawford had a dinner for him to welcome him back to the Nettle's Island police force. Russ has been a security officer for the past year at the Sheraton Inn.

He said he is happy to be back, and you can bet he will do a good job on the Island.

June 18, Russ found a wallet with a considerable amount of money and, after several phone calls, found the rightful owner, a Mr. Bernard Martoff in Jensen Beach.

Martoff's comment was he didn't know that people were still that honest today. He was very happy to get it back.

Johnston takes new job

PORT ST. LUCIE--Frederick T. Johnston has withdrawn from active participation in the Port St. Lucie Bank's day-to-day affairs effective June 30, to assume the post of Executive Director of the United Fund of St. Lucie County.

"I have enjoyed my participation in the bank's activities," Johnston said, adding, "I am reluctant to terminate the close association. However, I am most appreciative of the opportunity that has been offered me to be of service to our community in an organization I have always whole heartedly supported."

C. A. Bramley, Jr., president of the bank said Johnston's decision was accepted with deep regret.

Gang will take 4th off

PORT ST. LUCIE--At last week's session the Friday Nite Gang host announced that, because of the Fourth of July activities in Port St. Lucie, there will be no Gang session that night. He wished everyone a nice holiday and invited all to return on July 11th "full of vim and vigor".

The Snooper came up with a report, international in some respects, present from Merry Old England were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Perrin from London, visiting Terrible Terry Lunden, Marion Osterhoudt from Port Pierce, visiting the P.S.L. Osterhoudts, and Louise and Joanne Ligros, from Buffalo, N.Y., visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vecchiarelli.

News of Nettles Island

BY D. ENGEL

Many residents leave us for the summer, planning on returning in the fall, and others leave for various reasons.

Wayne and Jodie Borecki, with baby daughter Karen, moved to Fort Lauderdale where Wayne was promoted to district manager for the insurance company he works for. They are renting an apartment there and keeping their lot and trailer here for weekends when they can get away. Good luck to you both.

Tom and Avalon McGann, with small sons Paul and Timmy, have left permanently. Avalon was in charge of the pre-school last summer and fall. We will miss you.

Leonard and Erma Vandergraaf left Monday, June 30, with granddaughter Judy. Their first stop will be Delaware to visit their son, Judy's father. When asked how she felt about her stay at Nettle's Island, Judy replied without hesitation, "I love it." I guess that's the way we all feel about it here. From Delaware they will go on to Rochester to visit a daughter and then on to Illinois to visit two of their sons.

Our condolences to Betty Weston whose car was among the 30 cars and recreational vehicles stored at Lockwood Storage where a fire occured week before last and burned the building and all its contents.

Jim and Audrey Davis opened the snack bar in the rec hall Saturday, June 28. Anyone for a hot dog, hamburger or ice cream? She had some mighty good homemade pie, too. They will be open to serve you from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. each day.

Academy head conference leader

Howey-in-the-Hills–Howey Academy president Hugh Westfall has been named president of the Lakes and Hills Conference of Florida independent schools.

Westfall, who heads central Florida co-educational college preparatory Howey Academy, will coordinate both athletic and academic activities of this association of independent schools.

"Historically school conferences have been mainly concerned with athletic matches, but hopefully we can open the door to some intellectual competition this year," said Westfall.

Interscholastic spelling bees, chess tournaments, and debates are some of the intellectual pursuits the Howey president thinks will become popular. Indeed, a five-school junior high level spelling bee was successfully conducted by the Conference this spring.

Members of the independent school conference engage in all the usual athletic competition such as basketball, baseball, golf or tennis, and according to Westfall, "It is the independent schools who pioneer the growth of new interscholastic sporting events. For instance, Howey Academy played a big role in introducing boys' and girls' volleyball, soccer, and crew rowing."

Member schools in the Lakes and Hills Conference inclusee Howey Academy, Howey-in-the-Hills; Sanford Naval Academy; Mt. Dora Christian Home and Bible School; Florida Central Academy, Sorrento, and the Montverde Academy.

We are happy to report we had a letter from Marion Burke and she and her son's wife Ann, had a good trip home. She is getting along well. Also, we had a lovely letter from Lee Tucker explaining the loss of his dear Doris. Since she was so well loved by all of us here, it would be helpful to Lee, if we would write to him occassionally.

The only item we have to report is a belated one.

Norman and Gladys Holland with children Steve, Kim and Jennifer from Alban, West Virginia were guests of the Bollings for about two weeks. The Hollands love the quiet and solitude of our summers here. They enjoyed the swimming and beaches.

Most of our news this week is from Venture Harbour, as follows, for which we are grateful.

Would you believe it? There is a stove now in our Clubhouse. A counter model with four burners and an oven above it. Just waiting for potluck dinners this fall.

The pool has been so enjoyable. It has been kept very clean, every morning a crew does a really fine job, and the water temperature is great. The poolside plastic furniture was scrubbed down not too long ago, and there is usually a pleasant breeze there. This is just to make the snowbirds jealous.

Jessie Shaver has been making decoupage purses, mostly for friends and relatives, and they are really beautiful. Lester helps with sanding and the two of them have put in many hours of hard work. Jessie is very creative and so enthusiastic that Lester complains she is working on them at such odd hours as midnight or 8 a.m.

Holiday Outlines

BY RUTH BOWES

334-4946

The culmination of many months of planning is upon us Mac McCabe, Earl and Ruth Bowes attended the last Bicentennial meeting last week. All is falling in place. Mac and Jean McCabe brought our entry to the park on Saturday and decorating began Sunday. Gert and Bob Long, Gladys and Turk Kirkpatrick, and Joan and Roger Byrne finished the wheels and I want to say they are real pretty. Bob donated the aluminum material for this.

Mac located the vehicle for our entry. Nancy Lontz has done a beautiful job in making the dresses, plus part of our secret to be displayed in the parade.

Pat Vetterl is making our signs. Ruth Bowes purchased the pennants and bunting.

I want to thank all for the wonderful support and enthusiasm. I am only sorry that most of our owners are away and can't see and attend the Jensen Beach parade.

More on the travels of Fred and Stephanie Kiefaber.

Leaving Moab, Utah, they boarded rafts, two to each party. Each raft consisted of four pontoons, two of them laced together on each side, with space in between for all the equipment. They were told that each raft is capable of carrying twelve tons (making them feel a little safer). The rafts measure 15 feet wide by 22 feet long. Stephanie's raft carried 13 people, the other 14 people. Each raft had an extra motor, each being 200 H.P. and before the trip was over, both were needed.

After being briefed on wearing life jackets while on the water and what to do in case of an upset, they started down the canyon on the Colorado River. They stopped for lunch along the shore, rocks serving for seats and tables. The guide prepared the meals, very tasty, by the way, almost like a miracle. The guide was a young woman about 25 years of age. Off season she is a commercial photographer who loves the river.

About 5 o'clock they docked and everyone began running around. Stephanie couldn't understand what was going on until she was told to "look around for a place to sleep." She stood there for several seconds before it dawned on her that "they were to sleep on the ground, wherever a spot could be found with no rocks, etc." They finally found a spot with a couple from Pennsylvania. They all settled down to a feast which included pork chops, baked beans, potatoes salad, iced tea or coffee. Imagine on the rocks, in a beautiful canyon. Then off to their sleeping bags.

Next morning, after a hearty breakfast and putting all fires out, leaving nothing behind but footprints, they were on their way again, stopping to see petrified forest and to visit Butch Cassidy's horse thief den -- quite interesting with some stove pipes still left inside. They also visited Anasazi ruins. This was a steep and hard climb. "We wondered what the Indians did for pleasure."

"The second day we began the rapids," Stephanie goes on. "All you could do was try to hang on and look at the same time. After running a few minor rapids, we hit Brown Betty, which was a lulu."

Stephanie thought, "Good it is over."

But the rest enjoyed it so much, they did it again, then ran four more rapids in the afternoon.

Stephanie says, "Only your helmsman could keep the rafts even keel. One feels like a cork bouncing in the river. Now we head for an eddy, where it is decided whether you want to have a re-run, no takers."

At the end of the second day, another night under the stars, a delicious supper, then into their sleeping bags on sand, but it got very hard by morning.

"Next morning we were told that we would run the big ones today." Stephanie says that if it hadn't been for a lady who was even more scared than she, she would never have made it. They lay on the floor, hanging on to the lashed sleeping gear. You don't have a choice - you are just on your way. They hit a drop first and second, into waves of 16 to 20 feet high, water pouring all over you.

Then came the big one, Satan's Gut and you wouldn't believe waves that high.

"Our boat folded inward, the water gushed in with terrific force, and our motor conked out. We were drifting towards another very bad rapids. Boatmen worked frantically to loosen something wrapped around the propellers, and just in time, as the boat was sliding sideways into the rapids, the motore grabbed and we had some control over the raft. But not enough, because straps snapped and the raft stood on its side, water all over everyone.

The water only rushes through there at the rate of 7 million gallons per second. It makes one wonder how the rafts can straighten out.

They all earned the "River Rat" diploma, but not before a lot of bruises and hysteria were experienced.

Then smooth water to Lake Powell. The Glen Canyon Dam has already caused several rapids to disappear, and more will be lost in the future from the silt build-up from the dam.

The Kiefabers are resting at Dinosaur National Monument.

GDC gets approval for cluster housing

PORT ST. LUCIE--The City Council Tuesday put their final stamp of approval on the revised site plans for General Development Corporation's construction of cluster housing.

The action was taken during a special meeting called for 9 a.m. Tuesday, prior to the regularly scheduled work shop session. The purpose of the meeting was to act on the favorable recommendations of the City's Planning and Zoning Board.

Although the Council approved the basic concept of the multi-family project several weeks ago, the matter was tabled until such time as the City was furnished with detailed site plans.

GDC's Engineer Mark Baggett presented the revised detailed plans Tuesday, and was granted the green light to proceed.

GDC officials have been anxious to start the construction of the two cluster structures on a 1.75 acre site located adjacent to the marina.

The two frame buildings will embrace a total of six dwelling units. The structures will be constructed on six lots with the balance of the site being common area, according to Baggett.

Since the area was zoned Special Commercial, which will permit the construction of townhouses, no zoning change was necessitated.

According to the plans outlined by GDC, the six cluster units will be used as a model area. When the units have outlived their usefulness as models, they will be sold and a property owners association set up.

The sales office for these units will be located in the Gazebo Building.

GDC has officially labeled the project the "Villas of Sandpiper Bay."

Included in the first of three basic sites GDC proposes to develop will be an additional boat ramp situated to the north of the existing ramp, and three additional tennis courts to be constructed adjacent to the present courts.

Although GDC officials anticipate no problems in obtaining the necessary permits for the construction of the new boat ramp, and the renovation of the existing ramp, they were reluctant to estimate the length of time which may be involved.

Baggett did say however the firm has obtained a construction permit for a dock in as little as four months. He cited the depth and width of the river as being favorable factors for expediting the permits.

According to Tuesday's presentation, a 36 foot wide paved section of road will be provided to the Villa and Hotel complex linking the existing divided sections of Morningside and Westmoreland.

Although the marina site has been pinpointed for the earliest construction, two other basic sites are involved in this overall project, according to C.C. Crump, vice president of operations for GDC.

One is a 6.4 acre site which includes a portion of the Par 3 golf course adjacent to the Sandpiper Bay Hotel complex, and the second is a ten plus acre tract situated on the east side of Morningside Boulevard between the tennis courts and the existing villas to the south.

SECOND DRAFT--The Port St. Lucie City Council Tuesday went over the second draft of the 1975-76 City Budget. Although the second and subsequent drafts of the city budget will remain subject to possible multiple changes, City Administrator Elmer Cox maintained there will be ample time following the final approval of the budget by the Council to advertise the public hearing. Pictured, left to right, are Administrator Cox, Councilmen Larry Kimmel and Bill McChesney, Mayor Schuyler Sharpe, City Attorney Spencer Gilbert and Councilwoman Lolita Kernohan.

Well, I did it again! Three years ago I volunteered to be secretary of the Port St. Lucie Anglers Club and I have had the job ever since. PSL hospital group gets 60 day extension

PORT ST. LUCIE--Petitions in support of the proposed Port St. Lucie Community Hospital are being circulated in the City and in Jensen Beach, as the effort to gain approval for the new facility continues.

Turned down by the Martin-St. Lucie Health Planning Committee, officials of the proposed hospital took their case to the area Health Planning Council last week and were granted a 60-day extension to prepare "a more complete case showing need for this hospital in this area."

Dr. William H. Meyer, Jr., president of the non-profit hospital corporation, said the two-month reprieve will allow time to gather signatures on the petitions. Several thousand residents have already signed and expressed support for the hospital, he said.

"We plan to use this extra time to gather additional information for our application and to better substantiate the need for the hospital," Meyer said.

"Unfortunately, there has been a feeling generated in the community that we are in competition with the HCA Hospital Corp. of America facility in Fort Pierce. That is not the case and we want to point it out clearly that we are not in competition."

In recommending against the new facility, the local planning committee said there is an insufficient population base to justify construction of two hospitals in St. Lucie County.

Meyer said in preparing the new case stressing the need for a hospital in Port St. Lucie, "We hope to better substantiate population figures for the area."

The City Council voted unanimously last week to support the facility and residents reportedly are strongly in favor of the 116-bed hospital.

The non-profit community hospital, as proposed, is designed to provide all but the most specialized services. Its planned location is east of U.S. 1 at Morningside Boulevard.

Petitions are available at the U.S. 1 Prima Vista Shopping Center, CESA, the Library and the Marina in Port St. Lucie. Jensen Beach residents can put their names on the line in support of the facility in The Mirror office, Bryan's Pharmacy, Tilton's Real Estate and the Chamber of Commerce office on Commercial Street.

PRACTICING?--One might think the young man pictured above was getting in practice to enjoy the Fourth of July Celebration in Port St. Lucie. Instead, Gregg Kelso was a visitor in this area last year and is pictured at the marina enjoying a refreshing snow cone last July 4. A day of fun, relaxation, games and good food will commence at 10:30 a.m. with the parade which will start at the marina and proceed west on Prima Vista to the Sportsman's Park area.

Yacht Club plans three day cruise

PORT ST. LUCIE--A three day cruise to Clewiston has been scheduled for July 9, according to cruise club chairman John Pugh.

Reservations may be made by calling Don Peterson, 878-1030, on or before July 3.

Other plans for the month of July include a boat-a-cade to Frances Langford's Outrigger scheduled for July 18. Tickets are available from chairmen Bob and Nancy Clemens, 878-0865, or from Paris and Gail Davis, George and Terry Pullis, George and Mary Jacobi, and Larry Shirley of Havernas.

Highlight of the last meeting of the Port St. Lucie Yacht Club was the presentation of burgees and badges by Commodore Mike Reeb and John Schwartz.

Membership chairman Fred Adler introduced the fifteen new members at the meeting.

They included Annette Allison, Stella Brangaccio, Peter Bahry, Donald and Anne Fisher, Clayton and Anne Fisher, Clayton and Sally Mamele, Robert and Mary Scott, Gerry and Dorothy Vander Pluym, and Ralph and Virginia Waite.

Who will pay for street lights?

PORT ST. LUCIE--Whether or not the City will pick up the tab for street lighting is a topic which will be debated by Council members during next Tuesday's regular session.

Mayor Schuyler Sharpe brought the subject up during the workshop session held Tuesday, suggesting it was time the city gave its residents something in return for the franchise dollar.

"We will not force the residents to have street lights, but if they want them, I think the city should pick up the tab," the Mayor said.

Councilman Bill McChesney, an advocate for many months of the city absorbing some of these costs to the residents, cited the 1975-76 FP&L franchise fees being over $56,000 was in full agreement with the Mayor.

Councilman Larry Kimmel opposed the move saying, "If the city is desperate for ideas as to how we can serve the residents, I would suggest a simple referendum in which we ask the people if they would rather have a hospital, an ambulance, extra police car, a bus for the aged their swales cleaned out, or would you prefer the city pay for your street lights?"

City Administrator Elmer Cox was requested to include the street light topic on the agenda for next Tuesday.

Leary fires great round

PORT ST. LUCIE--Ed Leary fired one of the best rounds ever in St. Lucie Country Club Men's Golf Association play Thursday when he won the weekly golf tournament of the association with a sparkling 73 for low gross.

Leary had to go all out to erase the first nine threat of Tom Chapman who made the turn in 37 after carding four birdies and six threes in the first eight holes before weakening on the back nine. Flight leaders Thursday in the match play versus par competition were:

Flight A--Leary, two up; Sam Dewhirst and Paul Miller, one up; Lou Meriano, one up.

Flight B--Pat O'Neill, one up; Charley Hoyt, one down; Bert McDonnell, two down; Len Appel, three down.

Flight C--Ed Rombach, three up; August Ruppell, one up; Fred Carter, two down; Miles Harvey, two down.

This week's competition will be individual play with full handicaps, dropping the three worst holes, over the Saints Course. The Sinner's Course has been the site for the past two weeks.

McClendon will speak to local republicans

PORT ST. LUCIE--W.L. McClendon, district representative for Congressman Skip Bafalis, will be the featured speaker at the July 10 meeting of the Port St. Lucie Republican Club.

Meeting time will be 7:30 p.m. at the CESA Building on West Prima Vista, according to program chairman Jack LaFrance.

McClendon will cover two areas of interest to Republicans of Port St. Lucie and South St. Lucie County areas. First, How Congressman Bafalis works during congressional recesses, what he accomplishes, when not in Washington. Secondly, Mr. McClendon will talk about "How Direct and Indirect Taxes Pump up the Prices" of things you buy everyday and contribute to the real causes of inflation.

Board member Susan Hickman will present a picture of the state and federal taxes, direct and indirect included in the pump price of gasoline, and a comparable study of taxes in the selling price of a staple everyday food item.

The meeting will provide an opportunity for those present to make comments or ask questions concerning the topics covered.

The Port St. Lucie Republican Club meets on the first Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the CESA Building. Registered Republicans and Independents are invited to attend.

Miles of "Ma Bell" lines

JENSEN BEACH—Southern Bell Telephone Company crews have been laying conduit lines along U.S. 1 North to Morningside Drive in Port St. Lucie for the past several weeks.

"The job of placing 47,850 feet about two feet deep along the east side of U.S. 1 is expected to be completed this week," Glenn Sutton, manager of Southern Bell's Stuart office, said Monday.

Sutton said the conduit is a continuation of previous placed conduit from the company's central office in Stuart.

"There will be about nine miles of cable housed in the conduit," Sutton said. "The size cable that will be placed will be big enough to serve 1,800 customers in the areas of Jensen Beach, Port St. Lucie, Midport and the Port St. Lucie Industrial Park."

STUART—New hours for the Animal Rescue League shelter has been announced.

Shelter manager Arnold Eisenman said the new hours are Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. Sundays.

Historical Society director given bicentennial award

JENSEN BEACH—An award to "Community Leaders and Noteworthy Americans" has been presented to Mrs. Janet Hutchinson, director of the Martin County Historical Society, by the editorial board of the American Biographical Institute. The honor signifies selection for inclusion in the Institute's Bicentennial Edition, 1975-76 in recognition of past achievements and outstanding service to community and state.

As director of the Historical Society, Mrs. Hutchinson has responsible for having both of the society's museums—the Elliott Museum and the Gilbert's Bar House of Refuge designated Historic Memorials in the State of Florida. She has also had the 99-year old House of Refuge-Martin County's leading landmark listed on the National Register of Historic Places thus making it eligible to receive "matching funds" for its restoration.

Mrs. Hutchinson is completing her tenth year as director of the society, which was organized in 1965 by public spirited local residents to preserve and protect the House of Refuge from vandals, neglect, and the elements.

Softball program to start

JENSEN BEACH—No longer will there be a lapse in summer sports at Langford Park. Junior softball will be added to the busy program, starting soon.

The Jensen Beach Optimists have taken the responsibility of trying to beef up the junior sports programs at Langford Park. Jensen Beach a growing sports and recreation center. In only one year, they have strengthened the baseball program, started a basketball program, and made plans for a track to be built. In brief, this addition is just another of the Optimist Club's marvelous ideas.

Registration for the program will be held tonight (Wednesday) and tommorrow night (Thursday) from 6-8 p.m. at the Langford Park Fieldhouse, according to publicity chairman Bob Mousaw.

There will also be registration at the fieldhouse at 10 a.m. Saturday morning, and it will end at 2 p.m. that afternoon.

According to Mousaw, "All boys and girls aged 10-18 in the Jensen Beach area" will be eligible for the softball program.

"Come down and sign up now."

PROTECTED—Winn Dixie Manager Dick Welker inspects the one-million dollar shipment of "Jensen-Savannas Bucks" as Sheriff Jim Holt guards the money. Holt's deputies delivered the money to Community Federal Tuesday to kick off the six week promotion.

First promotion

Jensen merchants offer customers million bucks

JENSEN BEACH—With sirens wailing and lights flashing, Sheriff Jim Holt and his deputies assisted the local shopping center merchants in kicking off a sales promotion, delivering a million dollars in Jensen-Savannas Bucks to Community Federal Savings office next to the shopping centers on Commercial Street Tuesday.

The money was the keynote in a six-week promotion of shopping in Jensen Beach that begins today. Participating merchants in the Savannas Shopping Center and the Jensen Beach Plaza will give a "Buck" for each dollar spent in their stores.

At the end of the six weeks, on August 16 at 5 p.m. a giant auction will be held at which people can bid on a variety of prizes that will be offered. A professional auctioneer, Maurice Fulton, of Vero Beach, will conduct the auction at which shoppers can bid on the prizes with their "Jensen-Savannas Bucks."

Local merchants include Winn Dixie Supermarket, Eagle Family Discount Store, Tradewinds Restaurant, Leon's Furniture, Man From KIRK Men's Fashions, all in the Jensen Beach Plaza and Ace Hardware, Bruner Sporting Goods, Western Auto, Able Carpet and Jane Morris Fashions of Savannas Shopping Center.

Merchants will match, dollar for dollar, purchases in their stores. For every dollar spent the shopper will receive one "Jensen-Savannas Buck."

During the six week promotion, the merchants plan to offer "red hot specials" to encourage sales offering a different special each week. The specials will be advertised in a promotional page in The Mirror and in the stores.

LOADED—With half the million dollars in Jensen-Savannas Bucks" unloaded from a sheriff's department van, merchants got their first look at the booths that will be given away in the first major Jensen Beach shopping center promotion on Tuesday. Left to right are Deputy Dick Green, Sergeant Ralph Bates, Marie Mullins, manager of Jane Morris Dress Shop, Dick Welker, manager Winn Dixie, Bud Bresse, manager of Western Auto, Don Hoover, manager of Ace Hardware, Sheriff Jim Holt, Rick Urso, Mirror advertising representative and Bob Davis, manager of Eagle Family Discount Stores.

Officials confident of COG

PORT ST. LUCIE—Will the dropouts bring about the death of COG?

"Ain't necessarily so" according to Port St. Lucie Councilman Larry Kimmel.

Since the City of Fort Pierce and the St. Lucie County Commission do not seem to recognize anything exists in the county south of Midway Road, the St. Lucie River Council of Governments may be better off functioning with representatives from Spanish Lakes, Jensen Beach, Stuart, Martin County, the City of Port St. Lucie and the Village of St. Lucie," said Councilman Kimmel.

He labeled the withdrawal of the two counties as being premature action, adding, "They (the county and Ft. Pierce) had hoped the benefits of COG would be derived from the proposed new planning council which, if approved by the state, will include St. Lucie, Palm Beach and Indian River counties, but I just don't see it that way."

"Although I would not object if they wished to reconsider the action, I don't see the organization benefiting from such action," Kimmel said.

Mayor Schuyler Sharpe and Kimmel were in full agreement during Tuesdays City Council meeting that the downfall of COG would be a great loss to all the residents of the two county area.

"If COG helped to solve only one problem per year or accomplished only one goal per year, then it is a worthwhile organization," said Mayor Sharpe, adding, "I am going to do everything possible to see if we can get COG back in fact."

Just last week the City of Fort Pierce and the St. Lucie County Commission officially notified the Martin County Commission of their withdrawal from COG, an advisory group set up to coordinate two-county planning. The five entity group was comprised of one representative each from St. Lucie County Commission, Martin County Commission, the cities of Stuart, Port St. Lucie and Fort Pierce.

Economic impact

F.I.T. is a $3 million business

BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH—As administrators seek the magic number of 700 students to begin the 1975-76 academic year at Florida Institute of Technology's Jensen Beach Campus, Dean Tim Tealey revealed this week that FIT has already had a massive economic impact on the community.

In a report to the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, Tealey outlined the results of a survey of students and faculty indicating over $3 million entering the economy of the area through expenditures of the students and the school.

"I'm sure that not too many people recognize the college as one of the big businesses in town, and one that grows as the student population grows," Tealey wrote. "To prove the point, the students were surveyed this last quarter to determine how much money was being spent in this community other than direct payment to the school for tuition, fees and books.

"The results will, I think, astound you."

Students spent $268,000 for food at other than the school cafeteria or snack bar. They spent $51,000 for clothing, and $186,000 for entertainment and recreation. Another $173,000 was spent on transportation and auto maintenance by the students, and purchases of photo supplies, diving and sports equipment related to school classes in local shops represented $130,000. Students reported spending another $75,000 for miscellaneous purchases.

Off campus housing for students cost $253,000.

Thus, in nine months of the year FIT students spent $1,136,000 locally for their needs.

"Look at the variety of businesses that in some way or another reap a benefit from FIT students: food stores (chain and convenience), clothing stores, sporting goods, movie houses, theatres, hi-fi and television stores, travel agents, banks, photo shops, auto dealers, gas stations, variety, bicycle shops, dive shops, real estate, state tax offices and companies and individuals supplying dozens of other specialized needs," Tealey wrote.

To the local student total, Tealey added $900,000 in normal school operations, much of which flows back into the local economy.

The total included $500,000 in salaries and wages to faculty and staff of the college, most of which was spent on housing, goods and services locally. $225,000 for local utilities, and $75,000 for other goods and services locally that is spent by the school administration.

Tealey announced that this year $250,000 would be spent on capital improvements to the campus, including remodeling the Leach Mansion into a student center, installation of a master antenna system and a sewage plant, and building one new building.

He added another $100,000 that will be spent on marine docks and a maintenance building for the marina when permits are received.

The total of $2 million spent between the college and students has a multiplier factor that allows the money to continue circulating in the community. According to a Metro-Dade planning figure, that factor is about 1.5, which would place the economic impact of $3,000,000 of FIT on the community area.

Tealey concludes his report with the comment, "Not bad for a small college in a small town in a small county."

Regenerate enthusiasm

COG is important

JENSEN BEACH—With two members of the Council of Governments (COG) voting to pull out, Martin County Commissioner Tyner Powers said Monday he hopes to "regenerate enthusiasm" in the two-county organization.

"I don't think that the council was given its true test of what it can do," Powers said.

Powers, who spearheaded the drive to create COG last year, said he hopes Martin County Commission will take the lead in regenerating the thinking behind the council.

Last week St. Lucie County and the City of Fort Pierce both voted to leave the two-county organization, saying that the council was "a waste of time."

Martin County Commission Chairman Russ Philbrick agreed with the two St. Lucie County government agencies, pointing out that the council wasn't "doing the job we all wanted it to do."

Philbrick blamed the "water skiing presentation" at COG's last meeting as the "ending of COG."

Philbrick was referring to the May COG meeting when members spent over hour and 15 minutes listening to complaints from fishermen about water skiers and speeding boats on the North Fork of the St. Lucie River before concluding they could do nothing.

COG recommended that Port St. Lucie Council adopt regulations to control the problem.

At the June 10 meeting of Port St. Lucie Council, the problem of water skiers and speeding boats was discussed with recommendations for solutions.

Port St. Lucie Mayor Schuyler Sharpe pointed out that many times there are meetings held that are not always involved with important issues at hand, but never-the-less, it gives us the opportunity to air common problems.

Mayor Sharpe said he has written letters to both the Fort Pierce Commission and the St. Lucie County Commission asking that they reconsider their withdrawal from COG.

"The time will come when individual governments cannot afford to finance ally go it alone," Mayor Sharpe said.

"If we don't work together with open minds to discuss our common problems, it is our people who will suffer," the mayor said.

Commissioner Powers also pointed out the importance of the governments of the two counties working together to solve the common problems.

"We have a serious water problem on Hutchinson Island and a serious problem in the savannas," Powers said.

"And we have the problem of providing services to the people in north Martin County and south St. Lucie County," the veteran Martin County commissioner said.

"I think the council is an extraordinary opportunity to provide services to the public in our area," Powers continued.

Powers expressed disappointment in the action of Fort Pierce and St. Lucie County commissions in voting to leave COG.

He suggested that the two St. Lucie County governments reconsider and that the council get redirection and possibly change the ground rules.

"COG by-laws now provide that the mayors of Stuart, Port St. Lucie and Fort Pierce and board chairmen of Martin County Commission and St. Lucie County Commission be representatives.

Maybe we could change the ground rules and have volunteers on the council who would have the necessary enthusiasm," Powers said.

COG didn't start with the necessary enthusiasm," Powers said.

It was suggested by Philbrick that the proposed Regional Planning Council of Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River and Palm Beach counties could replace COG.

It was pointed out, however by Powers that if the Planning Council is approved by the state that it would have certain powers.

"COG doesn't have any power and cannot impose its authority on the people. I believe in the lowest level of government and we should have an COG as an opportunity to meet and discuss area problems," Powers said.

Powers noted that because of COG, the state had left the planning of Hutchinson Island under local control.

A state official said last week that because of the action of the two St. Lucie governments, the Bureau of Land and Water Management will be checking into the island situation.

Hutchinson Island, in both counties had been under study for possible designation as an Area of Critical State Concern, which would have meant state control.

Tax roll delay

JENSEN BEACH—Martin County's property tax roll will be late again this year, according to Ted Campo executive assistant appraiser.

The tax roll is due by law to be ready by July 1, but Campo said the roll will not be available until August.

Campo said the delay is being caused by the innovations we're making with the new mini-computer.

"We are working out the bugs on the system, and we have a backlog of changes to make in the roll which will take about a month to complete."

Last year's tax roll was not ready for some six months after the July deadline and tax bills were not mailed until March of that year.

Campo pointed out that the Tax Appraiser's office didn't put the steam on preparing this tax roll until March when Assessment Management Systems AMS pulled out of here and we completed the Board of Tax Adjustment hearings.

AMS was fined by the county to perform a countywide reassessment of property that delayed last year's tax roll.

Campo worked for AMS prior to being hired as executive assistant to Property Appraiser E.F. "Dutch" Schnurbusch.

Center gets federal funds

JENSEN BEACH—A federal grant of $81,804.62 has been received by the Environmental Studies Center in Jensen Beach, director Jay Jarrett said Tuesday.

The budget will provide for salaries for the director Frank Pittman, training supervisor Dennis Clark, training teacher and John Whitcar, special six week summer position, and a secretary.

"The funds also include money for operation of the office, production of training materials and travel to conventions where we will attempt to sell our products to other educators," Jarrett said.

Last May a team of federal evaluators from the regional office of the Department of Education, Raleigh, N.C., inspected the center and approved its operations.

With the "seal of approval" from Washington, D.C., Jarrett said that the center became eligible for federal funds up to $100,000.

"A total of $81,804.62 from the grant of $100,000 was approved," Jarrett said Jarrett said that he has requested $55,000 from the Martin County School Board for operating expenses next fiscal year.

"While funds are desperately short for the new fiscal year," Jarrett said, "Superintendent James Navitsky has indicated his support for the center and promised that it would continue with local funds."

For the past three years, the center on South Indian River Drive has received federal funds totaling $373,000.

Donations sought

Artificial reef expansion planned by "reeftirees"

BY DICK CAMPBELL

STUART–No one seems quite sure how many tires have been weighted with concrete in one end and laboriously loaded aboard a barge for transportation five miles out in the Atlantic Ocean. The numbers range from 12,000 to 30,000.

However many, it seems that fish like the idea and have gathered in hundreds of thousands around and in the artificial reef off the St. Lucie Inlet.

The sixty foot depth is perfect for the growth of algae, plankton and coral which begin the life cycle of bait for ever-increasing sizes of fish from shrimp to lobster, and from minnows to marlin, with all sizes in between feeding off each other.

The success of the reef has been hailed all along the coast.

The Stuart Sailfish Club, sponsors of the reef, have had help from all areas to establish the reef, and club members are looking for local donations to prepare and drop some 22,000 more tires in the ocean.

"We get the tires free, but must pay for the concrete that we pour in the lower portion of each tire (to make them stand up under water) and we must pay for the barge that hauls them out to sea," said William Donaldson, vice president of the club.

The donations, sent to the Stuart Sailfish Club, PO Box 2005, Stuart, are tax deductible.

Donaldson points to the use of the tires as being good for the environment, for they would have to be disposed of somewhere.

"Few can claim that it is better to burn or bury these tired old tires," he said.

Volunteers are called "reeftirees" and they labor over the mountain of tires that are on Stuart Airport land awaiting transport.

Donaldson is asking that residents "plant a tire" by donating to the fund drive for concrete and a barge.

Expansion of the reef can do much to broaden the good fishing that the area is famous for, as each tire will attract that much more marine life to cycle into greater fishing. The fish would then be moving in and out the inlet, offering a sportsmen a greater opportunity to land a big one.

The fishermen would rather plant a tire than burn one, a good point in these times, especially when it might mean meat on the table at home.

KEEPING SCORE–Former Martin County Commissioner Frank Wachs, was the scorekeeper during the races on the Jensen Beach Causeway during the Fourth of July activities.

First class mail to be upgraded

JENSEN BEACH–A program to upgrade first class mail to air mail level was announced this week by Postmaster Harold Salzler. International air mail and air parcel post (priority mail) will remain as they are now, but according to Salzler, there will be no advantage to customers using air mail as procedures previously used for the two services are being combined.

Asked if urging customers to use the least costly of the two services isn't a poor business practice, Salzler said, "No. It is not only a good business practice but also our responsibility to provide our customers good service at the lowest reasonable rate.

"By merging these letter mail channels, overall service will be improved by using more modern and efficient operating procedures.

The program is scheduled to be implemented on August 1.

There are a number of actions being taken to achieve the improved service. Many offices that previously were targeted for third day delivery have been upgraded to second day delivery. Collection schedules will be changed to coincide with distribution and transportation schedules. Work forces will be deployed where necessary to be available when the mail arrives for processing.

Transportation schedules are being closely analyzed to determine the fastest mode.

Increased emphasis throughout the Postal Service is to be placed on meeting higher standards for delivery of first class mail, Salzler concluded.

The county offices

Plans to spend about a million dollars for a new county office building await the signing of a contract now being drawn up

The building that seems to have the support of most of the commissioners lies in the heart of Stuart's business district, across from the busy post office, on a side street, behind a bank

Already swollen traffic lines on the two lane street will become further swollen with county traffic, and patrons will find it even more difficult to get to the post office

Whatever happened to the master-planned governmental unit that was envisioned a few years past"

We believe that government should be located in one place, easily accessible to the people It should not be spaced all over the place, with offices at one shopping center and another

There seems to be two ways to look at it

The first is that government feeds on itself, growing and growing until it consumes itself with people

How many services now being given are really necessary"

The county appraiser enlarges his staff, and can't get a tax roll ready two years in a row. Is that modern management" How can the other county offices figure their budgets without a tax roll"

The county rights-of-way face indeterminable delays due to the high number of people who don't seem to know what is going on, lack of coordination and failure to follow up Voluminous paperwork has replaced a telephone call with a friendly attitude in rights-of-way and in all other areas of county work

People have replaced work, and make-work seems to have surfaced as the excuse for escalating governmental costs

Everybody has to have an assistant

There should be some measure of value for each employee but we see no one measuring

Thus, for the first way to solve the office shortage problem would seem to be to streamline the departments, getting them down to workable sizes and reducing the county payroll If this was done, the county wouldn t need a million dollar building

The second way is to assume that the county work force is going to grow, and that everybody is doing a proper job If this was true, the county would need a large, workable governmental complex that would keep government together where the people could find their government

We might suggest, under this assumption, that the county continue with its master plan, use the land at the airport and build a complex that could include all that it needs, beginning with a million dollar office building that is designed for government, not private business

In either answer, we feel that government must be responsive to the people, at a location that the people can easily find, and operated in a manner that gives the taxpayer his dollar s worth

A free enterprise holiday

Independence Day was a time to begin celebrating the 200th birthday of the United States of America a year long birthday that is worth celebrating

This is a year when we can look at what we are and decide if we like what we are and what we have been, and then take a look at the future

America was built on the promise that everyone has a chance to be whatever he or she wants to be Despite their origin the people can do whatever he or she wants to be Despite their origin the people can do whatever their talents and drive supposes andd that is one truth that remains as we celebrate our bicentennial

We can point to many successes in the free enterprise system

Most importantly we can point to The Mirror itself as an example of what can be done with drive and determination

The people of The Mirror look at the past with awesome respect, for to build a newspaper in these times is a difficult task a task that takes a great deal of drive and dedication on the part of many people

We feel that a free-enterprise dedicated newspaper is the cornerstone of democracy, guaranteed free by the Constitution and bearing a responsibilty that dedicated newspapermen and women must take seriously

There is no guarantee in the first amendment of the Constitution that a newspaper must make a profit however that is the key to the free enterprise system We must work to make certain the newspaper sells merchandise for advertisers and that readers respect the positions of the newspaper enough and have faith that the news reporting in the newspaper is truth

That is what insures that the newspaper will make a profit

Many newspapers have many different slogans Once, the slogan of The Mirror was "all the news that fits in print" We had that slogan because we didn t have enough advertising to print all the news of events in Jensen Beach and Port St Lucie

We still do not

However we are continuing to put out the best newspaper we can to do a job for the people of Jensen Beach and Port St Lucie Our awards for journalistic excellence indicate that our peers appreciate our effort Our continuing circulation rise indicates that our readers appreciate our effort, and our advertising increase indicates that we are selling merchandise and services for our advertisers

The Mirror looks forward to the bicentennial celebration with all the pride that is exhibited in the many celebrations planned by community leaders

We are proud to be here, and be the local newspaper for people who feel so strongly about patriotism

I now understand

The date was May 30, 1974 and the time was 7:30 p.m.

I was the only reporter present.

The place was the Port St. Lucie City Hall, and the occasion was the organizational meeting of COG, later named the St. Lucie River Council of Governments.

COG was an advisory board set up to coordinate two county, three city planning.

The five entities involved were represented by one commissioner from St. Lucie County, a commissioner from Martin County, and the mayors from the cities of Port St. Lucie, Stuart, and Fort Pierce.

Following the dinner hosted by the late Port St. Lucie Mayor Eugene P. Kavanaugh, the group appeared at the city hall.

I was seated at the press table with my note pad and camera, when St. Lucie County Commissioner Ed Enns entered the room.

Although he glanced over and smiled, I felt uncomfortable.

I did not know why.

It was then in his opening statement, Enns said he did not feel COG meetings should be subjected to the various interpretations of reporters, and he suggested such meetings not be open to the public.

I felt an instant dislike for Ed Enns, and in my book he was labbed as being most inconsiderate of others.

"My understanding of COG was that it would provide the five-entity representatives the opportunity of getting together informally to discuss common problems facing our areas," Enns said.

"I thought the purpose of these meetings was to exchange ideas and, in general, be more able to relate to each other.

"I feel strongly if we are forced to guard our every statement for fear it may be reported out of context, the sole intent of COG could easily be destroyed," he added.

Possibly fearful of violating the Government in the Sunshine Law, others disagreed on the basis COG had nothing to hide.

Enns was out numbered four-one and COG meetings were open to press and public.

Last week the St. Lucie County Commission and the City of Fort Pierce both saying the council had been a waste of time officially notified the Martin County Commission chairman of their withdrawal from the organization.

It should be noted with interest that St. Lucie County Commissioners Ed Enns and Everett Green voted against the withdrawal move, but later changed their votes to make the decision unanimous.

With the virtual collapse of COG, I now understand what Commissioner Enns meant on May 30, 1974 when he asked the meetings be closed.

COG had a great potential, and Ed Enns, for one, recognized that potential.

I have attended several of those meetings during the past year, and I must agree some were a total waste of time.

They were a waste of time because uninvited members of the public were allowed to appear and make lengthy presentations to the Council while those in charge of the meetings, for the most part did not have the intestinal fortitude necessary to deny these individuals the time they demanded.

By all means the public has the right to be heard, but certainly a COG meeting was not the time nor place.

The intent of COG was to improve communications between the five entities involved, and provide an opportunity for governmental coordination.

Since COG has absolutely no decision-making powers, nor is it another level of government, I can see no reason to fear a violation of the Government In The Sunshine Law.

Perhaps part of the problem originated with the name "Council of Governments". Maybe this is why the public felt free to appear with their complaints and presentations.

Martin County Commission Chairman Rosa Philbrick was quoted as saying he believes the new regional planning agency proposed for Martin, St. Lucie, Palm Beach and Indian River counties will do what COG intended to do.

We need to get to know each other better, so we can communicate more readily and solve our mutual problems," he said.

Well for the life of me, if this cannot be accomplished on a local plane without governmental red tape I fail to understand how Philbrick or anyone else, thinks it can be established through the creation of another bureaucratic state agency.

Let us hope the St. Lucie County Commission and the City of Fort Pierce will reconsider their withdrawal from COG.

AND should this be the case, let us also hope the members will agree to follow some of the guidelines suggested by Ed Enns worthwhile guidelines I now understand.

Letters to the Editor

To the editor:

This is to publicly thank Bill "Boom Boom" Yurillo for one of the most exciting Fourth of July evenings I have ever enjoyed. Exciting because I had never had the privilege before, of sitting so close to the action, and more so, to discover that Bill, the third generation to do so, had manufactured, not bought, the whole extravaganza we were witnessing.

In other cities where we have lived in the past, we would have been charged up to $5.00 to witness something not even remotely as beautiful as we had here without charge except for donations, which I noted in the article in The Mirror were very slow in arriving.

Jensen Beach is indeed fortunate to have Bill as one of its citizens, one who spends so freely and willingly of his and his family s time and energy to make so many of us happy every Fourth of July.

Again, our very large THANK YOU to Bill, his able crew and of course, the Chamber of Commerce, who, I believe, sponsored the event.

Sincerely,
Dorothy Lackey

Bursting with pride

Our hearts overflowed as the flags were carried down the street, the young cub scouts and youth groups marched irregularly, the trucks rumbled past, and the bands played.

It was Independence Day, and the measure of success of the Jensen Beach parade was indicated by the applause of residents and visitors alike.

It was a small town parade. It had its gaps, but it had more heart than a parade in New York City on V.E. Day at the end or World War Two.

It was the kickoff of a year-long celebration.

The "Freedom Shrine" was a center of attraction on the lawn of First Federal on Commercial Street.

Many store windows were decorated with patriotic themes.

We are bursting with pride in our community, for this kickoff of the year was done by the people.

Anytime you can get the Democrats, Republicans, cub scouts, veterans organizations, Optimists and a bunch of other groups and people together to be in a patriotic parade, you can know that America is strong, and the people believe in America.

We're proud of our people.

To the editor:

The traditional and annual "Sea Turtle Watches" have been concluded judging from the public attendance and all those interested, they are getting more popular each year.

There are many reasons why we sponsor and conduct these Sea Turtle Watches. They are interesting, educational and exciting, provide an opportunity for people to witness nature's phenomenon, and familiarize many folks with the beautiful graceful reptiles.

For those fearful hunting turtles at night alone, we have the protection of the law enforcement departments who influence the public in the rigid laws protecting these turtles.

It is illegal to ride, molest, hurt, injure or slaughter them. Their eggs cannot be uncovered or removed, unless by authorized persons.

We of the Chamber of Commerce are most grateful to your newspaper for the full coverage in print and pictures from the very start to finish.

We appreciate the committee members for their efforts the Florida Marine Patrol for their excellent supervision of the seashore, and the Sheriff's Department for courteous traffic control.

Thanking you I am,
Al Tomaszewski, Chairman

Getting older

With the Bicentennial Year underway in Jensen Beach, and in other communities across the entire nation, we are one year away from the nation s 200th birthday.

The nation, like the rest of us when roll out of bed in the morning, is getting on in years.

According to the Bicentennial News, there are over 5,000 communities flying the Bicentennial flag.

The one-year countdown to the date which will launch us into our third century has started here and in thousands of other communities.

State and federal governments apparently only know one way to assist communities in any celebration-send money.

The state has earmarked $830,000 in racing revenues this year as matching money for local bicentennial projects.

How each community will do their thing this year with that matching money apparently is left entirely to each community-erect statues, dedicate parks or build bicycle trails.

Isn't that a sneaky way to get in another plug for Jensen Beach bike trails"

Down in Boca Raton they got $7,500 from the state for a bicycle trail.

A Boca Raton councilman was asked about Bicentennial money for a bicycle trail and he is reported to have replied:

"I think this is the number one project the county ought to support. I don't give a hoot about a statue of Jose somebody or other."

Now you know. I agree with that Boca Raton councilman.

If the state has $830,000 for all of the communities to slice up for Bicentennial projects our commissioners should get in line.

We could erect a small bronze plaque at the start of this bike trail listing the names of each commissioner who budgeted $7,000 of local taxpayers money to match state money.

But back to getting older.

According to Florida Chamber of Commerce business review, the latest population estimates show Florida now has 8,248,851 residents with 1,442,099 or 17.5 per cent of them 65 years of age or older. In 1970 only 985,895, or 14.5 per cent of the state's population was that old.

And most of the elderly population is along the coast.

And the state chamber reports that the average tourist is about 55 years of age, comes to the state by auto, biggest majority travel by auto, and spends about $31.21 per day, or a total of $497 for the entire trip.

Let's keep them coming, car, train or bike until "Liberty Day" July 4, 1976.

Food stamp

Ten years ago the Food Stamp Act was passed to help America s needy get a nutritious diet Today, the program is so far out of control its operations resemble a madhatter s tea party.

Help may be on the way. A bipartisan Food Stamp Reform Act of 1975 has been introduced in Congress which could bring the program under control and save the taxpayers $2 billion a year, while at the same time increasing benefits for the truly needy an average 17 per cent.

In 1965 there were fewer than half a million food stamp recipients. The program cost $36 million that year.

This year, it's estimated there will be 19 million Americans on food stamps at a cost to the taxpayer of $5.2 billion-an increase of more than 14,000 per cent!

That first year, one in every 439 Americans was on food stamps, today, it s one in 13, and soaring upward. It could be much worse, potentially one-fourth is technically eligible.

Among other things the bill would require able-bodied recipients without children under age 6 to register for work and seek it, or to enter community work training programs if their state has them. This is not required now, hence the bill's objective, no rewards for idleness.

While bringing the food stamp mess under control the government will upgrade the diet formula for recipients, raising coupon allotments by 29 per cent, and will reduce stamp costs for the aged.

Rarely enough these days does Congress consider the hard-pressed taxpayer. With this bill it does, while also helping the truly needy (not to be confused with the wanty, a far different and much larger group).

(Listen to Ronald Reagan's Viewpoint Monday through Friday at 8:08 and 4:40 on WSTU, 1450 on your dial).

Spend

WASHINGTON—Spend, spend, spend that's the motto of the 94th Congress and, so far, even if it really isn't there to spend.

There can be no other explanation of the recent action raising the national debt ceiling to a preposterous record high of $577 billion.

Even more unfortunate is the fact that debt ceiling really won't be enough to get the federal government through the fiscal year. Sometime this fall the Congress will be again asked to raise the limit to accommodate more and more deficit spending.

However the fact that the debt ceiling increase was a limited hike, extending to November 15, was a matter of sorts for those of us who favor a balanced federal budget.

Earlier in June, the House turned down on a bill to extend the temporary debt ceiling to $616.1 billion through June 30, 1976. And it happened by a fairly substantial 225-175 vote.

That forced the spenders to come back with a smaller increase for a shorter length of time. Otherwise, we would have reverted to the permanent debt ceiling of $400 billion, a level far below outstanding obligations.

However, even the smaller increase was the promise of a new look at the debt ceiling in the fall was opposed by a sizeable number of fiscal conservatives, including myself. In fact 198 members of the House of Representatives and 21 Senators voted against the smaller increase.

Opposition to the debt ceiling increase was based on a simple fact of life as long as the Congress approves these so-called temporary increases, we will never force a return to a balanced budget.

Equally as important, we will never see an end to the mushrooming growth of the federal government, to its almost unbelieveable spending levels, to its burdensome tax policies, and to its interference in our economy.

The national debt ceiling reflects just how much our children and grandchildren will be indebted to the holders of government notes in the future.

And, this year alone, it will cost every man, woman and child in this country more than $250 just to make interest payments. That means it is costing the taxpayers of this country more than $1,000 a second in interest payments more than $100 million a day – to keep all the fancy giveaway programs going.

But, despite the apparent closeness of the vote on raising the debt limit, there was no real indication the Congress is going to change its ways.

And that made for a disappointing way for the Congress to adjourn for a 10 day recess.

The only bright note in the week before adjournment came on the State Department appropriations bill for fiscal 1976. By a solid 246-164 vote the House amended the State Department's budget to prohibit the use of any funds to negotiate the surrender or abandonment of U.S. rights in the Panama Canal.

That action, coming in the face of adamant State Department opposition and charges that Congress was "tying the hands" of our diplomats, is the strongest showing yet of the American people's disapproval of current plans to give the Panama Canal away.

Let us hope it is a message the State Department understands.

Two New Ways To Earn Tax Free Interest and Pay Less Income Tax

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT (IRA)

If you are not an active participant in a retirement plan where you work you can now start your own pension plan an Individual Retirement Account (IRA).

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:

The Pension Reform Act of 1974 now allows wage earners who are not covered under any qualified retirement plan to set aside up to 15% of their annual earnings, not to exceed $1,500 per year. All deposits to your IRA will be tax deductible and the interest will accumulate income tax free.

While your funds are accumulating in your IRA, we will pay interest compounded daily at our usual high rates.

When you reach retirement age any age you choose between 59 and 70 you may arrange to have your funds paid out to you in a lump sum or over a period of years. As you receive this money, it will then become taxable as ordinary income.

BENEFIT PAYMENTS

A. Regular Retirement Benefits
At retirement age (between 59 and 70 you may elect by written notice to withdraw your funds in one lump sum or to have them distributed to you over a period of years not to exceed your life expectancy.

B. Distributions made prior to age 59
Benefit payments can be made prior to age 59 for death or disability without incurring adverse tax penalties. However, if you voluntarily withdraw your funds prior to age 59 the distribution will be included as ordinary income for the year of receipt and a federal tax penalty equal to 10% of the amount received will be imposed.

ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

Any wage earners who are not already covered by Keogh Plans, Corporate Retirement Plans, Government Plans and Tax Sheltered Annuities may establish an IRA.

Also, the following persons are eligible a spouse working part time or full time, students with part time jobs, self employed individuals who do not wish to establish a Keogh Plan.

TAX ADVANTAGES

A. Pre retirement Years (accumulation period)
During this period of time you are allowed to take a tax deduction for the full amount of your deposit. You are entitled to this deduction even if you don't itemize your deductions. Also the interest earned by your IRA will accumulate income tax free until distributed.

B. Retirement Years (distribution period)
When you reach retirement age any age you select between 59 and 70 the proceeds from IRA are fully taxable as ordinary income when distributed. But the effect of this tax will be lessened by your lower tax bracket after retirement and your qualifying for a double tax exemption at age 65.

HR 10 PLAN FOR SELF-EMPLOYED

The Pension Reform Act of 1974 contains important new provisions for self employed persons to set up tax sheltered retirement funds. We at First National have all the information available on retirement planning for the self employed and invite you to come in for a comprehensive explanation.

SETTING UP THE PLAN

If you are self employed, the owner of an unincorporated business, a doctor, lawyer, accountant or other professional person, you may set up a retirement plan. Also, members of partnerships may set up plans.

You may set up your plan at First National with your funds going into a special savings or certificate of deposit account. You may contribute up to $7,500.00 each year or 100% of your income, whichever is less. If you desire to contribute more than $7,500.00 you are subject to the limit of $7,500.00 or 15% of earned income, whichever is less.

TAX BENEFITS

During your pre retirement years you are allowed to take your deduction for the full amount of your deposit. As interest and dividends are earned, they are compounded tax free. At age 59½ and 70½ the funds are fully taxable as ordinary income when distributed. But the effect of this tax will be lessened by your lower tax bracket after retirement and your qualifying for a double tax exemption at age 65. Check the comparative chart below to see the advantages of a tax sheltered plan vs. a non shelter plan.

EMPLOYEES ARE INCLUDED

You must include your full time employees in your plan who have worked for you for three or more years. Contributions to the plan for you and your employees must be at the same percentage rate as there cannot be any discrimination under this law.

PENSION OR PROFIT SHARING PLAN

You may establish either type plan depending on your individual needs.

PENALTY FOR PREMATURE DISTRIBUTION

A premature distribution occurs when you withdraw money before age 59 except in case of death or disability. The government will impose a 10% excise tax in addition to regular income tax.

IF YOU SET ASIDE $7,500.00 A YEAR YOU COULD EXPECT

Ocean Breeze News Notes

BY LETA KEITH

334-4366 6 Vista Drive

Ocean Breezites by the score moved chairs out to Lil Bit Lane and along the river bank to watch the Fourth of July fireworks gratefull to be able to see the fabulous display without having to get mixed up in the enormous crowd at the causeway.

Fred and Hulda Tyler of Vista Drive entertained 14 old friends at a cocktail party and porch picnic. The festivities began at 5:30 p.m. and ended at the conclusion of the fireworks, the aerial pieces of which were clearly viewed from the porch. This occasion is a continuance of an annual custom which began when the Tylers first moved to the river front.

There were other picnics and gatherings in the good old American Fourth of July tradition. Everyone who saw Jensen Beach's first parade expressed delight at the variety in floats and units.

Seeing our own centenarian Scott Miles was a highlight of the parade. The weather held good for all of the activities - a thoroughly entertaining and patriotic occasion.

The big parade is over. We were not lucky in winning a prize, but all on our "Covered Wagon" float were warmed by the applause all along the route. All the hard work put into our dresses and the wagon was appreciated by many. We were glad to have been a part of the celebration.

What a day! First the parade, the flag raising, the day-long celebration on the causeway, closing with the beautiful fireworks at day's end.

Here at H.O. we had a box lunch affair in the recreation in the afternoon, and would you believe it? ... we had 76 people attend. How is that for a Bicentennial '76 Celebration?

Special thanks to John Vetterl for helping Mac McCabe get the wagon and trailer to the park, for driving the float in the parade, and also in returning them. And we appreciate the wonderful help from our manager, Hal Holmes.

We have a "Paul Revere" here in Holiday Out. Thanks for a speedy ride.

Ted Lontz found a turtle who had been in a man-made pond behind Turtle Reef Apartments and apparently had lost her way back after laying her eggs. She was headed for A1A. Ted, Hal Holmes and Erick Gross of H.O. and men from the House of Refuge got her turned around and when she found herself at the crest of the dune, she made her way happily into the ocean. Ted covered her eggs. Nancy Lontz was interviewed by a reporter from the Miami Herald and pictures were taken.

Another of Stephanie Kiefaber's travel stories:

"No one in the neighborhood of Dinosaur National Monument should miss seeing it. The Visitor's Center is built right over the display of bones that are relics from many different kinds of reptiles. These bones are millions of years old. Instead of removing the bones and making complete skeletons like they have in museums, these bones are left imbedded in the rocks, so you can tell what they are. Three men have been working and chipping away, uncovering many relics for more than twenty years. They estimate they have about 20 years more of work. You can watch the men at this very painstaking and slow work because they are inside the building. Their display is very interesting and informative. You can't drive up to the Visitor's Center because the parking is limited, so one takes a tram bus up.

They stopped at a campgrounds close to Green River where they could watch boats come in to unload. A Ranger told them the trip these boats take couldn't compare to the Cataract Canyon on the Colorado, but is thrilling nevertheless. They took another tram ride for ten miles round trip to see petroglyphs, saw many plants and flowers and an old ranch once owned by Josie Morris, who planted three fruit groves, had her garden and five husbands. She died the age of 90, still hard at work.

Stephanie continues, "Off to Flam Gorge National Recreation Area, Ashley National Forest, Utah. In comparison to Glen Canyon Dam, small, only one third the size, but is more beautiful, beautiful trees, mountains galore.

They were 7000 feet up and all food in their refrigerator froze so. Yes, they had snow and rain for f days, but say the scenery made up it. They saw bear, elk, moose, mountain lion, bald eagles, and many ... animals as well as flowers and shr aplenty. They say they hated to ... this beautiful, primitive place.

Martha O'Dell was a close third.

'Scramblers' scrambled!

PORT ST. LUCIE--Last Wednesday when the rain came down at the Holiday Country Club, there was a "whole lot of scramblin' going on" with members of the North Port Women's Golf Association heading for cover.

The playing event was a "Scramble" with the following winners:

Group 1, with scores of 43, included Dot Peterson, Alma Kramel and Kay Harris. Taking second honors, with scores of 44, were Virginia Lieberth, Alys Scott, Edris Kessler and Jane Schmidt.

Big Fourth

Thousands cheer parade, fireworks

JENSEN BEACH--The Spirit of '76 prevailed in Jensen Beach on Independence Day 1975.

A parade, the first July 4 parade in Jensen Beach, started the day with weather only a Chamber of Commerce can brag about -- blue, clear skies with a gentle breeze.

The day ended on Jensen Beach Causeway with Bill Yurillo staging another one of his fabulous fireworks displays.

Thousands of people, young and old, who love a parade, gathered along Commercial Street and Indian River Drive to cheer and applaud the floats, marching units and children, patriotic themes, and the parade theme, "Our American heritage."

Under the chairmanship of Andrea Webb of the Jensen Beach Auxiliary, the long parade of more than 35 marching units, floats and hundreds of children on bicycles and in costumes moved along Commercial Street at 10 a.m.

There was "Uncle Same" who was walking tall, and Spanish American War Veteran Captain Francis Adams.

Jensen Beach Elementary School assistant principal John Clyde put together some Martin County musicians and the marching unit to provide some of the music for the parade and the unit won a first place trophy as the best marching unit.

The crowd loved the little children on their decorated bikes, and the girls on their unicycles.

Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce took top honors with their beautiful float, with its big liberty bell, won first place as the "most patriotic entry."

The parade disbanded on the Causeway where the flag raising ceremony at noon got the Causeway festivities under way which included games and watermelon eating contests for the children and a July 4 outing for the family.

"It was the biggest crowd we ever had," long-time July 4 celebration worker and observer Dick Neeson said.

"We started earlier and we had more boats out in Indian River," Neeson said.

Neeson said more than 80 boats were counted along the Causeway and the boaters joined with the huge crowd to thrill to the fabulous fireworks display.

Yurillo, who always stages on of the most outstanding fireworks displays in the state, promises an even greater show July 4, 1976, when the nation celebrates its 200th birthday.

The Bicentennial Celebration year started off with a bang; the shots heard next July 4 will be heard in distant points as the folks know it's Bill Boom Boom Yurillo doing his thing on the Fourth of July in Jensen Beach.

Chamber float is top winner

JENSEN BEACH--There were some beautiful floats and beautiful people in the first annual Jensen Beach Independence Day parade, but the judges had to make a choice as to who were to receive the beautiful trophies.

The judges decided that the most beautiful float was that of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, and awarded the grand prize float trophy to that organization.

Second place trophy float was entered by the Democratic Club with the Jensen Beach Elementary taking the third place trophy.

Jensen Beach Optimist Club Auxiliary won a trophy for the "most patriotic entry" and Little People's Place of Stuart won the first place trophy in the business entry.

John Clyde, assistant principal at Jensen Beach Elementary, and his marching band won first place in the marching unit category, with Banner Lake taking second place trophy in the marching unit division.

The 4-H Club won first place in the parade horse division, with Peter Razzi taking first place in the bike entry and "Uncle Sam" Harvey Schlemmer winning the first place in the costume division.

Races

JENSEN BEACH--A highlight of Fourth of July activities on the Causeway each year is the variety of races for kids and parents. First place winners receive $1, and second places pay off to the tune of 50 cents.

From 50-yard dashes to potato races, participants ran with gusto and spent their hard won cash on icy things to cool off.

Well, the Fourth of July was really a delightful day in more ways than one.

It started off with Jensen Beach's first 4th of July parade under the sponsorship of the J.B. Chamber of Commerce. A number of merchants, civic clubs, fire and police departments, Shrine, youth groups and others made up an array of beautiful and colorful floats, including an authentic "Old Covered Wagon" decorated by lot owners of Holiday Out.

In the evening, a flotilla of close to a hundred boats gathered around the causeway to watch the fireworks. On the causeway were hundreds of cars with old and young folks to enjoy the rockets bursting in air of all colors and designs, with many oh's and ah's from all.

To me, to think that a small community such as Jensen Beach can attract the hundreds from far and near to our area to see a show like the good folks of Jensen Beach put on is really something to be proud of. The time, work and public spirit that went into making this day really makes one feel proud of living in the area.

In Venture Out, we had many lot owners with us to enjoy the long restful weekend, swimming, boating and on the beach. It is a beautiful place to be.

VENTURE HARBOUR

BY FRAN TENER & JESSIE SHAVER

Received a newsy letter from Anne Van Willigen. She has been having some very fine dinners cooked by her niece who is a gourmet cook. Menus included duck, raccoon and possum stews. Usually Anne doesn't try such things, but she said it looked good, smelled good, and when she tasted these unusual dishes, they were delicious. We'll have to warn our neighborhood raccoons to beware of Anne when she returns.

Jessie Shaver's sister and her husband are visiting. They are Mary and Ken McGehee of Miami Shores. They brought Mrs. Cochran, Jessie's mother, up for a visit and stayed long enough to enjoy it here before returning home.

Betty Jones is really the caretaker of potted plants these days she has plants from the Ramsays, Wrenches, Middletons, et al, and she talks to them lovingly so that they will show T.S.D. when their owners return in the fall. Betty was overheard saying to one plant "Hazel loves you," because she doesn't want the plant to think Hazel Ramsay has abandoned it.

+ + +

The Higgins have Catherine's aunt and cousins, The Elliotts, visiting. They have also been enjoying all the grandchildren these days, now that school is out.

+ + +

Fran Tener is very proud of her new table top. She was instructed and helped by Jessie Shaver. The top was sanded by Larry Atkin, a level supplied by Les Shaver, a hair-dryer from Jessie helped in the operation, and Dick Tener put rope around the edge. It turned out to be a community project.

We were sorry to see our neighbors Virginia and John Martin of Venture Out-Indian River pull out their trailer headed for New Orleans. John's work at the nuclear plant was done, so they have relocated. However, they already have a golf membership there and Virginia has lined up tennis courts, so it will be action as usual. They plan to keep their lot here and, when they retire, settle here permanently. We'll look forward to seeing them then.

Helen Frederickson has moved to her new condominium in Lansing, Michigan, and is very pleased with her place and its facilities. There is a sauna and every kind of exercise equipment is available.

Lake Manor News Notes

BY SYLVIA SIMAN

An idea by Alex Bell was carried out very nicely on the evening of July 4th. Many of our folks watched the fireworks from our pier, then retired to the rec hall for refreshments and conversation. All joined in singing a number of patriotic songs, accompanied by Alice Stoddard. Alice and Karl Rosengarth joined forces to play some other songs.

This was all very refreshing, as we had our first small Bicentennial gathering. Many thanks to the Bells, Stoddards and McCourts.

Virginia Munro and her mother, Caroline Schaeffer just returned from a trip to Orange, California where they visited Harry's uncle, Harry Warren, at Beverly Hills. Mr. Warren is the song writer who wrote "Lullaby of Broadway" and other well-known songs.

They also visited Virginia's son John Munro, and went on to Las Vegas to try their luck, also to see entertainers Wayne Newton and Totie Fields.

At Long Beach they visited the Queen Mary which has a hotel, restaurant and many nice shops and is docked there at L.B.

Safe and happy traveling to those leaving. And to all...

News of Nettles Island

BY DOROTHY ENGEL

76 new arrivals checked in at the gate during the night of July 3rd, changing the pace here a bit at ORA.

All the golf carts were in demand again. The pools & beach were filled with splashing and laughter. The night of the 4th brought spectators along the seawall to view the fireworks display from the Jensen Beach Causeway. In spite of the crowds viewing the fireworks, we still had a good turnout of almost 100 for Fri. night bingo. Sterling Cole split the Nettles Island jackpot.

Jack Farmer, lot owner of 164-1, passed away July 2nd at the age of 47, after a long illness. His wife Kay phoned from Virginia to relate the sad news. Jack was a friend of many here and a member of our security force last summer. Our condolences go out to Kay and her family.

+ + +

The Schascks of lot 88-11 are pulling their Airstream through Louisiana, Texas and Arizona for 5 weeks beginning July 7.

+ + +

Terry Arthur, daughter of Frank and Joyce Arthur, Lot 103-11, graduated June 15th from nursing in Richmond, Va. She has been vacationing here on Celebrity Island and returns to Virginia.

Outrigger award to John

JENSEN BEACH—The Frances Langford Outrigger Resort Game Fish Award was presented to John Smith for a six-foot, 30-pound sailfish. Smith was fishing from the boat Fran L with Capt. Pete Robertson. The fish was caught and released June 27.

July 4th.

Were you wondering what all the boats were doing here a week ago Fri. and Sat.? They were part of the week long boat excursion trip from Kissimmee to Lake Okeechobee. About 75 boats lined our seawall & marina along the causeway from wherece their occupants enjoyed our facilities. The majority stayed the night at the Sheridan.

+ + +

We have a new addition to our recreation facilities. I'm sure you've all noticed it as you can't miss it. That's our new handball court. Just completed and ready for your added recreation pleasure. Looks like a good place to practice tennis too.

On lunch break, Gene Kern saved a little 10 yr. old girl who was taken under while trying to ride the rough waves we've been having. He said it was a little difficult swimming in with her with the rough surf, but it all turned out well. It's a good thing you happende to be in the ocean on lunch break Thanks Gene.

Keith Koenig, the young man who is playing the organ for Sunday morning church service and had been on the maintenance staff, is now one of our lifeguards. He is a very conciencious fellow who will do just great I'm sure.

+ + +

Karate lessons anyone? Kevin Fitzgerald, our security guard, who has a brown belt and 2½ years instruction in Karate, is giving instructions to anyone interested. He started instructions last Thursday with Johnny, Jumbo and Cindy Hughes. Melissa and Brian Metcalf as his first students here at ORA. Here's a good opportunity to learn the art of self-defense, whether you're young or old.

FOOTSTEPS IN THE SAND

Tiny footsteps in the sand
Pail & shovel in her hand
Sun streaked hair tossed to and fro
As ocean breezes gently blow

Seashells cast upon the shore
Soon find her pail their home
A cherished smile upon her face
She has claimed them as her own

Rachel LaCluyse, our rafia and pine needle crafts teacher, started us last week making circles from soda or beer can top pulls and covering them with rafia. This week and next week we'll learn how to weave in the pine needles. After we get proficient at these two steps we'll be able to decide what we want to make. Of course, practice makes perfect. It is not too late to join us.

Every morning and afternoon you may see a group running and swimming in and about the pool area. We need a few more to sign up that want to learn how to swim. Now is the time to do it. Sign on the sheet on the bulletin board.

She splashes in the shallow waves
That ride high on the shore
A whole new world surrounds her
Amongst the oceans roar

She picks up sand, she runs & laughs
so joyfully she plays
It's happiness she brings to all who watch her carefree ways

Seniors have a ball!

JENSEN BEACH—A unique feature of the local Fourth of July parade was a big load of memories.

It was a bus load of revellers, gay noise-makers, wise-crackers, too. It was a bus load of wishes and dreams for our country's bright advent into the bicentennial celebration.

The entry was Martin County Council on Aging's courtesy bus — and its fourteen occupants.

The parade was a fun trip for folks who don't often get to see parades, let alone be in parades. Some riders from mid-western states had never seen a Fourth of July parade. For them, along with Jensen Beach itself, this was a first.

The idea of entering the bus, and placarding it "Guess The Age of Us" for a $25 U.S. bond prize to the closest estimate of total age of occupants was generated at a recent meeting of the Council board of directors. Ms. May Timson initiated the arrangements. Marvin Johnson volunteered to procure and trim the bus with patriotic colors. He furnished the flag-draped horns which tootled out the bus windows along the parade route, too.

The winner of the prize, donated by a board member, will be announced next week in The Mirror, after all the entry blanks have been submitted at the Chamber of Commerce building. The colorful entry blanks were passed out to the crowds lining the parade route by Ms. Doris Rupp and Ms. Jill Morris. Edwin Stewart, who is on the staff of the Council as an outreach worker, assisted in this project. Ms. Madeline Shaw was hostess on the bus. She added color to the working ensemble in her old-fashioned dress and bonnet provided by Ms. Millie Van Nostrand, a new addition to the staff.

W. Boyd Smith, project director for the Council on Aging, drove the bus in the absence of its very popular regular driver, Harold Lloyd. Smith relates there were poignant and nostalgic play back of fond memories during the ride. Almost everyone had stories of scary firecrackers, some had serious injuries. More vivid memories centered on big family get-togethers with picnicking, rollicking games, socializing with friends and relatives long gone.

The raucous horns, fluttering flags flashing decorations and the waving crowds were merely trimmings for the occasion. The real spirit of the day was in the hearts and minds of seniors who expressed grateful appreciation for participating in the celebration.

Without the planning and thoughtful concern of the board and staff of Martin County Council on Aging, most of those riding would have spent a lonely vigil with their memories in solitary monotony at home. The agency is concerned that inevitable aging processes do not deny our senior citizens privilege to enjoy active participation in what's going on in the county. The Council also provides one unified source of reference to those many services in the county by providing 24-hour telephone contact, merely by dialing CUE-2-AID 283-2243.

Transportation and personal escort services are but a minor part of what is available for seniors through the Council on Aging. It provides home health care for bed-ridden clients, chore services and errand functions for those unable to get about. Recreational programs, continuing education for adults, problem counselling and outreach through personal visits to the homes of retirees are additional features of service. Outreach staff members run a continual survey to locate problems troubling retirees. They provide relief on the spot, or they refer cases of need to health services, family services, aid to food stamp and social security problems. One outreach worker is permanently assigned to the Indiantown area, with others serving demographic concentrations of population along the eastern margin of Martin County.

One little lady coming up toward her ninetieth birthday summed it all up for the group as she was helped off the bus and into her home. "This was a real fun day! I can hardly wait 'til next year!"

The two hundredth anniversary of our nation will be celebrated next year in fine style, with these exuberant seniors adding their bit to it all!

KEY ACCOUNT

"Community Spirit" is the password... Now there's Key Account.

Lots of new services have been offered recently by financial institutions. Now Community Federal brings these services together under one roof and offers you one Key Account.

It's a new type of interest-earning account. If you make transactions, you'll receive monthly statements. If there is no account activity, we'll send you quarterly statements to show the interest you've earned.

And your funds will earn 5¼% yearly interest, compounded daily, from the day you put your money in until the day you take it out.

The "Master Key"

Your $300 minimum Key Account balance will bring you some very valuable money management tools.

- Free Prestige Card. Serves as your account identification at all Community Federal offices — and at participating Prestige savings and loans across the country.
- Prestige Emergency Cash. From now on, when you're out of town and out of cash you're not out of luck! Just visit the nearest Prestige location (over 2,000 in 46 states). You can cash a personal check or make an Emergency Cash Withdrawal from your Key Account.
- Free Dial-A-Count® Service. Earn daily interest on your paycheck, then transfer that money to your bank checking account for monthly bills. Transfer money from checking to Key Account, too — by telephone, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.
- Transmatic® Savings. You never need to miss a savings deposit again. We can make it for you — automatically — on the day (or days) of the month that you specify.
- Free Automatic Mortgage Payment. For Community Federal home loan customers. Let us do the work for you!
- Free Direct Deposit of Social Security Checks. Do your plans conform to check day? Has your check ever been lost or stolen? Now the Treasury Department can mail your check directly to Community Federal each month. And we'll deposit it in your Key Account — automatically.
- Free Travelers Checks. Why pay a service charge? You can have as many free First National City Travelers Checks as you need — as often as you like!
- Free Money Orders. Sometimes you'd rather pay a bill with a money order than with a check. Now you can have free money orders with Key Account.
- Free Notary Service. There's a notary public at every Community Federal office (except our Singer Island Drive-In Facility). And now this service is free.
- More Free Services Will Be Added!

Open Your Key Account!

Local banker gets Florida Association appointment

STUART–David B. Irons, President, First National Bank and Trust Company of Stuart announced that Dale M. Hudson, Senior Vice President, has been appointed to serve on the Florida Bankers Association's Bank Charge Card Committee.

The Florida Bankers Association is the State trade association representing the over 740 commercial banks in Florida. The Association is the legislative voice of the industry in matters affecting banks and bank customers and is the organization through which Florida bankers accomplish their industry tasks of banker education, inter-bank communications, and public relations.

More than 400 bankers from all areas of the State and from all size banks volunteer their time and efforts each year toward helping the Association accomplish its industry objectives. The Florida Bankers Association was founded in 1888 for the purpose of providing a statewide organization through which commercial banks could work together to improve banking services to the public.

Foundation events raise $6,000

JENSEN BEACH–The Indian River Chapter of the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation has announced that almost $6,000 was raised during the past year in the tri-county area for diabetes research.

During the month of May's door-to-door fund raising campaign in the Martin County area, a total of $2,317.45 was raised, bringing the year's total to $2,917.45. Ninety-nine percent of the proceeds were turned in to the national foundation.

The national group awarded $656,790 to diabetes research for the fiscal year 1975-76, bringing its cumulative research support to over $1 million in two years as a voluntary health agency.

Funding will go to 19 research projects and six post-doctoral fellowships. The grants, awarded to researchers throughout the country, were based on recommendations of the foundation's Medical Advisory Board and final approval of its lay board of directors.

Support comes from the combined fund raising efforts of 52 chapters across the United States and in Montreal, Canada. The foundation's main objective is raising money for diabetes research to arrest the complications and, ultimately, find a cure for the disease itself.

Local chapter secretary, Renee M. Marsteller of Jensen Beach states, "We would like to thank the public and our area chairpersons for the successful campaign."

Adult courses well attended

JENSEN BEACH–More than 250 different classes and courses were available to Martin Countians in 1974-75 by the Martin County Adult Education Department of the Public Schools.

We had another successful year, director Henry Childers said.

The department's year ended June 30.

Childers said one hundred and seventy-two teachers were employed part-time to instruct more than 6,000 adults and more than one in every four high school diplomas earned in the county were earned and awarded through the department.

The department also graduated four classes of nurse aides in cooperation with the Martin Memorial Hospital.

G-A club meets Friday

STUART–The German-American Club of Stuart will hold their regular monthly meeting on Friday, July 11 at 7 p.m. in The First National Bank of Stuart.

"My new Olds had barely 7,000 miles on it. No rustproofer in town would touch it, let alone guarantee it."

Nobody but Tuff-Kote."

Because only Tuff-Kote uses an exclusive two step rust-proofing system with: 1) a unique penetrant that displaces moisture, goes down to the bare metal and stops existing rust in its tracks. 2) an aluminized sealant that keeps out moisture and prevents rust from ever starting up again.

Other rustproofers just cover up rust. But Tuff-Kote Dinol stops rust dead.

So now my car still looks clean as it wastes on the outside. And it won't rust any more inside. And that could mean an extra $200 in my pocket at trade-in time.

If you own a used car Tuff-Kote is the only one who can rustproof it. If you own a new car, Tuff-Kote is the only one who should.

Stuart resident's guess is close

JENSEN BEACH--A Stuart resident who came within 69 of guessing the correct number in the July 4th guessing game at the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce booth on the Causeway has won a total of $56 in merchandise certificates.

Art Hansen, chamber president, said Alice Coburn guessed that the total inquiries--telephone calls and number of visitors received by the chamber--was 11,036.

Hansen said the total inquiries from July 1, 1974 to June 30, 1975 was 10,987.

Second place winner, with a guess of 10,208 was Kay Aycock also of Stuart, and she will receive four $5 gift certificates.

The first place winner gets seven $5 gift certificates from participating merchants in the Jensen Beach-Rio area, according to Hansen.

Tied for third place with guesses of 10,000 were Edna Cox of Fort Lauderdale and Maria Bielenberg of Stuart, and they will receive one $5 gift certificate each.

Hansen said a total of 38 merchants took part in the first guessing game during the Fourth of July celebration.

Spinneys return

JENSEN BEACH--Mr. and Mrs. Randolph B. Spinney have returned from a two week visit in Chillicothe, Ohio where they attended the 50th anniversary of Mrs. Spinney's High School graduation class and also had a reunion with her sisters and families.

A dinner for the anniversary was held at the Chillicothe Country Club with 39 members attending with their spouses and guests.

Of the original 100 class members 34 are deceased. Those traveling the farthest was a class member from California and two from Florida, and many from various states as well as Ohio.

It was difficult to recognize most of the classmates after not seeing many of them for 50 years.

The graduates covered many fields some were Doctors, Attorneys, Professors, a Lieutenant Colonel, Ret. teachers, nurses and many in the business world.

The ex-Principal who is now in his nineties was unable to attend. He was very strict but everyone had a great deal of respect for him.

Building trend is UP!

PORT ST. LUCIE–Recession, threatened depression, shortage of mortgage money, high cost of energy all are considered to be reasons for the slow-down in building starts in Port St Lucie as well as the nation.

However, after a slow start in January of this year, the trend in building seems to be up.

Permits issued through the city Building Department in June totaled $464,750 for 18 new residences, $37,791.20 for 17 additions, the sixth consecutive month to show an increase. No applications for commercial starts were received.

Six month totals for 1975 are $3,344,358 for 90 new residences $251,265.20 for additions $47,867 for commercial, adding up to $3,543,540.20.

This is less than half of the first six month total for 1974.

Through June 1974 permits were issued for 231 homes, 124 additions and one commercial project to the tune of $3,952,465. The commercial permit was for $138,000 not really a factor in making the comparison.

The problem became evident last fall when only ten permits were issued in October, seven in November, seven in December and ten in January of this year.

Each month since then, however, has shown a slight increase so, the trend though gradual, is up.

Goldwater speaker

PORT ST. LUCIE–Republican U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona will be the guest speaker at the 78th annual meeting of St. Lucie County's Chamber of Commerce, scheduled for September at the Sandpiper Bay convention hall.

"We are extremely pleased to have Senator Goldwater as our speaker," commented Chamber president Michael Jeffries.

Goldwater, a former presidential candidate is a ranking Republican and perhaps the nation's best known conservative.

Riveretts to meet

PORT ST. LUCIE–A combined meeting and covered dish luncheon is planned by the Port St. Lucie Riveretts for next Monday, July 14.

The affair will start at 10 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Paul Zinter, 390 Naranja.

Lights cause sparks

PORT ST. LUCIE–The sparks generated by the Council's discussion of street lights and who will pick up the tab are sufficient to illuminate the entire city of Port St. Lucie on the darkest of nights.

For the second week in a row, Mayor Schuyler Sharpe and Councilman Larry Kimmel locked horns over the issue with this time Kimmel resigned as chairman of the city's lighting district.

With City Administrator Elmer Cox as the peace-maker, Kimmel later withdrew his resignation.

Kimmel, who claims the city's franchise money can be put to better use than furnishing street lighting, said he has a plan he is confident will work eliminating the City's excessive cost of administrative work while setting up the various lighting districts.

Kimmel has maintained from the beginning that as the city grows, the street light expenses will soon get out of hand.

Mayor Sharpe and Councilman Bill McCheshey are both in favor of the city picking up the street light bills thus giving the people something in return for their franchise dollars.

The matter was tabled until the workshop session next Tuesday, when it is expected that Kimmel will outline his plan for street lighting a plan he says will see the city thru the year 2025 without major problems.

CESA expansion beginning

PORT ST. LUCIE–A large crowd was on hand Monday morning to take part in the ground breaking ceremonies for the CESA Community Center's $44,899 expansion.

This building means everything to me. It is what I have been working for," said CESA President Dick Lundin as he signed the dotted line Friday afternoon awarding the construction contract to Richard K. Davis of Fort Pierce.

Davis submitted the low, combined bid of $47,264 for the construction of a 2,000 sq. ft. building and to refurbish according to Lundin the bid was split into two separate bids, $29,444 for the building, and $7,300 for the rest rooms.

The expansion will include a large lounge or meeting room, a snack bar and two rest rooms with an outside access.

It does not include equipment for furnishings for the snack bar carpeting or air conditioning.

According to Davis, construction will commence within the next few days and should be completed within 60 days.

By early there is no question as will be able to hold a New Year's Eve party right here in our new building. At last our citizens will have some place to go and something to do that will not cost them an arm and a leg," Lundin said, adding he was looking to double with the kids since they were much less than was originally planned.

There will be money still available to purchase the carpeting, equipment and furnishings if necessary," he said.

However, Nick Porter, chairman of the CESA furnishings committee reported several items had already been donated, and is hopeful more donations of furniture, lamps, tables and chairs will follow.

According to Mrs. Porter all donations will be appreciated.

The air conditioning contract, which was under separate bidding will most likely be awarded to Tree Air Conditioning, providing their equipment meets the specifications called for by CESA's architect, George Asikof. Tree was the low bidder at $7,486.

Grimms Air Conditioning submitted the second low bid in the amount of $10,132.

The expansion of the CESA Community Center is expected to relieve some of the overcrowded conditions which exist in the area.

Contest rules changed

PORT ST. LUCIE–New bowling contest rules for the Port St. Lucie Anglers Club were outlined last week by Wayne Whitaker, club contest chairman.

Prizes will be awarded for the three best steak dinners and meal. Two prizes will be awarded for bass, and one each for other fish. Previously prizes had been awarded to every entrant.

Whitaker pointed out that with fewer prizes, each prize could be a much better one.

Jensen merchants offer customers million bucks

JENSEN BEACH–With sirens wailing and lights flashing, Sheriff Jim Holt and his deputies assisted the local shopping center merchants in kicking off a sales promotion, delivering a million dollars in "Jensen-Savannas Bucks" to Community Federal Savings office next to the shopping centers on Commercial Street Tuesday.

The money was the keynote in a six week promotion of shopping in Jensen Beach that begins today. Participating merchants in the Savannas Shopping Center and the Jensen Beach Plaza will give a "Buck" for each dollar spent in their stores.

At the end of the six weeks, on August 16 at 5 p.m., a giant auction will be held at which people can bid on a variety of prizes that will be offered. A professional auctioneer, Maurie Fulton, of Vero Beach, will conduct the auction at which shoppers can bid on the prizes with their "Jensen-Savannas Bucks."

Local merchants include Winn Dixie Supermarket, Eagle Family Discount Store, Tradewinds Restaurant, Leon's Furniture, Man From KIRK Men's Fashions, all in the Jensen Beach Plaza and Ace Hardware, Bruner Sporting Goods, Western Auto, Able Carpet and Jane Morris Fashions of Savannas Shopping Center.

Merchants will match dollar for dollar purchases in their stores. For every dollar spent the shopper will receive one "Jensen-Savannas Buck."

During the six week promotion the merchants plan to offer "red hot specials" to encourage sales offering a different special each week. The specials will be advertised in a promotional page in The Mirror and in the stores.

LOADED–With half the million dollars in "Jensen-Savannas Bucks" unloaded from a sheriff's department van, merchants got their first looks at the boodle that will be given away in the first major Jensen Beach shopping center promotion on Tuesday. Left to right are Deputy Dick Green, Sergeant Ralph Bates, Marie Mullins, manager of Jane Morris Dress Shop, Dick Welker, manager Winn Dixie, Rud Bresse, manager of Western Auto, Don Hoover, manager of Ace Hardware, Sheriff Jim Holt, Rick Urso, Mirror advertising representative, and Bob Davis, manager of Eagle Family Discount Stores.

Regenerate enthusiasm

COG is important

PORT ST. LUCIE–With two members of the Council of Governments (COG) voting to pull out, Martin County Commissioner Timer Powers said Monday he hopes to regenerate enthusiasm in the two-county organization.

"I don't think that the council was given a true test of what it can do," Powers said.

Powers, who spearheaded the drive to create COG last year, said he hopes Martin County Commission will take the lead in regenerating the thinking behind the council.

Last week St. Lucie County, and the City of Fort Pierce both voted to leave the two-county organization, saying that the council was a waste of time.

Martin County Commission Chairman Russ Philbrick agreed with the two St. Lucie County government agencies, pointing out that the council wasn't doing the job we all wanted it to do.

Philbrick blamed the "water skiing presentation" at COG's last meeting as the ending of COG.

Philbrick was referring to the May COG meeting when members spent one hour and 15 minutes listening to complaints from fishermen about water skiers and speeding boats on the North Fork of the St. Lucie River before concluding they could do nothing.

COG recommended that Port St. Lucie Council adopt regulations to control the problem.

At the June 10 meeting of Port St. Lucie Council, the problem of water skiers and speeding boats was discussed with recommendations for solutions.

Port St. Lucie Mayor Schuyler Sharpe pointed out that "many times there are meetings held that are not always involved with important issues at hand, but never-the-less, it gives us the opportunity to air common problems."

Mayor Sharpe said he has written letters to both the Fort Pierce Commission and the St. Lucie County Commission asking that they reconsider their withdrawal from COG.

The time will come when individual governments cannot afford to financially go it alone," Mayor Sharpe said.

"If we don't work together with open minds to discuss our common problems, if no one people who will suffer," the mayor said.

Commissioner Powers also pointed out the importance of the governments of the two counties working together to solve the common problems.

We have a serious water problem on Hutchinson Island and a serious problem in the Savannas," Powers said.

And we have the problem of providing services to the people in north Martin County and south St. Lucie County," the veteran Martin County commissioner said.

I think the council is an extraordinary opportunity to provide services to the public in our area," Powers continued.

Powers expressed disappointment in the action of Fort Pierce and St. Lucie County commissions in voting to leave COG.

He suggested that the two St. Lucie County governments reconsider, and that the council get redirection, and possibly change the ground rules.

COG by-laws now provide that the mayors of Stuart, Port St. Lucie and Fort Pierce and board chairmen of Martin County Commission and St. Lucie County Commission be representatives.

Maybe we could change the ground rules and have volunteers on the council who would have the necessary enthusiasm," Powers said.

COG didn't start with the necessary enthusiasm," Powers said.

It was suggested by Philbrick that the proposed Regional Planning Council of Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River and Palm Beach counties could replace COG.

It was pointed out, however, by Powers that if the Planning Council is approved by the state that it would have certain powers.

"COG doesn't have any power, and cannot impose its authority on the people. I believe in the lowest level of government and we should have it in COG, an opportunity to meet and discuss area problems," Powers said.

Powers noted that because of COG, the state had left the planning of Hutchinson Island under local control.

A state official said last week that because of the action of the two St. Lucie governments, the Bureau of Land and Water Management will be checking into the island situation.

Hutchinson Island, in both counties, had been under study for possible designation as an Area of Critical State Concern, which would have meant state control.

Officials confident of COG

PORT ST. LUCIE–Will the dropouts bring about the death of COG?

"Ain't necessarily so" according to Port St. Lucie Councilman Larry Kimmel.

Since the City of Fort Pierce and the St. Lucie County Commission do not seem to recognize anything exists in the county south of Midway Road, the St. Lucie River Council of Governments may be better off functioning with representatives from Spanish Lakes, Jensen Beach, Stuart, Martin County, the City of Port St. Lucie and the Village of St. Lucie," said Councilman Kimmel.

He labeled the withdrawal of the two entities as being premature action, adding, "They (the county and Ft. Pierce) had hoped the benefits of COG would be derived from the proposed new planning council which, if approved by the state will include St. Lucie, Palm Beach and Indian River counties, but I just don't see it that way."

Although I would not object if they wished to reconsider the action, I don't see the organization benefiting from such action," Kimmel said.

Mayor Schuyler Sharpe and Kimmel were in full agreement during Tuesdays City Council meeting that the downfall of COG would be a great loss to all the residents of the two county area.

"If COG helped to solve only one problem per year or accomplished only one goal per year, then it is a worthwhile organization," said Mayor Sharpe, adding, "I am going to do everything possible to see if we can get COG back in tact."

Just last week the City of Fort Pierce and the St. Lucie County Commission officially notified the Martin County Commission of their withdrawal from COG, an advisory group set up to coordinate two-county planning. The five entity group was comprised of one representative each from St. Lucie County Commission, Martin County Commission, the cities of Stuart, Port St. Lucie and Fort Pierce.

Artificial reef expansion planned by "reeftirees"

BY DICK CAMPBELL

STUART–No one seems quite sure how many tires have been weighted with concrete in one end and laboriously loaded aboard a barge for transportation five miles out in the Atlantic Ocean. The numbers range from 13,000 to 30,000.

However many, it seems that fish like the idea, and have gathered in hundreds of thousands around and in the artificial reef off the St. Lucie Inlet. The sixty-foot depth is perfect for the growth of algae, plankton and coral which begin the life cycle of bait for ever-increasing sizes of fish, from shrimp to lobster, and from minnows to marlin, with all sizes in between feeding off each other.

The success of the reef has been hailed all along the coast.

The Stuart Sailfish Club, sponsors of the reef, have had help from all areas to establish the reef, and club members are looking for local donations to prepare and drop some 22,000 more tires in the ocean.

"We get the tires free, but must pay for the concrete that we pour in the lower portion of each tire (to make them stand up under water) and we must pay for the barge that hauls them out to sea," said William Donaldson vice president of the club.

The donations, sent to the Stuart Sailfish Club, PO Box 3005, Stuart, are tax deductible.

Donaldson points to the use of the tires as being good for the environment, for they would have to be disposed of somewhere.

"Few can claim that it is better to burn or bury these tired old tires," he said.

Volunteers are called "reeftirees" and they labor over the mountain of tires that are on Stuart Airport land awaiting transport.

Donaldson is asking that residents "plant a tire" by donating to the fund drive for concrete and a barge.

Expansion of the reef can do much to broaden the good fishing that the area is famous for as each tire will attract that much more marine life to cycle into greater fishing. The fish would then be moving in and out the inlet, offering a sportsmen a greater opportunity to land a big one.

The fishermen would rather plant a tire than burn one a good point in these times, especially when it might mean meat on the table at home.

First class mail to be upgraded

JENSEN BEACH–A program to upgrade first class mail to air mail level was announced this week by Postmaster Harold Salzler. International air mail and air parcel post (priority mail) will remain as they are now, but, according to Salzler, there will be no advantage to customers using air mail as procedures previously used for the two services are being combined.

Asked if urging customers to use the least costly of the two services isn't a poor business practice, Salzler said, "No." It is not only a good business practice, but also our responsibility to provide our customers good service at the lowest reasonable rate.

"By merging these letter mail channels, overall service will be improved by using more modern and efficient operating procedures."

The program is scheduled to be implemented on August 1.

There are a number of actions being taken to achieve the improved service.

Many offices that previously were targeted for third-day delivery have been upgraded to second-day delivery. Collection schedules will be changed to coincide with distribution and transportation schedules. Work forces will be deployed, where necessary, to be available when the mail arrives for processing.

Transportation schedules are being closely analyzed to determine the fastest mode.

"Increased emphasis throughout the Postal Service is to be placed on meeting higher standards for delivery of first class mail," Salzler concluded.

20 per cent hike

Commissioners start budget cut

JENSEN BEACH–Martin County commissioners this week are starting the slow process of cutting away at preliminary budget figures that represents an increase of about 20 per cent over the present budget.

"We hope to end up with a 5 per cent increase," Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick said.

"It's too early to tell where the cuts will come," Philbrick said, "but the cuts probably will be for equipment requests."

"We may not fill some positions that are now vacant, but we don't expect to fire anyone," the chairman added.

Last week County Administrator Jack Noble presented commissioners with $9.8 million worth of county expenditures proposed by department heads for the next fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

Capital outlay projects listed in the preliminary budget included $250,000 for lease-purchase of a $1 million administration building, probably Executive Plaza across from the Stuart Post Office, and $6,000 for remodeling of county buildings.

Other capital outlay projects listed include $250,000 for library expansion, $12,000 for a computer in the property appraiser's office and $106,000 for a 911 communications center.

An appropriation of $250,000 toward the St. Lucie Inlet improvement project also is included.

Total capital outlay exceeds $2 million.

New equipment requests include a new $8,000 bookkeeping machine for the Finance Department, $9,000 worth of new vehicles for the Sheriff's Department, $10,000 in new equipment for Road Department, $5,000 for mosquito control equipment and $14,000 in cameras for the Marshalls Department.

The budget proposal has an appropriation of $250,000 for road improvements.

Departmental and commission requests total about $7.2 million, with the Sheriff's Department asking the largest single budget, $1.9 million.

The Sheriff's request reflects a $465,000 increase with nearly half of the additional money to employees' retirement.

Philbrick said he hopes to hold Taxing District "A" budget Jensen Beach area) to 5 per cent. He said the present millage for the district is less than one mill.

Celebration set for county's 50th

JENSEN BEACH–Martin County's observance of its 50th anniversary gets Friday, July 18, at 3 p.m. with a barbecue and games at the county fairgrounds.

Sponsored by the Stuart and Martin County volunteer firemen, the barbecue costs $2, and entertainment will range from tugs of war to band music. The five-day celebration will continue the next day with children in various communities installing street decor in an competition with one another leading to Attorney Bill Scott, celebration organizer.

On Sunday, several local ministers will preach on the subject of "Old Time Religion" and their congregation's role in Martin County's history.

Scott said there would be sailboat races near the Stuart causeway Sunday, and Monday condominium recreation supervisors will hold dances.

At Tuesday County Commission's meeting, two of the county's original commissioners–Warner Tilton, Sr., and Carroll Dunscomb–are scheduled to appear.

The celebration is being moved up for about two weeks because Gov. Reubin Askew was going to attend, however, the governor has since cancelled his plans to visit, Scott said.

The county didn't come into being until Aug. 5, 1925.

Inlet dredging this month

JENSEN BEACH–A shoal from the entrance to the St. Lucie Inlet will be removed later this month, according to the Army Corps of Engineers.

The sidecasting dredge Merritt, is scheduled to leave the Wilmington district for the inlet today, July 16, the corps announced.

Depending on the weather removal of the shoal will take two or three weeks.

Under the corps plan for clearing the inlet, the sidecasting dredge will remove the shoal from the shoal into the water south of the channel.

Some 80,000 cubic yards of sand will be pumped from the shoal to channel depths of six and 10 feet, it was reported by the corps.

It is estimated that 30,000 cubic yards of shoal material will have to be removed annually from the inlet entrance to maintain navigability.

The inlet had been cleared of a similar shoal last September and October.

During much of the year, the shoal has prevented deep-water draft boats from using the inlet. Depths as shallow as three feet just outside the channel cut have been recorded by craft that took soundings of the shoal.

Planning resolutions to capital

JENSEN BEACH–Martin County Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick said Monday that he is going to Tallahassee Thursday or Friday" to speak for a new regional planning council.

The trip is being coordinated by the Palm Beach County Commission, Philbrick said.

He will meet with Lt. Gov. James Williams, he said.

Resolutions adopted by commissions in Martin, Palm Beach, St. Lucie and Indian River counties will be sent delivered to Williams, who is head of the State Department of Administration.

The four county commission passed resolutions asking that their counties form a new regional planning council.

At present Martin, Palm Beach and St. Lucie counties are in Planning District 10 along with Broward and Dade.

Indian River County is presently in another planning district.

The estimated population of the four counties is in excess of 650,000 which is sufficient to create a separate regional planning district," the resolutions states.

No action on traffic plan

JENSEN BEACH–Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce directors Monday night voted not to take any action on a one-way traffic plan for downtown Jensen Beach.

At the June director's meeting Martin County Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick said he wanted to get the feelings of the directors on a one-way traffic plan.

"We hope to end up with a 5 per cent increase," Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick said.

"It's too early to tell where the cuts will come," Philbrick said, "but the cuts probably will be for equipment requests."

"We may not fill some positions that are now vacant, but we don't expect to fire anyone," the chairman added.

State critical of beach plan

JENSEN BEACH–A plan to halt Hutchinson Island beach erosion adopted by Martin County Commission last week was labeled by a state official as now workable.

William Carlton, director of the state's Department of Natural Resources (DNR), this week said that the county's plan of sand and sea oats to rebuild an eroded beach won't do the job.

Condominium apartment owners at Little Ocean Club and Little Ocean Place wanted permission to rockpile to halt beach erosion.

Commissioners, however, pledged support of a sand and vegetation program to strengthen the diminishing beach at the two developments.

Carlton said that the department doesn't believe a property owner owning a minimum length of shoreline can effectively or economically nourish his beach for protection purposes.

Carlton pointed out that property owners could get sand, an estimated 50 to 70 cubic yards from inland mines, and it probably would cost less than rocks.

"We would prefer not to have rocks on the beach at all," Carlton said, but when we're issuing upland development we have a responsibility to permit a person to protect his property."

The DNR director said the vegetation won't last because it can't be planted in an area that is washed by tides as it would be in front of the condominiums.

At the Monday night meeting chamber president Art Hansen read a proposed letter to Philbrick regarding a reinstatement of Street traffic plan.

In the suggested letter, Hansen noted that some businessmen are opposed to the plan.

He said that Fire Chief Randolph Spinney was violently opposed because in his opinion the suggestion would delay volunteer firemen in reaching the station and fire trucks might be delayed in reaching their destination.

Hansen suggested that the State Department of Transportation (DOT) be requested to make a study of the traffic situation on Commercial Street and determine what if anything should be done and why.

In May of 1973 a traffic plan by the chamber traffic committee headed by Hansen was submitted to the County Commission which included the present Commercial Street three lanes and parallel parking at the Indian River Drive intersection.

After some discussion by directors on possible traffic solutions for downtown it was noted that with the hike in gasoline prices and the economy situation the traffic problem may not become a reality next winter.

CHAMBER FACTS–Jensen Beach's Chamber of Commerce president Art Hansen and Membership Committee chairman Jackie Hall look over a "fact sheet" on the Monday night meeting of the chamber.

Council on aging grant approved

JENSEN BEACH–The Martin County Council on Aging (MCOA) has been notified that its federal grant will be continued through the new fiscal year at a 25 per cent increase over last year's funding.

Project Director Boyd Smith said the grant is for $58,588.

The money will be used to enable the council to expand its homemaker-chore program, extending the homemaker program to permit more personal errand and chore services, according to Smith.

Smith said that the money will be used to reimburse the counties that administer senior citizens who have no personal means of transportation.

The project director said that to meet the federal grant requirements the council must provide some local support than $8,000 in matching funds this year.

It is clearly evident that we must more and more look to local funding," Smith said. If this program is to expand, there must be local government's tangible support for the needs of this largest single group of voting constituents."

He said the United Fund is providing $3,000 and $2,300 is being spent by Indian River Community College. Another $3,700 comes in "in kind" service by volunteers, the amount determined by the money they would be paid for their work.

Smith said the county commission has not given the council any financial assistance and has given the council no response to its request for help.

We may even finally attract the attention of our county and state governing bodies who have not yet seen the need to include appropriations to care for providing office space and for senior citizen activity centers in the county," Smith said.

The grant just approved is for the fiscal year beginning this month and ending in June 1976.

Re-numbering for Jensen this fall

JENSEN BEACH–Martin County's house numbering program (911) is expected to begin in Jensen Beach area in September.

County Attorney Steve Calvert said Nolan Peet, chief of the numbering system, and two youths in the summer program are expected to be working in the Port Salerno area through August.

Calvert said two youths in the Neighborhood Youth Program are helping in the house numbering program.

Last year Martin County adopted a system of street and avenue numbering to avoid duplication and confusion in the addresses of county residences.

Calvert said the new system is being put into effect gradually, one community at a time to avoid chaos in the changeover.

Bridge fishing law enforced

JENSEN BEACH–Marine Patrol Officer L.D. Byrd reminded fishermen that fishing off a bridge in Martin County with more than one rod is breaking a special state law.

Byrd said that when fishermen are asked about the law, they don't know anything about it."

Out-of-county anglers are the worst offenders according to Byrd, and many of them are not aware of the county law, which also applies to hard surface roads.

He said the law, passed in 1961, apparently was passed so one guy doesn't take up all the bridge with his poles.

We have issued a few warnings, and are going to be making arrests from now on," Byrd said.

PAVING PATH–The bike path along South Savanna Road was paved Tuesday, July 8, by crews of Dickerson, Inc., of Stuart. Dickerson's bid for the 2,900-foot bike trail was $7,300. The eight foot bike path extends from the VFW north to the Jensen Beach Elementary School property.

Chamber fact sheet is being circulated

JENSEN BEACH–A fact sheet telling the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce story is being circulated by the chamber membership committee, chairman George Duso said.

Duso, owner of Jensen's 5 & 10, said the committee wants to promote the business community and how to better serve the people.

Serving with Duso on the committee are Bud Breese, manager of Western Auto, and R.P. Weiser, owner of Anchorage Boatel.

Duso said that one of the committee's goals is to have a map which shows the area from Sewall's Point north to White City with Spanish Lakes, Port St. Lucie and Eden.

The answer? The chamber is the one organization that serves the interest of the Jensen Beach-Rio community.

More than 5,000 persons come into the chamber office on Commercial Street during the year and ask about where some of their friends live, what motel accommodations are available and ask for brochures of the area.

About 25,000 fishing guides are distributed and 3,000 maps of the area are distributed each year.

The chamber sponsors the turtle watch, art show, Christmas program, Halloween festivities and Fourth of July celebration on the causeway.

Present membership is 195.

Jensen merchants plan to activate

JENSEN BEACH–Another move is underway to form a Merchants Committee of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Serving with Duso on the committee are Bud Breese, manager of Western Auto, and R.P. Weiser, owner of Anchorage Boatel.

Duso said that one of the committee's goals is to have a map which shows the area from Sewall's Point north to White City with Spanish Lakes, Port St. Lucie and Eden.

Power out during storm

JENSEN BEACH–Residents in some of the Jensen Beach area were without electricity for about 30 minutes Thursday afternoon July 10.

Florida Power and Light Co. manager Gene L. VanLoren said lightning knocked out control equipment at the substation on U.S. 1 just north of the Jensen Beach Cutoff Road.

The power outage started at 4:18 p.m. and wasn't restored until 4:49, VanLoren said.

Because of the equipment failure, caused by the lightning, we had to send a crew to the substation to get the equipment back in operation," the manager said.

News Notes from PSL

Fourth of July Independence Day is over for another year. Port St. Lucie celebrated with a parade - Bar-BQ - and Sunshine. Everyone thought it was a grand parade. I didn't get to see all of it going up Prima Vista Blvd. to Sportsman Park because I was in it. Bob and I had a great time decorating our boat to represent the Anglers Club and with the help of several Anglers we had it ready on time. Everyone enjoyed seeing the parade and we enjoyed seeing the people along the way.

20 per cent hike

Commissioners start budget cut

JENSEN BEACH--Martin County commissioners this week are starting the slow process of cutting away at preliminary budget figures that represents an increase of about 20 per cent over the present budget.

We hope to end up with a 5 per cent increase, Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick said.

It's too early to tell where the cuts will come, Philbrick said. "But the cuts probably will be for equipment requests.

"We may not fill some positions that are now vacant, but we don't expect to fire anyone," the chairman added.

Last week County Administrator Jack Noble presented commissioners with $9.8 million worth of county expenditures proposed by department heads for the next fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

Capital outlay projects listed in the preliminary budget included $250,000 for lease-purchase of a $1 million administrative building, probably Executive Plaza across from the Stuart Post Office, and $65,000 for remodeling of county buildings.

Other capital outlay projects listed include $250,000 for library expansion; $12,000 for a computer in the property appraiser's office and $106,000 for a 911 communications center.

An appropriation of $250,000 toward the St. Lucie Inlet improvement project also is included.

Total capital outlay exceeds $2 million.

New equipment requests include a new $3,000 bookkeeping machine for the Finance Department, $94,000 worth of new vehicles for the Sheriff's Department, $90,000 in new equipment for Road Department, $146,000 for transportation equipment and $14,000 for camera for the Mosquito Department.

The budget proposal has an appropriation of $250,000 for road improvements.

Departmental and commission requests total about $7.2 million, with the Sheriff's Department asking the largest single budget--$1.9 million.

The Sheriff's request reflects a $165,000 increase with nearly half of the additional money to employees retirement.

Philbrick said he hopes to hold Taxing District "A" budget (Jensen Beach area) to 5 per cent. He said the present millage for the district is less than one mill.

nlet dredging this month

JENSEN BEACH--A shoal from the entrance to the St. Lucie Inlet will be removed later this month, according to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The sidecasting dredge Merritt, is scheduled to leave the Wilmington area for the inlet today, July 16, the corps announced.

Depending on the weather, removal of the shoal will take two or three weeks.

Under the corps plan for clearing the channel, the sidecasting dredge will move the sand from the shoal into the deeper south of the channel.

About 30,000 cubic yards of sand will be pumped from the shoal to channel depths of six and 10 feet, it was reported by the corps.

It is estimated that 30,000 cubic yards of shoal material will have to be removed annually from the inlet entrance to maintain navigability.

The inlet had been cleared of a similar shoal last September and October.

During much of the year the shoal has prevented deep-water draft boats from using the inlet. Depths as shallow as three feet just outside the channel cut have been recorded by craft that took soundings of the shoal.

Planning resolutions to capital

JENSEN BEACH--Martin County Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick said Monday that he is going to Tallahassee Thursday or Friday to appear before a new regional planning council.

The trip is being coordinated by the Palm Beach County Commission, Philbrick said.

He will meet with Lt. Gov. James Williams, he said.

Resolutions adopted by commissions in Martin, Palm Beach, St. Lucie and Indian River counties will be delivered to Williams, who is head of the State Department of Administration.

The four county commission passed resolutions asking that their counties form a new regional planning council.

At present Martin, Palm Beach and St. Lucie counties are in Planning District 10 along with Broward and Dade.

Indian River County is presently in another planning district.

The estimated population of the four counties is in excess of 650,000 which is sufficient to create a separate regional planning district, the resolution states.

Council on aging grant approved

JENSEN BEACH--The Martin County Council on Aging (MCOA) has been notified that its federal grant will be continued through the new fiscal year at 25 per cent increase over last year's funding.

Project Director Boyd Smith said the grant is for $58,588.

The monies will be used to enable the agency to expand its homemaker service program, extending the agency's program to permit more meals and chore services, according to Smith.

Smith said that the money will be used to assume the counties' bus transportation for senior citizens who have no other means of transportation.

The project director said that to meet the federal grant requirements, the agency must come up with more than $8,000 in matching funds the year.

Smith is confident that we must more than look to local funding. Smith said. If this program is to expand, it must be local government's duty to support for the needs of this largest single group of voting constituents.

He said the United Fund is providing $3,000 and $2,306 is being spent by Indian River Community College. Another $3,700 comes in in kind service by volunteers the amount determined by the money they would be paid for their work.

Smith said the county commission has not given the council any financial assistance and has given the council no response to its request for help.

We may even finally attract the attention of our county and state governing bodies who have not yet seen the need to include appropriations to care for providing office space and for senior citizen activity centers in the county, Smith said.

The grant just approved is for the fiscal year beginning this month and ending in June 1976.

Re-numbering for Jensen this fall

JENSEN BEACH--Martin County's house numbering program isn't expected to begin in Jensen Beach area until September.

Attorney Steve Calvert said Fred Street, chief of the numbering project, and two youths in the summer program are expected to be working in the Hobe Sound area during August.

Calvert said two youths in the Neighborhood Youth Program are helping in the numbering program.

Last year Martin County adopted a uniform street and avenue numbering system to avoid duplication and confusion in the addresses of county residences.

Calvert said the new system is being put into effect gradually, one community at a time to avoid chaos in the post offices.

Bridge fishing law enforced

JENSEN BEACH--Marine Patrol Officer L.D. Byrd reminded fishermen that fishing off a bridge in Martin County with more than one rod is breaking a special state law.

Byrd said that when fishermen are asked about the law, "they don't know anything about it."

"Out-of-county anglers are the worst offenders according to Byrd, and many of them are not aware of the county law, which also applies to hard surface roads.

No action on traffic plan

JENSEN BEACH--Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce directors Monday night voted not to take any action on a one-way traffic plan for downtown Jensen Beach.

At the June directors meeting, Martin County Commission Chairman Ross Philbrick said he wanted "to get the feelings of the directors" on a one-way traffic plan.

At the Monday night meeting Chamber president Art Hansen read a prepared letter to Philbrick regarding a Commercial Street traffic plan.

In the suggested letter Hansen noted that some businessmen are opposed to the plan.

He said that Fire Chief Randolph Spinney was "violently opposed" because in his opinion the suggestion would delay volunteer firemen in reaching the station and fire trucks might be delayed in reaching their destination.

Hansen suggested that the State Department of Transportation (DOT) be requested to make a study of the traffic situation on Commercial Street and "determine what if anything should be done and why."

In May of 1973 a traffic plan by the Chamber traffic committee headed by Hansen was submitted to the County Commission which included the present Commercial Street three lanes and parallel parking at the Indian River Drive intersection.

After some discussion by directors on possible traffic solutions for downtown it was noted that with the hike in gasoline prices and the economic situation the traffic problems may not become a reality next winter.

State critical of beach plan

JENSEN BEACH--A plan to halt Hutchinson Island beach erosion suggested by Martin County Commission last week was labeled by a state official as non-workable.

William Carlton, director of the state's Department of Natural Resources (DNR), this week said that the county's plan of sand and sea walls to reinstall an eroded beach won't do the job.

Condominium apartment owners at Little Ocean Club and Little Ocean Place wanted permission to rockpile to halt beach erosion.

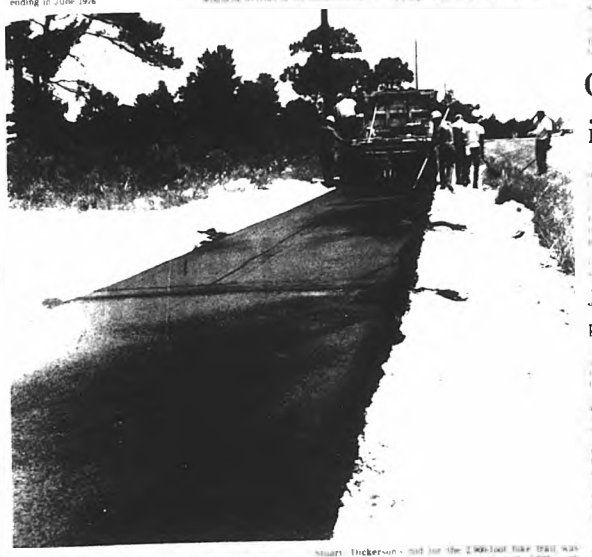
Commissioners, however pledged support of a sand and vegetation program to strengthen the diminishing beach at the two developments.

Carlton said that the department doesn't believe a property owner owning a minimum length of shoreline can effectively or economically nourish his beach for protection purposes.

Carlton pointed out that property owners could get sand--an estimated 50 to 70 cubic yards from inland mines, and it probably would cost less than trucks.

We would prefer not to have rocks on the beach at all, Carlton said. But when we're losing upland developments we have a responsibility to permit a person to protect his property.

The DNR director said the vegetation plan Chief Engineer Dick Dickerson has in mind "is marvelous" but it is an area that is washed by tides as it would be in front of the condominiums.



PAVING PATIO--The bike path along South Sawgrass Road was paved Tuesday, July 8 by crews of Dickerson, Inc., of Stuart. Dickerson said that the 2,000-foot bike trail was $7,300. The eight foot bike path extends from the VFW north to the Jensen Beach Elementary School property.

CHAMBER EXECS--Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce president Art Hansen and Membership Committee Chairman Jackie Hall look over a "fact sheet" on the Monday night meeting at the chamber.

Speculators hit

County appraiser office is working 24-hour days

BY DICK CAMPBELL

JENSEN BEACH—With the county tax roll late for the second year in a row, the county property appraiser's office has moved on a six day, 24-hour-a-day, three shift schedule to try to get back in the groove, according to Ted Campo, executive assistant property appraiser for Martin County.

Talking to the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club, Campo outlined the mini-computerization of the county tax roll, adding that it was March, 1975 before the office got through with the 1974 tax roll.

"There is no way that we can get a 1975 tax roll completed in three months," Campo said. He estimated that a preliminary roll would be ready by the middle of August and the final roll completed in October or November, "... so those who want to pay their taxes in 1975 can do so."

Campo was especially critical of speculators who have been buying land in agricultural areas, expecting to get the agricultural exemption from taxes.

"We have seen a large number of financial interests from the south of Martin County, and from up north, who want agriculture exemptions on lands that are not in agri-business.

"They are trying to dupe the appraiser's office. They are speculators who put up a facade. They are no more in agri-business than you or I," he said.

Campo explained the 100 percent rule of appraising lands as mandated by the Florida Legislature. He said the valuation is based upon the market value of the land, and told of the ways his office produced the values based upon sales in areas.

"During the economic recession of 1974, we found that in all but a few isolated areas values held their own or went up. Sales numbers fell off, but the sales made, in the condominium area especially, values went up.

Campo explained that three to six sales or offers to buy constituted a "trend" that could set values.

Campo, who lives with his wife and five children in Lighthouse Point, joined the property appraiser's office in February.

WIN CONTEST—Virgil Rathbone, 294 Jeanette Ave., and Ms. Marie Jones, 120 Jeanette Ave., were the co-winners in the Martin County Council on Aging "guess our age" contest. The two Jensen Beach residents both guessed the same figure of 1,012 and they each won a $25 U.S. Savings Bond. The correct total age of the courtesy bus riders in the July 4 parade was 1,011 years, 6 months and 21 days.

Leif Erikson Day planning beginning

JENSEN BEACH—Viking boats with their colorful square sails will again race in the Indian River as members of the Sons of Norway of Florida gather to add their annual Leif Erikson Day to the expanding Jensen Beach bicentennial celebration.

Dates of the three-day event were announced as October 3, 4 and 5 according to Joan S. Leth, chairperson.

Over 500 members of the eight Florida lodges of the Sons of Norway are expected to participate in the weekend, and the Holiday Inn on Hutchinson Island has been chosen as the host hotel for the group.

The private portion of the weekend, for Sons of Norway members, will center at the hotel, with meetings, tennis and swimming events planned, a banquet and talent show and dance leading up to the Sunday public portion on the Jensen Beach Causeway.

The causeway program will begin at 1 p.m. on Sunday and will feature the Orlando-based United States Navy Band in concert, a parade of bunads (colorful Norwegian costumes), a pageant recreating the landing of Leif Erikson in America in 1002 A.D. races featuring three seatings of six-man sailing boats that were brought from Norway, and a fish fry.

There's a lot more to Jai-Alai than the thrill of winning a Perfecta, Quiniela, or Double.

There's the game itself.

"WHY NOT LOWER THE WATER LEVEL INSTEAD OF RAISING THE CEILING"

Editorials

A rocky beach

The sins of the past are often revisited upon us, and the condominiums on Hutchinson Island are a perfect example.

Erosion has taken the sands from the beaches, and the condos face falling into the ocean. It's not smart to fool with Mother Nature.

The coastal setback lines have been under fire for years as confiscatory, not allowing the owner to use his land. We agree to some extent that the setback is confiscatory, except in instances where builders built too close to the dune line, destroyed the delicate balance of the sands and their sea-oat grasses in relation to the onslaught of the Atlantic Ocean.

Now the condos want to pile rocks on the beach to slow the taking of sand. Even the Department of Natural Resources, with its expertise, says that the rocks are the only short term solution to keeping the condos standing. But the long term solution lies in nourishment of the beaches with more sand.

It seems a problem that is statewide in scope, a problem that no one seems to have a solution to.

First the state and county should allow no more condos, or anything else, to be built in a position that would endanger the dune line.

Those that are already built should be shored up, and the owners should somehow take care of refortifying the dune. In it all, however, the public right to move up and down the beach below the high water mark should not be impeded.

Miami Beach has seen the futility of placing groins out in the ocean to reduce erosion. The rock groins should not be used. No one has yet found that the Jupiter Island measure of reinforcing the beaches with stairstep concrete rocks is a total answer, though the beach-blocks received a great deal of publicity. Jupiter Island continues to renourish the beaches with sand pumped from the north.

The answer to Jupiter Island's problems, of course, lies in the completion of the long-awaited St. Lucie Inlet sand transfer plant and the improvement of the inlet itself.

The sand transfer plant would continue the literal draft of sand to the south, thus restoring nature's way of replenishment through a man-made effort.

The problem to the north is different. It lies in the break with nature by building on and destroying the dune line, which then multiplies the damage. The best example of this is in the Holiday Inn at Vero Beach, where the bulkhead on the ocean has created problems of a major nature to the south.

There is, somewhere, a solution.

We hope it will be found in the study of the dune protection in the county by the University of Florida, due to begin in a few weeks.

$3 million...WOW!

The economic impact of Florida Institute of Technology on Jensen Beach and the surrounding area is about three million dollars a year.

Wow.

The measure of expenditures that keep the merchants in business was revealed in a report by Dean Tim Tealey to the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, and it was an eye opener.

We have always felt that FIT was good for Jensen Beach and encouraged the people to know about our local college. But we didn't know it was that good.

According to the report made from a survey by the school in the past year, students spend $268,000 on food, $51,000 on clothing, $186,000 on recreation, $173,000 on transportation, $130,000 on school supplies, $75,000 on miscellaneous needs, and $253,000 on housing, all in local stores and from local businessmen.

This should make the restaurants, clothing shops, sports stores, food stores, movie houses, travel agents, bike shops, auto dealers and gas stations, and real estate men happy, for such income is an annual benefit of having FIT in our midst.

The operating budget of the college last year was almost two million dollars, of which $500,000 was paid in salaries to faculty and staff, most of which went into the local economy for housing, goods and services.

Another $225,000 went for utilities, power, water, fuel, and telephone. And, $25,000 was spent by the school on goods and services locally.

This summer alone, the school plans to spend $250,000 on a new building, renovation of the Leach Mansion, installation of a sewage plant and installation of a master antenna system.

Another $100,000 in capital expenditures awaits necessary permits for the college to construct docks along the Indian River for its fleet of boats that now must be kept in Ft. Pierce.

The cultural benefit of FIT to the community is unmeasurable, but the dollars being spent make sense that FIT is good business in Jensen Beach and deserves the support of all.

School paddles

The other day a Martin County school teacher was given a reprimand by school officials for "improper discipline" and School Supt. James Navitsky read state regulations on school discipline, which stated "should not be abusive or cause severe embarrassment to the student."

Now that piece of news set me to thinking about discipline that was handed out by the teachers at our grade school.

Thinking back on the whippings, they were abusive and caused severe pain but we didn't hold any public hearings on them, mainly because our parents never found out about school justice.

From about the first grade to the third grade, most of the teachers used the ruler and hand method for the kids.

The teacher would take a firm hold on the fingers of one hand and bend them back making the already tight skin of the hand even tighter. Then she would take a ruler and beat the palm of the hand with gusto.

I don't recall being embarrassed by the palm beating, but it sure hurt.

But as we progressed through the school discipline progressed too. It got tougher.

There was a fifth grade teacher that used a wood paddle that must have been an inch thick and two feet long.

She also had a good throwing arm, as she would send books, rulers, erasers or anything else that was handy in the general direction of the student that was treasuring her classroom rules.

The paddling came after school and for the boys not getting the paddling that afternoon, we would gather at a window and watch the other kids take their licks. We would roll with laughter as our fellow student might dance a jig as his pants got warmer.

The kids didn't get embarrassed. His backside just got kinda numb.

And then the eighth grade teacher used a cat-o'-nine-tail. That was a flogging.

From grade one to grade eight, there were only women teachers. I didn't have a man for a teacher until high school days.

At the high school, there just wasn't any need for paddles or any other form of discipline. The math teacher saw to that.

The fugitive from the coal fields kept order in the ranks. If a woman teacher had any problem in her classroom, she would send for Kruger. Kruger would open the classroom door just wide enough for him to crook his finger and say to the offending youth in a voice that came from somewhere down in a coal pit, "Come here boy."

When he laid the finger on your chest, words were sufficient to correct any classroom misunderstanding.

But then that was before the enlightened age.

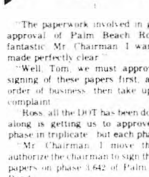
Take a letter to DOT



The paperwork involved in getting approval of Palm Beach Road is fantastic, Mr. Chairman. I want this made perfectly clear.

"Well, Tom, we must approve the signing of these papers first, and, in order of business, then take up your complaint."

"Ross, all the DOT has been doing all along is getting us to approve each phase in triplicate, but each phase."

"Mr. Chairman, I move that we authorize the chairman to sign the DOT papers on phase 1-642 of Palm Beach Road."

"Thank you, Timer. Is there a second?"

"Second."

"Thank you, Maggie. Now, all in favor?"

"Aye."

"I vote yes."

"Yup."

"Yes."

As I was saying, each phase takes paperwork. I don't know how many times I've written them asking them to cut out the paperwork and get on the road.

"Now, Tom, what do you think we ought to do?"

"I think we should pass a resolution asking them to stop the paperwork and mail it to the DOT, with copies to the House and Senate transportation committees, the governor and our Congressional delegation. That should get some action."

"Mr. Chairman."

"Yes, Timer."

"Mr. Chairman, sir, I would ask that the resolution include a request on the status of Monterey Road and East Ocean Blvd."

"I think that should be a separate letter, if you think so."

"Okay, a separate letter then, with copies to appropriate offices of the senate and house and governor, the DOT, Dickerson, Incorporated, our congressional delegation and my wife, Keddie. I don't get to see her too often, and I like to have her know we are working down here in Stuart."

"Well, if his wife gets a copy, mine should."

"Okay, Tom."

"Send my husband one, too."

"Now, that's enough."

"Mr. Chairman."

"Yes, Timer."

"I move that we."

"Now wait until we pass the resolution and the copies."

"Okay."

"All in favor of the motion, what was it?"

"That the commission pass a resolution to the DOT saying that there is too much paperwork on Palm Beach Road, with appropriate copies to lots of people, and a letter asking the status of Monterey Road and East Ocean Blvd., with copies to same plus the wives and husband of the commission."

"Thank you. All in favor?"

"Aye."

"I vote yes."

"Yup."

"Yes."

"And, I move that we write the DOT asking them to spell out what they plan to do physically, what physical progress, I mean, by December 31."

"And I want it in writing, and before December 31."

"Attaboy, Timer."

"Do we need a motion for that?"

"No, Ross. Just be sure we have it in the minutes."

"Speak into the mike, John."

"Ross."

"Yes, Maggie."

"I've been appointed by the governor to the state committee on transportation legislation. I might fight this paperwork through legislation. If any commissioner has an idea for legislation to cut down the paperwork, just give it to me. One idea to a piece of paper, and please copy all ideas to all commissioners, the governor, and appropriate legislative committees and the DOT."

"Thank you, Maggie. That's great. But let's move on in the agenda."

"Next item, the county engineer's request for an additional secretary. Yes, Ken."

"Mr. Chairman, and commissioners. The amount of paperwork that Poopsie et. al., Miss Jones has to handle is just too much. She spends all day writing letters and making copies and is three weeks behind. I'd like to request an additional secretary, able to handle an IBM and Xerox, and an additional 10,000 reams of copy paper."

There's got to be a limit

One of the many things I have given little thought to was my age.

Growing older is something if we are lucky, that will inevitability come our way.

And, since there seems to be little we can do about it, I have preferred to ignore the fact.

The silver streaks extending back from my temples I have blamed on the poor lighting conditions.

Through the years I have survived my two children's remarks about age. Those remarks that I am certain have sent parents back on their heels from time to time.

"You know, the ones."

"Like, your child's description of his or her teacher on the opening day of school each year."

"I like my teacher, she is really nice."

"That is good, is she young?" I asked.

"Nope, she is about like you."

Several days later, when I had the occasion to meet her, I was somewhat surprised to find she was in 65 years of age and returning.

There have been other shockers too.

Like, in the middle of an evening homework session, when one of the other would pop up with something like "Did you have electricity when you were a little girl, Mom?" or "What was it really like when you saw the first automobile?"

Then there was the time when I was explaining a shortage of funds and was asked point blank, "Why didn't you go on the gold rush to California so we could be rich?"

Just last week when I appeared at the hairdressers for my regular Friday appointment, I saw little humor in her remarks.

Alice, I am quite concerned over your hair," she said.

"What do you expect it to look like? I have been caught in the rain every day for weeks," I announced.

"My concern is over the white patches which are rapidly appearing," she said adding, "Are you on any medication that might be causing this?"

After announcing the white patches she referred to had to be the poor lighting in her shop, she flipped another switch and handed me a mirror.

"You are certainly nearing a friendship of many years standing," I retorted and turned down her suggestion that perhaps we resort to a dying or shrinking process.

Due to my age my driving habits have also become a point of much discussion between my two children.

Since my 15-year old daughter obtained her learner's permit for driving two months ago, and my son a chauffeurs license, I have been the recipient of an endless list of driving instructions.

When the three of us are in one car, more often than not I find myself in the back seat with my son's German Sheperd while he and my daughter occupy the front.

On the one occasion I questioned such seating arrangements, I was informed my reflexes were no longer quite up to par.

Everyone has a breaking point, however and I found mine last Friday evening.

"Mom, have you gone to the bank yet?"

When I got to the house he had decided to ride in with me probably fearful I could not have the strength to pick up the canister at the drive-in window.

With the banking completed I was driving home when according to him, I committed another of my driving goofs.

Following his usual lecture, he said, "You know, Mom, I have always known that one day you would become senile and do all the stupid things senile people do, but I sure never expected it to happen all at once."

"Yes, there has got to be a limit."

LETTERS to the editor

To the editor

The following letter has been sent to Governor Reuben Askew:

As you are aware, the Florida Department of Pollution Control is engaged in a site hearing for the St. Lucie II nuclear plant. Although this is not Florida's first nuclear plant, it is the first site hearing to be held by this state and may lead to lasting precedents in handling such cases.

In May '75 we sent letters from our organizations to Attorney General Robert Shevin regarding this hearing. In them we objected to the unorthodox stand of the Hearing Examiner who refused to rule on the matter of Florida's right to consider radiological matters, but stated his "inclination" that they were preempted by federal control. In return Attorney General Shevin was kind enough to send copies of his motions in this case. These maintain the right of the state to consider all matters referring to the siting including radiological matters, and cite instances and cases to back up the contention that state's rights are being violated.

I have recently returned from travels and am informed that although the hearings resume this Monday, July 14, this issue has not been satisfactorily settled either through the federal courts or in the Department of Pollution Control hearing. This is disappointing and dangerous for unless the matter is decided soon the Dept. Pollution Control and private parties representing organizations will be effectually prevented from considering any of the areas of major concern re nuclear plants. We all hope that you will back up the efforts of Attorney General Shevin to see that the important research commissioned by the DPC is covered and that the real concerns of the organizations which arose out of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission hearing are considered.

Also we wrote Attorney General Shevin about another highly questionable action of Mr. Bentley, Hearing Examiner in this case. On June 25 and 26, Mr. Bentley decided that the St. Lucie Final Environmental Statement prepared by the AEC was to be admitted as evidence in this case.

About one week earlier Mr. Bentley said some six times that this Final Environmental Statement was inadmissible" (transcript, pp. 1874 et seq.). Apart from the questionable nature of such a reversal in ruling, this same Environmental Statement did not prove to be correct when subjected to the evidence of the intervenor's witness during the Nuclear Regulatory hearing. The one expert who was hired by Mr. Martin Hodder, intervenor lawyer, and had made a study of this particular area (in population) was able to prove the erroneous figures used in this portion of the Statement. Lack of finances prevented any further participated studies, but to use this Statement or any parts as evidence, is both misleading and biased towards a particular judgement in the case.

Because we believe this case to be an important, we earnestly hope that you will support the efforts of Attorney General Shevin in his efforts to obtain justice for our state and its people. The broad popular base of these concerns is exemplified by the fact that St. Lucie County Conservation Alliance, and St. Lucie League of Women Voters, are parties in this case as well as the organizations whose titles are below.

Most sincerely,
Valerie Priest
Vice president CURE (Citizens United against Radioactive Environment), Nuclear Representative, Martin County Conservation Alliance

Economic socialism

John Kenneth Galbraith, who seems determined to prove that economics is [illegible] science, has written a new book, Economics and the Public Purpose.

It has one major surprise. After asserting that "market arrangements in our economy have given us inadequate housing, terrible mass transportation, poor health care and a host of other miseries," for the first time to my knowledge, he gives socialism as the answer.

Sure so many of his philosophical writings, Galbraith is obsessed with the idea of central control of the economy and the allocation of resources such as your earnings and my time.

Recently he joined with some friends in something called the Initiative Committee for National Economic Planning. Economic planning, pre-socialism, is the code word for socialism.

With tongue in cheek, the National Review described Galbraith and his new committee members as "bold new radicals." No wonder, because the committee included such old [illegible] planning fans as Robert Lekachman, Gunnar Myrdal, Michael Harrington, Arthur Schlesinger Jr., Leon Keyserling, Woodcock and even Betty Furness.

Galbraith and his friends seem more devoted to dealing with fairy tales than realities. Looking at his quotation above, I wonder where he's been. Heck, I have lived 10 years longer than my life expectancy when I was born (to the probable annoyance of some).

At that time, something between half and two-thirds of our people lived in what we would describe as substandard housing. Today fewer than 10 per cent do. And, today 99 per cent have gas and electricity in their homes, 98 per cent have television sets, thus access to information.

And, we have more churches, libraries and voluntary support for more symphonies, operas and nonprofit theaters than the rest of the world put together.

Yet, Galbraith & Co. beat the drums incessantly for the control and order that come with central planning.

For a sample of the paradise such planning can produce, we need only look at India and East Germany, to name two.

Better yet, we could emulate a great nation more our size, a nation of some 250 million capable people and one rich in natural resources. The Kremlin has had nearly 60 years in which to make socialism work.

We could be just like the Russians, though it would take a bit of doing.

We'd have to cut our paychecks back by more than 40 per cent, move 33 million workers back to the farm, destroy 58 million television sets, tear up 14 out of 15 miles of highway, junk 19 of every 20 automobiles, rip up two-thirds of our railroad track, knock down 15 per cent of our houses and remove nine out of every 10 telephones.

Then all we'd have to do would be to find a capitalist country willing to sell us wheat on credit to keep us from starving.

(Listen to Ronald Reagan's Viewpoint Monday through Friday at 9:05 and 4:05 on WNTI, 1450 on your dial.)

The U.N. abuse

WASHINGTON—In recent years, the United States has been subjected to almost constant abuse in the United Nations.

We have sat by quietly while terrorists and murderers were praised in the skies. We have been silent while democracy was condemned, and communism and terrorism hailed as the new world order.

We've watched the leaders of the third rate nations condemn and criticize us while availing themselves of every possible sector of our hospitality.

And we have said nothing, even though the American public has cried for a response while the American public has demanded we defend ourselves.

As long last there are signs America's delegation to the U.N. may be switching signals. [illegible] be ready for some plain spoken, unequivocal talking back to the demagogues and the orators of hate.

When Daniel Patrick Moynihan [illegible] met on the new U.S. team delegate to the United Nations, he did so with a presidential pledge of a new dialogue of candor, directness, understanding and respect — with candor being the key word.

Even Moynihan, a former Harvard professor and U.S. Ambassador to India, acknowledged the new spirit in an interview, he outlined the kind of rhetoric that is taken hold at the U.N. [illegible] the belief that quite astonishing things can be said about the American system and that all accusations and defamatory manner can be directed towards us without offense being taken.

We want to make it very clear that we take such attacks seriously and if made we will respond, he said.

That is a sign I am delighted to see. For too long the United States has sat by idly while every rag tag dictator and ruler of poverty stricken savages has sent fit to grab world headlines by attacking the world's most powerful and most generous nation.

Now, there are those both home and abroad who will be upset when the United States defends itself. There are those who contend we must not offend the sensibilities of some fanatastic demagogue just because he represents a [illegible] third world nation.

Well, Ambassador Moynihan had the answer to those doubters: the increasingly [illegible] American people. As he said: I think the [illegible] and [illegible] the attacks on the U.S. have [illegible] hurt [illegible] the people of this country. [illegible] about the great [illegible] powers of the world and [illegible] during [illegible].

And our new U.N. spokesman pointed out that [illegible] are not the problem [illegible] the world, [illegible] and pointing out [illegible] of the U.N.

For too many years, the United States has been a patsy, a fall guy for the United Nations, all in the vain hope we will win the friendship of every nation on earth.

Well, we haven't. And we won't, not like that.

Instead of looking for friendship, we should seek respect, and you don't win that by letting everyone walk all over you.

Perhaps a blunt new voice at the United Nations just might be the key to turning that body away from being a [illegible] pick on the United States forum and towards being a truly international forum.

If that doesn't work, if being blunt and responding to our critics fails to win us the respect we deserve, then perhaps it is time for us to reexamine the entire concept of our membership in the United Nations.

If we are to be the whipping boy for the Soviet nations, do we need to be [illegible]?

More important, do we need to be the [illegible]?

Two New Ways To Earn Tax Free Interest and Pay Less Income Tax

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT (IRA)

If you are not an active participant in a retirement plan where you work you can now start your own pension plan — an Individual Retirement Account (IRA).

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS.

The Pension Reform Act of 1974 now allows wage earners who are not covered under any qualified retirement plan to set aside up to 15% of their annual earnings, not to exceed $1,500 per year. All deposits to your IRA will be tax deductible and the interest will accumulate income tax free.

While your funds are accumulating in your IRA we will pay interest compounded daily at our usual high rates.

When you reach retirement age — any age you choose between 59½ and 70 — you may arrange to have your funds paid out to you in a lump sum or over a period of years. As you receive this money, it will then become taxable as ordinary income.

BENEFIT PAYMENTS

A. Regular Retirement Benefits
At retirement age — between 59½ and 70 — you may elect, by written notice, to withdraw your funds in one lump sum or to have them distributed to you over a period of years not to exceed your life expectancy.

B. Distributions made prior to age 59½
Benefit payments can be made prior to age 59½ for death or disability, without incurring adverse tax penalties. However, if you voluntarily withdraw your funds prior to age 59½, the distribution will be included as ordinary income for the year of receipt and a Federal tax penalty equal to 10% of the amount received will be imposed.

ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

Any earners who are not already covered by Keogh Plans, Corporate Retirement Plans, Government Plans and Tax Sheltered Annuities may establish an IRA.

Also the following persons are eligible: a spouse working part time or full time; students with part time jobs; self employed individuals who do not wish to establish a Keogh Plan.

TAX ADVANTAGES

A. Pre retirement Years (accumulation period)
During this period of time you are allowed to take a tax deduction for the full amount of your deposit. You are entitled to this deduction even if you don't itemize your deductions. Also the interest earned by your IRA will accumulate income tax free until distributed.

B. Retirement Years (distribution period)
When you reach retirement age — any age you select between 59½ and 70 — the proceeds from IRA are fully taxable as ordinary income when distributed. But the effect of this tax will be lessened by your lower tax bracket after retirement and your qualifying for a double tax exemption at age 65.

FCD cuts proposed budget

JENSEN BEACH--In a move to help fight inflation the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District Governing Board today (July 11) adopted a $21.9 million tentative budget down almost $2 million from last year.

This proposed budget represents a concerted effort by the District in helping to fight inflation by holding the line on taxes," said Executive Director Jack Malloy. "This in the face of rising costs in every phase of the District's operation."

During the 1974-75 fiscal year the FCD levied a millage rate of .294 of a mill. This millage produced tax revenues amounting to $15,621,650 the same as that predicted in the 1975-76 tentative budget.

The District by statute is authorized to levy up to one full mill on the real property throughout the 16 counties of the District.

In accordance with state law before final adoption of this budget the FCD will hold a public hearing on Friday Aug. 15 at 9 a.m. at the FCD headquarters, 901 Evernia Street, West Palm Beach.

Stuart to stay in council

JENSEN BEACH--A "modified" Council of Governments (COG) has been proposed by Martin County Commission Chairman Rosa Philbrick in a letter to Schuyler Sharpe, mayor of the City of Port St. Lucie, Philbrick wrote:

"It is extremely possible that a modified Council of Governments can continue with your city, the Village of St Lucie Stuart and Martin County."

Two weeks ago St. Lucie County and the City of Fort Pierce both voted to leave the two-county organization.

The action by the two St. Lucie County representatives prompted Mayor Sharpe to write a letter to St Lucie County Commission Chairman R B McCain regretting the resignation of the commission from COG.

It also brought a strong reaction from Port St. Lucie Councilman Larry Kimmel who has been a representative to COG.

"Since the City of Fort Pierce and St Lucie County Commission do not seem to recognize anything exists in the county south of Midway Road the St. Lucie River Council of Governments may be better off functioning with representatives from Jensen Beach, Stuart, Spanish Lakes Martin County, the City of Port St. Lucie and the Village of St Lucie."

Stuart Mayor Ray Cooke said Tuesday that only three members attended the Monday night commission meeting, and indicated they were willing to stay in the organization.

"Concern was expressed, however, that the council should stay with an agenda that includes problems within the jurisdiction of the representatives," Cooke said.

"We should discuss things that are beneficial to all governments," Cooke said.

Cooke said that he would like to see COG by-laws changed so that members of each commission would have representatives and not just mayors and chairmen of commission as now required.

Martin County Commissioner Timer Powers, who spearheaded the organization of COG, last week suggested that by-laws be changed so that governments could have volunteers as representatives.

Fort Pierce and St. Lucie County commissioners voted to leave COG, saying the two-county organization was a "waste of time."

Mayor Sharpe retorted "If COG helped to solve only one problem per year or accomplished only one goal per year, then it is a worthwhile organization."

Philbrick further stated in his letter to Mayor Sharpe, "Martin County has always been very close in its feelings for your city and I know we will continue to work that way."

CESA slates kids' hobby show

PORT ST. LUCIE--CESA, always innovative in its community activities, has slated a hobby show for young people for Saturday, August 23.

Area hobby shows usually involve older people, but this "first of a kind" show is for age classifications including Kindergarten and Grades 1, 2 and 3, Grades 4, 5 and 6, Grades 7, 8 and 9, and Grades 10, 11 and 12.

The four categories for competition are: Models of cars, boats, planes, etc., either of original or kit design; Arts, including painting, photography, sculpture and creative ceramics; Crafts, covering all kinds of crafts; and Collections, which could be coins, stamps, shells, rocks, bugs or what have you. Competitors should enter best examples or most representative portions of their collections.

Entry forms are available at the CESA office and must be registered by August 15. Space is limited, so entries will be accepted on a first come, first served basis.

Each entrant will receive a certificate of award. Ribbons will be awarded in each category with special awards for best of show in each category. A $5.00 cash award will be presented for best in each age classification.

Jensen residents win 'guess contest'

JENSEN BEACH--Two Jensen Beach residents who live on the same street picked the same figure and were the co-winners in the "guess our age" contest sponsored by the Martin Council on Aging.

Ms. Marie L. Jones, 120 Jeanette Ave. and Virgil L. Rathbone, 294 Jeanette Ave., both picked the figure of 1,012.

Neither knew of the other's figure and neither knew each other until they got together Monday morning for a picture.

Their figure came closest to the actual total of 1,081 years, 6 months and 21 days. That was the total ages of the 14 riders and driver on the Council's Courtesy Bus in the Fourth of July parade.

Starting with the same number of 14 the Jeanette Avenue residents did a little multiplying, some adding and educated guessing to pick their total ages of senior citizens on the bus.

"It was a real coincidence that the two winners picked the same figure," Boyd Smith, council project director, said.

In announcing the contest results, Smith said a total of 700 persons participated in the contest which was held to call attention to the bus service.

Council treasurer said he "couldn't help wondering about the arithmetic displayed by some contestants."

"Estimates of age of the 14 bus occupants ranged as high as 2,763 years, with many submitted going over 1,800," the treasurer said.

The co-winners each received a $25 U.S. Savings Bond.
